Query—A bets his team makes more runs in a double header than B's team, which is also playing a double header. B's team only plays one game because of rain. Who wins? P. Y. T.

Answer—Unless you specified clearly what two games were to be played by each team to make the bet valid, A wins. It's the same old "pay or play" proposition.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Will you please let me know a process for transferring photos onto glass? X. B.

Answer—Buy a box of lantern slide plates and you will get a full set of instructions with them.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Where can I find my exact age and birthday? E. Y.

Answer—Write to the Board of Health in the city in which you were born.

Sporting Editor:

Query—I am the manager of a local baseball team and am looking for a good infielder. Can you give me the name of such a player looking for a berth on a baseball team? W. T.

Answer—I have the name of an unusually speedy infielder on file who lives in this city and would like to get a game with some fast team to play infield berth. Apply to me personally or write to this office.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is alcohol a poison? Y. U.

Answer—In pouular usage, the word "poison" is asociated with such powerful substances as arsenic, strychnine, snake-venom and others, which, when introduced into the human system, produce marked and even fatal disturbances. There is no substance which is always a poison for even strychnine and ricin may be diluted so as to produce no noticeable disturbances. "Is alcohol a poison?" therefore, can be answered only by reference to the amount and to the constitution of the individual who drinks it.

Sporting Editor:

Query—In a game of auction pinochle I meld four pair or a "roundhouse." Can I meld 150 more by adding ace, ten and jack? X. Y. Z.

Jack Johnson a "Has-Been" as Far as Popularity is Concerned

Jack Johnson was only in Paris one week and made a hurried trip to London, and in that brief space of time discovered that the boxing clubs of Europe were not tumbling over each other to have him fight. Managers of the British clubs considered it almost suicidal to bill Johnson as an attraction, and they turned a deaf ear to his entreaties for matches. Johnson cannot be trusted. Under oath before leaving the United States he claimed to have paid more than $100,000 in lawyer's fees, that he was broke, and his European trip was merely to recoup his depleted treasury. He was only in London a day before he denounced the assertion that "he was broke," and to emphasize the denial he flourished more than $5,000 in bills of large denomination. European promoters should go slow in booking Johnson. His past record is sufficient to show that he wins when he chooses and can lose with equal facility. Even had he so elected, he could not have lost to James J. Jeffries with any degree of comfort. In condition, skill, strength and endurance he completely outclassed the former heavyweight champion. The arrangements of the contest were in the hands of men who knew what they were doing and had the nerve to carry out their prearranged plan. Jack Johnson had to box on the level July 4, 1910, ni that ring pitched at the foot of the Sierra Nevada Mountains in Reno. If he had not there is no question but that the Federal Government would have been spared the annoyance of the recent prosecution, and the boxing promoters of Europe would not be in a quandry as to matches for the American champion.

SIGNBOARD TINTS INFLUENCE BATSMEN AT POLO GROUNDS

That is the question that has grown out of the remarkable batting feats of the Giants in recent games at the Polo Grounds. Many members of the New York team have frequently complained that their batting eyes have been affected by the signboards on the centre field fences, and in deference to their protests the signs were removed from the fence directly on a line with the plate and the fence painted a dark green.

Some weeks ago players declared that the tints of the back-grounds of several of the signs were too heavy and ought to be lightened.

Again the wishes of the players were complied with, and background tints that were a dark blue were lightened materially.

Apparently the tints are now in consonance with the artistic batting temperament of the players, and the chances are good that there will be many .300 performances among the baseball Meissoniers.

ROVERS CREEPING NEARER THE HEAD

PARKER FIELD SENIOR LEAGUE.

Yesterday's Results:

Rovers 4, Parker A. C. 3.

Friday's Schedule.

1 p. m.—Parker A. C. vs. Athletics.

3 p. m.—Rovers vs. North Plainfield.

Standing of the Clubs:

	W.	L.	P.C.
Athletics	2	0	1000
Rovers	1	2	.333
North Plainfield	0	0	.000
Parker A. C.	0	1	.000

A day of idleness kept the Athletics on top in the Parker Field Senior Baseball League yesterday afternoon, while the Rovers mounted one game nearer the leaders by putting a victory over the pan at the expense of the Parker A. C.

The Parker aggregation is championing the cellar berth but the loss of yesterday came after a hard and close struggle and this team will without doubt be heard from in future contests. The Athletics lineup against the Parker A. C. Friday afternoon and this game will probably have some direct bearing on the positions of the contesting combinations. The North Plainfield nine will get into action for the first time on that date. No games are scheduled for this afternoon.

LAURELS WON AGAIN AND TOOK THE LEAD

PARKER FIELD JR. LEAGUE.

Yesterday's Results:

	W.	L.	P.C.
Laurel A. C.	2	0	1,000
Jackson Bible Class ..	1	1	.500
Princeton A. C.	0	0	000
Arrow A. C.	0	2	.000

By defeating the Jackson Bible Class combination in the Parker Field Junior League struggle yesterday afternoon, the Laurel A. C. took the lead in the team standing and is rushing toward the flag at a speedy clip. The Laurels appear to be one of the fastest propositions in the organization and is giving the teams it meets some stubborn battles.

The Princeton nine is the only one that has not played a game in the schedule but will probably get into action this afternoon or tomorrow and until that time nothing can be said as to its relative strength.

"MAC" SAYS

There is a confirmed rumor abroad that the High Bridge citizens conduct a baseball team when not otherwise engaged in civic enterprises. New Brunswick has nothing on High Bridge for securing some real publicity through its baseball performers.

"Warry" McLaughlin says he hates to take advantage of ball-players, no matter from whence they hail. Must be time for the veteran heaver to take a vacation for he will certainly have to perform some unmerciful duties at Dunellen next Saturday afternoon.

The Royal Giants, better known as the "dark horse," of the City League, are angling for independent attractions. Hope they do get into the spotlight and throw some insight flashes on the local championship situation.

As we understand it now, Messrs. Dorflinger and Torpey are losing a lot of sleep in their efforts to decide what to do with the winner's end of the post season series after the Central New Jersey League discontinues hostilities.

Many a time and oft, one is led to wonder how little Joe Alberts would spend his time if he did not have Plainfield to beat. It is said that the Pets will try to retrieve their defeat of two weeks ago sometime in the very near future.

A new science has invaded the Sunday-school League. From the results of last Saturday's games it looks as though a number of the Bible students had taken up the art of volplaning.

In fact, if we were to call certain baseball handlers in this city, "ball players" we might be sued for slander.

Wanted—A group of nine good looking "ball players," well versed in the sale of merchandise, and having pennant aspirations, to fill the shoes recently vacated by the Royal Giants in the City Baseball League. It is understood that several of the pairs of foot apparel are one or two sizes to the extreme, but fast playing is bound to shrink the ground insulators and a new possibility will become used to its surroundings before it is time to purchase new ones.

Special extra—Turn on the electric lights and steer your reflectors in the direction of the score-board. The Royal Giants are due to adorn the bumps of Parker Field on August 2. Plainfield is the ordered victim.

A west end Giant fan avers that from recent revelations it would seem that the McGraw crew has been guilty of taking the pie out of the Pirates, has crossed the brook in the Brooklyns, has filled its percentage column to overflowing at the hands of the Phils, has established itself as supreme boss over the Boston nine, has found it a sin to take a game from the Cincinnati reds, has exasperated the saint in St. Louis and is now carrying a considerable cargo annexed at the hands of Chicago. What if it rains?

NEW MOTOR RECORD.

Arthur Chapple, of New York, and Paul Ohne, of Brooklyn, won the two-hour championship at the Brighton Beach Motordrome last night. They bettered the world's record for the time by scoring 149 miles and 1 lap. The former record was 141 miles, held by Lockner and Shields and made on the same course.

INTERNATIONAL REGATTA.

St. Paul, Minn., July 24.—Arrangements are completed for the annual regatta of the Northwestern International Rowing Association. The events will take place on the Mississippi River here, beginning tomorrow and concluding Saturday.

ROYAL GIANTS WILL PLAY PLAINFIELDERS

First Game of the Series Scheduled for Parker Field Saturday, August 2.

Manager Pete Simmons has succeeded in his latest attempts to bring his band of huskies before the baseball spotlight and comes forth with the announcement that Manager Dorflinger, of the Plainfield Pets, has consented to an independent series with the Royals, the first contest of which will be staged on Saturday afternoon, August 2. Simmons is anxious to sever all connections with the City League and is trying to secure an aggregation to substitute for his team in the contest booked with the West End A. C. in connection with the City League schedule next Saturday afternoon.

Dorflinger will probably have the Plainfield team's difficulties straightened out in the Central New Jersey League by that date and it should be known by that time whether or not the organization will continue as a league. Dorflinger was dissatisfied with the exhibition he had to present to the fans last Saturday afternoon and says that he will secure better opponents even if he has to go outside of the league for home contests.

CHAPELITES VS. KLINKERS.

An off day in the Sunday School Baseball League is scheduled for Hope chapel next Saturday afternoon and the manager of that aggregation has booked a game with the Somerville Klinkers to be played on Probasco Field. The Klinkers have appeared in Plainfield on several different occasions this season and have turned out to be a speedy delegation of ball artists.

BRUGGY A WINNER.

Frank Bruggy, a former Bound Brook player, is the leading run getter of the New England League. Frank's work with the Lawrence club for the first season has received great comment in the Lawrence papers. Besides crossing the plate fifty-nine times he has a batting average of .324.

TROUPE OF ELEPHANTS WITH SAUTELLE'S CIRCUS

A real circus would be a Hamletless show without elephants. The coming great circus and menagerie—Sig. Sautelle's latest effort—will show nine tallest, biggest pachaderms that ever trumpeted under canvas. Performing elephants, too, trained by a master to perform wonderful feats, showing intelligence and acumen. The gigantic creatures are insured against accident in $100,000. They will appear in parade and in the ring as features.

These big accessories are specially interesting to children and students of natural history. They are a never-ending curio, as they always have been since elephants were first imported from Asiatic and African wilds. Watch for the unloading, if you can get out that early. The elephants will aid the men in hauling the big caravans from the trains to show grounds.

Sig. Sautelle's 9-Big Railroad Shows, Circus, Museum, Menagerie and Wild West will exhibit at Plainfield, Monday, August 4, at the Grant Avenue circus grounds.

BIBLES A-PLENTY FOR HOTELS.

Toronto, Ont., July 24.—If you belong to Gideon's Band your place is in Toronto today. More than a thousand Gideons, or members of the Christian Commercial Travelling Men's Association, are in the city in attendance on their first international convention. They come from all parts of the United States, from the principal cities of Canada as far west as Vancouver, and some from Great Britain. The sessions are being held in the Metropolitan church and will be brought to a close Sunday with public religious services. Not the least interesting feature of the convention will be the report showing the progress of the movement for supplying the hotels with free Bibles. The report shows that more than 200,000 Bibles have been placed in hotels in the United States since the movement was launched three years ago. The Gideons purpose to continue the work until every guest room of every hotel in America is supplied with a Bible.

OBSERVE PIONEER DAY.

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 24.—Pioneer Day, the anniversary of the arrival of Brigham Young and 147 exiled followers in the Salt Lake Valley in 1847, was observed as a holiday today by the members of the Mormon church throughout Utah and some of the neighboring States. On the day following the arrival of the colonists Brigham Young selected a site for the building of a temple. The famous temple was begun in 1853 and it was 40 years before it was completed.

The "Regular Macy Saving"

What Does It Mean?

Remember, Macy's Has

(1) No charge accounts, therefore no bad debts and no complicated bookkeeping system.

(2) No artificial inducements to bring you into the Store—such as free concerts, palm gardens, etc.

(3) Their own factories, where they manufacture a large proportion of the merchandise sold over their counters.

What is saved through the economies of the Macy system is passed on to you in the shape of lower prices. The difference between the prices prevailing elsewhere and Macy's regular prices is the "Regular Macy Saving."

The "Macy Saving" is not a constant percentage. In a department where we have to fight to obtain our merchandise, the "Macy Saving" is naturally less than in a department where we have equal facilities with other stores. And in departments where we have unusual facilities, either for buying or manufacturing, the saving is naturally greatest.

MEN'S SUMMER SUITS, $13.75

Similar Suits were sold by us earlier in the season at $16.50, $18.50 and $19.75.

A typical and very timely offering from the much enlarged and improved Department on the Fifth Floor, Broadway.

There are 227 two-piece Suits and 349 three-piece Suits in this very attractive offering. We illustrate one of the smartest models for young men.

Among the assortments are some in English models, with roll lapels and either two or three buttons. Some are in more conservative American models. The Suits are full-lined, half- and quarter-lined.

The fabrics include fancy mixed cassimeres, cheviots, home-spuns and unfinished worsteds. There are also some fancy mixed worsteds in medium and "tropical" weight.

The sizes are from 31 to 42, and there is a special range from 38 to 46 for stout men. Of course, there is not every size in every style, but there is every size in one or more desirable styles.

Men's $10 "Palm Beach" Summer Suits $7.75

Many men consider these the coolest and most comfortable Summer wear obtainable. The fabric is a new practical compromise between a silk pongee and a linen. It does not readily wrinkle and crease, and needs pressing but seldom.

Every Suit is tailored to retain its shape, and all the tapes are cold water "London" shrunk—which means that they will launder or dry clean practically as good as new.

"Palm Beach" Cloth Suits have all the details of fine tailoring characteristic of Suits costing far more. The armholes, for instance, are piped. The inseam on the sleeve is made with a bag seam to prevent slipping when washed. Each garment is double stitched with silk, the coat is trimmed with snail pearl buttons, and the trousers have "ivory" buttons and non-rusting side-buckles.

The models are in three-button sack style, in all sizes from 34 to 42 in regular proportions, and in chest sizes up to 48 for stout men. Some Norfolk Suits at $8.75.

Men's $5 To $8 Serge & Flannel Outing Trousers, $3.45

Among the best values we have ever seen, for the man who is looking forward to Tennis, Golf, Yachting, or the Boardwalk.

Made in plain color or striped flannel, and of serges, either cream color or cream with pin stripes, in several different styles. Finished with cuff bottoms and belt loops. Sizes 29 to 42 waist, in all lengths.

MEN'S SOFT SUMMER SHIRTS

63c Mercerized fabrics, woven Madras and soft percales—in stripe and figure designs, white and medium light ground. Every size in stock from 14 to 18, with choice of 34 and 35 inch sleeve lengths to each neck size. 63c

All have French double cuffs and laundered neckbands.

SMALLEY GIVES STOKES A KNOCK

At G. O. P. State Committee Meeting North Plainfielder Attacks Progressives.

M'LEAN CHOSEN SEC'Y

Elizabeth Lawyer Succeeds Edward W. Gray—Against Leaders at Pre-Primary Rally—Plans for the Campaign.

Taking a fling at former Governor Stokes, in an indirect way, Former Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, made an old-time Republican speech at the joint meeting of the Republican State Committee and the members of the County Chairmen's Association, which met at the headquarters of the Republican County Committee in Newark yesterday afternoon. In his talk Mr. Smalley said, on the subject of candidates for the Gubernatorial nomination:

"I would not support a man who at any time supported Mr. Roosevelt or had anything to do with matters Rooseveltian."

Mr. Smalley's remarks were followed by remarks of Commissioner J. I. B. Reilly, of Phillipsburg, member of the Morris Canal Abandonment Commission, who denounced Mr. Roosevelt as a traitor to the cause of Republicanism and further stated that he would not invite any of the leaders of the Progressive party to come back to the ranks of the Republicans.

"We, however, must not forget that some of those who followed Roosevelt believed in the man as we all have at one time, but now that they have found him out are just as good Republicans as before they followed his lead."

Former Governor Franklin Murphy in the close of the deliberation, which was behind closed doors, came out flat-footed against the Geran primary law, denouncing it as defeating the aim to have the majority of the people choose their representatives. The only effect the law had, Mr. Murphy stated, was that it made for minority rule, as shown in the last election.

Mr. Murphy further expressed himself as in favor of the old party convention as the only means of achieving true representative party government for the people. Though his remarks were not discussed, it was stated that both points raised by him found favor among the fifty odd men who attended the conference.

The remarks of Mr. Murphy were occasioned by the report of the special committee headed by former State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen. The report was to the effect that they were not in favor of a State rally or convention before the primaries. The recommendation of the committee further states that all Republicans may be urged to participate in the primaries "to the end that the strongest possible candidates may be chosen for the fall election."

This resolution, it was stated after the meeting, was unanimously adopted.

After the adoption of the committee's resolution Mr. Murphy spoke of his choice for a convention, and, besides him, A. B. Leach and Dwight Morrow, both members of the committee, stated that they were in favor of a convention, but thought that they could not escape the odium of acting contrary to what was considered the spirit of the Geran law if such a convention was held.

Mr. Murphy, in giving utterance to his opinion on the subject of an ante-primary convention, did not spare his hearers when he said the men present showed a lack of courage in not acting on what in their heart they consider as the right course to pursue, and that unless they went back to the oldtime convention they would never get anywhere.

In pursuance to the resolution passed there was no formal discussion of candidates nor expression on a favorite, but is was stated that when the reports were made from the various parts of the State the name of Stokes was mentioned more often than any of the other candidates. Not discouraged by the Stokes sentiment, former Assemblyman Edward Moore did some valiant lobbying in favor of former State Senator John D. Prince, who is out for the Gubernatorial nomination.

Mr. Stokes, the pivotal figure on the informal Gubernatorial slatemaking, made a short address, but gave no hint as to where he stood. When he emerged from the conference chamber he seemed pleased and reiterated that he was waiting to be shown the sentiment of the people; not only that of the party leaders. Asked whether he would accept in case he found that he was the people's choice, he again refused to commit himself.

The resignation of Edward W. Gray as secretary of the State committee was accepted, and Donald H. McLean, of Elizabeth, formerly secretary

COLBY STATES POLITICAL CREED

Wild Demonstration When He Proclaims His Beliefs and Says He's a Candidate.

FOR THE GOVERNORSHIP

His Ideals for Political Government, Stalwart Progressive Stamps as His Philosophy — He Holds His Audience Spellbound.

Former State Senator Everett Colby announced his platform as a candidate for the Governorship last night at a meeting held in the New Auditorium at Newark under the auspices of the Everett Colby League of that city.

Mr. Colby had embodied his platform in an address in which he led off with a declaration of what he called "his political philosophy," under three captions. They were: His faith in the ability of the people to govern themselves; a warning that the people must guard against attempting to force the government to do more than it can possibly accomplish, and that the test of every reform measure should be that of its justice.

After this declaration Mr. Colby elucidated the planks of his platform, which, in short, discusses home rule, the short ballot, the subject of labor in relation to strikes and lockouts, the question of the more or less co-related subjects of monopoly and of lower rents, more work and better business, and taxation which does not stifle the desire for improvements, but widens the opportunities for the man of smaller means to acquire property.

Besides the planks Mr. Colby, without going into further discussion, reiterated that he was unalterably convinced of the necessity of women's suffrage and that he favored a strengthening of the civil service law, some changes in the election laws and work in the interests of pure food.

Aside from a vociferous ovation which was accorded Mr. Colby by the 500 or more people present at the meeting, he was frequently interrupted during his address, which he made without referring to notes.

Especially remarkable was the reception that was given the candidate by a strong delegation of Passaic county men who had come to the city with a band and who let loose a college yell that would have done credit to any crew of college men in the country.

Over the hurrahs and handclapping clearly sounded the concerted yell of the men from the county of former Assemblyman Blauvelt:

P-A-double S-A-I-C,
First in the fray,
There to stay,
Colby, Colby all the way.

P-A-double S-A-I-C,
With a vim.
Come, boys. Come, boys.
Let her go—let her go—
C-O-L-B-Y.
We win.

Throughout his whole address, which took about forty-five minutes, Mr. Colby held his audience spellbound except for occasional outbursts of applause. Men and women, for there was a fair sprinkling of the fair sex, seemed to be waiting under tension like the audience at a highly interesting plan, and when it came to "curtain" the applause was tremendous and quite a time elapsed before anybody left the house.

Besides the delegation which represented Passaic county sixteen other counties were represented at the

SALVATIONISTS CAMP-MEETING STARTS TONIGHT

The Metropolitan and New Jersey divisions of the Salvation Army today pitched tents in Wayside Park, Dunellen, where they will conduct an eleven days' camp meeting commencing tonight at 7 o'clock. Devotional services and a special program of exercises will be held each day until Monday, August 4, when the closing meeting will be held. Colonel W. A. McIntyre, of New York city, provincial officer for the Central Province, will have charge of the services tomorrow and Sunday and on Saturday and Sunday, August 2 and 3, respectively, Lieutenant-Colonel and Mrs. A. M. Daman, field secretaries for this country, will be the special speakers. A recital of their experiences should prove unusually interesting.

The program as arranged for today: Welcoming of local and visiting officers and general reception; 7 p. m., open air meeting in this city; Brigadier George F. Casler will preside; 8 p. m., welcoming addresses by Brigadier and Mrs. Casler in the Wayside Park pavilion.

PETITION FILED FOR A SPECIAL ELECTION

Fourteen Hundred Names on Document Calling for Small Board Referendum.

The petition circulated by Democrats in all parts of the county for a special election on the small board of freeholders referendum has been filed in the county clerk's office in Elizabeth. It contains more than 1,400 names. Freeholders Hennessy and Fay, accompanied by former Prosecutor Wilson, as counsel, and Robert D. Gibby, of Rahway, filed the document.

Mr. Wilson wrote to the Secretary of State informing him that the petition had been circulated and filed according to the provisions of the Hennessy act, and requesting the secretary to call the election. This was necessary, as the act does not specify who is to issue the call after the petition has been filed, nor does it make any other stipulation than that the petition shall be filed with the county clerk.

County Clerk Calvert had left the office a few moments before the petition was filed, so Deputy County Clerk Norman acted for him. Mr. Norman told the freeholders and Mr. Wilson that the petition would be received and filed as directed, but in response to a question as to when the election would be called, he said that the county clerk had nothing to do with calling any election, and pointed out the omission of any provision in the act giving any official authority to do so. The only alternative, therefore, was to write the Secretary of State. His reply is expected at any time and is being anxiously awaited, as it is expected to clarify the situation.

Before the petition was filed Mr. Calvert wrote for a certified copy of the act in order to see if there are any changes from the uncertified copy he has been using as a guide.

Before the petition was filed, a meeting of those interested in the project was held in the Burkley Hotel in Elizabeth. All persons who had to do with the circulating of the petitions and a number of others were present. Mr. Hennessy said the only purpose of the meeting was to call in the petitions so that they could be filed as a whole with the county clerk. Nothing else was done, he said.

Mr. Hennessy also asked Mr. Norman how the same kind of election was arranged for in Bergen county last Tuesday. It was explained to him that in that county the referendum election was held in conjunction with the election for Congressman and the date of the Congressional election was fixed by law.

Continuing, Mr. Norman explained that the manner in which the special election may be held, in addition to where the petition is to be filed, are the only specific provisions of the act. The election may be held by itself, in conjunction with a special election on some other proposition, or at the general election, he said.

NINTH ANNIVERSARY OF FOUNDER'S DEATH

Local Zionist Camp Will Hold Special Services in Synagogue Sunday.

Members of the local camp of Zionists are planning an elaborate celebration to be held in the synagogue of the Children of Israel on New street next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock to commemorate the ninth anniversary of Dr. Theodore Herzl's death, he having been the founder and promotor of the Zionist movement which has now secured a firm hold on the Hebrew element of the country. A number of prominent speakers among whom are Councellor Philip Schick, of New York; Rev. S. Hafner and Principal David Miller, of the local Hebrew School.

STORM SWEEPS NEW BRUNSWICK

Plainfield Failed to Get a Sample of Miniature Western Tornado.

WIND PLAYED HAVOC

Other Suburban Towns Damaged by Lightning and Rain—New Brunswick the Greatest Loser—Freaks of the Storm.

Plainfield failed even to get a sample of the miniature Western tornado sweeping through New Brunswick and Perth Amboy yesterday, accompanied by sharp lightning and terrific thunder doing damage aggregating thousands of dollars to property and shade trees. Heavy rains swamped many of the suburban towns and although the official rainfall was not a record-breaker, many of those who were caught unawares by the cloudburst declared it the heaviest downpour they had ever experienced.

Shortly after noon yesterday the skies, which had assumed a threatening appearance early in the morning, became black and big drops of rain fell. In less than half an hour the rainfall had taken on the form of a deluge and the downpour lasted more than an hour, but intermittent rains fell all the afternoon and part of last night. Wind, lightning and thunder accompanied the rain and signs and awnings were ripped from their hangings. New Brunswick suffered worse than any other town near New York and the wind blew there like a hurricane. It ripped off a section of the roof on the New Brunswick High School building and the rain flooded part of the top floor. Trees in the park surrounding the New Brunswick Court House were damaged considerably, the wind tearing off branches from several of the old oak landmarks. Amusement Park, where the New Brunswick athletic contests are held, was wrecked, the diamond being washed out and the grandstand being broken up by the heavy wind, which carried whole sections of the seats away.

Frank Manley, 15 years old, son of a New Brunswick policeman, and a cripple, had a bad scare during the storm. The wind tore a boathouse float on which he was sitting loose from its moorings on the Raritan river, and hurled it against a bridge. Clarence Priestly, a friend of the boy, dived into the river after him but was unable to cope with the wind and rain. Finally a rope was lowered and Manley was pulled in.

In the height of the storm in New Brunswick the lightning struck the home of David J. Stearn and knocked the chimney down and the loose bricks fell in a short distance of Stearn's son, 3 years old, who was playing in the nursery. Several runaways and motorcar accidents occurred in the town.

A large amount of damage was also done at Mt. Holly, N. J., where the streets and country roads were flooded and transportation brought to a temporary halt. Hailstones caused half a dozen horses in the town to run away and destroyed many trees and plants.

FALL FROM WAGON CAUSED MAN'S DEATH

Rib Pierces Heart and John Matis Succumbs Several Hours After Accident.

Falling from his seat on a high truck shortly before 7 o'clock last night, John Andrew Matis, a cartman residing at Randolphville, near Dunellen, died several hours later at his home there. He had struck the ground with such force that three ribs on his left side were broken. One of them punctured his heart and caused death, despite heroic efforts made by Dr. G. Thornton Longbotham, formerly of this city, but now of Piscataway.

Mr. Matis was fifty-three years old and was in good health. How he came to lose his balance remains a mystery. The victim was precipitated to the ground within sight of his home. Passersby heard his cries for assistance and carried him to his home. Dr. Longbotham immediately resorted to surgery in an effort to save the victim's life but without avail.

THEY WOULDN'T LET MRS. COLBY RESIGN

Suffragists Insist She Remain as Head of Their Legislation Committee.

Mrs. Everett Colby, wife of the candidate for Gubernatorial nomination on the Progressive ticket, tendered her resignation as chairman of the joint legislative committee of the suffrage organization of New Jersey at a meeting held yesterday afternoon at 33 Halsey street, Newark. Mrs. Colby, who was formerly Miss Edith Hyde, of this city, set forth her reasons for this action in the following letter:

"With a full understanding of the suffragists in not wishing to become identified with any political organization, I feel it my duty to offer to our committee my resignation as chairman. Since my husband is a candidate in the Progressive primaries for the nomination for Governor, there are many suffragists who may feel that my position on your committee might make their policy inconsistent.

"With deep regret and the full assurance of my willingness to work in any way in which I may be of service, I am,

"Faithfully yours,
"EDITH COLBY."

The members of the committee voted unanimously not to accept the resignation of the chairman. They gave as their reason that though suffrage organizations must be non-partisan the individual members are free to work as they please as individuals and not as representatives of their respective organizations.

Miss Eleanor Garrison, a granddaughter of William Lloyd Garrison, will start her work August 11 as legislative secretary. Miss Garrison comes to the joint committee with a wide experience in suffrage work gained in the Women's Political Union of New York.

Mrs. G. G. Scott presided and Mrs. Richard T. Newton read Miss Alice Carpenter's report of her work for the committee.

Several of the local suffragists are planning to attend the convention of the Men's League at Asbury Park, Saturday. In the morning Mrs. Abraham Van Winkle, president of the Women's Political Union of New Jersey, will be one of the speakers at the open air meeting to be held in Asbury Park. Mrs. Van Winkle will preside and give a talk at the meeting to be held tonight at Melrose Inn, Belmar. Mrs. Watts, of Westfield, will be among the other speakers.

The joint legislative committee is at present composed of the following members: Equal Franchise Society, Mrs. Colby, Mrs. Philip McKim Garrison and Mrs. Harry Compton; State Association, Mrs. E. F. Feickert, Mrs. F. DeLacy Hyde and Miss Bessie Pope; Women's Political Union, Mrs. Van Winkle, Mrs. Richard T. Newton and Miss Belle Tiffany; Men's League, Champlain Riley, Oberlin Smith and William L. Saunders.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AS LODGE TREASURER

D. W. Littell Has Served in This Capacity for Royal Arcanum.

During an informal meeting of the members of the Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, held last night in the lodge rooms D. W. Littell observed the twenty-fifth anniversary of his election to the office of treasurer of the fraternal order by presenting one application for membership. He has been active in the local council's work for over a quarter of a century and has held the treasurer's office for twenty-five consecutive years. Two supervising deputies were present and the affair was featured by an enjoyable social and smoker.

Regent E. S. Marsh entertained the members with an interesting travelogue on the rule of the United States in the Philippines. He referred to the large number of natives who were connected with the local legislature and municipal governing bodies, the bulk of the support of which was met almost entirely by the native born inhabitants. He also outlined the most commerce carried on by the islands with the various nations of the globe and also commented on the splendid school system which has been inaugurated since the Stars and Stripes were first raised.

Supervising Deputy Frank Errear, of Jersey City, and Marshal H. Ward, of North Plainfield, delivered short talks urging the lodge to a greater usefulness to the order and to humanity at large.

SANITATION BAD ALONG THE BROOK

A BREEDER OF FILTH

Water in the Stream is low—Refuse Scattered Along the Bed of the Brook—Complaints Received from Residents of Plainfield and Boro.

Prompted to take action following numerous complaints and entreaties on the part or Plainfield and North Plainfield tax-payers, the trustees of the local Board of Trade conducted a tour of inspection along the banks of Green brook yesterday afternoon and found the condition there even worse than they had expected. For years past, especially at this particular period of the year, when the water in the brook is apt to run low, the bed of the stream has been a breeding place for mosquitoes. Some property owners along the brook made a practice of disposing of tin cans and refuse of every description by throwing it into the waters and when the stream dries up all of this waste material makes its appearance, producing a thick, slimy scum that is a breeding place for filth.

From the filth comes a strong odor that is noticeable for a radius of two blocks and residents living in the vicinity are troubled with this nuisance especially at this time of the year. The Mosquito Commission and Board of Health have been appealed to at various times but have not succeeded in climinating the existing conditions.

A small stream of water runs through the mill race at this time of the year and insects of every kind breed along the banks. In one portion of the stream, near Washington street, a dead dog of a small species lay in the middle of the brook decaying and a few feet away from this filth a number of children were fishing.

The purpose of the Board of Trade's inspection was to collect first hand data for an open letter which will be submitted to the local Board of Health, a copy of which is published below.

"The attention of the Board of Trade has been called by many people residing in the Borough of North Plainfield and the City of Plainfield to the dreadful condition of Tier's pond, the brook and the mill race and Green brook, and our Board of Trustees took occasion this afternoon to examine the same accompanied by a reporter from the Daily Press and the Courier-News.

"The complaints made to us were not at all exaggerated, in fact, we marveled that such a condition of filth could be permitted to exist in the very heart of these two municipalities, Plainfield and North Plainfield, and we hasten to request you to give this matter your immediate attention. The continuance of this nuisance will constitute a menace to the health of the people in the immediate vicinity and a nuisance to all who get within smelling distance of it.

"We feel that the real cure for troubles of this kind lies in publicity and for that reason we are asking the newspapers to co-operate with us in making the demand upon you, to do the work which you are expected to do.

"We trust that you will accept this letter in the spirit of co-operation if it meets with your approval. Anyway, we want the work done and done quickly."

NEW FEATURE FOR PARKER FIELD'S WEEK END PROGRAM

As an added feature to the Sunday afternoon program arranged by the Playground Commission for Parker Field, Dr. Robert F. Y. Pierce, of New York city, will give one of his famous chalk talks and the Plainfield recreation seekers who attend the week-end band concerts at the playground will be treated to one of the famous lectures that attract thousands to Madison and Union Squares every Sunday afternoon. William Holmes, baritone soloist, of the First Baptist church, will sing at next Sunday's gathering.

Many hundreds of people have taken advantage of the opportunity offered by the Playground Commission to spend a few restful hours at the popular recreation centre and the specially equipped grove is one of the centres of attraction every week-end.

DEFOREST QUITS OVERSEER'S JOB

LEAVES FOR VACATION

Press of Professional Work as a New York Lawyer Forbids Him Giving the Required Time to Local Office His Letter Given Out.

After a brief service Henry L. DeForest, a New York lawyer, made public today his resignation as Overseer-of-the-poor of Plainfield. His action was not expected. Three weeks ago when questioned by a representative of the Daily Press, Mr. DeForest said he had "no present intention of resigning." That was correct for his intentions was 'future,' not 'present.' His assistant, G. T. Dunham, is after the job, but it is likely that there will be others in the race. De Forest left today for his vacation and during his absence Dunham will be in charge of the office until the regular monthly meeting of the Common Council is held in August when the vacancy may be filled.

Here's Mr. De Forest's letter of resignation as addressed to Mayor Stewart and the Common Council:

"I respectfully tender my resignation as overseer of the poor, the same to take effect at your pleasure or upon the appointment of my successor. I take this step with reluctance and because added pressure of New York office work in the fall is going to make it impossible for me to make the sacrifice of time necessary for proper administration of the overseer's work. I cannot take this step without recording my keen appreciation of the friendly co-operation and help that has been uniformly extender to me by each one of you, particularly those on the Poor and Alms Committee.

"The responsibility for the care of those in the City Alms House and of the many children in families requiring outdoor relief offer opportunities of service which are very appealing. The city has always dealt generously with its poor. The responsibility for wise administration of its generosity is perhaps greater than many of our citizens appreciate.

"May I also respectfully record my personal appreciation of the friendly help and suggestion always available to me from the City Judge and the Police Department, especially the Chief of Police. During practically the entire period of my incumbency G. T. Dunham has acted as assistant under statutory authority permitting me to appoint an assistant during my absence of incapacity. Applicants for relief and in fact all departmental work have had the benefit of his faithful and efficient attention. I personally am much indebted to him, and the city has had the benefit of his faithful service.

"It goes without saying that I should consider it a privilege to be called on by my successor or any one of the city officials for assistance or counsel. My heart will remain in the work even though I feel it necessary to lawn down the actual responsibility."

TEN EYCK AND KELLY EXONERATED BY COURT

Members of the coal firm of Ten Eyck & Kelley, having yards at 747 South avenue, who were arraigned Wednesday morning before City Judge DeMeza on complaint of Union County Superintendent of Weights and Measures Augustus W. Schwartz, charged with giving short weight, have been exonerated of all intent to cheat or defraud by a decision of the court. This morning the court dismissed the complaint. The coal dealers were specifically charged with knowingly short-weighing a consignment of coal to Mrs. Charles Smith, of 525 West Fifth street.

The complaint charged that the two tons' consignment of coal was short in weight 132 pounds, which amount of coal is worth about thirty-four cents. The defendants proved by their testimony as well as by that of disinterested parties that the so-called "shortage" found by the county official was due to the fact that he weighed the fuel by the bag on a small scale instead of in bulk as it was weighed on the scale belonging to the defendants. By expert testimony it was proven that by weighing matter in portions instead of in a unit a deviation is bound to occur because of the action of the wind, weather conditions, etc.

Fielder's Record as an Advocate of Equal Taxation

The Present Candidate For Democratic Nomination For Governor Was In the Thick of the Fight Years Ago When the Bosses Were In the Saddle and When the Fighting Took Both Brains and Courage.

THAT the taxation problem is still far from a solution in New Jersey must be admitted by all, and when it is considered that practically no attention was paid to taxation matters during the administration of Woodrow Wilson as governor it must dawn upon some that there is, after all, THE VITAL SPARK OF PROGRESS TO THE KEYNOTE OF THE FIELDER CANDIDACY—to wit, that we "pause" in our march and pay attention to the correction of a great deal of legislation that has been placed upon the statute books.

Fielder has been a student of taxation since the fight began. Wilson himself paused in the great battle for equal taxation because he found greater work to do. But long before Woodrow Wilson had even thought of leaving Princeton Governor Fielder was a conspicuous figure in the great fight for equal taxation that had grown out of the memorable gubernatorial campaign in which Charles Black, Democrat, was defeated by Edward Casper Stokes. And while Black was defeated he had defined equal taxation with such compelling force during his campaign that it became the burning problem of the early part of the Stokes administration. And it was Fielder, then a member of the house, just beginning his career as a legislator, who bore a heavy part of the battle.

THOSE WERE MEMORABLE DAYS. THERE WAS NO COMPELLING FIGURE TO FORCE LEGISLATION THROUGH BOTH BRANCHES OF THE LEGISLATURE IN THOSE DAYS. THE FIGHTING WAS HARD AND THE BOSSES WERE IN THE SADDLE. TO WIN PROGRESSIVE LEGISLATION IN THOSE DAYS TOOK LEADERSHIP AND BRAINS. AND BOTH WERE EXEMPLIFIED IN JAMES FAIRMAN FIELDER IN THAT GREAT FIGHT THAT WRESTED THE TAX BOOKS FROM THE HANDS OF THE RAILROADS.

The fight for equal taxation in the legislature of 1903 and 1904 led to the appointment of a commission in 1904, which resulted in the Duffield act, passed in 1905, under which second class railroad property is taxed on valuations fixed by the state board of assessors at the local tax rates in all the municipalities of the state. The state collects the taxes and turns the moneys over to the municipalities.

The equal taxation fight also brought about the distribution of a large slice of railroad taxes, to be divided up among the taxing districts of the state, to be used for local school purposes.

But Governor Fielder wanted to go still further. Realizing that the valuations in themselves are unfair and unjust, he has advocated the appointment of railroad appraisers for the purpose of ascertaining the fair value of railroad property as a basis for assessment.

There is still much to be done to perfect the fight for equal taxation, and there is no man in public life in the state of New Jersey who is better equipped to meet the situation than Governor Fielder.

The youth was opposed by nearly a dozen men, some of whom he out-distanced with ease, although they towered many inches above him in height. The boy was clothed in a jersey and trousers and ran the race in the same outfit. Many who watched his efforts predict a bright future for him, on the cinder path if he is given the opportunity in his evident poor circumstances.

There is a growing demand for more open cars on the trolley and there is also complaint that the Public Service is discriminating against the people of Somerville and Raritan in the matter of summer cars. Because of the increased traffic efforts will be made to have the cars run under fifteen minutes headway during the rush hours of the day, instead of ten minutes, as present. When the trolley company made application for the turn out in front of Brown's mill some years ago, it was then given out that the intention was to run the cars under fifteen minutes headway. The Borough Council will probably take this matter up within the next few months.

CRANFORD COURSE TO BE HARD ONE

It May Eventually Rival Baltusrol as Real Test for Golfers.

Although the new eighteen-hole course of the Cranford Golf Club was not opened until July 4, much friendly rivalry is already in evidence between that organization and Baltusrol, partly because many persons living in the neighborhood are members of both, notably Max Marston, the Eastern Interscholastic champion.

"Believe me," said Eddie Wild, in speaking yesterday, "as soon as Cranford is fully trapped it will be decidedly harder than Baltusrol."

The statement means something, coming from Wild, who is a tiptop judge of both, after ten years of experience.

Baltusrol has the reputation that goes the country over of being one of the hardest of American links, yet, withal, a fair test of the sport. If Cranford is able to measure up in this latter respect as well, it will prove a great acquisition to New Jersey and the East as well, thanks largely to the efforts of President Gellatly.

For months there has been speculation among metropolitan players as to what the par at Cranford would be, but not until within a day or two have the official figures been made up.

The length is 6,446 yards, a shocking distance. Five or six years ago when the Deal Club stretched its course to 6,000 yards, it was considered almost the eighth wonder of the world. Many declared that it would have to be shortened, for it was enough exercise to walk it without playing.

Cranford for years boasted the longest nine-hole course in the United States and now its full course will probably hold the same distinction for a while at least.

KILLED IN HUNT FOR MURDERER

Stranger Slain In Dark at Dover Race Track.

SHOT DOWN BY POLICE.

Two Wanted In Connection With Murder Mystery of Corduan Woman In Newark Captured Later—Dead Man Armed With a Magazine Pistol.

Dover, N. J., July 25.—The murder of Mrs. Emma Corduan at her home in the tenement house at 162 Walnut street, Newark, led to the killing of a man named William Butler here. He was chased as one of the two men sought in connection with the woman's death and was shot and killed by Chief of Police Ethelbert Byram.

Later William Corduan, husband of the murdered woman, was arrested at Dover, and with him was taken into custody Ollie Stites, who is supposed to have been in the Corduan apartment in Newark on the night Mrs. Corduan was killed.

Hattie Lindsey, who also is supposed to have been there at the time of the murder, surrendered to the Newark police. She had been drinking, the police say, and was unable to talk.

The authorities had information that Corduan had probably taken refuge in the house of a friend near the Dover race track. Chief of Police Byram and Policeman Baxtrom went after him. They failed to find him. Their story of what happened later is that, believing he would return to the house, they hid themselves in the ticket booth of the race track.

They were waiting there when a man who in the darkness answered Corduan's description came along. They say they called to him to halt and shouted that they were officers. Instead of doing as told, they say, he whipped out a pistol and began firing. One of the bullets grazed Baxtrom's head. Chief Byram had his pistol out by that time, and he fired three shots at the man. Two went to the heart and one through his neck.

It was learned later that he was William Butler of Kenvil, N. J. On the body the police found a bottle half filled with laudanum. He was armed with a magazine pistol.

NINE RETURN IN SAFETY.

Motorboat Party Believed Lost Was Only Visiting Friends.

Trenton, N. J., July 25.—After being given up as drowned three young women and six men in a motorboat returned to their homes, relieving the anxiety which existed since Sunday, when they failed to come back from a trip on the Delaware river.

Although parties had been searching for them or for some trace of the motorboat since Sunday the young women explained their absence by saying they had been visiting the relatives of one of the party who were camping on the banks of the river near Florence, N. J.

The young women of the party were Miss Louise Hines, Miss May Herring of Duetsville, N. J, and Mrs. F. W. Guiser. With them when the motorboat left here Sunday were Miss Tillie Hines, Miss Mary Kitchen and Miss Elsie Barcos and six men.

G. O. P. SURVEY.

To make any sort of a showing at the November election the Republican party will have to name for Governor a man who is not only clean and able but who stands for something and has the courage of his convictions. Stokes, therefore, is disqualified at the start. The reason is that he is neither one thing nor another. At heart he is and has been a Roosevelt follower, but he hasn't got, neither did he have "the sand" in the Presidential campaign to appear in his true colors. As a political tight-rope walker he shines at his best; he is a stand-patter among stand-patters and a progressive among progressives. He can make a rattling good speech, but the day is gone when a man can work his way into office by the oratory route. Deeds, not words, are what count in this "forward" age and to inspire public confidence and to command the vote a candidate must be a positive and not a negative quantity. With him as their standard bearer, the Republicans would be buried under a landslide.

As for Charles N. Fowler—well as a popular song runs, "My darling mother said, don't speak unkindly of the dead." Possibly the marble man may take his candidacy seriously, but who else does in his own county here, where he was repudiated as a candidate for the Congressional nomination and previously in a then Republican stronghold came within an ace of defeat with James E. Martine as his opponent? All the votes he would get possibly might be carried in one's pockets were he pitted against such a representative, progressive and clean man as State Senator Carlton B. Pierce, the one Repubzlican yet mentioned who to our way of thinking measures up to the requirements for good sound gubernatorial timber. Mr. Pierce has entered the race and that very fact puts Mr. Fowler out of the running and it puts the "kibosh" on the Stokes boom.

A LIBERAL SUNDAY.

Maybe, you won't agree with what our contributing editor for tomorrow's issue will have to say. The fact is we are quite positive some of our readers will take exception to his remarks. That is well and good, for the purpose of the Saturday contributed editorial feature is to make you think and to make you discuss it. Rev. Cortlandt H. Mallery is a liberal sort of a clergyman and he fears not what others may think of his opinions and he hesitates not to speak his mind on any subject. He stands for a liberal Sunday. Read what he will have to say.

CLEAN-UP NEEDED.

For years, the deplorable sanitary conditions of Green brook have been a reflection on the city and borough. True, every now and then, but at unusually long intervals, the brook is cleaned out, but the work is not effectually done. Hence, it is a breeding spot for mosquitoes and the odors are most offensive at times.

Now, however, that the Board of Trade has gone at the problem in the right way, as told in our news columns today, we may expect that the conditions will be corrected and that at a very early date.

Donald McLean, of Elizabeth, has been chosen to succeed Edward W. Gray as secretary to the Republican State Committee. Besides being a fine fellow, McLean's political training would make him an ideal choice. The Republican party in New Jersey is fortunate in being able to obtain his services for so responsible a position.

Lack of space forbids the publication today of the speech made by Everett Colby announcing his candidacy for the Progressive gubernatorial nomination but the readers of the Daily Press shall not be denied the pleasure of reading what he had to say on that occasion. His speech will be printed.

About the easiest mark the Republicans could wish for is Osborne as the Progressive nominee. He is so radical that they could beat him with almost any man. There's a difference between Progressiveism and Radicalism, as you know. The one is "safe and sane;" the other is just the opposite.

Everett Colby—we love him for the enemies he has made—announces his candidacy for the Governorship of New Jersey. We affirm what we have said in the past about him and we believe that he would make a worthy successor to Woodrow Wilson. Wilson and then Colby—surely Jersey could be proud.

President Wilson has shown very good taste in taking prompt measures to put a stop to the raising of a fund by Baltimore people for a wedding gift for his daughter.

Colby, Fielder and Pierce—three fine men. My, how times have changed!

COLBY ANNOUNCES CREED

gathering and former Senator H. H. Gilmore had come all the way from Denver, Col. He was the guest of Colonel James W. Howard. In the audience besides former Governor Franklin Fort, Edward W. Gray, who yesterday had resigned from the secretaryship of the Republican County Committee, was seen.

That the enthusiasm for Mr. Colby was by no means confined to the members of the Progressive party, so far as Camden county was concerned, was the burden of the address of former Assemolyman Frank B. Jess, who also stated that the announcement of Mr. Colby's candidacy caused great joy among the Progressives of that section.

Mr. Colby, the "pioneer of the Progressive movement in Jersey," was the title given the candidate by Charles Stelzle, of Maplewood, another speaker.

The meeting was opened by Playground Commissioner Algernon T. Sweeney, the chairman of the Newark Colby League, who stated the purpose of the meeting and paid a glowing tribute to Mr. Colby. He then introduced Frank L. Driver, chairman of the Progressive city committee, as the chairman of the evening.

"It does not follow," said Mr. Driver in his remarks, "that the opposing of the candidacy of Edmund B. Osborne means that he would not support him should he get the nomination, nor that in indorsing Mr. Colby we want to exclude any other candidate from entering the Gubernatorial race."

MOTION TO PLACE ORPHAN IN NEW HANDS OPPOSED

Although the move was strenuously opposed by Mrs. William Tanner, of this city, Judge James C. Connolly, sitting in the Orphans' Court in Elizabeth this morning, ordered that Ethel Kline, a twelve years old orphan, be given in the custody of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Reissnyder, of Elizabeth, as was originally provided for at the time of the death of the child's father some years ago. Since her parents' death the child has been in the care of her grandmother, Mrs. William Tanner, and the latter was reluctant to relinquish her claims.

Mrs. Anna George, another grandmother, however, urged the placing of the child in Mr and Mrs. Reissnyder's custody and the move was accordingly made and the girl turned over to the Elizabeth people at once.

THOUSANDS ENJOYED DAY AT THE SHORE

Plainfielders to the number of 1,200 who went to Asbury Park yesterday on the local Sunday-school excursion met one of the largest transient throngs of pleasure seekers that ever invaded the popular New Jersey coast resort. Outings held by organizations along the Jersey Central, including those from Red Bank, Somerville and Philadelphia, besides Plainfield and Dunellen, brought 6,000 persons to the seashore.

The Plainfield excursion was the largest of all, the one from Newark being a close second with a total of a little more than 1,000. The weather conditions were threatening all day but the people found many forms of entertainment and amusement programed for their benefit which could be run off during rain or shine. When the rain began to fall in the early afternoon many sought the shelter of the casino's dancing pavilion while others who braved the lightning, donned bathing suits and froliced in the surf while the rain fell. The return trip was made in something near record time, for the second section was unloaded shortly after 8:30 o'clock at the North Avenue station.

WOOLSTON VERY COY OVER THE SHRIEVALTY

Rumors to the effect that Howard B. Woolston, of North Plainfield, had announced his candidacy for the Republication nomination for sheriff in Somerset county, opposing Charles P. Sebring, who is also out for the place, were current in political circles in North Plainfield this morning but when interviewed by a Daily Press reporter, Mr. Woolston said that he had not definitely decided whether or not he would enter the race for the office. He admitted, however, that he was considering it very seriously and added that a number of his influential political friends have been urging him to become a candidate and that they have assured him of their support.

Mr. Woolston was formerly chief of the North Plainfield fire department and is engaged in business in this city. He has taken an active interest in Somerset county Republican politics for years past and should he enter the race it is likely that his supporters would give Mr. Sebring a close contest for the nomination, he having announced his intention of running on the Republican ticket. Mr. Woolston is also out for the nomination on the Republican side.

WILL NOT ALLOW SALE OF ESTATE'S REALTY

Elizabeth, July 25.—Executors of the Vanderbeek estate, located in Plainfield, appealed to Judge James C. Connolly in Elizabeth this morning to obtain permission to dispose of a portion of the property to settle debts amounting to $537.57. The heirs, who were represented by Reed & Hetfield, of Plainfield, opposed the issuing of an or er and the court sustained the contention.

The Vanderbeek estate is valued at $50,000 and in it is included one of Plainfield's most desirable business blocks, the building at the northeast corner of Park avenue and North avenue.

MRS. BRIDGET O'KEEFE.

Mrs. Bridget O'Keefe, of West Seventh street, widow of Michael J. O'Keefe, died this morning after a long illness. Mrs. O'Keefe has long been a resident of this city, and was a communicant of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church. She is survived by two sons, Joseph F. and William J. O'Keefe, both of this city. The funeral service will be held at St. Mary's church, Monday morning. Interment will be at Holy Cross cemetery, Flatbush, L. I.

LOSERS ACTED AS HOSTS.

Following a membership campaign in which the losers agreed to treat the winners to an evening of fun, the Temple Baptist church Christian Endeavor Society members entertained at a social in the chapel rooms last night. The Endeavorers were divided up into two sections, one known as the Mauretania and the other as the Lusitania, and the latter lost out in the campaign after a stubborn fight.

LOOKING FOR HORSE THIEF.

The local police have been asked by the New Brunswick authorities to locate a sorrel horse, 15 hands high and weighing about 1,100 pounds which was stolen from a livery stable in that city. The equine has a white nose and has white marks near the hoofs of its "rear propellors."

UNION LABOR TROUBLE.

Although the carpenters have resumed work on the new theatre building on West Front street, according to William Lunger, the business agent of their union, they are doing so under protest and under what he terms "unfair labor conditions."

DR. ANDERSON SPEAKER.

Rev. Dr. Charles M Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, has been announced as the speaker for the Y. M. C. A. open-air meeting tomorrow night at Madison avenue and West Front street.

BUT TWO SMALL CASES IN THE DISTRICT COURT

The suit instituted by Thomas W. Meich, of Somerville, against the Syracuse Portrait Co., was tried yesterday afternoon in the District Court before Judge Walter L. Hetfield, entered a non-suit. V. W. Nash, Jr., represented Meich and John P. Owens appeared for the defendants.

The court reserved decision in the case of Edgar R. Woodruff against Charles O. Miles. The former sued to recover the cost of alleged repairs made to his automobile as the result of an accident in which the defendant figured. Augustus C. Nash represented Woodruff and Councilman Francis J. Blatz, of the law firm of Codington & Blatz, acted as counsel for the defense.

GOVERNOR'S DAY BIG FEATURE OF FAIR

Flemington, July 25.—The program of the Flemington Fair this year is extensive, as usual. Among the features of this year's exhibition will be Governor's Day, Thursday, August 7.

Besides Governor James F. Fielder, there will be present many other prominent men of the State. They are: E. C. Stokes, Edmund C. Osborne, John D. Prince, Otto Wittpenn, Everett Colby, George M. LaMonte, Frank S. Katzenbach, William C. Gebhardt and Joseph S. Frelinghuysen.

Special racing events will be carded for this day and one of the largest attendances in the history of the famous fair is expected. Poultry show, horse exhibit, machinery display, wonderful exhibits of house-building and other attractions will be afforded those present.

The Governor will make a speech at the fair and other aspirants for the gubernatorial berth of New Jersey will meet their friends.

AT PROCTOR'S.

The violin, king of all instruments when played by a master hand, is the feature at Proctor's this week. Miss Carmen Ercell is the artist. Her program is a well selected one of popular and classical music. The Eleven Georgia Blossoms in the southern oddity, "Pastimes on the Levee," furnish eighteen minutes of good fun. The chorus of colored beauties give the patrons a good variety of songs and dances. The Pantza Duo of marvelous contortionists give a wonderful performance of suppleness and grace. Lawrence and Tanner in "The Fly Swatter" have a timely topic skit that is a scream. Gibson and Ranney in the western comedy sketch, "The Cowboy's Courtship," furnish laughter and joy aplenty. The feature photoplay for today is the ever famous "Octoroon," a play that has been on the stage for over thirty years and is still a big success.

TEPPER'S

FRIENDS FIGHT OVER MONEY.

Harry Cohen and Harry Selbin, both of Liberty street, argued in the city court this morning before City Judge DeMeza, over an account of eighty-five cents. Selbin said Cohen owed him the money and refused to pay. The alleged debtor said he knew nothing of the eighty-five cents of which his friend Selbin spoke, and, furthermore, stated that Selbin struck him yesterday while endeavoring to make a collection. Selbin, who was arrested on Cohen's complaint, denied this and the court dismissed the charge of assault and battery against him.

WORKS ATTACKS TARIFF MEASURE

Charges President Whipped Caucus Into Line.

MEMBERS HAVE NO CHOICE

Senator Weeks Says Bill Will Not Curb Trusts or Reduce Cost of Living. Shows Foreign Goods In Senate Chamber.

Washington, July 25.—Charging that President Wilson exceeded his constitutional authority by aiding in framing the bill and "using his powerful influence to have it passed in the form approved by him and known to have his approval," Senator Works made a vigorous attack on the tariff measure.

The senator also assailed the Democratic caucus, which he declared forced a senator to "forego his own conscientious convictions and judgment and vote with his party or come into disfavor and be branded as an apostate and betrayer of his party."

"The president,' said Senator Works, "commits himself beyond recall to a bill not yet introduced and without having heard the presentation of their views by the legislative representatives of the states where vital interests and important industries are to be affected by it. Thus we have a bill agreed upon and marked for final passage, upon consideration only by a few men of the party, concurred in by the president acting with representatives of this one party. This comes in part from the vicious doctrine that the president is the leader of his party instead of, or as well as, the president of the whole people. The two are utterly inconsistent when it comes to the making of laws."

Senator Works did not doubt that the president acted from the purest motives, but feared that "this great power to mold legislation might fall into unworthy or treasonable hands and that revolution may follow and this beneficient government of ours be disrupted."

Senator Weeks Attacks Bill.

"The time may come," he said, "when this great power in the executive government to rule and control congress, a power not given by law and wholly illegitimate, but established by the silent and unauthorized acquiescence of the people and their lawful representatives, may bring the institutions of this republic into deadly peril and possible overthrow."

In an effort to prove that tariff reductions by the new Democratic bill bear no relation to actual conditions of competition Senator Weeks of Massachusetts read an inventory of the foreign foods, supplies and furniture they were using about the senate chamber.

The ink wells, he said, were made in Austria, the bone letter openers in France, the hair brushes in England or Japan. The senate stationery room, he said, sold knives and pens made in England, German razors were used to shave senators in the senate barber shops, and souvenir post cards with pictures of Washington's public buildings were sold in the capitol with the imprint of German manufacturers on them.

Senator Weeks attacked the bill on the ground that it would not reduce the cost of living, curb the power of the trusts nor stimulate healthy competition. Reduction in prices, he said, would be followed by an equal reduction in workingmen's incomes.

Secretary Redfield's announcement that any close of American factories would be investigated by the government Senator Weeks attacked as a suggestion intended to as far as possible coerce American manufacturers to continue running their plants without reduction of wages and without regard to net results obtained.

TWO MIDSHIPMEN DISMISSED

Went For Joy Ride and Were Late For Supper Formation.

Annapolis, Md., July 25.—Because of a recent act of misconduct Midshipmen M. A. R. Loth of Waynesboro, Va., and C. E. Ward of Idaho were compelled to sever their connection with the Naval academy. Loth and Ward are members of the new fourth class and were admitted to the Naval academy only this spring. It is said that the young men were among an automobile "joy party" that left Annapolis some days ago, with the result that they were late for supper formation and otherwise broke the Naval academy regulations.

Three were bitten by rattlesnakes. When Mrs. Cooper went in search of them she placed her youngest child near the bank of a small stream. Before she returned the child fell in and was drowned.

Gary manages the Steel corporation.

ORDER OUT MILITIA IN COPPER MINE STRIKE

Governor Ferris Calls on Michigan National Guard.

Calumet, Mich., July 25.—Practically the entire national guard of Michigan has been called out to suppress rioting on the part of many of the 15,000 strikers in the copper belt, who disregarded orders of the Western Federation of Miners to abstain from violence. By tonight there will be nearly 2,400 state soldiers, including cavalry and artillery, in the mining fields of the upper peninsula of Michigan. The Michigan guard has a total of 2,718 men.

There were no concerted attacks on mine property, but several persons were injured in brawls. So menacing did the situation appear to Sheriff Crune that he asked Governor Ferris for militia early in the day. The governor was on his way to Alpena, and when the request reached him at Bay City he was at first inclined to think the sheriff was unduly alarmed.

Later reports, however, convinced him that armed help was needed, and he ordered Adjutant General Vandercook to rush soldiers to the strike zone. A plentiful supply of ammunition and two field guns with shrapnel arrived today for the use of the troops.

The chief disturbance was an assault on the deputy sheriffs stationed at the mines of the Calumet and Hecla company.

JOS. F. GREEN URGED TO ENTER CONTEST

Would Have Elizabeth Man Make Run for Democratic Assembly Nomination.

Joseph F. Greer, one of the seven members of the small board of freeholders elected last November, admitted yesterday that he was seriously considering entering the race for Assembly. He has been urged to run by prominent local and county Democrats and it seems very likely that he will be a candidate for the nomination at the September primaries.

Mr. Greer was one of the two-year men chosen last election for the ousted small board. He resides in Union township. He polled a big vote as a small board candidate and his friends believe that he will be one of the three assemblymen nominated in September.

Mr. Greer has been active in Democratic politics for the past several years and was the first president of the Downtown Democratic Club of Elizabeth. He is a native of Elizabeth and made his home there until about two years ago when he moved to Union. He is engaged in the real estate business with offices in West Grand street in that city.

ARE SOON TO NAME FIELDER COMMITTEE

Speculation Rife as to Fielder Campaign Manager in Union County.

Elizabeth, July 2.—General Dennis F. Collins, who is acting as temporary head of the Fielder campaign committee, will name the members of the committee on organization within a few days, probably upon his return from Sea Girt on Monday. The organization which will meet again upon August 6, in this city, will be most thoroughly equipped and perfected. Smaller and sub-committees will be named to organize the smaller clubs, so that the Fielder boom may be brought as close to the people as it is possible.

There is much speculation regarding the permanent head of the Fielder forces in Union county. General Collins states that he will not accept the chairmanship, even should it be offered to him. Among those who are mentioned at this early date are Judge McAdams, who holds a high place among the Democrats of this city, and Mayor Percy H. Stewart, of Plainfield. Chances are Stewart will be named.

If the Democrats of this county read aright the signs, there will be probably as nearly a unanimous vote in the primaries for the acting Governor. Such is the belief of Congressman William E. Tuttle and others who have their ears to the ground.

PILGRIMS AT SHRINE.

Quebec, July 25.—In anticipation of the festival of St. Anne, which comes tomorrow, thousands of pilgrims are gathering at the shrine of the saint at St. Anne de Beaupre. The hotels and boarding houses are rapidly filling with people from all parts of the continent. Among these are many of the blind, crippled and those afflicted with illness, and who are looking earnestly for special favors through the intercession of the good saint on the occasion of her own festival.

to former United States Senator John Kean, was chosen in his place. State Chairman Edmund B. Wakelee, as well as Mr. Murphy, expressed their regrets at losing Mr. Gray, and on Mr. Murphy's motion a resolution expressing the deep appreciation of the services rendered by Mr. Gray during a decade was unanimously adopted, and Mr. Gray was, furthermore, given a rising vote of thanks.

Attorney-General Edmund Wilson, who was present by invitation, was vigorously applauded after his talk, in which he said that the party was bound to win this fall.

Reports were made by the various county chairmen showing that the sentiment in South Jersey was favorable to party hopes, while North Jersey, including Essex county, was as yet doubtful.

It was stated after the meeting that it was entirely harmonious and the most enthusiastic that had been held for years.

Besides those mentioned there were present former United States Senator John Kean, David Baird, Winton C. Garrisch, C. Asa Francis, George M. Shipman, of Warren county; former County Chairman Alfred N. Dalrymple, present Chairman Herbert W. Taylor; County Counsel Benjamin F Jones; Senator George W. F. Gaunt, of Gloucester; Senator William T. Read, of Camden, and Water Commissioner George F. Wright and James H. McGraw, of Madison.

GEBHARDT WITHDRAWS FROM GUBERNATORIAL RACE

Trenton, July 25.—Former State Senator William C. Gebhardt, of Hunterdon county, now clerk of the New Jersey Supreme Court, yesterday announced he would not be a candidate in the Democratic Gubernatorial primaries. Senator Gebhardt was appointed to his present position by President Wilson and is an ardent Wilson supporter.

In a statement issued by Mr. Gebhardt is an indorsement of Acting Governor Fielder for the Democratic nomination for Governor. The Senator believes Governor Fielder is an honest, sincere, progressive Democrat and says he will be overwhelmingly nominated and elected.

Summer Lamps and Lights.

The choice of summer lights is generally easy. If possible, electricity is naturally chosen. It gives better light with less heat than does anything else.

But often enough there is neither electricity nor gas available and the vacationer must put up with whatever light he can get.

Just for the sake of comparison, here is a table of the relative amount of air consumed by various lights. Electricity does not vitiate the air at all—that is to say, it does not use up any air. Gas, in an hour, uses as much air as six persons would use. Kerosene uses the air needed by seven or eight persons. Candles burn enough air for twelve persons. This table gives the amount of air burned by each method of lighting in giving off the same amount of light.

Beside using so much air, candles are really expensive. One candle, of course, is not expensive, but enough to make a bright light cost much more than any other sort of light producer.

Nevertheless, candles are attractive, and for table lights and bedroom lights they have a deserved place in summer cottages.

Kerosene lamps are bothersome; anyone who has been responsible for their filling and trimming will admit this. But in order to give safe and satisfactory light, they must be carefully tended.

To begin with they must be kept clean. Each day the chimney must be taken off and rubbed clean, either with cheesecloth or with tissue paper. The wicks must be turned just even with the tops of the burner, and rubbed smooth with a little newspaper. If they are very uneven they can be trimmed with scissors, but a wick once unevened with scissors can generally be best kept even with paper.

If the lamps are used every night the safest thing to do is to empty the oil wells daily. The oil, of course, need not be thrown away. Let the wells air a few moments, and then refill, almost full, with oil.

Never burn a lamp in which the oil is nearly gone. It may be safely done, but there is some danger that the gas that generates in the space left empty by the oil may ignite and so explode the lamp.

Once a week wash all the oil wells in hot water and soda. Dry them thoroughly and air them in the sun before refilling them.

Don't burn a kerosene lamp with the wick turned low. There is such an offensive odor from a lamp so burned that it is unpleasant. Moreover, a low flame of kerosene gives off volatile gases which are really injurious.

Cookery Points

Preserving Day Don'ts.

Don't attempt to put up anything by guesswork. Preserves, jellies and pickles all require exact measurements to be perfect. Every fruit needs its own time for cooking. Get a preserving and pickling book and follow the directions to a "t," or, better still, ask the good housekeepers you know for their recipes and write them down word for word.

Don't think that you can put up a large quantity of fruit as easily as you can a small one, however experienced you are. There is a deal of standing to do, and interest flags when the body is weary. Much good fruit is spoiled on preserving and canning day because it was put up when the housekeeper had reached the listless and exhausted stage.

Don't think that you can be economical with sugar when preserves and jellies are in hand, for you will find this a great mistake. In the first place, fruit stinted of sweetness seldom keeps, and, in the second place, it has no taste. Jelly will not "jell" if the fruit juice and sugar are not measured exactly according to directions. But sometimes the jellying process is delayed for some reason or other even when there is enough sugar. In this event put the jelly in the sunshine for a little while, where the action of the bright light will produce the desired change.

Don't think that you can be entirely successful in all your canning, preserving and pickling if you have only makeshift tools. Proper implements save time, and they are more likely to bring success. The utensils needed for a good batch of work are a preserving kettle, well cleaned and dried jars, several jelly bags (half of cheesecloth and half of flannel), two or more square pieces of flannel, a long handled spoon, a colander, a puree sieve, two or three large bowls, a ladle, a pair of scales, a quart, pint and gill measure and perhaps a canner.

Don't think if your family is small that you must use quart jars. As all of the fruit cannot be eaten up at once, it is a deal more sensible to put it into pint jars. Jelly and jam tumblers do not need to match, and for sealing these up paraffin candles can be melted down and the hot wax poured over the fruit. But this is only a makeshift device for the amateur practicing with a little fruit, for the paraffin sold by the pound is better for the purpose. Wash the candles off if they are to be used and strain the melted wax. Have about a quarter of an inch of the wax at the top of the fruit and seal up the "practice" tumblers with letter paper put on with white of egg.

Don't think that because you haven't got a regulation boiler for your fruit jars your nice things will spoil in the making. Any wash boiler can be used, but the water must never come up to the top of the jars, and they must stand on something while the boiling is going on or they will break. Spread the bottom of the wash boiler with hay or straw or cover it with four or five layers of newspaper; then put over the covering some weight or other to keep it down. The jars should be at least two inches under water, and if bottles are boiled the water should reach one inch below the cork. After the jars are in the wash boiler pour the water in—cold—and place the boiler on the stove, where it will come to a slow boil.

Don't forget that the time for boiling depends entirely upon the fruit, and if you have lost the recipes pin this memorandum up in the kitchen: Peaches should boil from twenty to thirty minutes; ripe pears (Bartlett), about thirty-five minutes; plums, fifteen minutes; apricots, twenty minutes; pineapples, forty-five minutes; berries of all sorts, five minutes; cherries, five or ten minutes; quinces, about twenty-five minutes.

Don't forget that when the time for boiling is up the jars should be removed from the water and set upside down to cool; also see that they are set on a dry table and not on a wet one, for the least drop of cold water will crack the jars.

Don't forget to fill up the slack jars with hot sirup as soon as they are taken from the bath; then close them at once, turning each one upside down when the top is tight.

Don't forget when canning vegetables that the same filling up of slack jars is made with boiling water, but that the jar must be at once sealed and boiled again for five or ten minutes.

Don't forget when the jars are cold to examine each one and to see if it is air tight; then, if all is well, wipe the jars off with a clean wet cloth and set them at once in a cold, dry place.

Don't forget that the good grocery stores pay a fancy price for first class homemade products of any sort. The labels must be written out by hand on neatly cut slips of letter paper. This gives the home look, and if the real home taste is inside the jar the grocer will take the batch, however small or big it is.

Fried Summer Squash.

Take three or four small and tender summer squashes—crooknecks are the best. Cut in slices about half an inch thick, take out the seeds and boil them half an hour or until tender in slightly salted water. When done fry them in butter to a delicate brown.

Some Cookery Suggestions

FRUIT COMBINATIONS.

VARIETY may be given to desserts by combining one or more fruits in their preparation. An entirely new flavor is sometimes given a fruit by combining it with another one.

Rhubarb and Oranges.—Take six cupfuls of rhubarb cut in small pieces, six cupfuls of granulated sugar and two large or four small oranges cut in thin slices, skin and all. Boil all together until thick.

Rhubarb Melanges.

Rhubarb and Figs.—Use a third as much figs as you have rhubarb. Soak the figs in hot water to plump them. Put into a double boiler with the rhubarb washed and cut into inch pieces without peeling. Add sugar to suit the taste and steam until tender without adding any water.

Strawberries and Bananas.—Slice six bananas in half lengthways, using a silver knife, and arrange them in the center of a glass dish to form a high, square, latticed basket. Pass half a pound of strawberry jam through a sieve, beat the whites of three eggs to a stiff froth and then beat in the strawberry pulp and the juice of half a lemon. If the color is not good add a few drops of cochineal. Fill the banana basket with the pink sponge, piling it roughly on top. Decorate the edge of the basket with glace cherries, using a little melted gelatin to make them stick. Whip some thick cream with a pinch of sugar and put a ring of it round the basket and serve.

Including Strawberries.

Strawberry and Pineapple Preserves.—Take three quarts of strawberries, hull and wash them. Remove the peel and eyes from two small pineapples, cut into half inch slices and then into cubes, removing the hard core. Put the fruit and four pounds of sugar in alternate layers in a granite preserving kettle and let stand closely covered over night. In the morning add the juice of one lemon and one orange. Cover the peel of the orange with cold water, beat it slowly to boiling, then drain. Scrape off the bitter white inner lining, cut into narrow strips with scissors and add to the other ingredients. Put the mixture over the fire, heat gradually to boiling, taking off the scum, and cook slowly until the pineapple is tender. Then finish cooking in the sun.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — Why Brutus, the Haughty Lion, Looked Pleasant.

They Took Some Lovely Pictures.

THE little boy next door had a new camera, one of the tiny ones that cost so little and give little folks so much pleasure.

And the little boy next door had that afternoon taken Jack and Evelyn's pictures as they sat on their own doorstep. Great was the joy of Jack and Evelyn. They told daddy all about it.

"Did the little boy tell you to 'please look pleasant' when he snapped the picture?" daddy asked.

"No; maybe he forgot that," Jack suggested, nodding to Evelyn.

"That is a very serious thing to forget," daddy went on. "Why, they even asked Brutus to look pleasant when he had his picture taken."

"Who was Brutus?" the children inquired.

"Brutus," daddy explained, "is a handsome lion who lives in the Cincinnati zoo. Every one admires him, and he is perhaps a little vain of the attention he gets. Like many beauties, Brutus is very changeable.

"Though the lion's pet keeper one day came in with the moving picture photographer and coaxed and prodded him to the front of the box where the light was good, they couldn't make Brutus look pleasant.

"You see, they wanted the picture of a good natured, not of a grouchy lion.

"'Does he never look pleasant?' the camera man asked in despair.

"'Yes, indeed,' the keeper replied, a little offended. 'Brutus is really a very pleasant sort of lion in his own way, but he doesn't like to be made to do things he doesn't want to.'

"'Well, when does he seem to be most pleased?' he asked the keeper.

"'When he is getting his dinner, sir,' the keeper replied.

"The moving picture man looked pleased himself when he heard this. Maybe he likes his own dinner.

"'Then let's feed him,' he cried.

"So the keeper got a big piece of raw beef and, placing it on the end of a stick, held it out to the lion.

"A lovely expression spread over the face of Brutus. He wondered why his friend didn't poke the meat into his cage. He wasn't used to being fooled.

"When the meat stayed outside the cage the lion reached out a paw to grab it, and then the camera man took some fine pictures.

A Centerpiece for French Dots and Lazy-Daisy-Stitch. 4

These hot summer days we all like to have a bit of embroidery that is easy to do and this centerpiece is exceptionally effective for the amount of work necessary to complete it. Embroidered in colors on brown, blue, green or natural colored linen it would be attractive for the table in the living room, hall or vestibule and would also be appropriate for use on the porch table or in the summer camp or cottage. The edge should be worked in buttonhole-stitch, in the color of the linen. The berries should be developed in large French dots with number 5 mercerized cotton rope silk, using three shades of blue, red, brown or orange and the leaves are to be worked in lazy-daisy-stitch in blue, green or brown.

If the centerpiece is to be used in the dining room it should be developed entirely in white, using number 8 mercerized cotton for the sprays and number 16 for the scalloping.

This design may be adapted to a cofa-pillow or a large table-cover by omitting the scalloped edge.

Centerpiece 14468 is 22 inches in diameter and hot iron transfer patterns for stamping it can be supplied to readers for fifteen cents each.

Fashion Favors Side-Closing Effects In the One-Piece Frock.

There isn't anything so serviceable as the simple one-piece frock, that can be made of linen, ratine, voile or crepe, that is easy to put together and that is plain enough for morning wear and shopping, but with addition of a smart girdle, and perhaps frills of net, it looks quite good enough for ordinary afternoon service. You will like it, too, for that outing you have been planning, when you don't want to wear anything very fussy, and yet you want to look well. White linen, with collar of old blue and girdle of black moire would be admirable choice for 7719, and you could cover the butons with the dark linen, to give a color note. If you do not find the Robespierre collar illustrated becoming, you will find in the pattern a standing collar, with a smart little turnover. The side-front closing is continued all the way down, and the long sleeves are perforated for elbow-length with a neat turn-back cuff. So with all these possibilities, it is easy to work out two or three different effects from the one pattern. Seven sizes, 34 to 46, and for the 36-inch size, 4½ yards of 42-inch material will be required.

Crepe or voile, in white, with some of that clever Futurist printing works out very attractively in the summer frocks, and 7436 lends itself admirably to this decorative type. It is absolutely simple and practical, yet with its effect, its surplice trimming bands that may be of lace or braided net, and its vest of tulle over flesh color chiffon, the effect of elaboration is gained very inexpensively. The vest is really the front of the separate guimpe that is faced with tulle or net, which is included in the pattern. Five pattern sizes 32 to 40, and of 36-inch material 5 3-4 yards will be required for size 36. Each pattern is 15 cents.

BASEBALL NOTES

So far this season Earl Hamilton, the Crowns' clever southpaw, has pitched two one-hit games against the Yankees.

"Buck" O'Brien, the former Red Sox pitcher, didn't get away to a good start with his new team, the Chicago White Sox.

Pitcher Yingling, of the Brooklyn Superbas, is some clouter. National League batting averages show that he hit for .409 in 15 games.

The Cadillac team has five of the heaviest hitters in the Michigan State League, and still the team is fighting to keep out of the cellar.

The Cincinnati Reds have purchased Dick Robertson from the Savannah Club. He is the star pitcher of the South Atlantic League this season.

Gene McCann, the former manager at Bridgeport, has been signed to manage the New London team, of the Eastern Association.

The National League has twenty-eight players batting for .300 or better, while only fourteen performers in the American League are listed among the .300 batsmen.

The St. John Marathons are leading the race in the New Brunswick-Maine League. The Bangor Club, which is carrying the target, lost 29 of their first 35 games.

Manager Stallings believes that in Fred Smith he has a future star of much brilliance. Smith has been filling in at third base for the Braves.

Fred Clarke's Pittsburgh Pirates, if they had been playing all season the same class of ball they recently displayed in the East, would now be fighting at the top.

Th new pennant recently raised by the Giants bears the following inscription: "Giants—World's Champions, 1950. National League Champions, 1888-89-1904-5-11-12."

The St. Louis Cardinals made by far the best showing against the fast-traveling Giants, during the recent Eastern trip of the Western division of the National League.

This season's band of Red Birds was never fashioned to play in the same yard with the Giants. The McGrawites have annexed nine straight games at the expens of the Tinkerites.

"Old King" Cole, the former Cub heaver, may get another chance in the big show. He has been doing some excellent work this season for the Columbus team of the American association.

The swell work of the pitching staff seems to be the secret of Washington's success. Gandil is the only member of the Griffith Progressives who is hitting with the .300 stickers.

In view of the fact that their two heaviest hitters, Zimmerman and Bridwell, have been out of the regular line-up of late, the Chicago Cubs have managed to get by in good style.

The Athletics did not sweep everything before them on the Western trip. But with their precent big lead in the American League race the Mackmen can afford to lose now and then and still finish in front.

A sheriff went to the ball park in New Rockford, N. D., the other day on a stil hunt for a supposed burglar. And greatly to the surprise of the spectators the officer found the alleged burglar to be one of the home players and not the umpire.

"FITZ" SOME QUOIT PITCHER.

Lanky "Bob" Fitzsimmons, who lives in Dunellen, took a run over to Metuchen Monday and renewed acquaintances. He called on his friend Jim Lawless, proprietor of that well-known hostelry, the Albany Hotel, and incidentally he issued a broad challenge to all quoit pitchers of the brainy borough. Ex-Chief of Police John T. Gedney, ex-Assemblyman Luther H. Tappen, Charles M. Drake and ex-Councilman Thomas Horan accepted his challenge, and over in Robin's field there was started a quoit match, the like of which has never been seen in these parts. Fitz beat 'em all one right after the other. He had his hardest job with Judge Tappen, and Tappen did put a few over on the former heavyweight champion of the world.

ROWING REGATTA.

New York, July 25.—The Hudson River Rowing Association has completed all arrangements for its eighth annual regatta, which is to be held over the Woodcliffe course tomorrow afternoon. The program provides for eleven events and the number of entries assures the association of some spirited competitions.

Queries, Comment and Answers

The following queries have been received in this office and will be answered in the order named which is the same as that in which they were received: X. Y. Z., H. W. H. V., S. T., X. E. T., D. H. C., F. R. O., Many, J. M., H. H., A. W., L. J. U., Q. E. T., S. P., A. Q.

Sporting Editor:

Answer—September 27.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What is the most popular on a buffet, silverware or glass?

Answer—We do not know that one is more "popular," or customary than the other. It is purely a matter of personal taste.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Where does a citizen have to apply to get free public land? P. L.

Answer—There are certain times in the year when land is distributed in certain parts of the country and you simply take a chance on getting it. Usually when the distribution of land is announced the people go to the outskirts of the country and when the day comes a rush is made and the first one there has the best choice. When Indian Territory had a free public land distribution recently thousands camped outside the State days and nights before hand. Apply at Washington, D. C., for further information.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What is the regular return trip fare to Asbury Park? K. O. P.

Answer—The fare is $2.24 return.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Can you explain what is the matter with this bird? In is an ordinary robin, red breasted and apparently a male bird. Every day he annoys us by flying against our kitchen window. He seems bent on getting into the house. Sometimes he has a worm in his bill. If the window is open he will sit on the sill and stare. His pastime is to fly against this particular window in spite of all our efforts to drive him away. Is it an ill omen or is he just crazy? L. L.

Answer—The robin is probably flirting with your pet canary. We give it up, however.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is there any harm or punishment for boarding a young man who has run away from the navy? S. T. D.

Answer—Well, the government has a standing reward of $50 for the capture of deserters, so you can figure from that. It would have to be proven that you knew the man was a deserter and had aided him before you could be held accountable.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Which is the largest in membership, the Woodmen of the World or the Junior Order of American Mechanics? D. Y.

Answer—The Woodmen of the World give their total membership as 606,874 and the Junior Order are listed at 191,406.

McGraw Has Now Ruined Another Pennant Race

About the only object in playing out the National League schedule is to determine who will finish second and from that on down to the cellar. As far as first place is concerned there is scarcely room left for doubt. For a time it promised to be an exciting race, but the Giants have totally ruined it.

The further we pursue the figures the more apparent this fact becomes. In the first place it might be just as well to get some idea of the number of games required to win a pennant. In 1909 Chicago won with 99 victories. This was the year of the play off game and the Giants and Pirates were tied for second with 98 games won.

In 1910 Pittsburg won with 110 games, the Cubs finishing second with 104. In 1911 Chicago won with 104 games. New York was second with 91. In 1912 the Giants won 99 games to the Cubs' 92 and last year McGraw's men were victorious 103 times, while the Corsairs finished second with 93 games won. In the last five years therefore the flag might have been won once with 105 games, once with 99, once with 94, once with 93 and once with 92.

It appears that we may assume that 100 victories are reasonably sure to carry off the flag. To reach the century mark in the winning column the Giants must take 39 out of 67 battles, the Phillies 50 out of 71, the Pirates 56 out of 67 and the Cubs 54 out of 65. The Polo Grounders can afford to lose 28 contests to the Quakers' 21 and the Pirates' and Cubs' 11.

E. P. ALLIS.

He Makes World's Record In Driving a Golf Ball.

E. P. Allis has set the golf world by the ears by his remarkable feat performed at the Homewood Country club, near Chicago. He drove the ball 573 feet and holed it in one stroke.

"MAC" SAYS

While Mr. Steele, of the Plainfield baseball club, is congratulating himself on the fact that he is affiliated with a pennant winning combination let us not overlook the fact that the Pet magnate is the master of the biggest priced Panama hat in Central League baseball.

BOB BOGARDUS.

Lives of managers remind us
We are heros while we shine,
But, departing, feel behind us
Footprints planted on our spine.

Wonder if Bogardus is considering an offer to become a playing manager. Dunellen baseball is the most uncertain proposition that ever crowded the atmosphere of this great world.

Youngsters who need baseball in order to live are certainly receiving sufficient nourishment this season. Especially is this fact true at Parker Field, where Supervisor George W. Wriston has mapped out a busy season of the National Pastime competition.

Juvenile diamond battles are daily being staged at this popular rendezvous and some real exhibitions of the greatest of all outdoors sports are being staged.

Like Frank Chance, Mayor W. M. Williams, of High Bridge, is a great baseball leader, but he has nothing to lead. Unlike Frank Chance, however, he could not be induced to swap one of his stars for a pair of lemons.

The double play is one of the most thrilling features of baseball, according to a certain local baseball magnate. We aver that there is nothing particularly thrilling about the double cross.

Quoth a tale from Scotch Plains, "Joe Alberts was found in bad humor today." When the little red top is discovered in good humor the week following a defeat at the hands of the Royals it will be time to get out an extra.

Dunellen baseball magnates appear to be on the outs again. Only another proof of our assertion that solid ivory is not confined entirely to the playing end of baseball.

Gridiron enthusiastics claiming habitude in the little village of Dunellen are beginning to talk football for the 1913 season. One of the veterans approached Bob Bogardus to accept the position of manager for this season. Bob should worry, he has troubles of his own during the period it takes the Giants to cop the National bunting. Wait until after the world series and then maybe this successful baseball manager can be induced to cast his lot on the gridiron.

Seldom has a baseball deal attracted as much attention as the recent one in which Larry Chappelle figured. He cost Comiskey $13,500 in gold and $4,500 in ivory.

DIXIE GIANTS WILL TAKE ROYALS PLACE

Substitutes Will Be Composed Partly of Simmon's Men—Lineup for Saturday.

At the meeting of the City League last night the president, Spicers representatives and Pete Simmons failed to show up so very little business was transacted. Saurers handed in three new names—Huff, Clinton and Smith. West Ends added Victorson and Nugent to their list.

Pete Simmons sent his representative just to say that he was going to drop out as he couldn't make anything from his team. A committee went around to his place of business after the meeting to try to get him to play Saturday's game, but there was nothing doing. The committee got a team to play the West Ends known as the Dixie Giants. They will play on the Soccer Field as per schedule. The Dixies will be composed of partly Royals and partly Dixies. Hall will pitch for them.

Simmons resignation was not accepted at last night's meeting, however, and another will be held Monday night and his resignation acted upon then. Public Service wants to enter a team.

The West End line-up for Saturday follows: Fritts, McClinton, lf; Heberman, cf.; Coriell, rf.; Lambertson, 3b.; H. Alberts, ss.; Hand, 2b.; Coughlan, c.; Dow, 1b.; Slocum, Denny, Conshay, p. The Spicer lineup: Rosenson, B. Rosenson, cf.; Campbell, Sminck, lf.; J. Scott, 1b.; D. Scott, rf.; J. Montross, p.; Compton, c.; Burns, Grisley, 2b.; Baldwin, ss.; O'Loughlin, 3b.

Manager Ernest Dorflinger will chaperone the Plainfield Central New Jersey Leaguers to Somerville tomorrow afternoon, where they will line-up against the Torpey crew in what is due to be the best contest pulled off on the Central circuit in some time. The result will mean the lowering of one of the teams to second place and exalting the other to undisputed possession of the top rung, for Plainfield and Somerville are now tied for first honors.

Dunellen will take the field against the High Bridge youngsters and it is said that the High Bridge leaguers will have the same lineup that was so badly trounced by Plainfield last week. Nevertheless, Bogardus, the pessimist, is looking forward to a stiff battle and expects a good contest.

Spicer vs. Saurer.

Standing of the Clubs.

	W.	L.	P. C.
Saurer	5	2	.714
Royal Giants	5	3	.625
West Ends	5	3	.625
Spicer	1	6	.125

The City League games booked for tomorrow can be fatal in several ways. The Royals and West Ends at present are tied for second place, but a defeat of Saurers at the hands of Spicers will place either of these two teams in the lead. The Royals have threatened to withdraw from the league and this may be their last appearance in the organization.

The Royals have the opportunity that very few teams have that are leaving a league, and this is a chance to finish in first place, but they will have to be assisted by the Spicer team. Most teams drop from the standing because they are not far from the bottom and the fall will not hurt them. After the coming games, if the Royals go and the team that substitutes is allowed to take the standing of the Royals, there ought to be a few teams waiting for admission to the league.

CHANCE FOR LEADERS TO INCREASE MARGIN

SUNDAY-SCHOOL BASEBALL LEAGUE.

Games Tomorrow.

First Presbyterian vs. First Baptist.
Monroe M. E. vs. Park Avenue.

Standing of Clubs.

	W.	L.	P.C.
First Baptist	5	1	.833
Hope Chapel	6	2	.750
Monroe, M. E.	3	3	.500
First Presbyterian	2	4	.333
Park Avenue	0	6	.000

First Baptist has an opportunity to increase its first place advantage tomorrow afternoon, while the Hope Chapel contingent is experiencing an off-day in the Sunday-school League schedule, and a defeat over the First Presbyterians will mean a 197 point lead over the Chapelites. Hope Chapel is sure of maintaining its second place berth, however, as the Monroe team is still three games in the rear and even if this aggregation should succeed in humiliating the Parks once more, it would not be materially benefited as far as the team standing is concerned.

The luckless cellar champions, the Park Avenue Baptists, will take the field against the Monroe combination and endeavor to break their losing streak. As yet this team has not won a single contest and as the Monroes are considered a strong proposition, nothing short of a miracle will spoil the Park's reputation tomorrow.

NEW YORK FAVORED.

The army and navy athletic officials are still at a deadlock over the selection of the place where the next Army-Navy football game shall be played. The Navy is yet insisting that the game take place in Philadelphia, while the Army contends that the annual contests should be played either at West Point and Annapolis, alternating each year, or in New York city, preferably the latter. The Navy claims that too much time would be occupied in getting to and from New York and that the academy has no facilities for staging the game in Annapolis. It is hoped that some agreement will be reached soon.

TRINITY AT MT. PLEASANT.

The Trinity baseball team will play Mt. Pleasant tomorrow at Mt. Pleasant. All members of the Trinity team will meet at Fourth street and Watchung avenue at 2:15 to take the Arlington avenue trolley.

MASONS TO SEE THE CANAL.

New Orleans, La., July 25.—A large party of members of the Masonic fraternity and their families, numbering 250 in all, will sail from here tomorrow for Colon and will spend a week viewing the work on the Panama canal. The excursion is under the auspices of the Grand Consistory of Louisiana. The big passenger ship Atenas has been chartered for the trip.

SENATOR CUMMINS.

In Hot Debate In Senate Calls Colonel Mulhall a Liar.

© by American Press Association.

While Democratic members of the senate lobby investigating committee strove vainly to halt the verbal strife Senator Cummins of Iowa told Colonel M. M. FLAMES DRIVE MISS WILSON FROM HOTEL

President's Daughter Directs and Helps Firemen.

Eaglesmere, Pa., July 25.—With a high wind blowing showers of sparks from a burning cottage adjoining her hotel, Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson, daughter of the president, was forced out into the rain her yesterday. She helped the servants to move her belongings from the threatened building and was the calmest person in the excited throng of summer residents.

Miss Wilson, who is stopping at Eaglesmere for a month to take singing lessons from Professor Ross W. David, had just returned to her hotel from a morning lesson and was resting on the porch when she heard the cry of fire from the adjoining cottage. As the flames rose higher and higher she put on her raincoat and rushed out in the storm in order to help wherever she could.

For more than an hour the daughter of the president, evidently enjoying the excitement despite the rain, watched the fire fighters. When it became necessary to strip the adjoining houses Miss Wilson and half a dozen other young women of the summer colony led in the work. She mingled with the firemen, offering suggestions and watching the fight against the flames at close range.

The burned cottage belonged to Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dodge of Washington, friends of the Wilson family. Mrs. Murphy, their daughter, was living with them, and her two-month-old baby was carried out of the burning home by one of the firemen.

The prompt action of the local volunteer fire department prevented the Dodge cottage and the hotel where Miss Wilson is stopping from being destroyed.

NEW YORK WOMAN DAZED.

"Mrs. Grace L. Irving" Loses Her Memory In Denver.

Denver, July 25.—An envelope addressed by "Mrs. George Stern, 479 Rutland road," without name of city or state, and a signet ring bearing the initials "G. L. I." are practically the only clews to the lost identity of an expensively dressed woman who registered at one of the leading hotels under the name of Mrs. Grace L. Irving of New York.

While shopping she appealed to the police for assistance, suffering apparently from a total loss of memory. Members of a Burlington passenger train crew remember the woman as having come from Chicago on a train that arrived here Monday night.

SING SING PRISON LIKE ARMED CAMP

MILITIA READY TO MOVE.

Town of Ossining, Alarmed, Asks For Help as Terror Reigns In Big Jail. Warden Clancy Says Politics Has Inspired Revolt.

Ossining, N. Y., July 25.—In order to guard this town from a possible outbreak of prisoners in Sing Sing Captain Russell Raynor of the First battalion of the naval militia gave telephone orders to Lieutenant Augustus McCollom of the Ossining company to assemble all the available men of his company at the armory ready for duty.

Sixty of the ninety men of the company bivouacked in the Ossining armory last night. It was said unofficially that they would be stationed outside the prison when sixty-eight second term prisoners are to be taken to Auburn.

Supervisor Jenkins of the town of Ossining, in response to appeals from citizens who have become thoroughly alarmed over the two incendiary fires and mutiny in Sing Sing in the last three days and fear that the lawlessness within the prison walls may be carried to even greater lengths, communicated with Sheriff Doyle of Westchester county and asked for permission to call out the naval militia. The permission was granted, and Captain Raynor gave the order that assembled the men.

That Company L of White Plains, Company H of Mount Vernon and Company G of Yonkers, infantry companies of the Tenth regiment, national guard, may be called into the Sing Sing situation is not improbable unless it is found that the backbone of the rebellion in the prison has been broken. While no official orders were given to any of these companies, the officers and men heard reports to the effect that they might be called out.

The action of Supervisor Jenkins was taken after the second incendiary fire had been started in the prison inclosure within three days and after 250 prisoners had mutinied yesterday.

Negro Convict Stabbed.

Ugly rumors of further lawlessness were current in Ossining and, picturing the grewsome possibilities in the event a general delivery of convicts was accomplished, citizens importuned Supervisor Jenkins to take such precautions as lay within his power.

In the melee yesterday incident to the attempt of the guards to get the prisoners working in the shoe shop to their cells a negro convict whose name could not be learned was seriously if not mortally stabbed. The negro was the first one to leave the shop after having expressed his willingness to go peaceably to his cell.

Several of the more violent of the mutineers jumped upon him and one of them, using a shoemaker's knife, stabbed him just over the heart, in the right side of his breast, and slashed his wrist. The guards and the more peaceable among the mutineers overpowered the negro's assailants and rescued him. He was taken to the prison hospital and Dr. Farr, the prison surgeon, was summoned. It is said that the negro's condition is critical.

Conditions in the prison are unprecedented in the history of American penal institutions. Investigation by Warden Clancy showed that the fire of Tuesday, in which several shops were burned at a loss of $150,000, had been started by a disgruntled convict. Yesterday forenoon another deliberate attempt on the part of a convict was made to burn the remaining shops.

The fire was extinguished before it had a chance to obtain any material headway, but was followed by the mutiny of 250 men.

Warden Clancy publicly declared that the uprising in the prison was the outcome of politics and had been "inspired" by persons who were trying to discredit the state administration.

STOCK EXCHANGE SEATS RISE

New Price of $40,0000 Is an Increase of $3,000 In Week.

New York, July 25.—After an uninterrupted decline lasting for more than a year, Stock Exchange seats have at last begun to rise. It was announced that the seat of Reginald M. Johnson had been sold to Phillips A. Clark for $40,000. This is an advance of $3,000 over the last previous sale, which was made last week.

The better price for seats is ascribed to the present activity and higher prices of the stock market.

SUFFRAGISTS TO INVADE CAPITOL

Plainfielders Among State Leaders Who Will Be Present at Senate Hearing.

TO STOP EN ROUTE

Mr. and Mrs. Riley and Mrs. Feickert Prominent in Delegation to Leave Monday for Hearing Thursday—To March up Penn'a Ave.

The New Jersey contingent which will take part in the National Suffrage demonstration in Washington on Thursday, July 31, will make its start on Monday, the delegation consisting of Champlain L. Riley, of North Plainfield, the newly-elected president of the Men's League for Woman Suffrage; Mrs. Champlain L. Riley, of North Plainfield, president of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association; Mrs. Mary K. Colvin, of East Orange, vice president of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association; Dr. Mary Cummins, of Paterson, vice president of the Paterson Woman Suffrage League; Miss Edith Abbott and Miss Helen Todd. The first stop will be made in Trenton, where the party will be entertained at luncheon by the Civic and Suffrage Club of that place, and an open air meeting will be held. Later in the afternoon an open air meeting will be held in Camden, and the party will reach Philadelphia that night.

Daily bulletins will be published by the Plainfield Daily Press detailing the experiences of the delegation on its way to Washington, which city will be reached on Thursday morning, when delegations from about twenty-five States will meet at Hyattsville, Md., ten miles outside of the Capitol City, and go in a body down Pennsylvania avenue to the Capitol, where the suffrage amendment to the National Constitution will come up for discussion in the Senate Chamber that afternoon.

"All of the Congressmen and Senators from the equal suffrage States," said Mrs. E. F. Feickert, today, "are either real believers in votes for women, and most of them are, or they realize the importance of remembering that they have women constituents. This year for the first time there was a majority committee on woman suffrage in the Senate, and the report of this committee, made by Senator Ashurst, of Arizona, was favorable to woman suffrage on every count. At the hearing on the bill many Senators spoke in favor of equal suffrage because they knew it worked well in their own States. Their clear statements of fact presented an amusing contrast to the dire prophecies of the 'Antis,' which are only based on fantastic fears.

"There are many members of Congress not from suffrage States who are in favor of woman suffrage, among them being Senator Clapp, Minnesota; Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin; Senator Hollis, of New Hampshire; Cummings, of Iowa; Newlands, of Nevada; Townsend, of Michigan; Gallinger, of New Hampshire; Owen, of Oklahoma, and Penrose, of Pennsylvania. Well-known suffragists in the House are Congressman Prouty, of Iowa; Stone, of Illinois; Henry George, Jr., and Luther Mott, of New York; Roberts,

COUNTY CLERK ASKS FOR INFORMATION

Union Official Requests Information From Governor on Special Election Petition.

Elizabeth, July 26.—County Clerk Calvert has appealed to Governor Fielder to enlighten him regarding the authority of the county clerk to call the special election for the referendum on the small freeholders' law. The petition has been field, but the Hennessey law, it is said, does not give any one in particular the power to issue the call for the election. The attorney general has stated that he cannot decide the matter and the county attorney has informed Clerk Calvert that the county clerk has not been given authority to issue the call.

The law specifically says that it must be called, and so the request has been sent directly to the Governor.

Former Prosecutor William R. Wilson, who was in communication with the attorney general yesterday, was informed that probably the petition might be so amended as to include the date for the election and other details such as would be included in a call. This, however, is merely an opinion and not official.

JERSEY CENTRAL TO BLOCK PENNSY PLANS

Contemplated Improvements An Infringement on Property Rights Says Osgood.

Elizabeth, July 26.—The residents of this city, particularly the manufacturers and merchants, are much surprised that the projected improvements of the Pennsylvania Railroad may be held up. The Pennsylvania road contemplates the erection of a new depot, the straightening of its tracks through the city, and co-operation with the city so that one or two of the main thoroughfares would be improved so as to facilitate traffic.

The Jersey Central Railroad has notified the city that the Pennsylvania cannot put its plans into effect without infringing upon the property rights of the Jersey Central to a considerable degree, and this will not be tolerated. Chief Engineer Joseph O. Osgood, of the Jersey Central viewed the model of the improvements which the Pennsy proposal showed, and that it was an impracticle plan which he did not believe the road would ever carry out.

A note of war has been sounded by the announcement that the Jersey Central will do everything in its power to prevent the plans of its rival from being carried into execution. Mr. Osgood has informed the committee of railroads and street railways of the Common Council that even if they give their permission to the Pennsy to make the improvements it would do no good, as the Jersey Central has it within its power to prevent the carrying out of the plans.

The Jersey Central is evidently in favor of joint action between the two railroads, which intersect in this city, and will fight the matter along these lines. According to Mr. Osgood, the rival road has not notified the Jersey Central of its plans or made any suggestions.

From all appearances, unless the two railroads can agree upon a joint scheme of improvement, the present conditions will not be changed for some time to come. The tracks of the Pennsylvania road pass over those of the Jersey Central at Broad street and the depots are within a few feet of each other.

ANOTHER VICTORY FOR TRADE BOARD

Local Civic Body's Investigation and Agitation Produces Immediate Results.

COMMISSION AT WORK

Unsanitary Conditions Along Green Brook Are Being Remedied—Board of Trade Officials Surprised at Quick Results of Their Work.

Prompted by the action of the Board of Trade, which threatened to take the conditions to the State Board unless radical changes were brought about without any further delay, the Union County Mosquito Commission, through its inspectors, started work in Green brook this morning to remedy the unsanitary conditions. When William Jeffery, president of the Board, went to the brook this morning with a sterilized bottle to collect samples of the water in the mill race he was surprised to find that the commission workers had arrived on the scene before him and had already started a general cleanup.

The fact that Tier's pond and its tributaries, in its present condition is a menace to public health and because of a number of complaints submitted by residents of the city and borough asking that some action be taken to protect their property, the Board of Trade conducted a personal tour of the territory affected and the results of their investigation were placed before the public in an open letter yesterday. Evidently stirred to action by the Board's findings the Mosquito Commission was on the job bright and early this morning spreading oil over the slimy waters and clearing away refuse that is nothing but a breeder of filth and disease.

Mr. Jeffery and his associates have made arrangements to push the agitation until the conditions are satisfactorily remedied and in the event that the commission does not make a thorough "cleaning out" the matter will be presented to the State Board of Health. Yesterday's letter was addressed to the Plainfield Board of Health but the commission was the only organization that had taken any action in the matter up to this morning. Whether or not the Health Board will co-operate with the county body remains to be seen.

The water in the mill race and in the main pond itself is poluted with disease germs and mosquito lava that thrive under just such circumstances. During the summer months the water in the brook bed is at a low ebb and all of the refuse which is constantly being deposited the year around in the bed of the stream comes to the top and forms a thick scum which sends out an offensive odor.

A committee from the Board of Trade will watch the progress of the work and keep pushing the agitation until the conditions in that vicinity are raised to a sanitary scale.

SWACKHAMER AND BIRD WON ON THE CONTRACT

An interesting case has just been decided by Judge Vail in the Union County Circuit Court. The decision hinged upon the terms of a contract which was the foundation of an action between Gustav Kilthau and Roy Carlson. Kilthau, a non-resident architect, prepared drawings and specifications for an expensive building which the defendant desired to erect. He depended, however, upon getting a building loan and insisted upon putting in the contract a provision that he should pay a minimum fee of $50 on account, the balance of one-half on the total fee at the date the owner received his first installment of a building loan. The plaintiff sued for $1,095.77, claiming that the general terms of the contract entitled him to that sum figured on $43,831, the estimated cost of the building.

Swackhamer & Bird, the attorneys for Carlson, insisted that the contract permitted the recovery of only $50 and the defendant had not received the building loan. After the argument of the case in the Circuit Court at Elizabeth briefs were filed and the Court has just given judgment of $50.

HAD SOCIAL TIME.

A social time was enjoyed last night at Evona chapel when the Ever Ready Society entertained a number of members and friends. Instrumental and vocal music, together with the playing of popular games, engaged the attention of those present. The committee in charge were Mrs. Louis Mattox, Mrs. Harry Pennoyer and Mrs. L. "WHAT SHALL WE DO WITH SUNDAY?"

OBEYED RULE RATHER THAN GET BURGLARS

Patrolman Craig "Rang up" First and Then Went to Hunt Alleged Intruders.

Adherence to a rule of the police department which requires patrolmen on duty to communicate with headquarters from call-boxes at specified times during their hours of service, prevented the possible capture of burglars who last night or early this morning entered the home of William Tise Schmittman, of 1043 West Front street. Patrolman Craig, who has been on the local force about eighteen months, saw lights burning in the parlor and dining room of the Schmittman residence shortly after 3 o'clock this morning. It was almost time for him to report from the call-box in Grant avenue. He listened and did not "hear" the burglars, which is likely; did not notice any windows or doors open; left the premises and made his "call." Becoming suspicious that thieves who wished to illuminate their way in search for valuables, were responsible for the lights in the West Front street house at such an unseemingly hour, Craig retraced his steps to the Schmittman home, where he found the lights still burning but a rear door wide open, where the burglars had made their exit.

Shortly after 5 o'clock Edward Haberman, 19 years old, and Joseph Packer, 25 years old, two men who say they have been sleeping nights in the Clinton avenue railroad station, with the alleged permission of Station Agent George Bayer, were arrested as suspects. They denied the charge of breaking and entering preferred against them and assert that during their wanderings last night, they were never east of Clinton avenue. The two prisoners were arrested by Roundsman Charles Flynn and Patrolman Kelly. After noting the lights the first time, Patrolman Craig saw both Haberman and Packer, and despite their hobo-appearance did not question them as to their actions or whereabouts during the night or why they were walking about so early in the morning.

According to Craig, when he visited the Schmittman house the second time and found the back door open he immediately summoned the head of the house by ringing the front door bell. Mr. Schmittman did not light the gas jets that composed the illumination seen by Craig through the drawn shades at the windows. And like Craig, Mr. Schmittman also failed to hear the footsteps or other activities of the intruders. After thoroughly searching the premises and finding few articles gone, Patrolman Craig returned to headquarters about 5.15 o'clock and reported to Captain Frederickson. He told of seeing Packer and Haberman and their arrests were ordered. Kelly caught Packer in West Front street and Haberman was arrested at the Rushmore Dynamo Works, where he had gone in search of work.

The two men apprehended were searched and third-degreed by Chief Kiely. They were staunch in their denial of any knowledge of the crime.

As far as can be ascertained the burglars stole little, if anything, although many valuables laid within their easy reach.

Mr. and Mrs. Schmittman made a careful inventory of their belongings and told the police that besides a screw-driver, everything in their home was left in their respective places although silver chests and bureau drawers were ransacked. This phase of the case is baffling to the police department, which is unable to account for the entrance into the house.

WOMAN SLAIN BY REJECTED SUITOR

Man, Who Tried to Save Her as She Was Shot Down, Wounded by Bullet.

POSSE PURSUE ITALIAN

Murdered Woman Refused to Listen to Proposals of Quinn Who Attacked Her in New Brunswick—Assailant Flees.

New Brunswick, N. J., July 26.—Following the murder of Mrs. Frank Kuberry, age nineteen, and the shooting of Patrick Rizals, who tried to save her, an armed posse started in pursuit of Louis Quinn, the man accused of the crime.

The refusal of the woman to listen to his proposals of marriages, she being married, although she had not been living with her husband, is said to have led to the tragedy.

Mrs. Kuberry left her husband several years. It is said she learned he had deserted from the navy. She and her three-year-old daughter, Gertrude, lived with Mrs. Kuberry's parents. Quinn, who in spite of his name is said to be an Italian, annoyed her so continuously with his proposals of marriage that recently he was discharged from the tire factory. He continued to loiter around near the street car stop, where he lost no opportunity to speak to Mrs. Kuberry.

When she alighted from the electric car Quinn spoke to her, and when ignored he is said to have shot her in the temple. Mrs. Kuberry fell and was carried into the factory, where she died.

Patrick Rizals, who was standing near Quinn, jumped forward and tried to strike the weapon aside, but was too late. When Quinn ran Rizals pursued. Seeing Rizals following him Quinn turned and shot his pursuer in the shoulder.

Policeman Joseph Rupprecht, armed with a shotgun, was joined by a posse of men who had guns. Quinn fled to the woods.

EDUCATION BOARD'S POSITION WRONG?

Netherwood Ass'n Gets Higher Authority on What is Proper School Census.

Higher authorities disagree with the opinion of the Plainfield Board of Education was to what constitutes a school census. When the Netherwood Residents Association, through its committee, appeared before the local board armed with statistics as to the number of children of school age in that district where the association is agitating the erection of a primary and kindergarten school, their figures were questioned. The Board, it seems, claimed that the statistics submitted were grossly exaggerated holding that the school census is made up of children in the given district actually attending the public schools and not made up of all children of school age regardless of the fact whether they attend public or private school.

Stanley E. Gunnison, the chairman of the Netherwood Residents Association's Educational Committee, when seen today, said that he had been given advice showing that the contention of the Board of Education was contrary to the school law and the accepted custom. He had written to Union County Superintendent Savitz, Superintendent Poland, of the Newark schools, and to the New Jersey State Board of Education. The question he asked was thus framed.

"In taking a school census in a given community, is it customary to count all children of school age, whether they be private, parochial, public school or non-attendants—or simply the public school children."

In each instance, Mr. Gunnison produced replies showing that it is customary to count all children of school age and not simply those who actually attend the public school.

WILSON FOR FIELDER, WITTPENN HAS QUIT

Acting-Governor Now Has Clear Track in Gubernatorial Nomination Race.

Jersey City, N. J., July 26.—Former Mayor H. Otto Wittpenn of Jersey City, who became a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in New Jersey nearly a year ago, announced that he has retired from the race. His action will, politicians declare, make absolutely certain the nomination of Acting Governor James F. Fielder.

President Wilson's indorsement of Fielder angered the followers of the ex-mayor, who insist that the president side tracked Wittpenn because he believed Fielder would be more acceptable to many of the anti-Wilson Democrats.

Although Fielder has always described himself as a follower of President Wilson and filed his petition for the nomination as a "progressive Democrat," it has long been believed that his candidacy would not be seriously opposed by former United States Senator James Smith, the avowed political enemy of President Wilson.

It was common talk that ex-Mayor Frank Katzenbach of Trenton, favored by the Smith forces, may now withdraw from the race, leaving a clear course to Fielder, who will have the full support of the Wittpennites notwithstanding their disappointment over the president's interference.

Although Wittpenn has bowed to the inevitable he does not propose to give up in Hudson county what he calls his "fight," for progressive followers will place in the field for the September primaries a complete ticket for county and state offices.

The primary fight promises to be hot, as it is not believed that there will be any hesitancy on the part of the Fielder men to accept the challenge of Wittpenn, who if he loses will be wiped out politically.

SCHOOL BUILDING DECLARED UNSAFE

DANCES DISCONTINUED

Recreation Committee Closed the Building Last Night — Repairs Now Under Way—Conditions not Due to Defective Workmanship.

When the members of the Dunbar Social Club gathered at the Washington School last night for their weekly dance and reception the colored folk were notified that the auditorium of the school had been found to be unsafe for dancing earlier in the afternoon and the recreation committee had decided to cancel the social function. During the day nearly 120 tons of coal had been placed in the cellar of the recently erected school building and in storing the winter's fuel the coal handlers had piled it against one of the partitions underneath the auditorium which has been used all winter for dancing and social events on an average of three nights a week being devoted to this form of entertainment in the school rooms.

Whether the partition against which the coal was stored had become weakened through the strain brought about by the many dancers and recreation seekers or whether the heavy coal caused the wall partition to weaken and fall over is not known but the absence of this brace in the cellar makes the floor unsafe for dancing on. The fine fuel was put in the cellar in a way so that it brought a tremendous weight to bear against the dividing wall and floor support and when enough of the coal was piled up it gave way under the strain.

Chief Doane's attention was called to the condition existing at the Washington School this morning and after investigating the building he temporarily condemned the structure and no dances will be allowed in the school until the defect is remedied and endorsed by him. The action of last night was taken by the recreation committee as a safeguard against accident and the matter was not called to the attention of the building inspector until this morning and when he went to the school a gang of carpenters were already engaged in erecting new supports in the cellar.

The Washington School is one of the education institutions recently built and it has been in use but two years. In speaking of the incident this morning Chief Doane said that the cause of the condemnation was not due to defective workmanship but to the heavy and extraordinary strain brought to bear on it by the installation of the fuel.

President Woodrow Wilson's Double-Barreled Endorsement of Governor James F. Fielder

THERE are those who have questioned the political propriety of President Wilson taking an active part in the New Jersey gubernatorial campaign prior to the primaries, and, while it is pretty well understood that efforts have been made to induce the president to come out with some kind of an indorsement for Wittpenn, it is almost as well known that the Fielder managers have made no effort to obtain any further indorsement from the White House than those already given before Woodrow Wilson went to Washington.

THE FIELDER CAMPAIGN MANAGERS POINT WITH PRIDE TO THE FACT THAT PRESIDENT WILSON, IN WRITING HIS LAST ANNUAL MESSAGE AS GOVERNOR OF NEW JERSEY, VOLUNTARILY—AND OF HIS OWN VOLITION—WROTE THE FOLLOWING:

"May I not in closing express the satisfaction I feel in the knowledge that when I lay down the duties of governor, I shall leave them in the hands of Senator Fielder, a man of proved character, capacity, fidelity and devotion to the public service; a man of a type to which the people of the state desire their public men to conform?"

It is a well known fact that this was written at a time when the then Senator Fielder was being urged to become a candidate for governor. That paragraph was capitalized by Fielder boomers, who dedicated it as a Wilson indorsement in case he should decide to enter the canvass.

But it remained for Wilson to cap the climax about seven weeks later when, knowing that his former statement had been so widely published as a Fielder boost and as if TO INDORSE HIS OWN INDORSEMENT, he went even stronger on the occasion of the Fielder inaugural, March 1, when in handing over the seal of the state to him as his successor he said:

"I have the greatest feeling of confidence in the man to whom I am about to hand this seal. I have been associated with him in an unusual intimacy. I have found in him qualities of honesty and courage which commend men more than other qualities, particularly in public life. The rarest thing in public life is courage, and the man that has courage is marked for distinction. The man who has not is marked for extinction and deserves his submergence, for the people of this country are going to be served by conscience, not by expedience. When you strike a man of conscience you have struck the bedrock of our institutions.

"It is therefore with confidence in his character and affection for him personally that I hand to Governor Fielder the seal of office."

PRESIDENT WILSON KNOWS THAT BOTH OF HIS UTTERANCES HAVE BEEN WIDELY CIRCULATED AS A FIELDER ASSET, YET HE HAS DONE NOTHING TO CONTRADICT THE BELIEF THAT HE IS FOR FIELDER AND HAS DONE MUCH TO CONFIRM THAT BELIEF.

FACTS AND COMMENT ON NEW YORK NEWS

New York, July 26.—Oscar S. Straus, the Progressive candidate for governor in the election last fall and whose views on politics and public questions are always worthy of attention, expresses the opinion that the Fusion movement in New York city will be successful this year and that Tammany is in for a good licking.

The New York police caution householders not to leave all their blinds down when away for the summer, as it serves as an invitation to burglars to enter the place. A man living in an apartment on the upper West Side, however, has adopted the novel expedient of pulling his blinds down and putting a "To Let" sign in the front window, thus giving the gentry with the "jimmy" the impression that the apartment is untenanted and not worth entering.

Many lines of goods, ranging from diamonds to chinaware, are being imported in large quantities by the New York dealers in anticipation of the coming into effect of the new tariff which will increase the rates of duty on many commodities. On the other hand, the bonded warehouses of this city are crammed with nearly $100,000,000 of merchandise which will be favored by lower rates under the new tariff law. Of sugar alone there is said to be 200,000 tons, valued at more than $12,000,000, stored in Brooklyn warehouses under bond, to be released as soon as the new tariff law comes into effect. All of the great warehouses of New York and vicinity are filled practically to their capacity with merchandise on which the present tariff is expected to be reduced or entirely removed.

Building operations are about to begin for the $250,000 home which the Young Women's Hebrew Association is to construct just off Fifth avenue, at the upper end of Central Park. The building will be eight stories high. Among the features will be included a swimming pool, gymnasium and auditorium, dining room, roof garden, sleeping rooms, and class-rooms for the teaching of dressmaking, millinery, cooking and typewriting. The institution is to be conducted largely along the lines of the Young Women's Christian Association.

To encourage the invention of devices to promote safety and health in industrial life, the American Museum of Safety announces that a number of valuable prizes will be awarded at the first international exposition of such devices, which will be held in this city in December. Artur Williams, president of the Museum, has gone abroad to solicit exhibits from twenty-one museums of safety in Europe, and he expects most of them to be represented at the exposition here, showing more thoroughly than has ever been shown before the entire field of progress in accident prevention and health promotion in industry.

One by one the old church edifices of New York are disappearing. Scarcely a handful of those that once sent their spires skyward at the lower end of Manhattan now remain. Even some of those farther uptown are giving way to what is called progress, as is evidenced by the announcement that Old South Church, in the Murray Hill section, has been sold to speculators and will soon be torn down and replaced with fashionable apartment houses. The church is one of the first Dutch Reformed houses erected in this city. At the time it was built the site probably could have been bought for $10,000. It is understood that those who have purchased it now had to pay close to $1,000,000 for it.

On a recent day in Wall street the amount of trading descended to the lowest level recorded there in seventeen years. Many of the members shook their heads and predicted that it was all up with their profession. But things have looked brighter with them since, as has always been the case in the past. It was so in 1893 and in 1896, and in other years of financial stress. Speculation appeared to be nearly dead, and the public showed absolute indifference toward attractive investment prices of securities. But the Stock Exchange never fails to "come back." Speculation always revives, and the public returns to the market. In 1896 the greatest expansion of business the country had ever seen followed close on the heels of the period of greatest depression in the stock market.

To help the back to the country movement, which has been rampant for several years and which is growing steadily every day, a permanent country life exposition is to be inaugurated shortly in the Grand Central Station in this city. All the space over the great waiting room, said to be one of the largest in the country, has been leased for the purpose for the next ten years. The centre of the hall will be occupied with a general exhibition and lounging room and around the sides will be grouped sixty booths which will be given over to exhibitors. The walls will be covered with paintings and prints illustrating suburban and country life in its most attractive phases. Every type of country house will be illustrated with pictures and architectural drawings. In the booths will be found everything needed for the country home. The value and use of various building materials will be disclosed, so that anybody contemplating building can secure expert knowledge on points that might save money and much annoyance later.

The record business that the roof gardens in New York have been doing this summer recalls to mind the fact that this form of entertainment was unknown to the metropolis a quarter of a century ago. The first roof garden was laid out atop of the old Casino Theatre and was a product of the fruitful mind of Rudolph Aronson. Other theatre managers to whom Mr. Aronson disclosed his plans laughed at the idea of a theatre on the roof. But they reasoned wrongly, for the success that attended the show given by stars under the stars soon caused other theatrical men to look to the roofs of their theatres, and it was not long after that that the Casino roof garden had rivals. Half a dozen big roof gardens are doing rushing business every summer night in the metropolis. In addition to the regular shows the majority of them provide dancing and cabaret entertainment. Some of them are highly attractive places and the performances are of the best. The greatest magnet for out-of-town visitors is the Madison Square roof garden, doubtless due in large measure to the visitor's desire to see the place where the Thaw tragedy was enacted.

Happenings Due Next Week

Washington, D. C., July 26.—The situation with regard to the attitude of the United States towards Mexico is expected to be brought to a focus early in the week, when Minister Wilson will arrive in Washington to confer with President Wilson and Secretary Bryan. Minister Wilson will be quizzed as to the real strength of the Huerta Government, the extent and character of the revolutionary movement and the real facts concerning the outrages in which Americans and their property are alleged to have fallen victims. Either intervention or some form of recognition of the Huerta Government is expected to follow this conference.

Democrats, Republicans, Progressives and the two minor parties are to engage in a primary Monday to select candidates for congressman from the Third Maine district, to succeed the late Congressman Forrest Goodwin. The political situation in the district is full of interesting possibilities. The late Congressman Goodwin, Republican, was elected last September over Gould, Democrat, the sitting member, by a plurality of only 709. At that time the Progressive party had no candidate in the field. In the coming election the Progressives will have a candidate of their own, and the result is expected to show to some extent the relative strength of the three parties.

Other events that will figure more or less prominently in the news of the week will include the Perry centennial celebration at Toledo, the international peace celebration at Fort Erie, Ont., the charter election in Cincinnati, the convention of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges in Winnipeg, and the constitutional amendment demonstration scheduled to take place in Washington on Thursday, and which will be participated in by delegations of suffragists from all parts of the country.

On the calendar of sporting and athletic events appear the Grand Circuit races at Grand Rapids, the annual horse show at Long Branch, N. J., the sailing yacht and motor boat races at Toledo and Put-in-Bay, a big athletic meet in connection with the laying of the corner-stone for the new home of the Minneapolis Athletic Club, the "Canadian Henley" rowing regatta at St. Catharines, Ont., and the championship races of the Canadian Canoe Association at St. Johns, Que.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

New York, July 26.—Managerial plans for the new season, as announced from the various offices, indicate much general theatrical activity this year. As in other seasons, it must be expected that a number of the plays that the managers say they have for production will not be presented this year except in emergencies, such as successive failures of plays upon which the greater hopes had been placed.

Charles Frohman's announcements indicate a good "Barrie" season. Maude Adams will devote the season to the J. M. Barrie cycle of comedies. Following "Peter Pan," she will appear in a new Barrie play, "The Legend of Neonora," and later in the season she has another Barrie program, "The Ladies' Shakespeare, Being One Woman's Version of Notorious Work, Edited by J. M. Barrie."

For Blanche Bates Mr. Frohman has prepared a program which will consist of a new Barrie play called "Half Hour," in conjunction with which Miss Bates will appear in Stanley Houghton's play, "The Younger Generation."

Mr. Frohman also has two other Barrie plays, which he expects to produce this season, one called "The Will," and the other called "The Little Policeman."

John Drew will be seen in "Much Ado About Nothing." William Gillette will play a season of twenty weeks in repertoire. Billie Burke has a new comedy, "The Land of Promise," by W. Somerset Maugham. John Mason will be seen in "Indian Summer," a new play by Augustus Thomas. Otis Skinner will remain for the present in "Kismet," and Mme. Nazimova will continue for some time in "Bella Donna." Ethel Barrymore will be seen early in the season in a play from the novel "Tante."

Among the plays Mr. Frohman has in reserve are "The Mob," by John Galsworthy; Henry V. Esmond's play "Eliza Comes to Stay;" a new four-act play by George Barr, a new play by Henry Bernstein, and three new comedies by Edward Sheldon, Thompson Buchanan and Stanley Houghton.

The Frohman musical productions will include "The Doll Girl," with Richard Carle and Hatti Williams; "The Marriage Market," with Donald Brian; the Viennese success, "The Little King;" "The Girl on the Film," from the Gaiety Theatre, London, and a new musical review by Caillavet and de Fleurs.

Among the Shubert productions will be the New Drury Lane melodrama, "Dreadnaught;" another English melodrama entitled "Cheer, Boys, Cheer;" "The Surprises of Hell," by C. B. Fernald, and "Simon Street, No. 19," by a prominent English author. The Shuberts will conduct the farewell American tour of Forbes-Robertson and Gertrude Elliott. For the other Shubert stars the definite plans have not been announced.

Cohan and Harris include in their plays the productions of "Seven Keys to Baldpate," "Potash and Perlmutter," "Newly Married," by Edgar Selwyn, Raymond Hitchcock in a new musical play, Porter Emerson Browne's comedy, "520 Per Cent," Irvin Cobb's "Back Home," "Home Ties," a woman's suffrage play by George Middleton; Douglas Fairbanks in "Cooper Hoyt, Inc.," "The Brain Promoter," by Edward Laska; "The House of Glass" and "Money Mania"

The productions planned by John Cort for this year are "The Elixir of Youth," a comedy by Zellah Covington and Jules Simonson; "The Manec," a comedy by Anne Crawford Flexner, and a revival of "The Ham Tree," with McIntyre and Heath. Mr. Cort will also have two other vaudeville road companies, in which Lillian Russell, Anna Held, William Farnum and others will appear.

The Lieblers have announced only two new ventures for the early part of the season, the American tour of England's most notable light comedian, Cyril Maude, and the production of George Birmingham's Irish farce, "General John Regan."

Winthrop Ames will open his new Gotham Theatre with Arnold Bennett's play of "The Great Adventure," about the same time the Little Theatre will open with "Prunella," by Granville Barker and Laurence Housman. Mr. Ames has in preparation "Her Own Money," an American comedy by Mark Swan, and "The Clash," an exciting drama by a new author, Cyril Wentworth Hogg.

The American Play Company will produce a baseball play by Christie Mathewson and Rida Johnson, called "Fair Play." Another production of the same firm will be "Under Cover," a drama based upon smuggling operations at the port of New York.

The features of H. H. Frazee's program for the season will be Edward Locke's comedy, "The Silver Wedding," starring Thomas Wise, and "The Coquette," a musical piece by Victor Herbert and Harry B. Smith.

NOTES FROM LABOR FIELD

The annual convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada will be held in Montreal in September.

Petitions for a universal eight-hour statute have been filed in every county of California under the initiative law.

The International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes has voted to hold its convention next year in Chicago.

W. J. Maxwell, for fifteen years grand secretary and treasurer of the Order of Railway Conductors, died recently at his home in Cedar Rapids.

The United States senate has passed the La Follete measure providing for an eight-hour work day for women employed in the District of Columbia.

The new agreement obtained by the street railway employes of Salt Lake City is for a period of four years and grants an increase of two cents an hour.

The headquarters of the United Mine Workers, District 21, has been transferred from Oklahoma to Fort Worth, Texas, because the Oklahoma Legislature repealed the "mine run" law.

Porto Rico labor unions demand a law for compensation for injuries and hurts received by workmen in the course of their work, a law to be plain and precise in its provisions.

Within the first fortnight of the British State unemployment insurance law for building workmen, shipbuilders, wheelwrights, etc., coming into force, 5,000 eligibles out of work applied for relief.

The decision of the new Australian Government to abolish the preference hitherto given to union workmen on the Commonwealth public works has aroused a storm of protest from the union officials.

The typographical union has succeeded in obtaining substantial wage increases ranging from $2 to $5.40 per week for composing room workers.

The 90,000 members of the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterer's International Union of America will soon cast another general vote on the question whether the union shall apply for a membership charter to the American Federation of Labor.

The subordinate lodges of machinists in all parts of the country are taking a referendum vote for officers of the international association. The principal contest is for president, the candidates being William H. Johnston, incumbent, and Thomas L. Wilson, one of the vice presidents.

A strike of nearly a year's duration in the coal mines at Taylor, Wash., has been ended satisfactorily. The new agreement gives members of the United Mine Workers of America complete recognition and the same prices for labor and conditions of employment as prevail among the miners in other unionized coal camps in Washington.

Representative Kelly, of Pennsylvania, is the author of a bill introduced in the house of representatives to provide $1 to $4 a week for all those more than 60 years old, whose incomes are under $10 a week. His plan would pension those with incomes of less than $6 a week at $4 a week, incomes of from $6 to $7 at $3, between $7 and $8, $2 a week and from $8 to $9, $1 a week.

SIX INNINGS ENOUGH FOR PARKERS TO LOSE

Athletics Come Out Easy Victors in a Clash in Senior League Race.

Six innings were enough to assert the superiority of the Athletics over their Parker A. C. rivals in the Parker Field Senior Baseball League contest played yesterday afternoon, and after doing some heavy scoring in four of their five trips to the rubber the Athletics piled up a total of nine markers and held the Parker nine to a row of ciphers.

Rosenson's batting featured the contest. By mutual consent of the captains the game was curtailed at the completion of six rounds in order to allow the second game to be played, it being certain that the strong Athletics had proven themselves the master of the situation.

ASK FOR A PARDON FOR GEORGE MARION

Clemency Sought for Actor Who is Said to Be Dying of Tuberculosis.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 26.—Actors and other members of the theatrical profession throughout America are to be asked to sign a petition for the pardon of George Marion, an old-time actor, who is serving a life term in the Eastern Penitentiary here for the murder of his wife four years ago in Wilkesbarre. Clemency is to be asked on the ground that Marion is dying of tuberculosis. Daniel Hart, city treasurer of Wilkesbarre and an old friend of Marion, is circulating the petitions that will last be presented to the board of pardons.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 26.—The murder committed by George Marion, for whom a pardon is being sought by members of the theatrical profession, occurred in this city Aug. 20, 1990. In early life Marion had been an actor and in later years was employed as a theatrical advance agent. He had lived in Wilkesbarre, but at the time of the tragedy his home was in Atlanta, Ga.

Marion and his victim, his common law wife, who was formerly Miss Frances Lee, of Zion City, Ill., had, it was alleged, been living together as husband and wife for seven years. Several weeks before the tragedy, it is claimed, the woman ran away with another man, taking her child with her. Marion traced them to this city, and through the chief of police he arranged to meet his wife at police headquarters.

When they met at police headquarters, he kissed her and both appeared happy. Turning to the chief of police, Marion asked the latter to step from the office a few moments while he spoke to his wife in private. The chief, thinking he was accomplishing a kind act, by bringing husband and wife together, readily consented. As soon as he left the room Marion asked his wife if she would return to Atlanta with him. She refused, whereupon he pulled a revolver and shot her dead.

Marion was indicted and tried on a charge of first degree murder. His attorneys made a hard fight for him on a plea of temporary insanity. He was convicted, however, and sentenced to death. Later the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

TOLEDO COMMEMORATES MEMORY OF OLIVER PERRY

Toledo, O., July 26.—The name of Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry, whom Toledo adopted years ago as a sort of a patron saint and in memory of whom she has named buildings, streets and suburbs, will be further honored the coming week by a great celebration of the centennial of the battle of Put-in-Bay. Those in charge of the arrangements believe the festivities here will eclipse all of the similar celebrations to be held in the Great Lakes cities this summer. One of the principal attractions, of course, will be the reclaimed and rehabilitated Niagara, the century-old flagship on which Commodore Perry rode to victory in the war of 1812. Parades and historical exercises will beature the program. The latter part of the week the scene of exercises will be transferred to old Fort Meigs, which figured conspicuously in the last war between the United States and Great Britain. Governors McCreary, of Kentucky; Cox, of Ohio, and Pothier, of Rhode Island, have accepted invitations to take part in the celebration.

WHAT SHALL WE DO WITH SUNDAY?

This is a question which is not only asked by the clergymen, but also by everyone, either audibly or inaudibly, and as the answer to it materially affects the well being of humanity it seems worth while to endeavor to find one—even though the one so found may prove unacceptable to many. In attempting to find an answer let me begin by drawing your attention to Christ's words on the subject as found in St. Mark's gospel, and let us use them as a sort of broad basis from which to proceed. These words are, "The Sabbath was made for man." Now historically these words find a two-fold application, for both in Jewish and Christian usage generally speaking the Sabbath or as it afterwards became Sunday or the Lord's Day, stood for two things, viz.: First the worship of God, second the rereation of man. Let me use the word recreation instead of rest for reasons to be shown later. This Sunday or the Sabbath was a day set apart by God for the good of man morally, mentally and physically. Are we using it today in such wise that these benefits are being derived by us? If not surely we are cheating ourselves of something which belongs to us and which God especially meant us to have.

Looking then at the question from its two sides, its Godward and manward aspect, it seems to me that Sunday as at present observed is not yielding us what it should. The Godward side is neglected by countless numbers of people who by such neglect are losing from their lives the moral uplift so important to them individually and to the nation collectively, for it must be admitted that after all morality rests back finally upon religion and the ingenuity of man cannot find a substitute for it.

The manward side is abused, for what often passes for recreation or rest is nothing more or less than excess of one kind or another which tends to tear down rather than build up, degrade and weaken rather than recreate. So that many people return to their respective fields of labor on Monday with less energy to do their work than when they actually left it.

What, then, is the remedy, taking Christ's words "The Sabbath was made for man," as our basis? Naturally as a clergyman I feel very strongly the need of emphasizing the first aspect of the question, namely, the obligation of religious worship, based on the proposition that such worship is due the Creator from His creature. Nor is this a mere arbitrary notion for this worship, this communion with God is, as I have indicated, the means whereby the human race receives that moral impetus which is so important to it and which is indeed at the basis of any rational existence. To put it simply man absolutely needs it, and is the gainer from it. His individual life, his family life, his community life, his national lfe must have it, if it is to ultimately prosper. Thus we see that even the Godward side of Sunday is after all its manword side also. Moreover, no person really deserves a Sunday free fro mtoil who neglects this obvious duty and privilege for which the day was primarily intended, and the surest way to run the risk of losing our Sundays is to secularize them. Our Sundays, therefore, are going to be more helpful to us just in proportion as we realize this obligation, be it for half an hour, one hour, or more. All I am contending for is the acknowledgement of the obligation.

Then as to the second or purely manward aspect. The old notion of this was that Sunday was simply a day of rest which seemed to imply mere inactivity; there seemed to be a sort of sacredness about doing nothing. We have naturally rebelled against this because it did not always suit our conditions, and gone to the opposite extreme. In less complex ages than ours when out door bodily labor was the normal labor, absolute rest or inactivity was probably the best thing to seek on Sunday, but in these days of offices, factories and close confinement of every kind this idea must necessarily change. For this reason we have to make Sunday rest mean Sunday re-creation—a making over of all the facilities on Sunday in order that we may the better discharge the duties of the week. The first or Godward aspect of which I spoke enters into this for it recreates us spiritually and morally, but how are we to recreate the mental and physical nature? That is, after all, the question which is hardest to answer and upon which nobody seems to agree. I can only venture my own opinion and leave it for what it is worth.

First, let every one have the opportunity of enjoying whatever outdoor recreation they desire, baseball, tennis, golf, automobiling, fishing, etc., provided such recreation does not infringe upon the rights of others, nor go to extremes.

Second, let the community provide other forms of recreation such as band concerts in open spaces provided with various other attractions suitable to a whole family which shall be decent and uplifting and properly supervised.

Third, in large cities let the museums, libraries, parks, menageries and a certain number of entertainment places be open, the latter subject to close supervision in order to prevent anything unseemly. Let there be an air of naturalness about the day, an air of freedom, instead of an atmosphere of restraint and often coercion, for we are always at our best under conditions which harmonize with our nature. I do not say that this is the ideal Sunday, nor personally what I would desire if I had the choice, but I believe it to be the best obtainable under the existing circumstances. If, however, some such plan as indicated were adopted as the normal Sunday, modified or amplified to suit local conditions, and sanctioned by law and not as now continually under suspicion and hampered by the law, we would find that a great deal of the Sunday excess from which we now suffer would disappear. Why? Because we would be providing normally for the wants and inclinations of our people who are now in many cases ruining their lives by excesses of all kinds, and simply because no proper outlet for their energies is provided.

If we don't want the Sunday dance hall with its often attendant immorality let us have something better. If we don't want Sunday drunkenness let us provide something which will draw people in another direction.

This is the principle I am urging and when it is fully realized and acted upon in conjunction with the religious obligation first mentioned our Sundays will be truly days of recreation and we shall all be the better for having them.

BUSY WEEK AHEAD FOR OCEAN GROVE

Many Fine Events on Program for the Next Few Days at Popular Resort.

Ocean Grove, July 26.—The campmeeting city is preparing for one of the biggest weeks of the season. Featuring the list of events will be the annual children's festival in which 1,000 boy and girl artists will take part. The festival is in charge of Tali Esen Morgan, musical director. The anniversary of the battlefield of Gettysburg taking in the years from 1863 to the present time will be depicted. The elaborate decorating of the auditorium forms one of the features of the event.

On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday the anniversary of the Women's Home Missionary Society will be celebrated. The Rev. Aaron A. Ballard will address the meeting. Mrs. J. H. Robertson, of Paterson, will be among the speakers.

Mme. Emma Loefer, former Metropolitan Opera House singer, who has been in Europe, will make her first appearance in concert work since she returned at this place.

On Monday night the Rev. Dr. W. H. Morgan, of Newark, will talk in the Temple. Dr. Morgan will take charge of the Temple meetings hereafter until the close of the season. He has conducted the meetings for a number of years.

The Ocean Grove Memorial service, which is an annual affair, will take place Thursday afternoon at the auditorium and at Tompkin's Park where impressive ceremonies will be held. Trees will be planted in the park in commemoration of those of the association who have died during the last year.

The Sunday sermons will be preached by Bishop Spreng, of the Evangelical Society of the United States. Bishop Spreng is an interesting speaker and is well known here, having been heard in the auditorium on a previous occasion.

GREAT RIDERS COMING WITH CIRCUS ON AUGUST 4

The Big Sautelle Shows, combined with menagarie and hippodrome, which will give an exhibition at the Grant avenue show grounds in Plainfield on August 4, has four distinctive and important departments—circus, menagerie, hippodrome and wild west. Descriptions of these will be given in their places. Chiefest of these, perhaps, is the circus. Back to Nero's days the circus dates. That finnicky-strenuous monarch originated feats in "the ring," as well as "sports of the arena," which were first cousins to the former.

He it was that inducted bareback riding—tho' it is probable that they used "pads" in those days. He certainly was the father of chariot racing. These he enhanced in interest by utilizing Christians, as human torches, at times.

With the Sig. Sautelle 9-Big Shows are several of the most skilled, graceful and daring bareback riders of this or any age. Chiefest is Oscar Lowande. This intrepid artist is the very Centaur of riders. His astounding feats on bridleless horse are the acme of daring, and recklessness. Also the poetry of graceful motion.

His somersaulting from the back of one to the back of a horse in the rear, stands alone as the star horse feature of the century. The act is a rare combination of daring, skill and agility. Also, calculation. The missing of a single inch in such evolution would mean death, or maiming. One scarcely wonders why the announcer demands perfect quiet under canvas while this great feat is being performed.

TRENTON BANK BUYER OF THE TRUE AMERICAN

Trenton, July 26.—The Trenton True American, established in 1801, and the oldest Democratic daily paper in New Jersey, together with its equipment and real estate, was sold today for $41,200, which was $15,000 above its encumberances. The sale was conducted by the receiver, and the purchaser was the Broad Street National Bank, which held some of the concern's paper.

The job printing plant was sold separately to Rich & McLean, of New York, for $925.

The True American had a successful career until recently. It has been in the hands of a receiver on two occasions within several years. The publication will now be suspended and the property converted to other use, if the sale is confirmed by the Chancery Court, which is necessary to legalize the proceedings.

WIDOWS IN COUNTY APPLY FOR PENSIONS

Cases Being Investigated and Petitoners Will Be in Court Again on Friday.

Elizabeth, July 26.—Half a dozen applicants appeared in the Court of Common Pleas before Judge Connolly yesterday to receive funds under the Widows' Pension Act. Because Miss Day, of the State Board of Children's Guardians, has been busy and has not investigated their cases they were told to be in court again next Friday.

After the regulations provided in the act are complied with the court can grant $9 per month to a widow with one child under sixteen years; $15 for the second child and $4 for each additional child. The Board of Freeholders have appropriated $25,000 for the purpose.

Are You Utilizing 100% of Your Advertising Possibilities?

Advertisers may fail in accomplishing the full measure of their possible earnings and handicap their growth by contenting themelves with less than their full selling capacity; others, by means of intelligent advertising, approximate the possible 100 per cent. volume of sales with no increase of "over-head" expense.

But how about the merchant who is advertising, but who is not realizing 100 per cent. of his possibilities?

In advertising, as in merchandising, the point must be reached where expense of operation is overcome and profits begin.

Practically all business transacted over that mark yields a much larger percentage of profit—is nearly all v-e-l-v-e-t.

In advertising, as in retailing or manufacturing, it's the last certain per cent. of effort that counts.

Some very clever advertisers in Plainfield are spending large sums of money in advertising without securing 100 per cent. in results, and a few are hitting the "bull's eye." Waste is responsible for most advertising failures.

But what about the under-advertised business—the store that is on the right track, but limits its advertising to the development of 50, 60, or 80 per cent. of the sales of which it is capable.

This type of business most frequently is the specialty store that has sufficient capital and sufficient credit to do a much larger business, but is not willing to venture the needed ten, twenty-five or fifty per cent. added advertising effort to achieve the full results.

The store, for instance, that is doing a business of $40,000 or $50,000 annually, but with facilities for doing an additional $50,000 without added fixed expense, could well afford to spend $5,000 in advertising to get that $50,000 extra business. And the Daily Press would give it to him.

The Daily Press' circulation embraces the class and the best of the mass in Plainfield, and will yield rich returns to any advertiser who appeals to it intelligently.

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating thereof." The proof that the Daily Press readers respond to advertising is the year-in and year-out use of its space by discerning advertisers.

It is quite true that even an under-advertised business may pay a pleasing profit; but why not more profit, at no extra fixed expense, for the moderate outlay of a Daily Press advertising appropriation?

Think of the "pure v-e-l-v-e-t" business, entailing no extra investment except advertising, on which the net profits would possibly equal the net profits of the entire business now done on the under-advertised plan.

SUFFRAGISTS INVADE CAPITOL

"This year Congress is listening to the demand for woman suffrage as it has never listened before. Why? Because votes for women is now a question of practical politics. Because more than 4,000,000 women will vote for Presidential electors in the next election. By 1916 there will undoubtedly be more of them for four States, North and South Dakota, Montana and Nevada have decided to submit the question to the voters in 1914, and it will also be submitted in New Jersey if the suffrage bill passes the Legislature for the second time next spring. Therefore with women already voting on one-fifth of the Senate, one-seventh of the House and one-sixth of the Presidential electors, and with five suffrage victories in the past year, namely, Oregon, Kansas, Arizona, Alaska and Illinois, it behooves every congressman to consider the risk to his future prospects involved in opposing the suffrage amendment. With all due respect to these gentlemen, it will be far easier for them to see the merits of equal suffrage now that doing so may win votes and not lose them, than it was in the days when the matter was merely a question of abstract justice."

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

FRANCES MARSHALL

Economy For a Week.

Last winter a college professor made the suggestion that the students in one of the big universities live on a prison diet. By so doing he said they could get their food for a dollar and fifty-four cents a week a piece.

His plan was not adopted, but nevertheless it held a suggestion. If prisoners can live on food costing only a dollar and a half, and remain strong and healthy, why couldn't economical housewives learn a lesson from the prison bill of fare, and so cut down their food bill?

One thing, of course, noticeable in any prison bill of fare, is the monotonous repetition from day to day and from meal to meal. Another thing is the absence of vegetables, excepting potatoes. Other vegetables are occasionally served, but only occasionally. Desserts, too, are almost taboo in prison dietaries, although cooked fruit, occasionally pie are served for supper.

It would be an interesting experiment for any housewife to make an experiment of value, probably, in helping her learn the lesson of economy, to see at how small cost she could set a nourishing table for a week.

The bill of fare mentioned provided for bread and butter and tea or coffee for supper every night. One night a week this simple fare was supplemented by pie, once by sweet potatoes, and twice by cooked fruit.

This sort of supper—or luncheon—would not prove acceptable to most persons, but one meal a day, luncheon or supper, could be a simple and more or less monotonous meal. Crackers and milk, for instance, with fruit, berries, peaches or any fruit that is not acidious are a good dish to serve three or four times a week, or perhaps seven, for the third and smallest meal in the day.

One of the prison-fare dinners is this: Beef, sweet potatoes, tomatoes (cooked), bread, butter and coffee—a palatable meal, if it were well cooked. If it were supplemented by a simple dessert, such as sliced peaches or cottage pudding, it would be well worth eating.

The utilizing of fresh fruit and vegetables when they are in season, of inexpensive cuts of meat made good by careful cooking, of eggs when they are low-priced, and the buying of good supplies in bulk—good so that there need be no waste for spoilage, in bulk that you may get the advantage of wholesale rates—all these things help the economical housewife who plans an inexpensive diet for her family.

THE HAIR BEAUTIFUL.

An Original Way to Dry One's Tresses in the Good Old Summer Time.

Every girl who has washed her hair on a summer's day and then sat out in the hot sun to dry it will certainly appreciate the following device, which I made to shade my eyes and keep the heat off the back of my neck, said a woman recently. I took an old hat which had a wide brim and a large crown. Of course the large crown is not necessary, because if the crown of the hat is small more of the brim can be cut away. Cut out the crown entirely and leave only the brim.

After your hair has been washed and thoroughly rinsed, place the crownless hat on your head and bring all the hair through the crown hole and spread it out over the brim to dry. You will be surprised how much more quickly your hair will dry and how much more comfortable you will feel. The brim serves two purposes—a support or ledge for the wet hair and a sunshade for your face and the back of your neck.

The latest fashionable cry in hairdressing is to be seen in the illustration. The effect is simple and easily attained if the hair is at all luxuriant; but, then, there is always the hairdresser's supply to fall back upon if Mother Nature has been stingy in hirsute wealth.

Some Cookery Suggestions

STUFFED VEGETABLES.

LUNCHEON MENU.
Asparagus on Toast.
Cheese Sticks,
Stuffed Potatoes.
Lettuce Salad.
Currant Bread.
Tea.

For Delicate Appetites.

STUFFED POTATOES.—Bake large potatoes until tender, cut in halves lengthwise, take out the inside without breaking the shells and place it in a mixing bowl. Add to it a lump of butter and salt to taste. Sweet cream may also be added. Mash smooth and whip it until very light. Refill the potato shells, sprinkle over the tops a little Parmesan cheese and dust with cayenne pepper. Return to the oven to brown and serve hot.

Stewed and Stuffed.

Stuffed Cucumbers.—Peel two large cucumbers, cut a piece from the large end and scoop out the seeds. Fill with forcemeat, replace the piece at the end and secure with a small skewer. Put a pint of gravy in a stewpan, with two ounces of butter and a bunch of sweet herbs. Put in the cucumbers and set over a moderate fire and stew slowly for an hour. Then take them out and boil down the sauce for a few minutes. Pour in on the cucumbers and serve.

A Recipe From Holland.

Dutch Stuffed Tomatoes.—Cut as many fresh asparagus tips about half an inch in length as will be needed, season with salt, pepper and a dash of celery salt, place to heat in a deep dish. Prepare as many tomatoes as are required, first cutting off a slice from the stem end and scooping out most of the pulp. Stuff the shells of the tomatoes with asparagus tips and place on the fire to cook the tomatoes. If they are to be eaten hot serve with sauce Hollandaise; if cold, place in the ice box, and when ready serve with mayonnaise thinned with tarragon vinegar.

Making Onions Acceptable.

Stuffed Onions.—Take large onions of uniform size. Boil them until tender, drain, let them cool, remove the hearts and fill up with a forcemeat made by chopping together a cupful of minced ham or tongue, a little of the onion heart, salt and pepper to taste and enough cream or milk to which butter has been added to soften the mixture. When the hollows are full put a bit of butter on the top of each, place the onions in a baking dish, pour a little milk or stock about them and bake, covered, for twenty minutes. Uncover, sprinkle crumbs over the top, brown and serve very hot.

The Sailors Know the Wind's Voices.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—When the Wind Sings At Its Play.

"THE wind is a wonderful thing," said daddy to the two little figures in white that stood beside his chair.

"Why is it wonderful, daddy?" Jack asked.

"Because it blows, of course," spoke up Evelyn as a little breeze tossed a wave of loose hair over her forehead.

"Because it blows? Yes," daddy answered, "but also because of its wonderful voice, or, perhaps I should say, because of its wonderful voices.

"You can hear it now out there among the trees. When you have gone to bed tonight, if you listen to it, it will sing you a dear, sweet, sleepy song."

"Why, that is only the sound of the leaves rustling!" Evelyn exclaimed.

"And what makes the leaves rustle?" daddy went on. "Why, the wind. Tonight the forest is like the big piano that Evelyn is learning to play upon, and the leaves are like the keys of the piano. The wind plays on the leaves to make its music.

"First, the wind touches one leaf and strikes it against the next leaf and causes the soft sighing sound that we call the rustling of the leaves. As the wind blows gently or hard the sound is soft or loud.

"All leaves do not sound the same. Where the trees have large, thick leaves set closely together, like the leaves on the oak trees, the sound is loud and deep. When it plays upon the fine leaves of the cedar trees the sound is different.

"If we listen we can tell by the rustling of the leaves whether the wind is blowing fast or slow.

"Sailors know the wind's voices well. In the old days, when ships were sailed by means of the winds, they studied them carefully. Even now, when ships depend on steam engines to take them over the ocean, it is useful for them to know about the winds. Steamers still call the winds by the old names given to them long ago.

"For instance, when the wind does not blow at all sailors speak of a 'calm.' When the wind blows two miles an hour they call it a very light breeze. Four miles an hour is a gentle breeze; twelve miles an hour a fresh wind; twenty-five miles an hour a strong wind; thirty-five miles an hour a high wind; forty-five miles an hour a gale; sixty miles an hour a strong gale; seventy-five miles an hour a violent gale; ninety miles an hour a hurricane, and a hundred miles an hour a violent hurricane.

"How can they tell how fast the wind is blowing? There is an instrument for measuring its speed, just as there is a thermometer for measuring the heat."

BRIEF FASHION NOTES

It is said the jumper idea is coming back in fashion.

Chantilly is easily the favorite lace for afternoon gowns.

Loops of colored ribbon or velvet are taking the place of the corsage bouquet.

The tendency in felt hats for fall is toward medium and small sizes in the mushroom and turn-up effects.

Some of the newest hats seen in New York shops have stiffly wired bunches of roses placed at one side.

Some designs emphasize the skirt of a somber hue and the fanciful coat of brilliantly colored material.

Some of the summer tea gowns are so simple they would serve for dressing gowns, especially if made of muslin delaine or cotton crepe.

The coolest looking girdles seen these hots days are those of net. They are tied around the figure in a careless manner, and add to the diaphanous effect.

The skirts of the newest evening gowns are not draped, but hang in straight, graceful lines from the draped bodices. A number of those seen have short panniers.

Much of the new lingerie shows net ruffles edged with colored lawn. Pal epink, blue, lavender or yellow is used, and it is applied to the net in the form of an inch-wide hem.

The up-to-date undergarments are made of sheerest materials, are close fitting and have flat trimmings. Fine nainsooks and batistes, sheer crepes, all-over embroideries and even organdies are being used.

The homely and faithful linen duster motor coat of a few years ago has been replaced by extravagantly pretty creations of silk and landsdowne, with eccentric cut and trimming of shirring over cords. These coats cover the frock to the knee in the motor car and are graceful and smart.

Hand painted gauze as a material for gowns has been brought to special perfection in Paris this summer. Some of the most beautiful and costly of these hand painted gowns show exquisite designs of pale roses arranged irregularly on skirt and corsage. The roses are veiled in the most fragile tulle, while the hand painted gauze is mounted over some special color which will give specially artistic effects.

One of the prettiest belts seen lately was in Chinese blue suede with a long cut-out design showing dull green suede underneath. Between the blue and green there flashed a tiny line of orange yellow. The buckle was of greenish bronze set with imitation lapis lazuli in large and small oblongs.

One of the exclusive methods of making a one-piece frock that is to have a sash is to drop a broad panel of the material, finished with a heavier fabric at the edges, from the shoulders to the knees. Across this goes the sash, not at the waistline, but below the hips, and the whole effect is quite slim and girlish.

Bead trimming, apparently, is not going out of fashion. A recently shown serge suit had a short, loose coat, the raw edge of which was banded with bright blue beads—the serge was navy—embroidered in a straggling design about two inches wide. The neck edge of the coat and sleeves, too, showed the same banding.

Featured materials in the felt hats for fall and winter wear will be velour, velvet, plush, felt and beaver, and the color trend points to seal brown, high shades of red, terra cotta, peacock blue and lavender. The favorite trimmings will be breast effects and ostrich fancies, in high shades. Ostrich pompons also will be features. Aigrettes are little shown in the New York shops, but a substitute is provided in the goura, an aigrette effect.

14118—Effective Stencils for Curtains and Portiers.

Stencil curtains are so decorative, so inexpensive and so easy to make that they have a deserved popularity. The stenciling may be a border across the bottom, or the pattern may be arranged down the sides and across the bottom while the lily motif may be arranged to form an allover pattern. For a bed-room the jonquil design would be charming stenciled in several shades of yellow and soft green on the curtains which might be of scrim cross-barred muslin, unbleached cotton or linen grass cloth. Cheese cloth is a very good material for use in the summer cottage or bungalow, where one wishes the least expensive fabric possible. When a stencil has once been cut it can be used innumerable times and this design would be very pretty repeated on the portiers, over-draperies, frieze, couch-cover, bed-spread, bureau-scarf and pillows.

The conventional lily motif is appropriate for decorating the curtains, portiers, runners and other hangings in the living room, library or entrance hall. For portiers and over-draperies you will find mercerized cotton repp, arras cloth, crafts canvas and denim satisfactory materials. This design might be developed in two shades of blue and green, yellow and brown, blue and brown or any other color combination harmonious with the walls of the room in which it is to be used.

Some of the most effective draped effects are gained in the simplest way as in 7819, which shows a couple of soft plaits draped into the girdle at the side-front, with a touch at the side to simulate a tunic. With this is combined a charmingly pretty blouse, 7818 the new feature of which is the cunning bolero, for which all-over shadow lace or figured lace, or even brocade could be used effectively. The front-closing underblouse is very good style, as is the surplice peasant overblouse. Black or wistaria charmeuse or crepe meteor with blouse of shadow lace or cream chiffon, could be chosen for afternoon wear, with the possibility of high or slightly low neck, as well as full-length or elbow sleeve. Less expensive would be a soft white crepe voile, with perhaps a tiny figure in old blue or rose color. Five sizes are provided for each, 34 to 42 for the blouse, and 22 to 30 for the skirt. To make the dress in medium size, you will need of 36-inch material, 5¾ yards.

Little daughter's best frock is simple, yet pretty, as are those worn by the children of really smart women—the mothers who know that childish charm may be sadly diminished by over-dressing. And 7833 developed in a sheer white mull, or point d'esprit, with soft shadow net for collar and cuffs, and sash of some delicately tinted Liberty satin, presents an ensemble sweet and charming. The low-belted effect, and the attractive bertha, are good style features. You can have patterns for this little frock in four sizes, 6 to 12, and for the eight-year old girl 2½ yards of 36-inch material will be needed. Each pattern is fifteen cents.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE

Conducted by Plainfield Branch New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

On September 3, 1912, Ohio rejected a proposed suffrage amendment by a majority of 87,455. In view of this fact, and of the oft repeated claim that the woman's vote is needed to protect women and children the following information culled from an article in the Chicago Survey for July 19, written by Hastings W. Hart, is interesting. The article is entitled, "The Children's Code."

"The first children's code, in the world, so far as we are aware was enacted into law when the Ohio Legislature recently passed the bill introduced by Senator Greenlund, embodying the work of a 'commission to codify and revise laws relating to children,' authorized by the Legislature of 1911. * * * * The committee has produced a law of remarkable wisdom, clearness and comprehension."

The Board of Charities is given additional duties in the way of investigation and supervision of maternity hospitals and "all institutions whether incorporated, private or otherwise which receive and care for children" and all such institutions must receive certificates which must be renewed annually." Any person who receives children or solicits money on behalf of such an institution, corporation or association, not so certified, or whose certificate has been revoked, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined.

The Juvenile Court Law is written into the children's code with important amendments providing for notice to absent parents; acceptance of written promise of parents or guardians to bring children into court; power to commit to State institutions for the feeble-minded, deaf, dumb or crippled; provision for "physical and mentale examination by physicians to be appointed by the Juvenile Court;" authority to commit children to county children's homes; authority to tax parents for support of children, etc.

A Mothers' Allowance Act is incorporated in the Juvenile Court chapter. It provides that: "For the partial support of women whose husbands are dead, or become permanently disabled for work by reasons of physical or mental infirmity, or whose husbands are prisoners, when such women are poor," having children under the age of 14 and having legal residence, the Juvenile Court shall make an allowance not exceeding $15 a month for the first child and $7 a month for each other child under the age of 14. The conditions are as follows:

(1) Children must live with the mother;

(2) The allowance must enable the mother to remain at home when she would otherwise be required to work elsewhere;

(3) The mother must be morally, physically and mentally fit;

(4) The allowance must be necessary to save the child from neglect and avoid breaking up the home;

(5) It must appear beneficial to the child to remain with the mother;

(6) A careful preliminary examination must first have been made by a probation officer, an associated charities, humane society or other competent person or agency, as the court may direct. A tax of one-tenth of a mill on the dollar is provided.

Medical Inspection of School Children. The children's code does not include the school laws of the State except with reference to schools for children in county children's homes and other public institutions; but it does provide for the medical examination of school children and for compulsory school attendance. Each board of education in the State may appoint at least one school physician and may also employ trained nurses. They are authorized to examine children, teachers and janitors. They are required to keep card index records.

Compulsory Education. Boys from 8 to 15 and girls from 8 to 16 must attend school for the full term. Boys under 16 cannot work without a school certificate showing that they have completed the fifth grade, and girls under 16 canot work without a certificate showing that they have completed the seventh grade. Boards of education may appoint "juvenile examiners" to test these qualifications.

Child Labor. The code embodies nearly all the provisions contained in the Uniform Child Labor Law advocated by the National Child Labor Committee. The minimum age for child labor is 15 for boys and 16 for girls.

Cruelty to Children. The Juvenile Court is given jurisdiction over cases of cruelty and neglect on the part of parents, and also over persons contributing to the dependency or delinquency of children.

The Ohio children's code is the Magna Charta of the children of that great commonwealth. It establishes a point of departure and will undoubtedly form the basis of similar children's codes throughout the United States. It brings out in strong relief the obligations of the mother state toward her children.

These are a few of the provisions made in a State that has rejected woman suffrage. Ohio men, helped by the advice and interest of the women, have shown no failure to safe-guard the children of the State.

The July Protest is full of very interesting matter and should be read by all interested in this suffrage movement. Subscriptions ($1.00 a year) will be received by Miss Lawrence, 510 Stelle avenue.

I had meant to say a word about Miss Chittenden's criticism of the laws passed in California under woman suffrage and of the replies to the same, but have no space left to treat the subject adequately.

"MAC" SAYS

Joe Alberts is conceded to be the greatest baseball manager in the confectionery business. What a lot of fun one can have at the expense of these semi-pro pilots in these parts. But then you never can get little Joe's goat no matter how heavy you pound your knocker.

Wonder how the Pets like the Somerville atmosphere this afternoon? Seldom have the Plainfielders appeared at the Somerset county seat under a deadlock advertising scheme. Torpey and Dorflinger claim their charges are invincible but neither of these gents are infallible when it comes to predicting or handing out baseball dope.

Reminds one of the old-time battles on the famous tin-can diamond at Bound Brook. It is rumored that the Bound Brook field would make an excellent place to stage a play off in the event one proves to be necessary in the Central League. There are a few more houses for the Pets to bat the pill over than there were at that place last season.

Billy Coyle is one of the few Central Leaguers who can burst into print as a hold-out and refuse a $2 a week job to be sociable.

That trolleymen's athletic meet was a great success according to Sisty, the promoter. Opinions apparently differ, for the athletes who competed have something different to explode.

It takes a sprinter with an unusual amount of genuine sportsmanship to take the bumps he is bound to receive on the cinder path. Several of the racers who competed at Wayside Park, Wednesday, would be assisted to some extent by an injection consisting of a good wide drubbing of about twenty-five yards at the finish of a century run.

Taking into consideration statements made by Sunday-school League officials we notice that they opine that the Park Avenue Baptist nine may or may not be a great sensation as a wind-up aggregation in the organization. This is a great truth, Park may, and then again it may not. What's the odds?

One of the Sunday-school nines threatens to protest every contest won by the Park Avenue contingent. A big session ahead for the governing board.

The fact that Pete Simmons and the City League get-rich-quick magnates have split reminds us that all are out to deny it. The only conclusion is to assume that they were prevaricating, or didn't know it was loaded.

Despite the fact that the Royal Colored Giants whopped a few wallops into the Scotch Plains aggregation at the latter place last Sunday afternoon there is a deep suspicion in our minds that walloping the 'Plains crew is not going to become a popular pastime.

Query—A says I can have a special delivery letter delivered at once by putting it in the box marked "out of the city" at the postoffice. B says it has to be put in the box marked special delivery. Who is correct? Will a special delivery letter reach its destination from a sub-station as quick as from a postoffice?—H. U.

Answer—If the special delivery letter is mailed in the out of the city box there will naturally be some delay until it is sorted out of the other mail. It should be turned into the special delivery window.

A special delivery letter will not reach its destination as quickly from a sub-station as from the main office.

PETS WILL PLAY ON A WRECKED DIAMOND

Dorflinger Crew Due to Lineup Against Brunswick Nine Tomorrow Afternoon.

Although New Brunswick's famous baseball ground was left in ruins by the terrific miniature hurricane that swept that place Thursday afternoon, the game scheduled to be played between Plainfield and New Brunswick tomorrow afternoon will be run off as per schedule. The roof of the grandstand was lifted completely off its moorings and deposited in the street nearly a block away. Some of the wreckage was scattered all over the diamond and the torrent of water that fell gutted the infield. The large sign, 125 feet long, which shut off Dead Hill was also ripped down by the wind and the damage will amount to approximately $500.

Two years ago a similar happening occurred, when the roof of the grandstand was taken off in the gale. The wind yesterday showed no partiality when it played havoc with the rendezvous of the national pastime as well as with numerous public buildings. The directors of the amusement company which owns the park, went to the scene yesterday afternoon to view the ruins and they at once placed a gang of men at work repairing and reconstructing the grandstand. Efforts are being made to get the grandstand into temporary shape for the contest with Dorflinger's Pets tomorrow afternoon.

Manager Dorflinger will take the same formidable delegation of players to New Brunswick tomorrow afternoon as trounced the Elizabeth Abstainers at the latter place last Sunday and expects to keep his slate of Sunday victories going for awhile at least. Cliff Randolph will be on the mound and Jack Torpey behind the bat.

Boyd, cf.; W. Stallings, ss.; Levy, rf.-1b.; Torpey, c.; Garretson, 1b.; Dickerson, rf.; Conti, 3b.; Hickey, 2b.; Moran, lf.; Randolph, p.

H. S. BOY HAILED AS BIG LEAGUE MATERIAL

Armstrong, of Rahway, will Be Heard From Within Next Few Years.

Familiar with handling a baseball since he was big enough to throw a "nickle rocket" and showing superior prowess in manipulating curves and shoots from the time he was a fourth-grade pupil at the age of 10 years, Rahway has produced in Arthur Armstrong a most promising young candidate for a big league berth. Although only 18 years old he has already displayed the majority of qualifications and requisites in a successful pitcher of the front rank. Beginning in the yard about his home when a little fellow by pitching to his brother, Elmer, with his cousin, Alfred Brooks, as batter, both of whom are now making good with the fast Rahway A. A., Arthur soon developed a speed and effectiveness that was marvelous to his playmates, who always faced him with awe in the many impromptu games in which they participated.

His boyhood reputation did not wane in the slightest as he made his way through the various grades of the city schools and for the past two seasons led the Rahway High School to victory in the county High School League, besides registering notable triumphs over the leading high school teams of the State aside from the local schedule. In the past two seasons he has pitched thirty-four consecutive victories for the high school and Rahway A. A. teams, a feat worthy of note because during that time he competed with some of the best twirlers and many old-timers of this section.

Always Knew Marquard as a Genuine, Rural Ruben

Even if Marquard had never played ball he would still be called "Rube." Whether you know him or not, you would call him "Rube."

You woud call him "Rube" just the same as you would any other tall, lanky, gawky looking individual that you saw following a plow down the earthen furrows on the hillsides of Ohio.

Everybody did.

That's why he is called "Rube" today.

And if he couldn't play ball the name would apply more aptly than it does today, for the immaculate Richard of left-handed theatrical fame, would still be ankle deep in his "plowin', b'gosh!" and working like any other farmer's boy that lives near Cleveland, Ohio.

Now it's really a shame to call him "Rube." Most opportune sort of remark to pass. Mr. Richard Marquard is one of our six best dressers. He is a swell affair on and off. His makeup is superb. One of the real "bon ton"—quite "pomme de terrs," in fact. And any one attempting to bring in that old Rube talk will be promptly thrown out on his vocal chord and his voice cracked.

For what resembles a "rube" less than the great left-handed actor as he walks down the marble steps these mornings and climbs in his private car to take a little exercise for his health? No answer.

But what is—wouldn't be, pardon us, if—he couldn't play ball. Dick would still be a "usterwus."

Every morning "Rube" would be getting up before the sun and hastening out to the chicken coop to give the old cock the office to crow.

Then for the next three hours before breakfast the lanky one would while away the happy hours a splittin' wood and huskin' thuh melings and mindin' his peas and cucumbers, by heck!

No breakfast in bed for him.

At "seving" o'clock, prompt, b'gum! ther skinny rube would be out thar beside th' corral a' hitchin' the o' bay an' ther sorrel mare and gittin' th' plow to workin'.

No automobile ride for him.

Then from then until knockin' off time, "seving" o'clock P. M., this here farmer's child would be in thar plowin' them furrows for cawn plantin', and breaking all records, includin' that thar one of 19 straight.

No ball game for him.

Then, after fillin' in the supper, out ye go "Rube," to do thuh chores. 'Xactly at quarter tuh ten yew be through, and nuthin' to do until th' morrer.

No theater for him.

An' on Saturdays ther very same thin' b'gosh.

No pay day for him.

One time some one wrote something like this:

ATHLETICS GAINED A HEALTHY MARGIN

Took the Parker A. C. Into Camp in League Game Yesterday.

PARKER FIELD SENIOR LEAGUE.

Yesterday's Results:

Athletics 3, Parker A. C. 0.

Rovers 4, Ironsides 3.

Standing of the Clubs:

	W.	L.	P.C.
Athletics	3	0	1.000
Rovers	2	2	.500
Ironsides	0	1	.000
Parker A. C.	0	2	.000

Schedule for Next Week:

Monday, 2 o'clock, Ironsides vs. Athletics.

Tuesday, 2:30 o'clock, Rovers vs. Parker A. C.

Two games were played in the Parker Field Senior Baseball League yesterday afternoon and as a result the Athletics now enjoy a big lead in the team standing and are firmly perched on the top rung with three wins and no reverses. The North Plainfield nine has relinquished its franchise to the Ironsides with practically that same lineup but a change in name. This team suffered a reverse yesterday at the hands of the Rovers.

While the Parker A. C. was shut out it put up a good battle against the fast going Athletics and will without a doubt be heard from in contests to come. The race is yet young and any of the four aggregations have a good chance of copping the bunting.

PITCHED GOOD BALL BUT LOST CONTEST

Wild Heave Into the Stands Responsible for Twirler's Defeat.

In the second game on Parker Field yesterday afternoon the Rover's defeated the Ironsides of North Plainfield by a score of 4-3. Brynarski and Dilts both pitched good ball until the ninth. Dilts had to be the unlucky one, his wild heave into the stands losing the game for him. The sixth inning was Brynarski's inning he pitched but three balls, all men going out at first.

YANKEES LOSE EVEN ON PARKER FIELD

Giants Triumph Over Their Rivals in a Game in Which Whitewash Splashed.

A team of Yankees, true to their name, lost to the Giants on Parker Field yesterday afternoon by a score of 5 to 0. Superior sticking pushed the "Yanks" into the background and the McGraw juniors won easily.

Like the real Yankees, the junior nine encountered a jinx in the person of one Jackson who adorned the hillock for the winners and held the Yannigans completely at his mercy at all times.

M'LOUGHLIN LOST CHALLENGE ROUND

First Match When the American Met the English Tennis Representative.

Wimbledon, July 26.—Maurice E. McLoughlin, of San Francisco, lost the first match in the contest for the possession of the Dwight F. David International Trophy, in which the United States team is meeting the English holders. But in the second match R. Norris Williams, 2d, of Philadelphia, won from C. P. Dixon, the English representative.

McLoughlin lost to J. C. Parke by the score of 3 sets to 2, while Williams beat his opponent by a similar score.

The play of McLoughlin was disappointing from the beginning. He made many of his terrific drives, but he did not always make them good. His judgment on "out" balls was good, too, but he did not play with the same brilliance that marked his previous games. Parke, on the other hand, fresh from a practise game, was in tip-top form, and played a splendid, steady game.

CONSTRUCTIVE STOREKEEPING

An Invitation to Readers of This Home Newspaper

The invitation, most cordially extended to the readers of this newspaper, is to join with us in the Wanamaker August Sale of Furniture, opening simultaneously in our two stores, New York and Philadelphia, Tuesday, July 29, with "Three Days of Courtesy." On these days—July 29, 30 and 31—advance selections may be made from our complete furniture stocks, regular and newly assembled, the transactions to date from August 1.

The August Furniture Sale

originated in the Philadelphia Wanamaker Store nearly a quarter of a century ago.

It was an outgrowth of trade conditions.

Manufacturers, hazarding the future demand, either made up too much furniture or too little.

There was on the market both surplus stocks and surplus time.

Turning this condition to the advantage of our patrons, we contracted with factories wishing to keep their organizations together in dull seasons to make good furniture for us at cost of wood and labor, and took over the surplus stocks of other manufacturers who had over-gauged the demand.

Being a new form of co-operative merchandising, based on true economic principles and not copyrighted or patented (we have never sought to protect our storekeeping methods), the Sale was soon copied far and near.

Today there are August Sales of Furniture—in name, at least—in nearly every city and town of the United States and even in foreign countries.

But conditions have changed since our first sales. Good manufacturers now make up furniture only when advance orders are received. They rarely have surplus stocks. And they plan their work to keep their factories busy practically all the year.

All this is for the good of the furniture manufacturing industry, but it makes harder each year the maintenance of a genuine August Sale.

In fact, things have come to a state where the public looks with suspicion—and rightly so—on most of these furniture events.

For our part—although the originators—we give fair notice now that we reserve the right to withdraw these sales from the store calendar when conditions will not permit of their economic preparation.

What We Have Done to Meet the Issue

This year for our two stores we were able to purchase for the August Sale only $619,000 worth of furniture up to Wanamaker Standard—and we never at any time sell furniture not up to this standard—which is:—Furniture that will give lasting satisfaction in the home.

These special purchases, while offering extraordinary values, are mainly composed of discontinued patterns, and do not give full assortments. So, as in the past few years, we have added to the Sale our entire regular stocks now on hand in our showrooms and warerooms, amounting to $1,052,000 worth additional, making a grand total in our two stores of

Over a Million and a Half Dollars of Furniture All Offered at Reductions of 10 to 50 Per Cent

By this method we present in our two Stores August Sales far superior to any offered today or in the past by any furniture house.

It is this single big fact which makes this announcement of high importance and causes us to give the August Sale this wider publicity.

This is what we mean by constructive storekeeping—to keep faith with the public or else withdraw the Sale.

It is the very antithesis of destructive storekeeping and advertising, so common today.

It is this constructive storekeeping which has built up the Wanamaker business, now the largest in each of the cities in which it is represented.

It is this constructive storekeeping which has made the Wanamaker August Sale of Furniture a national institution, deliveries of furniture from the last August Sale having been made in 33 different States of our country and to more than a dozen foreign lands.

It is this sort of constructive storekeeping which inspires us to extend this special invitation to readers of newspapers in the country at large who have the awakened sense of constructive business, both public and private.

"Three Days of Courtesy" preliminary to the August Sale of Furniture—Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, July 29, 30 and 31—in both stores, New York and Philadelphia.

WILSON RETURNS; STOOD BY HUERTA

Ambassador to Mexico Says He Stands Pat.

SAFEGUARDED AMERICANS

Declares All Warring Factions Are Bandits and Brigandage Pays Better Than Work—Denies Mrs. Madero's Story of Husband's Death.

New York, July 26.—Among the passengers on the Ward line Mexico which arrived here was Henry Lane Wilson, ambassador to Mexico, who was summoned home by President Wilson. Mr. Wilson at the first question on Mexican affairs exclaimed: "Now, I can't talk about that. I can't say anything at this time."

But in an instant he burst out: "I stand pat on all I have done as ambassador in the City of Mexico. They accuse me of having stood by the present Mexican government. Well, I have done so and I am glad of it. I stand pat." Again and again he introduced this phrase into his talk.

"For 100 years," he continued, "it has been the custom in diplomatic circles to recognize a de facto government. I followed custom and I am glad. I did send instructions to American consuls throughout Mexico to support the present government by their influence. I received no instructions from Washington. I acted on my own initiative.

"You must remember when you read the garbled accounts of the situation in Mexico that there are a lot of persons who want intervention in Mexico for selfish reasons, and much that you read is inspired. My instructions to consuls were designed to aid in bringing about peace and order. I wanted to sustain law and not bandits. They don't understand bandits up here. They call them constitutionalists.

Safeguarded Americans.

"My idea in putting the federal authorities in full control when the rebellion broke out against Madero was to protect the lives of thousands of Americans. It was the only proper course for me. There will be absolute chaos in Mexico if the present government does not stand. Nearly all the warring factions are bandits. There are a million of them in Mexico, where brigandage pays better than work.

"If I had not brought Huerta and Diaz together after the bombardment of the City of Mexico the whole city would have been in flames."

Mr. Wilson became greatly excited when his attention was called to the charge of Mrs. Madero that Wilson was personally responsible for her husband's murder.

"That is all part of a political game," he exclaimed angrily, "and when I get to Washington I will prove it. Mrs Madero caused to be published letters which are now on file in the state department which are absolute forgeries."

Mr. Wilson sent a wireless to the state department asking for instructions, and a messenger met the ship with an order for him to proceed to Washington at once.

Among the other passengers was E. N. Brown, president of the Mexico National railways. He refused to discuss affairs in Mexico, saying, "I shall have something to say later."

Reginald F. del Valle, who studied conditions in Mexico by order of Secretary Bryan, also refused to be quoted There was much difference of opinion among other passengers as to Mr. Wilson's course in Mexico, but he had as many defenders as he had adverse critics.

SULZER USES HIS VETO.

Kills Bill Increasing Membership of State Committees.

Albany, N. Y., July 26.—Governor Sulzer vetoed the Brown bill designed to increase to 150 the membership in political state committees and to provide for additional votes based on party strength developed. The executive's twice defeated direct primary bill contained a provision which would increase the membership to 150, making the assembly district the unit of representation. However, the governor's bill did not provide for additional voting powers for the members.

In his message vetoing the Brown bill the governor said it would inevitably tend to strengthen the grip of the party bosses on the political machinery of the state.

TWO GIRLS DROWN IN GALE

Boat Was Lifted Out of the Water and Overturned in St. Lawrence.

Clayton, N. Y., July 26.—Two lives were lost and heavy property damage done in a gale which struck the St. Lawrence.

A boat containing two girls, Catherine McGowan and Ada M. Rocuri, who with Herbert Smith had been visiting Papoose island, was caught by the gale, lifted bodily out of the water and overturned. All three were thrown into the river.

When Smith came to the surface the girls could not be seen. He clung to the overturned boat and drifted to Heb island.

Weather Forecast.

Fair today and tomorrow, with rising temperature; light to moderate variable winds, becoming southeast.

SAY TAMMANY AIMS TO IMPEACH GOVERNOR

Plan to Investigate $80,000 Campaign Contributions.

Albany, N. Y., July 26.—Considered a joke when first broached, the Tammany plan to institute impeachment proceedings against Governor Sulzer and to employ every agency at the organization's command to accomplish the governor's removal is now regarded in a more serious light. The bland offer of a prominent up state Tammany leader to bet a "suit of clothes to a nickel" that Mr. Sulzer would be thrown out of office before Oct. 1 is in part responsible for the apprehensive view of the present acute situation now taken by even the most practical minded Sulzer partisans.

More than one political intimate of the governor is authority for the statement that a resolution providing the specifications upon which the governor is to be tried already reposes in a pocket of one of Mr. Murphy's most trusted legislative lieutenants. It is to be offered for adoption by both houses of the legislature Report has it just as soon as the Frawley legislative committee produces what the Tammany men call the "goods."

The "goods" will be forthcoming, according to prediction from the Tammany war camp, either next week or the week following. They will come principally in the shape of charges that Governor Sulzer did not include in his statement of campaign contributions filed with the secretary of state certain donations aggregating about $80,000. Names of several prominent financiers are whispered in subdued tones by Tammany men as being among the suppressed list of contributors.

Other allegations are to be pressed against the governor if statements of an authoritative nature made here count for anything. These will include the oft repeated charge that Mr. Sulzer obtained and attempted to obtain votes for his direct primaries bill by agreeing to approve legislation of a half dozen members of the senate and assembly.

HOUSE BLOCKADE CONTINUES

Republicans Renew Attack on McReynolds Over Caminetti Trial.

Washington, July 26.—House Democrats and Republicans locked horns on the fourth day's filibuster of Republican Leader Mann because of the Democrats' refusal to permit discussion of the Caminetti white slave case.

Repeated and tedious roll calls were forced by Mann. Democratic Leader Underwood accepted his challenge, kept the Democrats on the job and attempted to do business despite the blockade.

Representative Kahn of California renewed his attack upon Attorney General McReynolds, because of the latter's order postponing the trial of the San Francisco white slave cases, by introducing a resolution directing the attorney general to submit a copy of a telegram reported to have been sent May 16 by McReynolds to former District Attorney McNab at San Francisco, halting the trial of the Caminetti case. This was a month before the secretary of labor asked the attorney general, at the instance of Immigraiton Commissioner Caminetti, to postpone the trial of young Caminetti.

CONVICT LEADERS TAKEN TO AUBURN

QUIET AGAIN IN SING SING

With Removal of Ringleaders of Prisoners Warden Clancy is Master of Situation—Crowd of 1,000 Meets Train With Rioters at Auburn.

Ossining, N. Y., July 26.—When sixty of the ringleaders in the uprising among the prisoners were loaded into a New York Central train and shipped to Auburn prison, the dread of all criminals of experience and especially criminals from New York city and vicinity, the spirit of mutiny which in four days produced two incendiary fires, two stabbings and innumerable minor acts of violence in Sing Sing seemingly was expelled.

In quelling the rioting and incendiarism that has been going on for days in the ramshackle pile at Ossining, Warden Clancy sprang a surprise that is expected to serve as a lesson to other prisoners who may take it into their heads to start further trouble.

Instead of sending sixty "B" men, or second termers, he sent thirty-four of that class and twenty-six "A" men or prisoners who were serving their first terms.

For years it has not been customary to transfer "A" men to Auburn, and the "A" men who were transferred were those who, on investigation, had been found by the warden to have presumed on their supposed immunity from Auburn to take prominent parts in the disturbances of the last few days

Prison Quiets Down.

The prison was comparatively quiet last night. A number of the prisoners made a half hearted attempt to keep up the yelling from their cells that had been in progress since last Saturday afternoon Further than this, with some pounding on the iron plate partitions of the cells by a few prisoners, the rioting had died away.

The transfer of the sixty recalcitrants was effected without serious trouble. When newspaper photographers tried to make pictures of the shackled and manacled procession as it filed its way to the train some of the prisoners, despite the way in which they were ironed, succeeded in throwing some stones at the photographers.

In the attack on the photographers several of the prison guards joined and succeeded in smashing a few cameras. The action of the guards is to be investigated by Warden Clancy.

On the train the prisoners broke half a dozen windows and threw their hats out of the window in exchange for tobacco and cigarette papers. At Albany some of the convicts threw notes out of the windows addressed to Governor Sulzer asking for better treatment. The car load was landed in Auburn prison last night safely. A crowd of a thousand or more towns-people met the train, but there was no disorder.

DUCHESS IN POLITICS.

Consuelo Vanderbilt Heads Women's Municipal Party.

London, July 26.—It is confidently expected that the acceptance of the presidency of the Women's Municipal party by the Duchess of Marlborough, formerly Consuelo Vanderbilt, will be followed by the flocking of a number of women of the nobility to the ranks of that party, which was formed to further the candidacy of women for office in the various London municipalities.

The duchess, while always interested in the women's political movement, has heretofore not taken any conspicuous part in its furtherance. It is now expected that she will devote considerable of her time to the affairs of which she has just accepted the leadership.

PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATIONS.

Charles S. Hamlin to Be Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

To be assistant secretary of the treasury, Charles S. Hamlin of Massachusetts.

To be assistant treasurer of the United States at San Francisco, William J. Gee of California.

To be superintendent of the mint at San Francisco, Thaddeus W. H. Shanahan of California.

To be assistant to the attorney general, George Carroll Todd of New York.

ELLIOTT TO LIVE IN BOSTON

In Statement He Asks For Fair Play For New Haven.

New York, July 26.—Howard Elliott, newly elected president of the New Haven, made a formal statement to reporters to the effect that he would take up the position without any preference for or prejudice against any community or section along the road.

He appealed for fair treatment for the road from all persons and said he purposed to maintain friendly relations with all. He said he would make his home in Boston and maintain offices in New York and New Haven.

IT IS SERIOUS.

The constant aching of a bad back,
The weariness, the tired feeling,
The pains and aches of kidney ills
May result seriously if neglected.
Dangerous urinary troubles often follow.

A Plainfield citizen shows you what to do.

Mrs. Anthony Wahl, R. F. D. No. 1, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I had such distressing pains in my back that I could hardly stand and it was out of the question for me to stoop. I was all crippled up and I knew perfectly well that my kidneys were the cause of the trouble. A neighbor recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to me and on her suggestion, I used them. They gave me almost immediate relief and three boxes changed me from a chronic sufferer to a healthy woman. I still take Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally, when a cold settles on my kidneys and they act as a preventive of any serious trouble. You may publish this account of my experience for the benefit of other kidney sufferers."

FLED AFTER CAR KILLED A YOUTH

New Jersey Police Search For Damaged Machine As Clue to Slayer.

HUNT A YOUNG MAN

Seven-year-old Bound Brook Boy the Victim—Fatality Near Englishtown—Girl In Car Who Caused the Fatal Mishap.

Englishtown, N. J., July 28.—The police of every town in northern New Jersey have been notified to keep a lookout for a large red touring car, probably with marks of damage on its right side. It was driven by a young man wearing a straw hat who had a girl as his companion.

This is the best description available of the machine responsible for the death of seven-year-old Eugene Vehber, Jr., of Bound Brook, N. J., who was killed by his father's auto near here yesterday afternoon as a result of a collision.

Eugene Vehber, a bookkeeper in the Bound Brook National bank, had taken his wife and their two children in his small touring car for an outing at the seashore. They were on their way back and were approaching Englishtown along the Freehold road when they heard the sound of a horn behind them. Mrs. Vehber looked around and told her husband a big car was coming very fast.

Mr. Vehber started to draw out to the side of the road, but the heavy touring car, traveling at terrific speed, tried to crowd by him, struck his machine diagonally, hurling it into the ditch and went on.

As their car went over Mrs. Vehber screamed, and she thinks that the young woman in the other car glanced around, but her companion made no effort to stop.

As the Vehber car turned over it hurled all four passengers headlong Mr. and Mrs. Vehber and their son, Leroy, were thrown clear, but little Eugene, who had been on the front seat with his father, was caught beneath the [illegible] and was crushed in and he was dead when his father extricated him.

COL. M'INTYRE SPEAKER AT THEIR CAMP MEETING

At morning, afternoon and evening services at the encampment of the Metropolitan and New Jersey Divisions of the Salvation Army in Wayside Park, Dunellen, Colonel W. A. McIntyre, of New York city, provincial officer for the Central Province, was the chief speaker. Large audiences on each occasion enjoyed his remarks. Col. McIntyre was formally welcomed at the camp Saturday afternoon. Special services of welcome were also held Saturday evening in honor of Major W. A. Baille.

Captains Cameron, Rothblum, Bratherton and Lieutenants Jackson and Sowton will be in charge of a meeting to be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The speaker will be Captain Frances Rothblum, who has selected, "He Said Tomorrow," as his subject. The services tonight at 8 o'clock will be conducted by Major and Mrs. James Allan, industrial officers for Newark.

TIP FOR MERCHANTS.

Over twenty merchants in this city who use liquid and dry measures will receive notice to bring them to police headquarters this week to be examined and sealed by Union County Superintendent of Weights and Measures August W. Schwartz, who is waging a campaign against any users of false weights and measures in this city. Many dealers have voluntarily brought their measures to headquarters and had them approved, but all those who fail to do this within the next few days will be ordered to do so by summons.

NON-SUPPORT CHARGE.

Samuel Magar, of West Fourth street, will be arraigned before City Judge DeMeza tomorrow morning on a complaint against him sworn out by his wife, who charges him with non-support. He was arrested Saturday afternoon by Detective Sergeant Flynn, at 130 Ferry street, Newark.

STABBED FOUR TIMES BUT HE WILL SURVIVE

Game of Cards Results In Knife-Play at Bound Brook, Two Men Taking Part.

An altercation growing out of a card game on the main street of Bound Brook on Saturday night came near resulting fatally to Wiziek Sikouwsky and he is at his home in South Bound Brook today suffering from four deep stab wounds inflicted by Stephen Roinisky, a fellow countryman. Roinisky and Sikouwsky were among a party of foreigners who engaged in weekly card games at a rendezvous in the heart of the town and when the former became enraged over a remark passed by Sikouwsky he invited him to come out in the street and settle the question in a fistic encounter.

The two men walked down Main street talking boisterously and a number of people on the thoroughfare followed the pair who seemed bent on doing something that would create some excitement. In rounding a dark corner Sikouwsky's remarks suddenly became distasteful to his companion and he reeled around and stabbed Sikouwsky in the side with a stilletto four times before he was over-powered and brought to the Bound Brook station house by citizens.

When arraigned before Judge Reed at Bound Brook yesterday Roinisky was held without bail to await the action of the grand jury charged with atrocious assault with intent to kill. When being removed from the station house to the Somerset county jail at Somerville the prisoner tried to break away from the officers by working his hands through a pair of handcuffs, but his attempt was unsuccessful.

COLUMBUS S. GERNERT DIES AT SOMERVILLE

Somerville, July 28.—Columbus S. Gernert, aged 35 years, died suddenly at his home on East Main street, this morning following an attack of acute indigestion. He arose about 5 o'clock this morning and remarked to his wife that he felt bad, and he procured a cup of hot water, which he drank. Being asked how he felt he replied, "no better," and then suddenly expired, before any medical or other assistance could be secured.

Mr. Genert was born in Somerville and was very popular among a large circle of friends. For a number of years he successfully conducted a photograph gallery in this place, from which he retired about the first of the year, since which time he had been associated with his two older brothers, Jacob H. and John Gernert, Jr., in the news and stationery business in the large Gernert building recently erected. He was a member of several fraternal organizations and also of the fire department of the borough, being a member of the Lincoln Hose Company, of which he had served as foreman. DR. STRONG PREACHER AT UNION SERVICE

With a large congregation present, Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, preached an interesting sermon at the union service held at Trinity Reformed church, last night, taking for his text the eighth verse of the thirteenth chapter of the Epistle to the Hebrews, which reads, "Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, today and forever."

Dr. Strong spoke of the great changes continually taking place in the makeup of men and nations in many respects. Such men as Luther, Moody, Spungon and the great missionaries may change and pass away but the Christ and His word remains the same. He referred to the false prophet and new sects who are continually attempting to change the meaning of and improve the Scripture, but these all fail. He is not great to whom Christ is not great. Christ is the same as to his diety, his human sympathy, and in his office of prophet, priest and king of mankind. He also spoke touchingly of the courage and constancy of the saviour of men.

TWO HOMELESS ONES BANISHED FROM CITY

Joseph Packer and Edward Haberman, two men arrested Saturday morning as suspects in the supposed burglarizing of the William Tise Schmittmann residence at 1043 West Front street, were arraigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning on the charge of vagrancy. They were ordered to leave town by noon today a command they promised to obey. The two men were born and "raised" in this city. According to their own testimony they have been sleeping out-of-doors and in the Clinton avenue railroad station and had often stolen bottles of milk from door-steps of West End residences.

Judging from all developments, the lights seen between 3 and 4 o'clock Saturday morning in the Schmittmann home by Patrolman Craig, were lighted by some member of the household. Mr. Schmittmann, although positive at first that the electric lights were turned on by intruders who entered his house for the purpose of thievery, now says that he may have gone to his slumbers and forgotten to turn off the electric current.

BACK FENCE GOSSIP RESULTS IN HAIR-PULLING

Mrs. Marian Clark, of Pearl street, was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning on the complaint of Mrs. John Hartgrave a neighbor, who charged her with disorderly conduct. Rumors have been circulated about the neighborhood regarding the fidelity of the respective husbands of the two women who appeared in the court this morning. Saturday, Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Hartgrave met unexpectedly on the street. Words followed and blows, hair pulling, etc., were threatened.

Civil War Veteran—Had Been a Deputy Sheriff For Twelve Years—He Had Also Served As Marshal In North Plainfield.

After a lingering illness covering a period of two years, Peter V. Weaver died last night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. V. L. Frazee, of Madison avenue. He was seventy years of age and was a native of Whitehouse, where he spent his earlier years. At the outbreak of the Civil War he enlisted in Co. A., Thirteenth N. J. Infantry, with which he served nine months. He afterwards re-enlisted with Co. D, Fourth Battery, Light Artillery, with which he served for the remainder of the war, during which time he was shot in the leg, the effects from which he never fully recovered.

In after years Mr. Weaver settled in North Plainfield and was associated with his brother, the late David Weaver, in the painting and decorating business. When North Plainfield became a borough, Mr. Weaver was appointed as its chief marshal. After a short residence in the borough, he removed to this city and entered the employ of the postoffice under Postmaster E. R. Pope, serving there for a number of years. In 1890, he was appointed as a deputy sheriff under Sheriff Houston, in which office he served for twelve years. He was a member of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R.

THOUSANDS ENTERTAINED AT FIELD ON SUNDAY

Nearly a thousand residents enjoyed the program rendered yesterday afternoon at Parker Field under the auspices of the Playground Commission, a feature of which was a chalk talk entitled, "A Home Run," by Rev. Dr. Robert F. Y. Pierce, a resident of this city and pastor of the Second Avenue Baptist church, of New York city. Dr. Pierce has lectured extensively before Metropolitan audiences where his discourses on popular subjects have attracted wide attention.

Yesterday's entertainment was a third of a series which has been arranged for the Sabbath Day at the local recreation centre. The rendition of baritone solos by William Holmes aided in making it one of the most successful yet given. The use of the field on Sundays for the benefit of those not wishing to leave the city for recreation or amusement, is causing wide approval to be made. That the plan will eventually be carried on in a more extensive manner, seems assured, judging by the present popularity of the movement.

No "Old Gang" Tag Tied to Fielder

Senator McGinnis of Passaic County Makes It Clear That No Gang, Either Old or New, Has Ever Interfered With Hudson's Leading Candidate For Governor.

GOVERNOR FIELDER.

SENATOR McGINNIS.

THOSE who have worked with Governor Fielder are the ones who have the greatest faith in him, for, having seen him in action in the legislature, they know how unflinchingly he has stood by those principles of progressiveness that made Woodrow Wilson's administration a stepping stone to the White House.

It can be said of Governor Fielder that he had been fighting steadfastly for those same progressive principles before they bore the name progressive; in the pre-progressive days when the legislature lacked a Democratic majority to write those statutes that have since placed New Jersey in the foreground of progressive states; in the days when the fighting was lonely and when the seed fell on barren soil. IT CAN ALSO BE SAID OF GOVERNOR FIELDER THAT HE PROVED HIS SINCERITY BY CONTINUING THE SAME FIGHT WITH A MAJORITY THAT HE MADE IN THE MINORITY.

While he has always been a party man, he has never been found putting party interests ahead of public good. In fact, he has been actuated to work for the public good so consistently and so persistently that he has always run away ahead of his party vote in Hudson county.

His independence has always been so thoroughly established that subserviency to any boss has never been thought of in his home county, where his constituents have kept such close tabs on him, and with justifiable pride, too, as his remarkable runs at the polls have proved.

In other parts of the state, however, his ability to stand up for principle, regardless of boss influences, is not so well known, and it was for that reason that Senator Peter McGinnis of Passaic county made use of his intimate knowledge of the Fielder principles and his convincing admiration for his sterling manhood, and penned an indorsement for use in the primary campaign that is now being waged.

Senator McGinnis says:

"The charge that Governor Fielder is the tool of the 'same old gang' is without a shred of evidence to support it. Any one who is at all acquainted with the political situation knows that the candidacy of Governor Fielder is sponsored by the stanchest friends that President Wilson ever had in New Jersey.

"WHEN WOODROW WILSON WAS FIRST ELECTED GOVERNOR OF NEW JERSEY AND COMMENCED HIS RECONSTRUCTION WORK, WHO WAS IT BUT SENATORS FIELDER, OSBORNE AND SILZER WHO LED THE FIGHT IN THE SENATE?

"Was the candidacy of Governor Wilson as president attacked because erstwhile friends of former Senator Smith had seen the light and supported Mr. Wilson?

"Take the New Jersey delegates to the Baltimore convention; nearly two-thirds of them are avowed Fielder supporters and why? Because they have worked with Governor Fielder while he was in the senate and assembly, know that he represents the very highest type of progressiveness and has all the courage to make a successful leader.

"I can assure you from personal knowledge that Governor Fielder only became a candidate for the governorship this fall at the earnest solicitation of the Democratic senators, and it was with reluctance that he gave his consent.

"When President Wilson became the candidate for governor of New Jersey in 1910 his nomination was seconded by Hon. James Smith, Jr., and his campaign managed by Hon. James Nugent. Did this fact shatter the faith which the people of the state had in President Wilson's candidacy?

"No. On the contrary, the people believed that President Wilson was the tool of no man or political machine. Those who are now espousing the cause of Governor Fielder believe him to be equally courageous."

I. W. W. HEADS IN PARTING FLING

"You Must Hate Bosses," Says Miss Flynn.

URGES NEW STRIKE LATER

Threatens More Trouble if Manufacturers Use Blacklist—Patrick Quinlan, Out on $5,000 Bail, Renews Denunciation of Authorities.

Paterson, N. J., July 28.—Miss Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, who with the other I. W. W. leaders of the silk strike bade goodby to Paterson for four or five months, made an impassioned speech in which she urged the workers in returning to their places to make the manufacturers suffer.

Her meaning was clear to the police who heard it, but her use of words and her phrasing were so clever that she was not arrested.

As a result of her talk, however, Chief of Police Bimson decided to keep the fifty special policemen on duty for several days longer. He had intended to dismiss them. He thought that the trouble was all over.

Miss Flynn was the chief speaker at the last open air meeting of the strikers.

"You must go back to work," she said, "with the spirit of hatred for the manufacturers in your heart. The manufacturers think that by backlisting the workers they hate they can prevent trouble, but they are only hastening the time when the greatest explosion in the industrial history of this country will take place.

"If the manufacturers want another general strike and another period of general business stagnation; if they want to throttle the business of Paterson, let them use the black list. This strike is only round No. 1 in the fight that we mean to carry on.

"The manufacturers have starved you back to work and they should suffer. They should suffer the same as you have suffered. We will help you. The I. W. W. is not finished with Paterson. It has just begun its work here. You should go back to work for a few months and be prepared to strike soon again."

Ewald Koettgen, another I. W. W. leader, said that the I. W. W. leaders would call out the strikers again soon.

"This strike," he said, "is not over. A strike of the I. W. W. is like war. There may be retreats, but the battles will continue."

Patrick Quinlan, who was released from the Trenton prison on $5,000 bail, spoke at a meeting of Socialists near city hall. He denounced the authorities as the tools of the manufacturers and said the strike could be won as well inside as outside.

FIND MISSING MAN DEAD.

Body Believed to Be That of Insurance Solicitor.

Freehold, N. J., July 28.—Investigation of addresses found in the pockets of a man long dead whose dismembered body was found in the woods near here indicates that he was Thomas Coombs of Ossining, N. Y., a life insurance solicitor, who disappeared several weeks ago.

Miss Nellie Coombs of Freehold, whose name was found in an account book, believes the dead man was her brother Thomas. She said he called on her at Freehold on June 7. Others there who knew Coombs said he was in financial difficulties and had relatives who were unable to help him. He left his traveling bag with Miss Coombs and requested that she send it by express to his wife in Ossining. Coombs was about forty-five years old.

CHASE BICYCLE THIEVES.

Young Robbers Escape Across Fields, Leaving Wheels Behind.

Riverside, N. J., July 28.—Getting away with a bicycle belonging to William Stickel, which he stole from in front of the Riverside bank, a young thief, whose identity the police have been unable to establish, rode back into town on the stolen wheel, bringing a chum with him. The second boy made off with another wheel belonging to Albert Bishop.

Suspicious of the actions of the young strangers, Fred Stecher, a Riverside boy, and Russel Hullings, mounted their own bicycles and gave chase, overtaking the pair near Bridgeboro. The thieves escaped across fields, and the local boys brought home the bicycles, restoring them to their owners.

SAFE CRACKERS IN NEWARK.

They Break Into Two Places and Make Good Hauls.

Newark, N. J., July 28.—Safe crackers climbed down an open air shaft into Childs' restaurant at 194 Market street on an improvised rope ladder and carried the safe from behind the cash desk, within ten feet of the sidewalk, to the wash room in the basement. There they tore the door off with iron bars and took $400.

Another safe weighing about 400 pounds was carried from the front of the store of the National Grocery company at 173 South Orange avenue by burglars to a rear room and rifled of about $140.

The John Wanamaker Store

Three "Days of Courtesy"
Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, July 29, 30 and 31
Preliminary to the Opening of the August Sale of Furniture

Because August 1 comes on Friday, when so many people are going away over the week-end, we offer this year these three "Days of Courtesy" preliminary to the August Sale.

All stocks will be assembled on the Galleries, duly tagged and marked with the August price. Advance selections may be made, the transactions to date as of August 1.

The Furniture

1. Purchase of new merchandise for account of the August Sale now on hand and to arrive during August to the value of	$319,000
2. Regular stocks now on hand in our showrooms and warerooms, all of which are included in the August Sale, to the value of	602,000
Total in this New York Store alone	$921,000
3. Additional stocks of furniture in the Philadelphia Wanamaker Store, interchangeable at will with the New York stocks and always on call, including the special August purchases	$750,000
Making a grand total of	$1,671,000

This $1,671,000 of furniture, now owned and ordered for August, is the power behind the Wanamaker Sale that makes it beyond competition.

Volume—of business being done and of stocks on hand—means capacity and power to serve the people in the highest degree.

A trusteeship (like this store) to buy merchandise for a community depends upon satisfying the public in that community. This trusteeship would never have grown so large unless the public was being satisfied with what we sell.

If we ever fail to satisfy, the patronage will be withdrawn and the trusteeship will collapse.

The Economies

Reductions on the furniture as a whole will average a fourth; on at least $400,000 worth the average will be a third.

To those interested especially in our regular stocks, having perhaps in mind particular pieces of furniture they have seen on our floors, we give the further information that reductions on these regular pieces range from 10 per cent (on staples) to 50 per cent (on show pieces)—many pieces being marked just half.

The Warranty

All Wanamaker furniture, whether sold at reduced prices in the August Sale or at other times of the year at full prices, is warranted to give lasting satisfaction in the home.

We are constantly told by certain manufacturers that we are too careful in what we buy—that we could go nearer the danger line, sell cheaper grades of furniture, and thus largely increase our sales.

Such blandishments may catch other stores, as no doubt they do, but we are deaf, dumb and blind when they are made to us seriously.

Deliveries

Deliveries may be made in August or later, as desired.

To distant points the Wanamaker free delivery will be found to be liberal enough to cover all shipments of fair size.

Conveniences

The conveniences of opening monthly charge accounts are freely offered to all responsible parties, who will find this August Furniture Sale a good time to begin regular dealings with the store.

Caution

August Sales in many stores now are only a name.

So long as they continue in the Wanamaker Stores they will be what they always have been so far—a true economy occasion—or they will be discontinued.

We have always been on record for home trade. If your home store is holding a true August Sale of furniture—offers you trustworthy furniture at real economies—patronize it.

If it is a sale in name only we shall be glad to extend to you the advantages of this Wanamaker August Sale—in either of our two stores, New York or Philadelphia, whichever city is most convenient for you to visit.

1866—Act passed fixing the maximum strength of the United States army at 75,382 rank and file.

1894—Town of Phillips, Wis., destroyed by forest fire.

HIGH TYPE MAN.

With but few exceptions, the newspapers of the State, of all shades of political belief, have a good work to say of Carlton B. Pierce, of Union county, as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the governorship. So far as we have observed none has spoken ill or slightingly of him. This means either that the press is losing much of its political bitterness and is inclined to deal fairly in its treatment of politics and politicians or that Pierce is quite an unusual type of candidate. Possibly both reasons hold good in his case.

One significant criticism as to the State Senator and his aspirations comes from the Newark Sunday Call. In its issue of yesterday that newspaper had this to say of him: "The announcement of the candidacy for governor on the Republican ticket of State Senator Carlton B. Pierce, of Union county, was noted with much interest by all who know him, and especially those who observed his gallant fight for the abolition of grade crossings. He has been recognized as a Senate leader and one of the ablest and high-minded men of that body, which of late has shown a very definite improvement in the character of its members."

ENTER, SIR KNIGHTS!

No American city was ever better "dressed" up to receive a great company of guests than will be Denver, when the hosts of Knights Templars from all parts of the land gather there week after next for their thirty-second triennial conclave. An army of electricians, decorators and others is already at work, and their efforts promise to result in the most lavish and beautiful display of flags, bunting, electric lights and color imaginable. No one can estimate the amount of bunting that will be used—one enthusiastic decorating company puts it at millions of yards—and the demand upon the electriec companies is already so great that they announce they can receive no more orders.

Probably the most beautiful and elaborate feature of the decorative scheme will be the Court of Honor, extending four blocks in the downtown district. The court will be surrounded by forty-eight immense electric pillars, each having a different combination of colors. The leading business streets will be lined with light poles, each bearing the national colors, represented in two flags. Between these will be the Templar insignia of cross and crown and a maltese cross in black, besides which there will be festoons of colored lights. At night the visiting Templars will be treated to the dazzling sight of a mammoth electric cross on Pike's Peak. Other features of the decorations will include reproductions of the Church of the Holy Sepulchre at Jerusalem, the watch tower of Chateau de Langliers, France, and the Mickelgate bar of the Benedictine Abbey of York, Eng., which was a popular meeting place for the knights of 400 to 500 years ago.

The size of the attendance on each successive occasion fully substantiates the opinion entertained by the Playground Commission that the people of Plainfield would approve of opening Parker Field on Sunday afternoons for some appropriate form of entertainment and recreation. That no policeman has had to be on the grounds shows that the crowds are orderly and have a proper respect for the Sabbath Day. The Playground Commission has taken a wise course and is to be commended for its broad grasp of conditions.

Says the Trenton Times commenting on Charles N. Fowler's candidacy for the Republican gubernatorial nomination: "The ex-Congressman has made apparently not the slightest headway in his campaign for the Republican nomination since he issued his remarkable declaration of principles." R. I. P.

Stokes comes out with a criticism of Colby. Some times attacks make one all the stronger and most popular and in this instance Colby is likely to profit by Stokes' statement.

"I seek only party unity," says Edward Casper Stokes. Suiting the action to the word he should turn in for Carlton B. Pierce.

ARRANGE OVATION FOR "WILL" CROOKS

Ottawa, Ont., July 28—Labor organizations in many cities of the Dominion are preparing a welcome for William Crooks, who is one of a distinguished party of members of the British parliament who are crossing Canada on their way to pay a visit to Australia. The distinguished visitors arrived in Ottawa today from Montreal. After a brief stay in the capital they will go to Toronto and Niagara Falls, and then proceed to Vancouver, stopping en route at Winnipeg, Calgary, Edmonton and other cities.

"Will" Crooks, as he is familiarly known, is one of the foremost labor leaders of Great Britain. He has been a member of parliament for ten years and he is, in many respects, today the most striking figure in British politics. His career has been a most remarkable one.

As a trembling little urchin of nine he was driven by sheer starvation to seek refuge in a workhouse. In later years he became chairman of the same board of guardians that then sent him into the poorhouse.

When only eleven years of age he was apprenticed to a blacksmith. When fourteen he was earning only $1.50 a week at the smithy. Then he changed to the trade of cooper and served a seven year apprenticeship. Then, in 1876, being prominent in some small trade dispute, he lost his appointment and had to go on a tramp searching for a livelihood. Christmas Day, 1878, saw him still a tramp, without boots, without a penny in his pockets. Then his luck took a turn. By sheer hard work he progressed till he became a master cooper, a ruling spirit in labor questions, and a distinguished member of parliament and of the London County Council.

THE FORUM.

FROM UNION'S AGENT.

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

The new moving picture theatre is moving along slowly with, as far as can be learned, all non-union labor and laborers working Saturday afternoon until 6 o'clock. The conditions under which the building is being constructed will not appeal to the people of our city to patronize after completion. No fair master or union man of any craft can or will work on said building under present conditions and the credit is not considered very great to any one who secured present conditions and it is only natural that the building trades people should desire to deal with business people who are fair with them and not struck by unfaircontractors and business houses as was the case some time ago when a certain party wanted to build a building in our city under plans not approved by the authorized inspector. They brought the matter very strongly before the building trades people of our city, claiming the Mayor and Council were preventing our people from securing work, and later on when permits were issued gave all contracts out of the city and still look for the support in business of building trades people in our city who will not forget and the possible owners of the building remain the same in the minds of building trades people. Work in the building line is fair. About all with few exceptions in painting line are busy.

Signed, W. H. LUNGER.

JERSEY EXHIBIT TO HONOR NEGRO RACE

Commission Working Hard for Fine Showing at Emancipation Exposition.

In answer to an attack made upon it in a recent issue of the New York Age, a negro weekly, the New Jersey Emancipation Proclamation Commission, which has charge of the exposition to be held next September in Atlantic City, has issued a statement of the work that has been done. The celebration will mark the fiftieth anniversary of the freedom of the negro race in this country.

Exhibits from every city, town and rural district in the State are planned. In order to create interest and secure co-operation the organizers have held meetings in all sections and 37 leagues have been formed.

Interesting exhibits of the work of colored pupils in the public schools have been arranged. Among them will be those prepared at the Lincoln School, of Trenton, under the direction of Principals Spencer P. Irvin and T. Edward Kinney; at the Witherspoon School of Princeton, under the direction of C. Robert Thompson, and at the Bordentown Manual Training and Industrial School.

The Citizen's Union of Montclair, the North Jersey Medical Association, the Metropolitan Mutual Benefit Association of Newark, the Alpha Beneficial Association of Jersey City, and the Mechanics' Council of the Oranges are among those who have applied for space.

Miss Bertha Lee and William Graham, of Trenton, students at the School of Industrial Arts, have asked for space to exhibit sculpture, paintings and drawings. Miss Lee has taken several prizes in Philadelphia art shows.

The farmers, live stock and poultry raisers of the State have also promised exhibits, and women will show their handiwork.

The Legislature appropriated $20,000 for this celebration. The Rev. S. P. Hood, of Trenton, is the chief organizer, and the Rev. J. A. White also of Trenton, assistant; T. D. Sensor, Pennington, has a branch with Benjamin Dyre, president; Mrs. Isaac Ely, vice-president; Miss Sophia Gibson, secretary; Mrs. George Crees, assistant secretary; Errin Downs and W. A. Brooks, assistants. The committees include: Educational, Thos. Gibson, Helen Serupy, Rosetta Clark; sewing, Mrs. Beulah King; relics and antiques, Mrs. Sadie Dunn

ORDER MEXICO TO FREE PRISONERS

United States Decides to Take Drastic Step.

INCIDENT CALLED SERIOUS

Mexican Government In Positive Terms Commanded to Immediately Punish Men Who Shot United States Official—Huerta Trick Suspected.

Washington, July 28.—The Huerta government in Mexico has received from the administration at Washington the most drastic representations yet made.

The United States government demanded not only the prompt arrest, court martial and punishment of the Mexican federal soldiers who shot Charles B. Dixon, an American immigration official at Juarez, Mexico, but the immediate release of two mining engineers—Charles Bissell of New York city and Bernard McDonald, an Englishman—imprisoned by federal soldiers at Chihuahua City without cause and said to be threatened with execution. They were arrested for aiding American refugees in leaving Mexico and were prisoners for several days before the United States government learned of their plight.

So serious were these incidents regarded in official circles that they overshadowed largely the theoretical considerations of policy which the visit of Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson had brought to a climax. The ambassador was so exercised by the developments in Mexico that he dictated two strong telegrams, one to the embassy at the City of Mexico and the other to the American consul at Juarez, and, while Secretary of State Bryan slightly modified their tone, they were dispatched promptly.

Two Reports of Shooting.

It was not until yesterday that the administration received an official report on the shooting of Immigration Inspector Dixon. This came from two sources. The state department received a reoprt from the American consul at Juarez, Thomas D. Edwards, and Secretary of Labor Wilson received an account of the shooting from Immigration Inspector Berkshire, in charge of the El Paso district. Both were laid before the president. They corroborated the press dispatches and stated that Mr. Dixon was arrested while in pursuance of his duty as an immigration inspector and while at work on a white slave case.

The reports added that two other immigration inspectors, F. W. Berkshire and Clarence Gatley, went to Mr. Dixon's assistance and also were arrested. They were released and allowed to take the wounded man to El Paso.

Secretary Bryan telegraphed Consul Edwards to demand of the commandant of the garrison at Juarez that the officer and men connected with the shooting be arrested at once. Mr. Edwards was instructed further to demand that the men be held until their testimony could be taken by the consul. This is an unprecedented step. It is unusual for American consuls to examine foreigners charged with the commitment of a crime against an American.

This testimony will be used by the state department in the demand on Huerta for the punishment of the officer, a half breed negro, and his men.

Administration officials now view the situation in Mexico with much greater apprehension than at any time in the past. Some of these officials believe that the shooting was inspired by Huerta's officials and is part of the propaganda to create anti-American sentiment throughout the republic.

JESSE R. GRANT MOVES.

Leaves Nevada After Filing Divorce Action—Wife's Denial.

Reno, Nev., July 28.—Jesse Root Grant, whose divorce proceedings caused a sensation last Wednesday, has disappeared and is said to be in a mining camp across the California line awaiting developments in his wife's reply to his suit.

Mrs. Grant has not decided upon a course of action. She denies all her husband's charges and insists that he deserted her. She probably will bring a counter suit. Meanwhile he has decided to remain out of sight and avoid any further publicity.

Mrs. Grant, who is in San Francisco, expresses much surprise at her husband's action and will take time to to decide upon an answer to the suit.

Washington, July 28.—Society aviation in Washington will be renewed with vigor next winter, led by the four enthusiastic daughters of Representative and Mrs. J. Thompson Baker of Wildwood, N. J., who are expert aviatrices.

The Misses Baker are at present at Wildwood, where they engage in their favorite sport daily. They have learned to master not only the aeroplane, but the hydroplane as well. THREATS FOR SULZER WORRYING HIS WIFE Guard at Executive Mansion Is Doubled.

Albany, N. Y., July 28.—Scores of threatening letters have been received recently by Governor Sulzer, with the result that the guard has been doubled whenever the governor leaves the executive mansion or goes on the street. There have also been placed at the executive mansion two men whose orders are not to let any one pass unless they give in detail the nature of their business.

Many of the letters are signed, though the governor believes the names are fictitious. Many of them are unfit for publication and have caused much worry to Mrs. Sulzer.

Governor Sulzer goes to the capitol early in the morning, sometimes reaching his desk before 8 o'clock, often remaining until late in the evening, his lunch often consisting of nothing more than a sandwich sent in.

Governor Sulzer at first threw the letters away, believing that some one was sending them as a joke, but the frequency with which they came later caused him much anxiety. Detectives were sent for, and the letters were turned over to them, and, though day and night they have been working on the case, the report they made to the governor was that they had not been able to find the senders. On many of the letters were found finger prints, which have been copied.

The governor just shrugs his shoulders and refuses to discuss the missive, declaring the case was in the hands of the proper authorities and that nothing could be said about it at present.

FAVOR NICARAGUA TREATY.

Bryan Expects Speedy Action by Senate Committee.

Washington, July 28.—Secretary of State Bryan was before the senate committee on foreign relations discussing his proposed new treaty with Nicaragua, which if ratified will amount to establishing a protectorate over that country and open the way for more direct control by the United States over all of Central America.

Secretary Bryan found the committee for the most part very favorably disposed toward his treaty, and every indication points now to its ratification by the stnate.

The senate committee may suggest some minor modifications in the treaty, and it was deemed advisable by Secretary Bryan to leave a copy of the treaty with the committee and have determined before it was signed just what would be acceptable.

MARSHALL TALKS OF DOLLARS

Vice President Says Americans Squeeze Them Too Tightly.

Chicago, July 28.—The "get-rich-quick" ambition was the target for criticism of Vice President Marshall, who in an address before the Loyal Order of Moose said:

"The trouble with Americans is that they squeeze the dollar so tightly that they should be arrested for taking indecent privileges with the goddess of liberty."

The highest citizenship, according to the vice president, is developed in the man who tries to live up to the Christ standard.

Bull Gores Man on Ward Estate.

New Rochelle, N. Y., July 28.—William Smith, a farm hand, was badly gored by a bull on the estate of Robert B. Ward, the baker, at Quaker Ridge. He was taken to the New Rochelle hospital, where his condition is said to be critical.

FOUR DEAD, MANY HURT IN WRECK

Construction Train on Erie Road Leaves Rails.

PASSENGERS' CLOSE CALL

Those Killed Are Workmen—Passenger Train Had Just Passed Before Accident Occurred—Five of Wounded Removed to Newark Hospital.

Nutley, N. J., July 28.—Four men are dead and several seriously injured as the result of the wreck of a construction train on the Erie road near West Nutley. Five of the injured are in a Newark hospital.

The dead are: Nicholas Sileve of 187 Barclay street, Paterson; Anthony Polish, Paterson, address unknown; Angelo Pertoni of 139 Vine street, Paterson, crushed; Samuel Zumbane of Avondale, N. J.

The wreck took place on the single track Newark branch of the Erie railroad, which for six or seven miles runs through a long stretch of woodland near Nutley. The locomotive and cars of the work train left the rails, crushing the men beneath them.

The Erie company has been ballasting the road with stone for some days, and the men killed were engaged on this work when the accident occurred. Those killed and injured were all employees.

Passenger Train Escapes.

A passenger train had just passed before the accident occurred. The work train, taking a siding to allow the passenger train to go by, was switching back on the main tracks when the locomotive left the rails.

What caused the accident is not known, but it was said the rails spread. The dead and injured were buried in the wreckage. No help could be obtained near by, and telephone calls for assistance were sent from Athenia and West Nutley.

The first report received here was that a passenger train had been wrecked and that the casualties were great in number. Help was sent to the scene of the wreck from Paterson, Passaic and Newark.

The work of getting out the dead and injured was nearly over when the rescue parties reached there, although it was reported that some were still in the wreckage. Five of the men were placed in a car and taken to Newark.

The news of the wreck was quickly flashed through the neighborhood after the appeal for help reached Paterson and the other cities. Many parties went there in automobiles and after a short time there were several thousands viewing the wreck.

NEWSPAPER PLANTS FIRED.

Rochester Herald Suffers—Another Fire in the Union.

Rochester, N. Y., July 28.—Following a disastrous fire in the plant of the Union and Advertiser in Exchange street, the third inside of two weeks, causing a loss of $30,000, fire was discovered on the third floor of the Rochester Herald building. Not much damage was done. Both fires were of incendiary origin. The fire in the Union plant on July 15 caused a loss of $82,000.

The fire in the Union started in the art department on the sixth floor, the same as on July 15. Though the whole department was gutted, enough of the room was left to satisfy the fire chief that the blaze was set. The whole building was flooded with water, which caused the most damage to machines and valuable paper.

The fire in the Herald started in a bag of burlap in the job press department. Burned matches near the charred burlap showed how the fire was set. It was discovered by the watchman as the flames were licking the walls.

DRIVERS TO COMBINE.

Taxicab Men, Street Car and Bus Men to Form Gigantic Union.

London, July 28.—There is a big scheme afoot here to form a fighting union of taxicab drivers, street car men, bus men and all drivers of vehicles in order to prevent "scabbing" when the railway men or members of other passenger conveying organizations are on strike.

Six of the largest trade unions, with a membership of more than 100,000, have approved of the scheme, which will be elaborated still further at a conference at Manchester in September. When the scheme has been completed the unions will be able to tie up the entire passenger traffic of England.

BURY 31 FIRE VICTIMS AT PUBLIC FUNERAL

Twenty-one Bodies Unidentified at Binghamton.

Binghamton, N. Y., July 28.—Thousands of persons attended the funerals yesterday of thirty-one victims of the fire in the factory of the Binghamton Clothing company, and the whole city was practically in mourning. Twenty-one unidentified bodies were laid in a plot presented by the Spring Forest cemetery. The city will erect a monument on the plot.

The funerals brought thousands into the streets, and the crowd stood with bared heads in silence as the long procession passed on its way to the cemetery.

Coroner R. R. Seymour is still pressing his inquiry into the disaster and Binghamton was stirred when one witness, Mrs. Mary Whitney, an employee of the clothing factory, testified that she believed the fire in the plant had been burning nearly an hour before an alarm was sounded for the workers to leave the building.

Mrs. Whitney said she had remarked to other women about the odor of smoke long before the fire alarm was sounded.

FLEES AS GIRL ENDS LIFE.

Male Companion Only Takes Sip of Drug in Suicide Compact.

Boston, July 28.—A suicide compact is believed to have led to the death of Rose Fivanson, a Hartford girl, who poisoned herself in a hotel here. The police are looking for a man who registered with her and disappeared. He went to the hotel office and inquired for a doctor. He seemed ill and held his hand to his mouth, as if in pain. Half an hour after the man had gone groans were heard in the room. The door was forced, and the girl was found at the point of death. Two bottles, one empty and the other half full of poison, were on the dresser.

A fragment of paper clutched in the girl's hand bore the name G. W. Mann, Shelbyville, Ind., and asked the police not to blame Billy.

The police think that the couple intended to die together, but that the man after his first sip of the poison changed his mind.

COPPER STRIKERS BEG FOOD

Hungry Men, With No Aid From Union, Fed by Village.

Houghton, Mich., July 28. — Fifty hungry Poles who had been thrown out of work by the closing of the copper mines by the strike marched to the office of Mayor Bawden and demanded food. Village officials promised to feed the men temporarily.

The 700 striking miners, who were employed in the mines, have little money, and all grocery and meat stores have refused credit. Officials of the Western Federation of Miners have made no provision for taking care of the men.

General Abbey came to Houghton from Calumet and directed the placing of the troops. He will keep in close touch with the situation here from his headquarters in Calumet.

The Care of Window Boxes.

This is the time of year—one of the times of year, at all events—when window and porch boxes need attention. If they have been properly taken care of they are in fairly good condition, but doubtless they will be much better for a little extra care and attention now.

Of course, the most important thing to remember that you are trying to have successful window boxes is to fill them with good soil, first, and second, water them thoroughly and often. Even so, by this time the soil is probably in need of replenishing. Some of it, perhaps, has washed away, and so there is danger that the roots of the plants will become bare.

The best way to replenish the soil is to go to the nearest woods and get the richest, coolest, blackest, moldiest soil you can find. The application of any sort of fertilizer, even the commercialized sorts, directly to the roots of the plants—as it must be applied in the shallow and narrow confines of a box—is likely to bring disaster to the plants by burning the roots. But the addition of a thick layer of soil from the woods gives new strength and life to the plants.

If you cannot get really rich, mellow earth with which to replenish the boxes, mix whatever soil is at hand with a little bone meal or other commercial fertilizer, and add it in a layer over the whole top of the box.

Pruning and Replanting.

Pull off all dead leaves and twigs and all stalks that show signs of withering or dying. Then fill in the spaces left with fresh plants. If you have a garden you will easily find plants to substitute for those in the boxes.

Be careful not to spoil the color scheme you planned so carefully when you planted the boxes. If you can find no flowers in a color to harmonize with those already blooming in the boxes, fill the bare spots with foliage plants. English ivy is always satisfactory, and harmonizes with flowers of any color. If you have some little sweet alyssum plants, seedlings that are not yet ready to flower, you can use those to fill in. They grow rapidly and their fine white flowers fit in with any color scheme.

If the whole boxful of plants seems withered, try filling the boxes with marigolds, of the dwarf variety. These will blossom all through the remainder of the summer and will even live through the first frosts.

NEW IDEA IN DRESS.

Patterns Cut to Order by an Expert at Small Expense.

One of the most practical ideas that have been put forward lately has been devised by a young girl who is working up a business for herself. This is the making to order of patterns for dresses. These patterns are of tissue paper, heavy paper or cambric of two different colors. All the designs are original, and the best part about it is that the patterns are reasonable in cost.

Moreover, one may have a pattern made of a dress seen in a shop window or in a play, or one may have the duplicate of any picture which has attracted one. It is, in the second place, of great assistance to the woman of little or no daring in the art of sewing, enabling her to get away from the ready made effect and the just like thousands of gowns, through

Hitherto the price of these specially cut patterns has been prohibitive. But now this young girl makes them for 25 cents apiece in the tissue paper, all frogs, buckles, belts, buttons or ornaments being added in a color.

Any pattern may be had in three days or in even a shorter time if necessary. And patterns for an entire trousseau, including all the undergarments to be worn with each gown, which nowadays is part of an unsolved puzzle, may be had at an arranged estimate.

Such a business, though only a few weeks old, is likely to grow rapidly. The present plans of this ambitious young woman include an office and summer sales at the large hotels; also suburban visits to out of town customers, which would really be a boon to the suburbanite who has little time for shopping. For instance, if one wanted the pattern of the smart gown picture all she would have to do would be to tell this capable business woman where it could be seen, and she would do the rest.

The gown is a combination of white crepe de chine and mustard colored brown brocade. Tassels lend a suggestion of gayety to this model, for one cannot conceive of a severe tasseled costume.

Testing an Egg.

"Really, Jane," remonstrated her mistress, "you must learn to be more careful and test the eggs before you mix them in the pudding. Now, a good way of testing is to take an egg in your hand, swing it around a few times and then place it to your ear. If it gives out a pleasant, murmuring sound you may then be quite sure that it is fresh and good."

Like a dutiful cook Jane promised in future to obey her mistress' instructions, and that same night there was hot baked custard for dinner.

At least there was to have been hot baked custard. But at the crucial moment Jane appeared upon the scene with nothing to show but a tear stained face.

"Well, Jane?" anxiously inquired her mistress.

"Please, mum," gasped the saddened servant, "there's a little something gone wrong. I was a-testin' the egg as you told me, and a-swingin' it roun' when it slipped out of my hand, and blessed if it didn't biff the policeman in the eye as he was watchin' me through the window. An' please, mum," concluded the cook, breaking down utterly, "I think it was a good egg, too, for I listened, and I heard a murmurin'—oh, quite a loud murmurin', mum!"—Tit-Bits.

The "Divine Sarah" Says—

Sarah Bernhardt is quoted as paying her respects to Isabella of Bavaria, consort of Charles VI. of France, in this wise: "It is to her that we owe the invention of the corset, but it was she, too, who sold the half of France to England. There was no crime of which that woman was not capable."

Some Cookery Suggestions

SOME SEASONABLE FISH.

BREAKFAST MENU.
Grapefruit.
Cereal and Cream.
Broiled Mackerel.
Biscuits.
Toast.
Tea and Coffee.

FISH should be substituted for meat whenever possible during the summer. It is a lighter food and less heating than meat diet.

Savory Broiled Fish.

Broiled Mackerel.—Split the mackerel in two and remove the backbone. Brush over with melted butter or oil to which a little salt and pepper have been added. Broil on a gridiron over a clear fire. Serve with melted butter or mustard sauce.

Broiled Flounders.—Clean and prepare the flounders and leave in cold water at least one hour before broiling. Broil slowly about twenty minutes. Arrange on hot platter and serve with tartare sauce.

Stuffed Fish.

Baked Stuffed Lake Trout.—Take a five and a two pound lake trout, a pint of bread stuffing, two yolks of eggs, butter, salt and pepper and some chopped parsley. Clean the fish. The larger one should be left whole, and the smaller one should be split, skin and bones removed and the flesh chopped fine. Mix the chopped up fish with a pint of bread stuffing, well seasoned; add two yolks of eggs, four ounces butter and chopped parsley. With this dressing fill the fish and sew up. Lay in a roasting pan; put in some cut up vegetables and spices; around fish pour a cupful of broth; over fish sprinkle salt, pepper, fresh breadcrumbs and butter. Bake and serve with parsley sauce.

When Serving Bass.

Boiled Black Bass With Butter Sauce.—Clean the fish well, put it in a saucepan with water to cover it, add salt, place the saucepan over the fire. After boiling see if the fins are loose and can be removed readily. If so take it from the fire, place on a platter and serve with this sauce. To make the sauce take a pint of drawn butter, add one tablespoonful of pepper sauce or Worcestershire sauce, a little salt and six hard boiled eggs chopped fine. Do not surround fish with boiled eggs when using this sauce. Pour over fish and garnish with sliced lemon.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—Windows That Are Hard To Break.

Gathering Shells From the Water.

JACK had broken a window playing ball, and, according to his mother's rule, he had to buy a new pane out of his spending money. So Jack was really sorry and meant to be very careful not to play near the house as he had been forbidden to do.

"They don't have glass windows in many houses in the Philippine islands," daddy remarked.

"Their houses must be very dark," Evelyn said.

"Oh, no," daddy disagreed. "The houses are beautifully lighted. They have lovely windows, but you will never guess what they put into the panes.

"They use the shells of little fishes. They take the shells, which are flat and of good size, and polish them until they are transparent. Then the shells are fitted into little frames and placed in the windows.

"These windows are often very pretty in shape. Some of those in the old churches are charming.

"With these there isn't so much danger of the little Filipino children getting into trouble on account of breaking windows, for these shell panes are really quite strong.

"Thousands of the little shells, which the Filipinos call kapas, are gathered together by the fishermen. The shellfish, whose houses they are, live in the water of the ocean around the Philippine islands and are something like oysters, except that they are much flatter. They fasten themselves to a rock or to some other shellfish and sit and dream away their little lives until the net of some fisherman gathers them in, and their little house of shell is torn from their back and polished to make tiny windowpanes.

"In hot countries like the Philippines windows are not really needed. They are perhaps more for show than for use, since for comfort, windows must generally be kept wide open.

"The word window is thought to have come from words meaning 'wind's eye.' The use of windows is really to let air and light into the house.

"At first people had merely rude openings without any sash or windowpanes. In cold countries folks covered the windows with pieces of horn flattened out and made clear enough to allow the light to pass through. Other houses had windows in which parchment or dried sheepskin instead of horn was used. Of course this parchment was clear, although the people inside could not see through it as we can through our panes of glass.

"After awhile glass came into use. The windows of churches are made of colored glass, but shell windows are the oddest of all."

Out-Door Sports Suggest Smart Clothes—The Sash Continues to Be Favored for Many Occasions.

A well-dressed woman is always appropriately gowned on all occasions. She looks at her clothes as the outward expression of her character and feels that she owes it to her own self-respect to dress well. For her sports she chooses garments that will best fit their purpose. Her love for golfing prompts her to select comfortable things so that she may appear graceful in her play.

There is nothing more pleasing, nor more attractive that the two models illustrated on this page for golfing. Figure 7832 displays a combination model that would be ideal made up of two materials. The Russian blouse is developed in a striped or checked cotton, in drop-shoulder type. It closes diagonally at one side. In place of the standing collar she has put a fancy frilling in the neck which makes it more comfortable and cooler for warm days. The full length sleeves are also frilled over the hand. The peplum is in rounded effect, lengthened by a shaped band. The skirt is in two-piece style. The sash and girdle are indicative of the prevailing vogue for features of this character. This model is cut in three sizes, 16, 17 and 18. Size 16 requires 5¾ yards, 36-inch material, and 1⅞ yards, 18-inch silk for the sash. 15 cents.

A little more dressy is the model 7806-7807, made up of flowered and plain cotton or crepe. The bodice is in drop-shoulder style, closing in the front. The sleeves are in raglan type and can be made in three-quarter or full length. The picture shows it in three-quarter style with frilling on the cuff. The inset tucked vest is very smart. Robespierre collar of the self or contrasting fabrics, or lace. The blouse pattern is cut in 6 sizes, 34 to 42. Size 36 requires 2⅞ yards, 36-inch material with ⅞ yards contrasting fabric or embroidery for trimming. 15 cents.

The skirt No. 7087, is a two-piece affair, formed in soft plaits at the top and at the foot, to give peg-top effect. It can be made with, or without the shaped belt. The pattern is cut in 5 sizes, 22 to 30 inches. Any size requires 2¾ yards 36-inch, 40-inch or 54-inch material. 15 cents.

Practical Designs for Embroidering Your Bedroom Linen.

The embroidery on sheets and pillow cases, for general use, should not be too elaborate and pattern 14633 includes effective designs that can be embroidered in a short time on a set of linen sheets and pillow cases. The edges may be finished, either with plain scalloping or with hemstitched hems as illustrated and three initials or two-inch monograms may be placed above the embroidery on the pillow cases while a four-inch initial or three-inch monogram should be placed two inches above the embroidery on the sheet.

The transfer pattern for stamping the sheet is fifty-six inches long and part of the design may be omitted for use on narrower sheets. It is three inches wide and should be placed one inch above the hem or two inches above the scalloping. The transfers for the pillow cases are each 16¾ inches long by three and one-half wide. The embroidery may be done entirely in solid work or the flowers may be worked with eyelets and the rest of the design in solid work and stem-stitch.

If you like the bureau cover, stand cover, and the other bedroom linens may be embroidered with this same design, for it is one of the advantages of these transfer patterns that they can be cut apart and re-arranged when one wishes to adapt them to various articles. These same designs might also be used on towels and runners. The price of the transfer pattern is 15c.

FIRST TO HONOR THE MEMORY OF PATRIOTS

Berlin, Conn., July 28—A patriotic celebration that can have no duplicate was held Saturday in the near-by village of Kensington. The celebration was in honor of the semi-centennial anniversary of the erection of the first monument that rose from American soil to perpetuate the memory of those in blue who died in the Civil War.

The monument stands in the little graveyard at Kensington, and here the exercises of today were held. The memorial is a simple shaft of Portland stone and was set up in memory of six boys of the village, who one by one had been picked off by Confederate bullets while fighting for the Union. The shaft was delivered July 4, 1863, just as the North was cheered by the news from Gettysburg and Vicksburg. The dedication took place on July 28. The names of the six Kensington boys who had died in the war were inscribed on the monument when it was dedicated. Soon afterward another name was added, and at the end of the war the names of sixteen fallen soldiers had been chiselled on the stone.

Anniversary exercises Saturday included the unveiling of a memorial bowlder set up in front of the monument. The bowlder is surmounted by a canon and flanked by mounds of cannon balls. The prominent participants in the exercises included Governor Simeon E Baldwin and his staff, Judge Alfred B. Beers, of Bridgeport, commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, and James R. Sloane, of Meriden, department commander of the Connecticut Grand Army of the Republic.

MISS BILLIE BURKE'S LATEST PET

Some famous person once said that the more he saw of men the better he liked dogs. Miss Billie Burke, Charles Frohman's charming young star, doesn't go quite as far as that, but she does like dogs. She used to play about with her on tour two little Pomeranians. She got them in Pittsburgh, and they were snow white—just after they had had a bath. Her latest pet is a toy terrier, with a pedigree considerably longer than she is herself, that Miss Burke calls Lily Parradell after the name of the character she herself played in "The 'Mind the Paint' Girl"—that is to say, that is the name the little dog was christened. Miss Burke usually calls her "Baby." She was a present to the actress from W. A. Pinkerton, the famous detective. Mr. Pinkerton on making the presentation said that he thought any one as charming as Miss Burke ought to have a protector.

"MAC" SAYS

High Bridge appeared on the Dunellen field Saturday afternoon with the same array of talent that was put to rout a week previous by the Plainfield ball tossers at Parker Field and they fared little better at the hands of the Dunellen contingent.

Why not make a tri-cornered league out of the affair. One team is as good as idle every week anyway, and the clubs are losing their patronage.

Several of the most prominent faces that have sported Dunellen uniforms during the past six weeks were noticeable missing Saturday afternoon and an influx of Scotch Plains' talent was on the job.

There were no Wolves in the flock and Schiller failed to put in appearance.

Although the two teams at Somerville were fighting for first place in the league standing the exhibition of baseball was little better than the one at Dunellen. The playing was listless and the participants didn't seem to care whether they got to the end or not.

Randolph's support savored of the last word in raggadness and it is doubtful if the High Bridge fielders could have done any worse than did the Plainfielders on that occasion.

Ernest Dorflinger fell far short of predicting the right dope before the game Friday night when he was asked if the Pets were going to win and he said, "Well, we are out to try." No they didn't even try and if they had have exerted themselves it is doubtful if the final result would have been any different.

When Dorflinger says anything but "win," you can safely bet that a beating is on the bill for the Pets for he is instilled with a barrel of optimism.

Those home runs of Nelson's and Bill Stallings' at Somerville served to arouse the fans out of a deep slumber. Both were terrific swats and the runners touched every pillow before the pellet found a berth in an infielder's palm.

For drawing cards, the local colored teams cannot be beaten. A delegation of 500 ebony and white rooters attended that West End-Dixie Giant contest Saturday afternoon and they were treated to some real ball playing.

Many of the fans went to the field to get a peep at one Allen, the colored team's first sacker, who swatted the pill for fifteen bases in one game last Saturday. He pulled a three-bagger against the West Ends and his advertising value is beginning to rival Ty Cobb's or Jim Thorpe's.

Johnny Dixon, a younger brother of the Central League catcher, is some twirler, if the style of baseball he put up at Scotch Plains yesterday afternoon may be taken as a criterion. Johnny had the 'Plains' batsmen standing on their heads and he won the game at that.

Some of the puffing Joe Alberts has gained as a result of recent wallopings his team has administered to local ball nines, was taken out yesterday by the Saurer city leaguers.

PLAINFIELD RELINQUISHED THE TOP RUNG TO SOMERVILLE NINE

Somerville	8	3	.727
Plainfield	7	4	.636
Dunellen	5	6	.454
High Bridge	3	6	.33

Through a defeat administered by the Somerville team Saturday afternoon the Plainfield Pets relinquished their claims to the top rung title and had to accept the losers' end when two aggregations, tied for first place honors, battled for a break. Dunellen scored an easy win at the expense of the High Bridge youngsters and increased their third place percentage to a considerable degree.

Both of the contests were featured by some hard clouting and the spectators who yearn for some hefty swats in every contest they attend were treated to some real stuff Saturday afternoon. At Somerville, the pill was lifted over the fence for four bases on two occasions and at Dunellen a quartet of healthy two baggers featured.

The surprise of the afternoon came at Somerville and this was by far the most interesting of the two games, for the Plainfield and Somerset county nines have long been great diamond rivals and Torpey's crew still remembers the sting of defeat hung up and cherished by the Queen City delegation when it won the playoff for the Central League bunting two years ago.

First Presbyterian	2	5	.285

Monroe 12, Park Avenue 6.
First Baptist 29, First Presbyterian 2.

Plastering the First Presbyterian aggregation with an advantage of twenty-seven counters in a six-inning contest, the First Baptist combination increased its first place lead while the Chapelites, who are now appearing in the role of runner-up, were idle and as a result did nothing to boost their second place average. The Baptist boys are not yet out of sight of the champion Hope combination, however and some good tight playing for the flag is likely to be pulled off before the season ends.

Park Avenue lost a chance to break a record by winning a contest Saturday afternoon, and again fell a victim to the Monroe boys' cunning. Although the Monroe team won a game and the Hope contingent was idle, third place is still in possesion of the Methodists and they will have some stretch road to travel before overcoming the Chapelites.

Saturday's Results:

Saurer 11, Spicer 4.
West Ends 5, Dixie Giants 3.

Saurer's baseball team continues to hang up its regular Saturday afternoon victory and travel pennantward at the expense of the other trio of contenders for City League title, the Spicer cellar diggers being their latest acquisition along the scalping line. The league leaders are winning consistently every seventh day and it now looks as though their wild dash for the flag pole would be successful.

Taking the place of the recently deposed Royal Giants aggregation, the Dixie colored combination was forced to bow to the West End A. C. ball tossers after a hard fought battle. A number of the Royal players sported the Dixie uniforms and the team presented few new faces.

CLIFF RANDOLPH WANTED BY CHANCE AND YANKEES

That Cliff Randolph is ticketed for the big league and will shortly sever his connections with the Plainfield Baseball Club, now sems to be his rightful reward for the good work he has been doing during the present season in a Pet uniform. The local heaver's work was watched at Elizabeth last Sunday and one of Frank Chance's scouts attended the game on the Brunswick field yesterday afternoon to witness his performance.

Randolph is in the midst of one of the best season's in his varied career of baseball pitching and although he will say nothing about his future plans it has been said that he has had several contracts presented to him, which if he will affix his John Hancock, will place him on the big circuit.

NEW GENERATION ARE KALSOMINERS

SPECTACULAR STUNTS

Final Score Was 3 to 0—Game Played at Amusement Park Yesterday—Randolph a Puzzle For Home Sluggers.

It may sound improbable, but the old Pets had to swallow a defeat at the hands of the young Pets, yesterday, at New Brunswick, by a score of 3 to 0. It was a sad defeat, too, for the old Pets were counting on beating Plainfield. Once more did the Plainfielders take with them a bunch of good fielders. Samuels proved himself to be the star in center field, making three long catches in deep center. Grimes made rome sensational stops at short.

Randolph was in great form, pitching a steady game all through. Torpey did some fine work behind the bat and his wing to second was steady and straight as a die. With two on in the first inning, Dalton tried to steal home and was caught by a straight swift one to Torpey. Plainfield started the sally in the fifth, Samuels put a single into right field, but was caught sleeping by an elegant throw to Driscoll by Tee. Dixon singled to right, and went all the way home on a wild pitch over Driscoll's head by Tee.

Plainfield scored again in the seventh, after Samuels struck out, Dixon beat out an infield hit to short, went to second on Hickey's single to left, both advanced a base on Tee's passed ball, Conti doubled, bringing in Dixon and Hickey, Garretson hit to short and was thrown out at first, Randolph flied out to left.

Only once did New Brunswick reach third base, when Dalton went to third on Harter's single, and in the second Stallings stole second, and third, but he died there, Cosgrove flying out to Dixon. Powers played a good game at short for New Brunswick, accepting every one of seven chances. Dixon and Hickey were the stars with the stick for the young Pets, both getting two hits off Wood's delivery, and making the three runs of the game.

E. Stallings played the same good game in left field, making three long catches out in the left garden, robbing the Plainfielders of what looked to be three base hits.

SUBSTITUTES LOST THEIR FIRST GAME

West End A. C. Aggregation Played Some Good Baseball and Won Close Contest.

Substituting for the Royal Colored Giants baseball team in the City League race, the Dixie ball tossers, presenting nearly the same lineup as did the Royals during their regime, were forced to accept defeat at the hands of the West End A. C. combination, Saturday afternon, the final score being 5 to 3. The contest was nip and tuck throughout, neither team having a decided advantage over the other at any stage. Four fielding errors were credited to each of the contestants, but these were not of the costly variety and what runs were scored were earned by some real ball playing, in which both teams took alternating parts.

Three runs in the third stanza gave the colored players an advantage that the West Ends did not overcome until the sixth inning when they rallied and pulled acros two counters which placed them on an even footing with their adversaries. One more counter in the seventh and another in the eighth gave them a lead that meant victory in the end over a formidable foe. Much of the credit for the victory is due to the good work of Eddie Conghay, the West Ends' moundsman and he held the opposition to a quartet of scattered bingles, one of which was a smashing three bagger by the wonderful Allen, who played the first corner for the Dixies.

Corriell did some good swatting for the winners, getting a pair of bingles out of four trips to the plate. One of the largest crowds of the season attended this City League clash and the enthusiasm asserted itself strongly on the sidelines.

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

EVERYONE HELPED TO TROUNCE PETS

Umpire, Somerville Crew and Even Plainfielders Themselves Turned the Tide.

A BASEBALL COMEDY

Final Score Was 9 to 5—Pets Routed Out of First Place—Randolph Retired in the Eighth—Some Heavy Clouting.

In what was probably the loosest game of baseball ever played by the Plainfield Pets, the local aggregation relinquished its claim to the top of the Central New Jersey League Saturday afternoon by handing a victory to the Somerville nine by a count of 9 to 5. Stunts of the novice variety were pulled frequently by both combinations and the Plainfielders took the role of leading offender along the schoolboy line, playing some deplorable baseball at spasmodic intervals, especially in the third, fifth and seventh stanzas.

Twice did Stallings get mixed up with the centre field guardian over in his own territory, narrowly avoiding a serious collision, and allowing a two-bagger to be registered in the bargain, when the pellet should have been smothered. Moran started the game at the keystone sack but was later shifted to the center garden and Dickerson, who had chalked up a brace of misplays was pressed into service at the mid station. Big six Nelson who had one of his off days being responsible for two wild heaves, both of which let in counters. The usually steady and reliable backstop fully redeemed himself, however, by smashing a terrific clout to the centre field fence for a round trip ending up at the platter. Bill Stallings duplicated Nelson's feat and negotiated the bases before the pill returned to the infield after he had hit it on the nose and sent it spinning at a mile a minute clip to the tall timbers of the out-field.

Cunningham, Hickey and Mattoe were the star bat wielders for the winning contingent, and their clouting intermingled with the sprinkling of errors gave the Somervillians an opportunity to humiliate the Pets without half trying. Each of these swatsmiths got a brace, one of each being for an extra cushion.

Randolph, utterly disgusted by the support accorded him, retired in favor of Stewart in the eighth. Plainfield fans who witnessed the contest, writhed in agony at several of the decisions handed out by one Biernbrower who has made his name a topliner along the Central Circuit for just such rank rulings as he handed out on the Somerville lot Saturday.

OLD GLORY LEADING.

With the victory of Maurice E. McLoughlin, of California, and Harold H. Hackett, of New York, over H. Roper Barrett and C. P. Dixon, of England, in the doubles match on Saturday, for the Davis tennis cup at Wimbledon, England, the chances of America regaining the coveted trophy appear reasonably certain. In order to acomplish this McLoughlin or R. Norris Williams must win one of the two remaining singles matches to be played today. Opposed to McLoughlin will be C. P. Dixon, who lost to Williams in the first match, while the latter wil play Parke, who defeated McLoughlin.

JINX STILL HOVERS OVER PARK AVENUE

Monroe's Scored Another Easy Win After Being Treated to a Scare.

Monroe continued on the well-worn road to victory especially constructed for the Park Avenue Baptist ball tossers' foes Saturday afternoon, and hung up another victory at the expense of the cellar occupants, the count this time being 12 to 6. When Park Avenue came within a single ace of tying the score in the fourth after the Monroes had secured a five-run advantage, the last place team's rooters went wild for this is the nearest the Parks have ever been to winning a game. Their hopes were promptly squelched in the next stanza, however, when the Monroes brought across a quintet of scores and practically sewed up the contest.

Eight errors by the Park Avenue fielders helped considerably in the run getting and these misplays, coupled with seven bingles made the victory easy Mills and Ricketts, who twirled for the losers, pitched some good ball, holding the hit column down to a minimum but were accorded rank support by their backers who were independable at crucial moments of play.

YELLED FOR HELP AFTER SIX ROUNDS

Presbyterians Were No Match For the Fast Going First Baptist Aggregation.

A howl for help at the end of six innings of play, and a little condolence strewn over some badly dented personages from tender hearted First Baptist ball players, were the only things that separated the First Presbyterian diamond artists from dying un unmerciful death at Hyde Oval, Saturday afternoon, in their Sunday-school League clash with the Baptists. There is no telling how much longer the Presbyterians could have held out without utterly caving in; but the team was a pretty fair exhibition of shattered timber when the Baptists gathered their wagon tongues together at the end of six innings and headed for home after crossing the scoring station at least twice in every one of the sessions and tallying 29 markers against their opponent's 2.

During the time it took to reel off two-thirds of a game, the Baptists whaled the pill for twenty-two safeties, many of which carried the runner two, three and four cushions before his flight was curtailed, and the Presbyterians occupied their time tapping the horsehide for a pair of scratchy bingles and did manage to pull across the same number of runs when Taylor made a fizzle.

The First Presbyterian team's jinx hove into sight when Newell, their twirler, appeared on the scene aboard a motorcycle and informed his captain that he could not play ball on such a fine afternoon without special inducement he was looking for from the team members but finally sped off in the distance leaving the contingent to its destinies. Umpires Murphy, formerly a heaver of no mean ability for the Plainfield High School nine in years of yore, aspired to do the honors for the Presbyterians but he found the going rather rough and after getting a plentiful dose of the hero's returns stepped from the hillock and Walter Townley, a youthful portion of last year's North Plainfield High School team, mounted the golden throne. Plainfield and North Plainfield players looked alike to the Baptists, however, and they immediately proceeded to treat Townley to a similar dose.

ANOTHER DEFEAT FOR HIGH BRIDGE

HITTING WAS LIGHT

Both Teams Presented Many New Faces—Dunellen Without the Services of the Wolf Duet—Schiller Fails to Show Up.

With an entirely new lineup, the Dunellen baseball team, of the Central New Jersey League, pounded out a victory at the expense of the High Bridge regiment of schoolboy artists on their home grounds Saturday afternoon by a score of 5 to 2. Although the final score was not of the kind that would savor of loose and one-sided playing. In reality there was nothing to it but Dunellen from the first crack of the bat until the schoolboys left for "Home Sweet Home."

McLaughlin toyed with the youngsters for nine long rounds and three of the five hits for which his delivery was plugged were credited to one Howley, a Plainfield Business College student, who is one of the three real ballists on the combination. Conspicuous because of absence were the Wolf brothers and Billy Coyle and their places were filled with such notables as Lake, a grissled old timer; Joe Alberts, of Scotch Plains fame, DeNitzio, from the same village, and Samuels, of New Brunswick.

Hostilities were even up until the fourth inning, when Dunellen started the ball rolling with four markers. Bergen's slip up, when Clough laced a grounder at the former Pet, DeNitzio's bingle, a free ticket to McLaughlin, Alberts' two sack smash and an error made on Giddes' easy bounder were the trouble makers in this stanza. The cornhuskers tallied again in the eighth on Alberts' single and Howley's slip.

High Bridge scored in the fourth when Howley doubled and took third after Clough's throw was ignored by the Dunellen infielders. Howley scored when Hand's throw to catch him napping at the difficult corner bounced out of Giddes' bread winners. Bergen got life in the eighth on DeNitzio's error but was forced on second by Davenport, who aspired to steal and later went to the far station on McLaughlin's wild heave. Miller walked, and Hand trying to nip him pilfering, threw to the woods, allowing Davenport to register.

Owing to the non-appearance of Schiller, Samuels was taken from right and put on the first sack, and Lake, a Dunellen player of five years ago, was pressed into service and put up an excellent game.

TRINITY PLAYERS WON A CLOSE ONE

Three Runs in the Last Frame Saved the Visitors From a Possible Defeat.

Taking their stand at the plate with the score one to the good, the Trinity baseball team, of this city, proceeded to round out a certain victory Saturday afternoon in their final trip to the rubber and when the fusillade of bingles cleared away, the local contingent had a four run lead over their rivals, the Mt. Pleasant nine, on whose grounds the affair was staged. The home players succeeded in retrieving two of the counters in their last visit to the plate but fell two short of tying the score.

The final score was 10 to 8 and the Plainfielders won the game by some skillfull bunching of hits and contributed errors. Harvey and E. French led the visitors' attack, the former securing two double sackers and a like number of singles and the latter a trio of one-base clouts and a brace of sacrifices. Mowen was the hit garnerer for the home stickers, ledding with two singles and a double.

TIED AND DREW AWAY IN THE LAST STANZA

After allowing their opponents, the Somerville Klinkers, to score a three-run lead in the third round of a contest on Probasco Field Saturday afternoon, the Hope Chapel Sunday-school Leaguers came back with a great ninth inning rally and won handily by a score of 5 to 4. Steady uphill plugging in which they were spurred on by a loyal band of chorts was responsible for the Hope victory and the Somerville lads were surprised to find themselves suddenly pushed into the rear in the short space of five minutes. The crisis was held off until the ninth inning and then the Chapelites sprang it so suddenly that even the players themselves did not realize that the game was theirs.

Both twirlers were treated to sessions in which bombardments featured and in which the rival batters landed on their deliveries for telling blows. Schott was steady at times although the support accorded him was above the average, his teammates making four spills behind his back. Van Pelt, who twirled for the visitors, held the situation well in hand until the eventful ninth and then the Hope wagon tongue wielders got to his delivery and dented it for the deciding blows.

Hope Chapel pulled the rally which was due to prove fatal to the Somerset county seat lads in the ninth inning when Pete Terry led off with a single and was sent to third by Tonse's bingle between short and third after Grisley had died via the three-strike route. Tonse stole second and the two-base occupants both counted on Luthman's tying smash. Luthman reached second on the swat and scored the winning run on a low throw to plate which was made in an effort to nip him at the home station after Hub Terry had sacrificed him to the far corner.

CADILLAC SHOWS 1914 MODEL

Revolutionary Mechanical Features Increases Efficiency, Economy and Luxury—Develops Speed Without Increasing Engine Revolutions—Many Other Improvements.

Motorists, mindful of the Cadillac achievements in the development of the automobile, and therefore accustomed to look to that car each year for new and progressive features, are reading with avidity the 1914 announcement just issued, in which at last is revealed the nature of the latest models. In view of past Cadillac accomplishments, which included the introduction of the first practical electric cranking device, and therefore the relegation forever of the awkward method of pumping the engine into activity by means of hand labor, the keenest curiosity was aroused as to what the new mechanical element would be.

That curiosity has been appeased by the announcement that the 1914 Cadillac will be endowed with a two-speed direct drive axle. While a curiosity has been somewhat satisfied, the new mechanical element has started a buzzing of discussion and comment, because the device will have a revolutionary effect on the results attained in luxury, flexibility and economy. Executives of the Cadillac are already assured by letters, telegrams, and a rush of visitors that no other forward step ever taken has created such a profound impression or aroused more widespread interest.

The methods by which the 1914 Cadillac two-sped direct drive axle secures increased luxury, efficiency and economy are most appreciated by the man who is thoroughly versed in automobile mechanics. Some idea, however, may be given of this revolutionary feature in more or less non-technical language.

It is not merely as an axle that this mechanism is a great advance in motor car construction. Its peculiar function is of another nature. Heretofore the power of the engine has been transmitted to the rear axle by a single bevel pinion and a single bevel driving gear. Therefore there could be at all times, and under all the various conditions of travel which might arise, only one ratio between the revoutions of the engine and the revolutions of the rear axle as it absorbed the power, except for the changes afforded by the shifting of the transmission gears by the hand lever. Now, however, by means of the new axle, the Cadillac will have two direct drive gear ratios in transmitting the power to the rear wheels.

Usually the single direct drive gear ratio ranges from 3.5 to 1 down to 4 to 1, according to the car and according to the success of the mechanical designer in securing that ratio best adapted to his particular car. That single ratio had to do the best it could be under all circumstances Now, with two ratios, there is just double the means for promoting the economical and efficient application of the power developed by the engine to the driving of the car.

On the 1914 Cadillac the low direct drive gear ratio is 3.66 to 1; the high direct drive gear ratio is 2.5 to 1. The low is especially adapted for city driving where traffic problems are met, where sped must be low and stops and starts frequent. A simple convenient electric switch changes the gear ratio from the low direct to the high direct and the car is ready for conditions which permit a speed rate of 16 miles per hour or more.

With the high direct gear ratio in operation at any given speed of the engine, the speed of the car is increased about forty-two per cent. over what it would be with the low direct gear ratio. This point is illustrated thus: At an engine speed of 700 revolutions per minute with the low direct gear, the car speed is 21 miles per hour; employing the high direct gear will increase the speed to thirty miles per hour without any increase in engine speed.

One of the prime benefits claimed is lower fuel consumption because of the facts just stated and because the fuel is used to greater advantage. Other advantages include less friction in high gear by reason of the parts moving more slowly, hence less wear and almost the entire elimination of vibration. There is also greatly increased comfort due to a luxurious smoothness of operation; yet these desirable results are obtained without complicating the engine.

There are several other features of the 1914 Cadillac that are attracting much attention, an improved and simplified Cadillac Delco electrical automatic cranking, lighting and ignition system; a more efficient carburetor; stunning body designs and many refinements of details.—Thompson Auto Co.

CEDAR BROOK IS ANOTHER MENACE

Second Stream Condemned by the Union Co. Mosquito Commission.

WORK OF INSPECTORS

Declare That Mosquito Larvae Does Not Develop in Tier's Pond Because of the Presence of Fish—Efforts of Oiling Only Temporary.

Pursuant to the exposure of certain unhealthy districts in the midst of the Queen City, representatives of the Union County Mosquito Extermination Commission have now added their complaint that Cedar Brook, running from South avenue to Randolph road, is a menace to the health of the neighborhood through which it passes. When interviewed recently about the condition of the stream, a local inspector declared that it was the worst mosquito breeder in Plainfield, and that if it was not for the continual oiling of the stagnant places by the commission, thousands of the pests would swarm from them. The oiling, he explained, was only temporary, its effect being destroyed by every shower when there is enough water to run off. There is apparently not enough grade to the local stream to permit the carrying off of water in dry weather, although in the winter months its volume is quite large. In many places the retaining walls have crumbled in, blocking the passage and providing excellent pockets for the mosquito larvae to develop.

Numerous complaints have been received by the local authorities over the stagnant conditions, and the foul-smelling odor that consequently lingers in the stream bed. Last year the Mosquito Commission expended a large sum for the cleaning of the stream, but because of the fact that natural conditions seem to negate all attempts at an artificial remedy, the brook has apparently reverted to its former troublesome state. The only ultimate solution of the problem appears to be in the construction of a conduit, sufficiently wide to convey the spring freshets, and yet which because of its covering will entirely obliterate all disagreeable effects of stagnancy. Such a course, while it appears an expensive proposition, seems to be about the only permanent source of relief. This plan was brought before the Common Council last year but was finally laid aside for future contemplation, in view of other heavy expenses which then confronted the city.

Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett, when consulted about various proposed schemes for the settling of Cedar brook difficulties, declared that it would be practically impossible to carry off the flow through sewer pipes because of the swollen nature of the stream during the wet season. He declared, however, that in his belief, if a uniform width of twelve feet was maintained, cement walls could be constructed, the top sealed, and there would be no further cause for complaint.

Two interesting exhibits of mosquito larvae (wrigglers) have been placed in the show windows of Armstrong's and Rowley's pharmacies by the Commission, with a view to educating many agnostics as to the real appearance of the little winged pests. These exhibits are accompanied by placards with the words "Watch 'em grow, Mosquito Larvae from Cedar Brook, Plainfield, N. J." It would be wise for those skeptics, who persist in claiming that the wrigglers found in stagnant water on their premises are tadpoles, young fish, the product of thunder-showers, or what-not, and who maintain that mosquitoes breed in bushes and hedges, to look at these and learn just how the "skeeter" evolves. It is interesting to note how many persons will fight to the last ditch to prevent any draining or filling from being done upon their premises, when such work would not only enhance their own property values but would be to the promotion of the health of the whole community.

The asbence of mosquitoes in Plainfield and the vicinity is very noticeable, when the district is compared with surrounding regions where little or no work has been done. Newark, for instance, has been plagued beyond measure this summer, while local merchants have suffered from the loss in sales of mosquito netting, joss sticks, and other means of prevention and destruction. Too much credit cannot be given to local inspectors for this relief, for when it is realized that the discovery of one breeding water barrel means the freedom of that neighborhood from thousands of mosquitoes, some regard for the work done may be comprehended.

A thorough inspection of Tier's pond showed that no breeding was going on there, despite the fact that the place is unsanitary in many other ways. This is due to the prevalence of fish who feed on the larvae. It is impossible because of the lack of funds for the Union county workers

ARE STILL SEEKING A MISSING CLERK

Disappearance of Young Man With Firm's Funds Shrouded In Mystery.

Elizabeth, July 29—The disappearance of Martin Tomsing, a clerk in the office of the Swan & Finch Company, 151 Maiden Lane, New York city, while on the way to this city with the payroll of $932 for the Elizabeth plant, is still an unsolved mystery. The police and detective departments have made a thorough search of the city without avail. Working with the local officers are the police of Jersey City, New York and Bayonne.

The young man left New York city Saturday, on the ferry which connected with the 11 o'clock train from Communipaw for this city. He was guarded by another employe until he reached the ferry. That was the last seen of him. He did not arrive in this city. The local office, believing that there might have been some unexpected delay, made inquiries this morning, and upon learning the facts immediately reported the matter to the police.

Some time ago Tomsing was afflicted with aphasia, and his employers now believe that the affliction has returned and he may be wandering, either in New York city or somewhere in New Jersey.

He was employed by the oil company for the past six years and has had a most exemplary record. He is married and resides in New York city, although the company has no correct record of his address.

PTOMAINES MADE EXCURSIONISTS ILL

Chicken Salad and Ice Cream Bring Suffering to Many Women.

Elizabeth, July 29—The fact leaked out yesterday that more than ninety of the 200 who attended the excursion of the Elizabeth Plug Hat Association have been stricken with ptomaine poisoning, some seriously while others escaped with light attacks. After leaving the city upon a chartered steamer the party went up the Hudson river and while aboard the boat a lunch, which included chicken salad and ice cream, was served. Following the ride up the river the party went to Whitestone, Long Island, where a clambake was served.

It is said that only about one hundred partook of the salad upon the boat. The majority of those were the women who were stricken.

Among those who suffered from ptomaine poisoning were Mr. and Mrs. John Reuter, Jr., of Hampton place. Mrs. Reuter is still seriously ill, but Mr. Reuter has somewhat recovered from the effects. William Hulskamper, custodian of the Court House, was made very ill. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Fagan, and Mr. Fagan's mother were all rendered extremely sick, but are now better.

Mrs. George T. Carroll, of 179 Elizabeth avenue, suffered seriously. Many others have required the attention of physicians. Every effort was made to keep the wholesale poisoning a secret, so the facts did not become known until yesterday.

Frederick Bender, president of the association, said that he did not understand there were any serious cases of poisoning, although he had heard that a number had been stricken. He believes that either the ice cream or the chicken salad which was served upon the boat was responsible.

It is probable that there will be an investigation by the health authorities.

PETER WEAVER'S FUNERAL.

The funeral service for Peter V. Weaver to be held tomorrow afternoon at 2.30 at the home of his daughter, Mrs. V. L. Frazee, 112 Madison avenue, will not be private as stated yesterday. The interment however, will be private. Rev. Charles M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, will officiate.

Burlington and Riverton Also Invaded—First News Story to the Daily Press From Mrs. E. F. Feickert, Head of State Association.

(By Mrs. E. F. Feickert, president of the New Jersey Association for Woman Suffrage.)

Trenton, July 29.—With banners gaily flying, the car of the New Jersey delegation which is to take part in the big suffrage demonstration in Washington on Thursday, reached Trenton at noon yesterday. A big white sign bears the words in black letters, "New Jersey 1914." The large yellow banners of the New Jersey Woman's Suffrage Association, the New Jersey Men's League for Woman Suffrage, and the Plainfield and North Plainfield Equal Suffrage League are displayed as well as numerous pennants reading "Votes for New Jersey Women." C. L. Riley, president of the Men's League, whose car carries the delegation, is acting as chauffeur and the other members of the delegation are Mrs. Riley, president of the Plainfield Suffrage League; Miss Edith Abbott and Mrs. E. F. Feickert and Mrs. M. K. Colvin, respectively president and vice-president of the State association. The New Jerseyites were joined by a car carrying New York members of the Congressional Union; Mrs. Mary Ware Dennett, Mrs. Rheta Childe Dorr, Mrs. Frances M. Bjorkman and Miss Helen Todd. An enthusiastic open-air meeting was held on State street here just outside the Anti-Suffrage Association. The Antis objected to the meeting and asked the police to stop it. Needless to say, this request was not complied with.

At 3 o'clock the two delegations left for Camden. A meeting was held there late in the afternoon and meetings were also held in Burlington and Riverton.

A splendid conference of women workers for suffrage was held in Asbury Park on Saturday. It was conducted by Mrs. E. F. Feickert, president of the New Jersey Woman's Suffrage Association, and workers from the following counties were present: Cape May, Camden, Burlington, Essex, Hudson, Monmouth, Mercer, Morris, Union, Somerset and Passaic. Plans for shore work during the summer were laid out and many women volunteered to assist the association's special worker, Mrs. Morris Decker, of East Orange, who will be working in the resorts between Long Branch and Bay Head until the middle of August, when she will go to Cape May and Atlantic Counties for two or three weeks. Among those who spoke at the conference were Mrs. C. L. Riley, of Plainfield; Mrs. R. B. Currie, of Cranford; Miss Esther G. Ogden, of Elizabeth; Mrs. Harry Compton, of Orange; President of the Equal Franchise Society, Mrs. G. G. Scott, of Montclair; Mrs. Morris Decker and Mrs. M. K. Colvin, of East Orange; Dr. Mary Cummins, of Paterson; Mrs. Robert Christie, of Bayonne; Mrs. Marian Holmes, of Franklinville; Mrs. M. C. Ferker and Doctor Flynn, of Merchantville; Mrs. F. H. Fittensor, of Trenton, and Mrs. J. F. Van Riper, of Westfield.

The matter of defeating W. A. Leonard, of Elizabeth, a candidate for re-election to the assembly from Union county, was discussed and everyone promised to do his utmost to influence Union county friends. The leaguers in the county will canvas their respective towns against him in September. Mr. Leonard, it will be remembered, arose in an anti-meeting in Elizabeth last month and promised to do his best to defeat the suffrage amendment if he was re-elected.

An amusing story was told at the conference which showed that the Antis are outdoing the suffragists in the matter of militancy. An auto had been decorated with suffrage banners, etc., and left standing outside a Belmar hotel the evening before while its occupants were in for dinner. On their return they found their car stripped of its decorations. Their indignant exclamations brought out the fact that one of the by-standers knew the names of the offenders who lived in Spring Lake. Off to Spring Lake went the suffragists and they easily located the purloiners of their decorations. On being questioned, they acknowledged taking the banners and at first refused to give

COUNCILMEN FOR LIBERAL SUNDAY

GIVES OUT INTERVIEWS

Endorses Rev. C. H. Mallery's Views As Expressed In Clergyman's Contributed Editorial In The Daily Press.

Agreeing with the views expressed by Councilman A. D. Edgar, of the first ward, Councilman Cornelius van Herwerden, of the second ward, today announced himself as in favor of a more liberal Sunday. He heartily endorsed the policy of the Plainfield Playgrounds Commission in holding band concerts and other high class instructive and edifying entertainments at Parker Field on Sunday afternoons.

"I would like to see the antiquated Blue Laws wiped off the statue books," said the councilman. "This is a progressive age and things are not run as they were a hundred years ago. Laws then enacted are not in keeping with our times. The world is getting better and broader all the time. We don't believe any longer that to properly observe the Sabbath day we should sit on the porch and twirl our thumbs. We must have some enjoyment.

"If I had the say I would see that the boys played baseball and the girls also indulged in some innocent sports on Sunday afternoon. What is the harm? Life is short at the best and we should get the most out of it while we can and the best period of life is when we are young. I liked what Rev. Mr. Mallery had to say in that contributed editorial in your paper last Saturday. He suits me exactly. Let's all be young and all be broad. That's my idea. I hope the legislature will repeal those Blue Laws."

THRILLING STORY TOLD BY A NIGHT WATCHMAN

Kirkman Wiggins, night watchman for Frederick W. Wallace, of Hillside avenue, told the police today of a pistol duel he had last night with a man he found attempting to hide near a hedge which surrounds the premises he guards. Hush now, gentle reader, 'tis a stirring tale.

Wiggins said he was making his "rounds" just as his watch ticked past the midnight hour. Suddenly he saw the figure of a man silhouetted against the sky. The stranger was crouched low, groping his way unnoticed along a hedge by the side of the house. The night-watchman called for the "burglar" (Wiggins was sure it was some desperate second-story man) to halt and throw up his hands. Instead the "desperado" drew from his pocket a loaded revolver and sent a bullet whizzing Wiggins' way whereupon the latter responded likewise. Both were poor shots, however, and no damage was done.

Thus is explained the shots that "pierced the midnight air," and awakened residents of that section of the city.

PROCTOR'S BIG SHOW THE BEST OF SEASON

Repeated encores followed the performances yesterday of the "Harmony Beaux and Belles," a clever vocal quartet, which is appearing at Proctor's theatre this week as a head-line attraction until and including tomorrow. Each singer is an accomplished artist. Their speciality is operatic music, and old time ballads. Garbed in costumes to harmonize with the origin of their selections, the impersonations of the four singers make the act truly exceptional.

An Irish comedy entitled, "A Bit of Old Ireland," enacted by the O'Donnell Brothers, also made a hit. The acting is quaint and the dancing, jokes and costumes are all taken from the land of the Shamrock. Robert Emmet Keane & Co., appearing in a bank robbery playlet with thrilling situations and appropriate scenes, entitled "$1,000 Reward;" Harry Rose, an unusually witty comedian, and Wartenberg Brothers, sensational foot-jugglers and musicians, complete the varied program of attractions.

WANT TO BE OVERSEER.

Former Overseer Alexander D. Ayres, now a deputy sheriff of Union county, is a candidate to succed Henry L. DeForest as overseer of the poor of Plainfield, who resigned the office after a brief service. The latter's assistant, Garret T. Dunham, also seeks the place. It is expected that the vacancy will be filled at the regular August meeting of the Common Council.

CITIZENS TRY TO LYNCH DETECTIVE

Railroad's Official Shoots Boy in South Plainfield.

BOY EXPECTED TO LIVE

Detective Shot Into Group of Supposed Signal Breakers In An Effort to Scare—Took Place in Lehigh Valley Yards.

After discharging the bullets in his revolver at a fleeing group of boys in an effort to frighten them, and hitting a seventeen years old youth in the calf of the leg, Jacob Mattis, a detective in the employ of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, had a narrow escape from a lynching in South Plainfield at noon today, when a mob of over 100 citizens, aroused at his apparently uncalled for action, endeavored to mete out justice on the spot. An equal number of cooler-headed persons, however, surrounded him and with the aid of clubs and other handy implements kept the enraged mob at bay until he was hustled away to await the results of the injuries he had inflicted on James Caslick, of 47 Wickley street, West Orange, N. J.

Caslick, with a number of other boys, was playing about the yards of the Lehigh Valley Railroad at South Plainfield and Mattis took it for granted that they were the ones wanted for the numerous petty depredations that have been going on in that vicinity for some time past and for which he had been dispatched to stop by the railroad company. During the past few weeks a number of the railroad company's signals have been broken by mischief makers endangering the lives of patrons of the road, there being a dangerous turn in the road at this point.

Caslick had evidently ridden to South Plainfield aboard a freight train and had alighted at that place to get something to eat at noon, and while passing through the yards of the railroad was detected by Mattis. Following the shooting the injured youth was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital where it was reported that he would recover if no unlooked for complications set in.

ARNOLD WOULD ACCEPT THE COUNTY CLERKSHIP

Friends of James K. Arnold, who keeps a grocery store at 92 Somerset street, North Plainfield, are urging O. P. nomination for county clerk him to become a candidate for the G. of Somerset county and today the former borough councilman anounced that he would make a fight for the nomination provided his fellow Republicans circulate the necessary petition. Preparations have already begun to place Arnold's name in the field and strenuous efforts will be made to land the nomination for the boroughite.

Although he had been mentioned for the county office several weeks ago, Mr. Arnold this morning in a conversation with William L. Smalley, intimated for the first time that he would consent to run, when he said, "I'll make a fight for the nomination, if my friends want me to and circulate my petition."

To a Daily Press reporter he did not speak very enthusiastically about becoming a candidate, saying he was leaving it entirely to his friends whom he wil hold a conference wth n several days.

Mr. Arnold has ben one of Somerset county's staunchest Republicans and has taken active part in the campaigns waged by his party. Besides serving with credit to himself in the Borough Council, he has also served as borough clerk.

PFAFF REAPPOINTED.

Trenton, July 29.—Frank J. Pfaff, of Elizabeth, was reappointed as a member of the Union County Board of Elections today by Gov. Fielder. He is a Democrat. The list of Democratic pominations to the twenty-one county election boards filed with the Governor by State Chairman Grosscup and the Governor immediately signed the appointment. The Republican appointments to these boards was made some time ago, George J. Stewart, of Elizabeth, being reappointed.

TOO HOT FOR WORK.

Evidently because of the intense heat, enough members of the North Plainfield Board of Education did not appear at the regular monthly meeting last night to form a quorum, so the session was adjourned until a later date.

A COMING WEDDING.

Miss Helen Lynch, of East Fifth street, and Daniel Gray, of Dunellen, will be married in St. Mary's church on Saturday, August 2, at 5:45 o'clock.

ITALIANS ARE SEEN IN "THE CIVIL DEATH"

"La Monte Civile," a five-act drama, and a dramatic production of unique character and unusual merit was produced last night at Saengerbund Hall by the Italian Dramatic Club before a large and appreciative audience. The performance was a great success from a financial viewpoint as well as artistic.

The story of the play was of a historic nature, showing life as it appeared in Calabria, a town of southern Italy in 1850. The audience listened with rapt attention during the unfolding of the story of a convict, who, after escaping from prison is forced to stifle his paternal instinct for the welfare of his child. Standing above the other scenes, which were generally conversational in nature, was the one in which Corrado, the convict, finds that his wife and child were still living, and he charges his wife with infidelity, which happily proved to be without foundation.

The cast included Donato Di Lonardo, who played the leading part; Alberto Coletta, Enrico Venga, Donato Chiafaro, and Vincenzo Spilotro all of this city. They were ably assisted by the Misses Rosina Riberi, Giovannina Musto and Annina Nicchi, of New York.

TRINITY EXCURSION ASSURES LONG DAY

Appropriate Time of the Summer For a Day's Recreation At Asbury Park.

Coming at a period of the summer when the season's festivities are at a high water mark at Asbury Park and suffering from a spell of intense heat, the excursion which will leave here next Thursday under the auspices of the Trinity Reformed church, Marconnier chapel, Netherwood Reformed and Mt. Pleasant Sunday-schools, bids fair to be one of the largest that have been sent from Plainfield this summer. An added feature of this time alloted for recreation by the sea, the excursionists remaining away from the Queen City's environments for eleven long hours.

Surf bathing is at its best at this time of the year and thousands are daily taking advantage of this popular feature of New Jersey's seaside rendezvous. Those who enjoy a day's fishing will find the finny tribe biting as it never has before from the Asbury Park piers, some record hauls having been made there during the past two weeks. Since Saturday night six striped bass have been hooked by the surf fishermen, one of which tipped the scales at eighteen pounds.

The train leaves Clinton avenue Thursday morning at 8:05 o'clock, stopping at Grant avenue at 8:10, Plainfield at 8:15 and Netherwood at 8:20. Returning the excursionists will leave the shore at 7:10 o'clock.

TENDERED A PARTY IN HONOR OF HIS SEVENTH BIRTHDAY

A most enjoyable lawn party was given yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Galligan, in honor of their son, James, who celebrated his seventh birthday at that time. The afternoon was passed in playing games and listening to musical selections, after which refreshments were served.

Those present were the Misses Emily and Pauline Bittner, Fannie DePhillippo, Clare, Isabelle and Virginia Geary, Grace Hendrickson, Olive Johnston, Hazel Roberts, Ella and Lucy Roland, Mary Smith, Lillian Snyder and Irma Schmidt, and George Bittner, Vincent Breslin, John Clawson, Eugene Geary, Daniel and Elbert Hendrickson, Anthony and Martin Kane, William and Frank Santario, Geoffrey and Norman Sofield and Heinz Schmidt, and the Misses May and Nellie Harlow, Winifred Savord and Nellie McDonough.

YOUNG MAN ENDS LIFE BY HANGING

JAILED AS A DRUNK

Patrolman Finds Him Dead In Cell—Aged Mother Is Prostrated by His Sad End—The Funeral Will Be Held Tomorrow.

Crazed by drink, Richard W. Edmundson, a painter, 23 years old, of 830 West Third street, committed suicide early this morning by hanging himself in cell No. 2 at police headquarters where he was imprisoned following his arrest shortly before midnight. With his belt he had formed a noose which he placed around his neck. Tieing one end to a cross-bar near the roof of the cell he had jumped from the iron cot and strangled himself to death. Suspended in the air with his feet several inches above the concrete floor, his lifeless body was found dead by Patrolman Walsh at 4 o'clock this morning.

Edmundson lived with his aged mother, who is grief-stricken at her son's rash act. Friends and relatives of the victim seem unable to account for his deed. As far as is known he had no financial troubles and was working daily for John D. Vardon, a painting contractor. His relatives had censured him for his over-indulgence in the use of intoxicants.

Patrolman Vanderweg shortly before 12 o'clock last night noticed Edmundson in a helpless condition at Plainfield avenue and West Front street and placed him under arrest. He was lodged in a cell directly opposite that occupied by Edward Hammond, a machinist, of Baltimore, Md., who had applied at headquarters for a night's lodging. He talked fluently with Hammond despite his intoxicated condition and had cursed the patrolman for arresting him. At 3 o'clock Hammond went to sleep. He was not awakened by Edmundson, who silently prepared to take his life.

Patrolman Walsh, whose period of duty for the day was completed at 4 o'clock, walked, for no reason in particular, past cell No. 2. Peering through the bars he saw the dead body resting against the side of the cell.

Walsh called to Captain Frederickson, who was in charge of headquarters. The captain opened a pen knife and quickly cut the belt which Edmundson used to take his life. City Physician Norman W. Currie was summoned and said the man was beyond all medical aid, as death had occurred an hour previous to the finding of the body.

Besides his mother, Mrs. Nora Edmundson, a brother, William Edmundson, of Vandercliff, Pa., and two sisters survive.

Funeral services, which will be private, will be held tomorrow afternoon at his late home. Interment will be made in St. Mtry's cemetery.

Her topic will be "Reasons Against Equal Suffrage." Arthur Maclay, of this city, will preside and all men and women are invited to atend.

At the institution today, physicians said that the victim could not live.

For three months, Martin had been in the employ of the New York Drydocks Construction Company as a foreman. He is thirty-two years of age.

FOSS THE PUZZLE IN THE BAY STATE

Democratic Governor, Thrice Elected, Out of Harmony, May Get G. O. P. Nom.

Boston, Mass., July 29.—Lines are being drawn for one of the most interesting State campaigns in the history of Massachusetts. In the Bay State this fall an entire State ticket, both branches of the legislature and numerous county officers are to be chosen at the polls. The campaign is now on for the nominations, which will be made at a general primary two months hence.

At present the political situation appears to be in the worst possible muddle. The confusion that now prevails may be said to arise wholly from the attitude of Governor Foss, who is now serving his third term. The Governor is expected to be a candidate for a fourth term. But, strange as it may seem, even his most intimate political associates do not know whether he will seek the Democratic nomination or the Republican nomination, or whether he will pass up both parties and run independently.

Though elected three times on the Democratic ticket, Governor Foss is undoubtedly out of sympathy with the Democratic party at present. His public statements say that he believes the Democratic policy of tariff revision is no better than the Republican policy as evidenced on the Aldrich Bill. The Governor is first, last and all the time fighting for reciprocal trade relations with foreign countries.

There is no question but that in the past few weeks the Governor has been sparring with the Republicans, and this has given rise to the belief in some circles that he may enter the Republican primaries. The Governor was a strong Republican until a few years ago, when he accepted a Democratic nomination for Congress, and many Democrats accuse him of still being a Republican at heart. The Governor has lent countenance to this by his recognition of Republicans in his appointments and by the fact that he has sent for many of the Republican leaders to talk over the situation. At the present time one of his Republican friends is circulating petitions to have his name placed on the Republican primary ballot, but whether with or without the Governor's sanction is not known.

There is a growing belief that the only logical course for Governor Foss to pursue is to run as an independent candidate. And it is believed the Governor himself is inclined to take this view. It is doubtful if he could poll anything like the full party strength on either the Democratic or Republican tickets. But by running independently it is figured that he could draw a considerable element from both parties.

As an independent candidate the Governor probably would make a reform in the labor situation his big local issue. He maintains that the leadership of organized labor in Massachusetts and throughout the country is corrupt, and that the members of organized labor would support any movement for reform within the organization.

With the Democratic party more or less disrupted over Governor Foss the Republicans believe they have a good chance of reclaiming the Bay State at the fall election. The Democratic nomination for governor is expected to go to Lieutenant Governor David I. Walsh. Last year Mr. Walsh withdrew from the fight for the Democratic nomination for governor because he believed that Governor Foss was entitled on his record to another term. Mr. Foss was reelected and Mr. Walsh was elected the first Democratic lieutenant governor in the history of the State. In announcing his candidacy for governor this year Mr. Walsh declared he had the assurance of Governor Foss that he (Governor Foss) would not seek nomination on the Democratic ticket. Mr. Walsh is expected to receive the support of the regular Democratic organization.

The Republicans enter the campaign handicapped by the lack of a strong candidate and the opposition of the Progressives. Colonel Everett C. Benton is the only avowed candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, and there appears to be little doubt but that he will receive the nomination without opposition. Colonel Benton has the reputation of being an able business man, but is without experience in public life. Last year he was an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination.

Just what figure the Progressives will cut in the fight for the governorship is problematical. The party organization now has several thousand nomination papers out throughout the State, and an attempt is to be made to file for all county as well as State offices. The Progressives have started off in earnest, and despite the fact that the enrollment of the party is relatively small, every member throughout the State is being canvassed for his signature. The Progressive nomination for the governorship will go without opposition to Charles Sumner Bird, who is already busy on the stump throughout the State. Mr. Bird is a conservative business man and an able politician and has admittedly developed much strength.

HEIGHTH OF SEASON AT JERSEY RESORT

Activities At Asbury Park During Present Week With Plans For Near Future.

Asbury Park, July 28.—While this week will witness the conclusion of the first half of Asbury Park's summer season, the best entertainment is yet to come. Plans are being made by the resort to provide many attractions during September, which month is the best part of the season at the seashore. Free music, fireworks, a carnival on Wesley lake and all of the regular amusements along the boardwalk and Ocean avenue will be the means of enabling the hotels to add four weeks of new business to their regular season. Prof. Tali Esen Morgan is arranging to keep the Ocean Grove Auditorium open until October and will give a daily program of organ recitals and miscellaneous musical entertainment. Pryor's orchestra will remain at the Casino for dancing. Surf bathing will be continued as the ocean is warmer in September than any other month.

Among the attractions scheduled for this week is the famous Children's Festival at the Ocean Grove Auditorium next Saturday night in which over one thousand youngsters will take part. On the following Saturday night the oratorio Messiah will be given. Two special trains will be run from Elizabeth to accommodate music lovers of that city and Plainfield, one leaving the Pennsylvania station at 8:45 a. m. for the benefit of those who desire to stay at the shore all day. The other leaves at 2:08 p. m. A special train for Elizabeth will leave at the conclusion of the oratorio, about 11 p. m., the round trip fare being one dollar.

Madame Rosa Olitzka of the Chicago Grand Opera Company has been engaged to give a special concert in the auditorium August 16.

Plainfield fishermen are interested in the seventh annual casting tournament of the Asbury Park Fishing Club which will take place next Saturday from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. at Roseld and Norwood avenues in Deal. About $2,000 worth of prizes will be given in the six events

Plans for the baby parade are well under way. The identity of Princess Cinderella will be announced this week and that of Queen Titania on August 9. Prof. Morgan is making elaborate arrangements for the coronation of the Queen in the Ocean Grove Auditorium August 15. The parade will take place on the afternoon of August 27 and contrary to the usual custom will this year form in the casino instead of the arcade and pass up the centre of Ocean avenue into the amphitheatre at Sixth avenue and there disband. Col. Aymar, president of the carnival association, is of the opinion that the practise of marching the "kiddies" down the avenue and back again is too much of a task for the youngsters, especially if the afternoon be an exceedingly warm one. No entries from Plainfield have yet been received. The list of prizes this year includes a silver cup for every child participating, a pound box of Liggett's candy and a box of talcum powder.

After several attempts to produce a spectacular carnival on Deal lake the carnival association has decided that the expense is too heavy to give a show which would satisfy public expectation and for that reason no Deal lake carnival will be attempted this year. In its place a series of sports will be given on the afternoon of August 8 and a fireworks display at night.

The Value of Flavor In Food.

Every one knows that a savory dish is more palatable, more appetizing and more digestible than one that is flat and without flavor. Unfortunately, every one does not seem to know how to give each dish a distinctive flavor at the expenditure of little extra time or money.

The woman who is fortunate enough to have a kitchen garden at her back door, no matter how tiny it may be, can concoct all the delicious flavors she needs. In such a garden there should always be a row of young onions and always a row of young carrots. These should be planted every three or four weeks, to keep them constantly on hand. Then there should be parsley, young and green and delicate in flavor. Various herbs might find a place in the flavoring row, and tomato plants could also be called into account to give their fruit to the flavor-loving cook.

If fresh tomatoes are not on hand, canned tomatoes can be used. They are inexpensive, and if a tin of them is opened and immediately emptied into a glass or crockery dish with a cover, they will keep on ice for several days. Therefore they will answer for flavoring soup, meat stews and vegetable dishes for half a week.

The spice shelf should contain celery salt, red pepper of some sort, Cayenne or paprika, whole black pepper and a little wooden mill to grind it in, salt, of course, various herbs, and the usual spices, such as cinnamon, nutmeg, allspice, mustard, etc. Capers and tiny pickled peppers, pickles of several sorts and, for flavoring desserts, maraschino cherries, candied fruit and the flavoring extracts can be used to advantage.

The woman with even a small supply of flavoring agents should never be at a loss to provide an interesting dish. For instance, if she would make a lamb stew, she might add sliced little onions and a shredded sweet green pepper or a diced tomato to it. Then, when it is cooked, she might flavor it with salt, celery salt and a dash of cayenne, and serve it with rice croquettes or farina balls flavored with grated nutmeg.

Some Cookery Suggestions

PUTTING UP PLUMS.

PLUMS make many tempting preserves. These have a piquancy which qualifies them as appetizers. They are good side dishes to serve with meats.

Plum Jam.—In making plum jam it should be remembered that should the plums be hard and sour more sugar will be required than otherwise. The plums should be divided and stones taken out. Spread the fruit on large dishes and sprinkle sugar over them. Three pounds of sugar should be allowed to four pounds of plums. Let them remain in the sugar all night. The next day put into a preserving kettle and bring to boil, carefully stirring with a wooden spoon. A few of the stones should be cracked and kernels peeled and added to jam a few minutes before it is finished.

Put Up With Vinegar.

Mock Olives.—Take a teaspoonful of white mustard seed and one of table salt to one pint of vinegar. Let the plums be of full growth, but not ripe. Boil the vinegar and pour it over the plums. Repeat this three days in succession. Greengages are best for this purpose.

Sweet Pickled Plums.—Take a half gallon of almost green plums and scald till the skins are tender. Drain well and place in jars. Have a sirup made of two pounds of sugar, one pint of cider vinegar, a teaspoonful each of whole cloves and mace. Pour this over the plums while hot and seal.

Plum Butter.—Take three quarts of half ripe plums and boil them for fifteen minutes. Rub through a colander, add one pound of sugar, one teacupful of cider vinegar, half a teaspoonful each of ground cloves, mace and cinnamon. Place on the fire and boil for half an hour without scorching. Put in glass jars and seal while hot. Keep in a cool, dark place.

Nicely Spiced.

Spiced Plums.—Take half a gallon of plums and boil five minutes. Pour off the water and add three pounds of sugar, one teaspoonful of ground cloves, allspice and cinnamon and one pint of vinegar. Boil half an hour, stirring constantly. Place in jars and seal while hot.

Plum Preserves.—Pour boiling water over the plums to take off the skins. Make a sirup of one pound of sugar and one cupful of water to each pound of fruit. When the sirup is boiling pour over the plums. Let this stand overnight; then drain. Boil the sirup again, skim and pour over the plums. Let them remain in this another day. Put over the fire in the sirup and boil until clear. Remove the fruit with a skimmer and pack carefully in jars. Boil the sirup until thick, pour over the plums and seal.

The Driver Was Indignant.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

A Kansas Horse Carries a Big Sunshade.

WHEN the children came in daddy was looking at a picture. Jack was the first to peep over his shoulder. "Why, it's a bull with an umbrella over its back!"

"Let me see," Evelyn urged, and then she added, "Why, so it is."

"Yes," daddy said. "In Japan bullocks or oxen are used for pulling loads just as we use horses.

"In the summer, when the sun is hot, they make these umbrellas for the bullocks and for their horses. The umbrellas are really only awnings made by hanging matting over a bamboo pole. One end of the pole is fastened to the cart.

"Then when the animal starts off he walks along in the sun comfortably shaded, and his master, who walks beside him, also is able to keep cool.

"The wisdom of this care for the animals is shown in the affection they have for their masters and the amount of work they are able to do. Not even an animal is able to work well unless it is comfortable."

"We are kind to old Dobbin," Jack spoke up. "We always have a straw sunbonnet for him to wear when he goes out."

"Well," said daddy, "a farmer out in Kansas does better than that. He has an umbrella made for his favorite horse. It is a sort of canopy such as one sees over phaetons. This canopy is made of imitation leather and is finished around the outside with a handsome fringe. As he trots along this fringe keeps the flies off the horse's back.

"Yes, it might be a good idea to get a parasol for Dobbin, but ours is such a pampered horse that he might not care for it. I've noticed that Dobbin likes to stop along the road, where there are shady trees overhead and nice patches of grass to nibble.

"Some horses would rather be in fashion than be comfortable. They are just like some foolish little girls who want to wear their little patent leather shoes all the time, even when it is hot, and patent leather shoes hurt one's feet.

"An example of this pride was, perhaps, shown by two express horses in the city who were fitted with neat and becoming straw bonnets, much against their will.

"While their master was in a shop leaving some goods, each horse tore the other's bonnet off its head.

"When their master came out of the shop and saw them standing there bonnetless he was so amazed and indignant that he said he would not buy them any more millinery."

Waistcoats Are a Conspicuous Detail.

SMART OUTING COAT.

This jaunty coat of coq de roche serge makes a brilliant dash of color against an out of door background, and the vivid red of the model is particularly effective in combination with a dainty frock of machine embroidered batiste.

Sheet and Pillowcase Shower.

A young woman who belonged to a sewing club composed of six members announced her engagement, and the other members planned this most unique shower, to which they asked the men—that is, each asked an escort. These girls conceived the happy idea which made this affair a reality.

Each one made a pair of sheets and a pair of pillowcases. Then, arrayed in these ghostly garments, they presented themselves at the house of the bride elect. They all met at the house next door and dressed. The bride's mother had been taken into the secret and looked out for the refreshments, which the men had sent up. After the surprise was over and the white costumes taken off it was explained that the sheets and pillowcases would next be seen neatly laundered and tied up with sachets of lavender for the linen chest.

A Picnic Shelf.

A woman who gives her friends and children picnics during the spring and summer has a "picnic shelf," and she starts it just about now. She sets aside one shelf in her cupboard and puts on it many little things that one might otherwise throw away—the little cheese or olive bottles or a good shaped jam jar for packing picnic dainties. All the oiled paper from the packaged brands of biscuit is just as good as the bought kind in the roll, and these she saves. A mayonnaise bottle she refills with the homemade variety. Corks, attractive strings, candy and tin boxes she finds good use for later. Then she watches the magazines and papers for new picnic suggestions, and it is surprising how many new ideas for salad, sandwich and other dainty things she collects in this way.

also rolls slightly upward. The plaiting lace under the brim is a dainty notion and softens the line of the hat.

Chinese Punch.

Juice of two lemons, juice of three oranges, one cupful of sugar, one cupful of water, one inch of stick cinnamon, four whole cloves, one drop of oil of peppermint, one-half tablespoonful chopped preserved ginger and mint leaves.

Make sirup by boiling water six minutes. Add spices and let cool. Add fruit juices and strain. Pour over cake of ice in punch bowl.

Women Demand Something New and Attractive Every Day, Hence We Have Variety in Line, Material and Color.

The blouse with plaited peplum is growing more in favor every day, and the plaits are so shallow, and are pressed in so flat, that they add nothing to the width of the figure. Of course, though, it is understood they are only suitable for soft fabrics, with practically no body to them. A wiry mohair or heavy ratine would be absurd in a design like 7804, while in voile, soft crepe, dimity, charmeuse, or crepe de chine, plain or flowered it would be simply adorable. Some of the latest models have a blouse of flowered chepe de chine, with plain silk crepe skirt, and the same idea could be carried out in less expensive lawns and dimities. There are the loveliest flowered lawns at very reasonable prices, and with a girdle of soft satin ribbon matching the flower, or in black moire, one can have a frock that is not alone charming but is really cheap. No small item in the summer, when so many, many frocks are necessary, if one would keep looking fresh and dainty. Have you noticed the tiny frills that finish the top of the new girdles? Chiffon, net or tulle are used for them, and they give the qualntest finish to the girdle. Patterns for this blouse are cut in five sizes, 34 to 42, and for the 36-inch size, 4 1-4 yards 36-inch material will be required, with 7-8 yard for girdle.

The skirt with which it is combined, 7805, shows a plaited section at the foot, which brings it into harmony with the blouse. The waist line is raised just a little, and the tunic is in two sections. Five pattern sizes are obtainable, 22 to 30, and for size 24, 5 yards 36-inch material will be needed. While the measurements for the dress may seem excessive for present modes, the plaited peplum and flounce use up quite a lot.

No matter how little you go out, you really need a separate wrap of the dressy type like 8871. And the cost does not have to be very great. There are some attractive brocades, that at this time of the year are frequently marked down to almost half the original cost, and they are very wide, so that not a great deal is required. The impressionist style of printing is favored, and some wonderful color combinations can be found in these. Then there is moire which is used a great deal for wraps, and this could be in black, with a bright satin lining. There is just a little draping, and the wrap is in kimono shaping with a seam along the shoulder, so that it can be cut from narrow material. There are four sizes, 32, 36, 40 and 44, and for size 36, 3 3-4 yards 42-inch material will be required. The wrap is shown over a four-gored skirt 6991, with raised waistline, and with plaits at each side. It is cut in five sizes, 22 to 30, and for the 24-inch size, 3 3-4 yards 36-inch material will be required Each pattern is 15 cents.

Dainty Gifts You Can Make For the Wee Baby.

There are many pretty, inexpensive gifts you can make for the new baby with a bit of cloth, a little hand embroidery, and a summer afternoon. The little shoes, 14464 might be of broadcloth or corded silk for the autumn baby or of linen, fine French pique or taffeta silk for the summer baby and the embroidery should be done with white filo silk on a silk or wool material, or, white mercerized cotton on linen or pique. The pattern includes transfers for stamping a pair of these little bootees and a diagram for cutting the soles, which should be sewed to the upper parts of the shoes with cat-stitching.

The little bonnet, 14467, may be of lawn or handkerchief linen, embroidered in solid or eyelet work for summer wear, while for cooler weather, it may be of silk poplin, cashmere or broadcloth with filo silk. The pattern includes little motifs for embroidering the ends of the strings. This bonnet is made for the medium size but it can easily be made smaller or larger by cutting the material for the crown a little smaller or larger than the pattern.

The little sacks of cashmere, chinasilk or fine French flannel are always acceptable gifts for the wee baby and this one, 14326, is very easy to make and to launder as it can be spread out flat, being joined to form the sleeves with little bows of narrow wash ribbon. The flowers may be embroidered in solid work with filo silk in white or a color and the edge of the sack may be finished in buttonholing or may be bound with narrow wash ribbon. The cutting pattern for the sack is included in the transfer pattern. The price of patterns 14464 and 14467 is ten cents each. 14326 is 15 cents.

MISS BILLIE BURKE AND HER MOTORCAR

Miss Billie Burke, Charles Frohman's most popular young star, says she owes a great deal to the man who invented the motorcar. Miss Burke likes to live in the country, and she has a fine place up the Hudson at Hastings. By motor it is only forty minutes from the door of her home to the stage entrance of the Empire Theatre, New York, and so the actress can enjoy all the comforts and joys of a residence in the country while she is playing in the metropolis. Just now Miss Burke is in Europe accumulating health and energy for her next season's tour in "The Amazons."

DAVIS CUP BACK AFTER TEN YEARS

Sweeping Play and Dazzling Victory Over English Singles Cham Clinches Trophy

Wimbledon, England, July 29.—The United States tennis team recaptured from England the Dwight F. Davis challenge cup, emblematic of the championship of the world, when Maurice E. McLoughlin of San Francisco, American champion, defeated Charles P. Dixon, the veteran of the English team, in three straight sets. McLoughlin's winning score was 8–6, 6–3, 6–2.

McLoughlin's decisive victory was the third for America in the series of five for the cup, R. Norris Williams of Philadelphia having defeated Dixon in the singles matches of Friday and McLoughlin and Harold H. Hackett of New York having won the doubles match from the English on Saturday. To qualify to challenge England for the cup the American team won out in preliminary contests in which Canada, Australasia, South Africa, Germany, France and Belgium competed.

By McLoughlin's victory the United States brings back the famous trophy which was lost to England in 1903. Australasia won it from England in 1907, and England regained it in 1912, but now loses it to the United States.

FOTBALL HERO TURNS "PRO."

As a direct tribute to fair Harvard, it rained yesterday. The reason why the rain applied particularly to the Cambridge institution of applied and inhaled education was because George Brickley, of the Everett Brickleys, arrived in Philadelphia, shook hands with Connie Mack, was measured for an Athletic uniform and was expelled forever beyond the edge of the expansive smile of the Intercollegiate Athletic Association. Which is to say that he will never play football for Harvard. Hence, or maybe not hence, but anyhow, it rained. Young Brickley was measured for the Athletic uniform yesterday and will hereafter play ball with the Philadelphia aggregation.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—I have some stock in a Maine corporation formed in 1902. How can I find out if this corporation is still doing business? C. F.

Sporting Editor:

Query—A bets B that Somerville will score more runs in one inning than Plainfield will in the entire game. The final score was Somerville 9, Plainfield 5. The largest number of runs scored in any inning was three. Who wins? C. G. H.

Answer—A loses. Can't see any argument at all.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Has Cliff Randolph signed a contract with the New York Americans? F. T.

Answer—No, not as yet. Frank Chance is trying to get the local boy to act as a jinx dispeller but as yet he has not signed any papers to bind his services.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Can a man score from third base if the first baseman makes an attempt to field a foul grounder from the batter? J. F.

Answer—No, sir; he cannot. The baserunner is not permitted to leave his bag until the pitcher gets the ball again and is on the rubber ready to deliver the ball.

Three Old Maids—Why go west when there were so many available candidates around here?

Sporting Editor.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Where could one purchase airless tires?

Answer—There are only two kinds of tires, solid rubber and pneumatic. I presume you mean the former which can be purchased at any bicycle store.

Sporting Editor:

Query—If two brothers can't agree what is the cause and remedy? J. K. L.

Answer—Why people can't agree is too deep a problem for us to solve.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Did "Hooks" Wiltse, the Giants veteran pitcher, ever live in this city? D. D.

Answer—Yes, about five years ago. His brother still lives in Netherwood and plays on the Somerville baseball team.

Players Should Resent Bad Decisions, Says Jennings

Hugh Jennings is not of the opinion that Manager McGraw is sincere in his instructions to the Giants "not to question the umpires' decisions this season."

"McGraw may have given his men those instructions, but an Irishman always has the right of expressing a second thought," said Hugh.

"The Tigers will be one team this year that will not stand for incorrect decisions on the part of the umpires. When an umpire makes a mistake the fans of the American League can depend on it that my players will display their displeasure. I wouldn't give a cancelled stamp for a man who would not assert his rights.

"I want players who will fight their way through a league race. I want a band of scrappers, not a collection of faltering youths. I do not believe in starting a riot on the ball field or anything that pertains to rowdyism, but I certainly do believe in having the spectators know that we will display vim and ambition when our position is trampled upon.

"The Tigers fought their way through to three pennants, and while I am leading the team they will fight their way to others. If they fail to win it will be because a better team was out ahead. It will not be because we are outgamed.

"There isn't any question in my mind but that umpires in the major leagues give their rulings as they see them, but we are all wrong at times, and when we are wrong others immediately interested have the right to correct us. So it is with umpires."

FISHING NOTES

The crabbing at Sewaren was never better. Several of the boats that returned to Ackor's boathouse were so overcrowded that fishermen had to sit on top of the gunwhale to keep the crabs from biting their feet. Two men carried off fully 300 big crabs and about ten pounds of eels.

The Great Kills boats brought ashore catches up to ten and fifteen weakfish Sunday with a few bluefish among them. The fish seemed to bite best on the last of the flood and the first of the ebb tide.

That heavy storm the latter part of last week drove the bluefish from the coast and they went into the bays. That accounts for the fish being in Great South Bay for the first time this year and probably accounts for the blue in Raritan Bay.

Sea bass are biting well at the New England Banks, and captains who have anchored there report that the bass are very plentiful and will remain in the vicinity for some time. Fluke are also there and they are running larger than usual. The fishing steamer Taurus anchored on these banks several times last week and brought in plenty of fish.

The fishing in Barnegat Bay is great. It is even better this year than it has been for many years, because of the fact that there are so many large weakfish about. The small school fish of three-quarters of a pound are not in evidence, and plenty of sport can be had by fishing with a float and using the rod and reel instead of the large bamboos that are so popular down that way, as the fish put up a beautiful fight when hooked about fifty feet from the boat.

CHECKED AFTER A LIGHTNING START

Arrow A. C. Counted Four Times In Two Innings But That Was All.

Rallying in the last part of the game and holding the Arrow A. C. runless after it pulled a quartet of counters across the registering station in the first two stanzas, the Laurel A. C. came out on the bigger end of an 8 to 4 score in connection with the Parker Field Junior League race yesterday afternoon.

Some good fielding featured the contest, but five spills being totalled up during the nine rounds of play. Both twirlers put up stellar enough exhibitions and the contest itself was little more than a pitchers' battle, either having a chance to win out until the last inning was tolled off.

ATHLETIC'S FLAG IS STILL THE LOFTIEST

Unbeatable Top Notchers Hung Up Another At Expense of the Ironsides.

PARKER FIELD SENIOR LEAGUE.

Yesterday's Results:

Athletics 10, Ironsides 6.

Schedule for This Week:

Tuesday (2.30) Parker A. C. vs. Rovers.

Friday (10.00) Parker A. C. vs. Ironsides.

Friday (1.30) Ironsides vs. Rovers.

Friday (3.30) Athletics vs. Parker A. C.

Standing of the Clubs:

Athletics	4	0	1.000
Rovers	2	2	.500
Parker A. C.	0	2	.000
Ironsides	0	2	.000

Owing to the excursion on Thursday the game scheduled to be played on that date between the Ironsides and Parker A. C. has been pushed ahead to Friday, and as the Junior League team have games scheduled for the Parker Field diamond on that date the contest will probably be staged on Crescent Oval.

Yesterday's contest resulted in a victory for the Athletics, boosting that team's first place lead to 500 points. The Rovers are still plugging away in second place and it is probable that they will start climbing in the busy schedule of week-end contests to be played.

RALLY IN EIGHTH WON FOR ATHLETICS

Rosenson's Homer Features a Game Divided Into Two Parts By Rain.

Errors by Boylan and Pollock in the eighth, together with a base on balls and two hits, brought in five markers for the Athletic team of the Parker Field Senior League on Parker Field yesterday afternoon and sewed up a 10 to 6 victory for that aggregation at the expense of the Ironsides, of North Plainfield.

A feature of the contest was a circuit clout pounded out by Rosenson in the ninth frame and which was one of the longest hits ever made by junior ballists on the playground. The contest was interrupted by Jupiter Pluvius for about twenty minutes in the fourth inning but he finally disappeared and play was resumed.

LOCAL COLORED BALLISTS LEAVE TO JOIN FAST TEAM

WILD WEST FEATURE OF BIG SAUTELLES' CIRCUS

If the question is asked why Sig. Sautelle's Nine Big Shows are heralding a Wild West as an attraction this season, let this be the answer: The Great Caterer to the People's Welfare knows that variety is the nutmeg of existence. The times require "something different." Novelty is the keynote of happiness. Hence, Indians, cowboys and cowgirls (prettiest and chirkiest); the atmosphere of the forests.

And these, greatest of all, headed by Nebraska Bill. This King of the wildwoods and overlord of the Plains is "the real thing," too. Unlike many assumed wild ones that are faking around the country in dirty tents, presuming on gullibility of the public to palm themselves off as Indian-slayers, Nebraska Bill has a record of bravery; of Indian fighting, where fierce tomahawks swung and scalping knives circled, and the penalty of capture meant the fire and stake.

He has battled the redskins in there native heaths. He is a master of woodscraft; he is "the bravest of the brave." He is the genuine article, in fact.

He is in charge of the realistic and lurid section of the Nine Big Shows. The Indians and wild west features he captains are real habitats of woods and forests. This feature of the 9-big Shows will be shown in rings and on hippodrome track. This Wild West novelty is "the trimmings" of the Circus, Menagerie and Hippodrome—the crested coloring of an interesting picture of magnificent realistic painting.

This show will be here on August 4.

to sink their money in boundary swamps or streams, unless aid is forthcoming from the adjoining county. This condition has held up necessary work in many places, much to the distress of Chief Inspector Russell W. Gies, who is hoping that the cooperation of our neighboring counties may be secured for the abolishment of such places next year. It is reported that representatives from many parts of the State have been following with interest the campaign being waged by energetic Union county, with a view to advocating the adoption of similar methods in their home districts. Several commissions have already been formed and it is now only a matter of securing the necessary funds from the State to start the work, which will ultimately cause New Jersey to lose its willingly forfeited title of "Skeeter State."

Local laborers of the Commission are now engaged in draining what has been for years an eye-sore, and malaria dispensary of the East End. It is a swamp located on the property of M. A. Rose, Hillcrest avenue, off of George street. It is planned to make use of this dry season to abolish many places which hold water through the spring months and furnish the early batch of mosquitoes.

MRS. PANKHURST IN INVALID CHAIR

Appearance at Meeting Starts Big Demonstration.

ANNIE KENNEY ARRESTED

Desperately Battles With Police Outside Hall—Mrs. Pankhurst Improves Following Transfusion of Blood—Her Prison License Brings $600.

London, July 29.—Seated in an invalid's chair, wrapped in shawls, with nurses in attendance, Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant suffragette leader, made another dramatic appearance on the stage of the music hall where the militants hold their weekly meetings.

The appearance of the militant leader was the signal for a great display of enthusiasm. Her stay was very brief, and she was afterward carried back to the taxicab in which she had arrived without being molested by the police.

Mrs. Pankhurst spoke briefly, assuring her audience that victory for the cause was approaching. She then put her prison license up at auction. Bids were forthcoming from all parts of the house, and it was finally knocked down for $600.

Miss Annie Kenney was rearrested outside the hall after a desperate struggle. Mounted police had been summoned to disperse the suffrage sympathizers, who fiercely attacked the police.

Mrs. Pankhurst is improving as the result of an operation for the transfusion of blood to her from a healthy young suffragette. The operation was made necessary by the weakened condition of Mrs. Pankhurst following her hunger strikes in Holloway jail, from which she was released last week. Many suffragettes volunteered themselves for the operation.

Arrest Sylvia Pankhurst.

Lady Sibyl Smith, daughter of the Earl of Antrim; Mrs. Petick Lawrence and Miss Evelyn Sharpe, militant suffragettes, were released from jail, the home secretary, Reginald McKenna, having reduced their sentences to four days instead of fourteen, for which they were sent to prison on July 25 on a charge of disorderly conduct in an attempt to hold a meeting at the entrance to the lobby of the house of commons on July 24.

Miss Sylvia Pankhurst is under arrest again, locked up in Holloway jail, following riots which for Sunday demonstrations surpassed anything yet arranged by the militant suffragettes. Miss Pankhurst was the leader of the mob, being out of jail on license under the "cat and mouse law."

The day's rioting ended with the arrest of two other women after they had hurled stones at the windows of Premier Asquith's home.

The meeting, which was held in Trafalgar square by the Men's Federation For Women's Suffrage and the east end branch of the Women's Social and Political union, had been announced in advance, and this fact, with a rumor that a charge upon Mr. Asquith's residence with resolutions was arranged, brought enormous crowds into the square.

FAMILY SHOT TO DEATH.

Father, Mother and Two Children Found Lifeless In Home.

Rumsey, Alberta, July 29.—George Robinson, his wife and two children were found shot to death in their farmhouse near here. The bodies of Robinson and his youngest child, a three-year-old girl, were in one room; his wife and twelve-year-old son were in another.

There was a shotgun across Robinson's body and three empty shells lay on the floor near by. The house showed evidence of a fierce struggle. The police have not learned yet whether the family were attacked or whether it was a case of murder and suicide.

KING GEORGE MAY VISIT U. S.

England's King and Queen Mary May Cross Border When In Canada.

London, July 29.—A report is in circulation that their Britannic majesties, King George and Queen Mary, intend to visit Canada in the near future.

The Pall Mall Gazette in referring to the visit says:

"They take it for granted that while so near the United States they will cross the border, and it is thought probable that they may pay a brief visit to Washington and perhaps to New York.

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst is seriously ill following an operation resorted to in the hope of restoring her health after a long period of starvation. Miss Kenney made an additional bid for the leadership yesterday by desperately fighting the police and landing in a cell.

CONVICTS BARE PLOT TO DYNAMITE PRISON

Warden and District Attorney Hear Amazing Tale.

Ossining, N. Y., July 29.—Four prisoners in Sing Sing last night disclosed a plot to destroy the place and liberate 1,400 men. They were questioned by District Attorney Weeks of Westchester county to ascertain if outside influences were responsible for the recent fires and insurrections.

Almost as soon as the four convicts completed the revelations word of their action in some mysterious manner was circulated through the prison. Cries of "squealers," "Judas," "betrayers" rang throughout the corridors.

The clamor became so great and the threats against the informers so vicious they were removed to another part of the building for safety. For fear their enraged comrades may try to kill them the quartet probably will be removed to White Plains.

Ten ringleaders were immediately locked in dark cells and 300 others were placed indefinitely on a diet of bread and water as a result of the disclosures. Sixty-five of the most desperate of the convicts will be removed to Auburn.

The confession of the four prisoners was made in the presence of the district attorney, Warden Clancy and stenographers. The men told of the arson plot, and while three declared the "underground railroad" in the prison was responsible for the amazing scheme, the fourth declared that a single cocaine crazed convict had started the trouble "for deviltry."

A fire was discovered in the cell house when Warden Clancy was preparing for the investigation. The smoke was traced to one of the cells, where a quantity of rags had been ignited. The blaze was quickly extinguished.

Cocaine and morphine, smuggled into the prison by various means, were largely responsible for the outbreak. The informers astounded Warden Clancy by declaring that the drugs had been smuggled into the cells in bed sheets, books and under postage stamps.

MARTIAL LAW IN PEKING.

Steamers Ready to Take Women and Children From Canton.

Washington, July 29.—Martial law has been proclaimed in Peking, China, according to state department dispatches received here. Heavy fighting and great loss of life and property at Shanghai were also reported.

Hongkong, July 29.—The British consul at Canton has ordered all river steamers flying the British flag to have steam up in readiness to take off women and children from the foreign suburbs of the city in case such a need became urgent.

Cholera Case In Hungary.

Budapest, Hungary, July 29.—A case of cholera at Temes-Sziget, Hungary, near the Servian frontier, was notified to the minister of the interior, who, in accordance with the provisions of the international convention, informed all foreign governments.

Weather Forecast.

Man's Headgear Was First Fashioned After His Habitation.

It has been pointed out that the form of the hat bears a certain relation to buildings of a primitive nature—huts. A distinguished architect has invited attention to the curious resemblance that has existed and that is still to be found in many countries between headgear and habitations or other buildings. It may be that the same taste, or the lack of it, has given rise to the similarity of style, or in the beginning the designer of the hat may have taken the hut as a model.

In the Hawaiian Islands, long before the inhabitants took the trouble to clothe themselves, they built grass houses, and at the present time the characteristic Hawaiian hat is remarkably like the hut.

The turbans of the dignitaries of the eastern church are still of the shape of those worn by the high priests among the Jews of olden times, and they are extraordinarily like the characteristic domes that surmount mosques. Again, it is pointed out, the high pointed spires of Gothic churches were contemporaneous with the high hornlike headdress known as the hennin.

It is belived, too, that like results may be found after a comparison of other styles of architectuure with the headgear of the period wherein they flourished.—Harper's Weekly.

GOOD LUCK IN A POSE.

Accidental Success Won Through a Gladstone Photograph.

"In literature," said a publisher, "popular success frequently comes by accident. A remarkable case was that of J. H. Shorthouse. This man, a poor chemist, spent some years writing a book called 'John Inglesant.' But the publishers would have none of 'John Inglesant,' and finally Mr. Shorthouse printed 100 copies at his own expense.

"Only forty of these copies sold, one purchaser being a photographer. The photographer took Mr. Gladstone's picture some weeks later, and the old man chose a studious pose, sitting with a volume in his hand. He bent in absorption over the work, which happened accidentally to be 'John Inglesant,' and in the thousands of copies of the photograph that were sold the book's name was plainly to be made out.

"Mr. Gladstone was regarded as a great critic, and the people thought he desired to recommend 'John Inglesant.' What was the result? Within the year 300,000 copies of 'John Inglesant' had been sold, and Shorthouse was a made man."

Agassiz and the Girls.

Concerning Louis Agassiz, naturalist, when a professor at Harvard, this story is told by James Kendall Hosmer in his "The Last Leaf:" "As he strode homeward from his walks in the outer fields or marshes we eyed him gingerly, for who could tell what he might have in his pockets? Turtles, tadpoles, snakes, any old monster, might be there. He was on the friendliest terms with things ill reputed, even abhorrent, and could not understand the qualms of the delicate. He was said to have held up once in all innocence, before a class of schoolgirls, a wriggling snake. The shrieks and confusion brought him to a sense of what he had done. He apologized elaborately, the foreign peculiarity he never lost running through his confusion. 'Poor girls, I will not do it again. Next time I will bring in a nice, clean leetle feesh.' Agassiz took no pleasure in shocking his class. On the contrary, he was most anxious to engage and hold them."

The Unsociable Little Fellow.

At dinner during a voyage to Corsica, to which my father invited the passengers who included some officers of his regiment and two Corsicans, he requested an officer, M. de Belloc, to call a young man who was wearing the uniform of the military school and reading at the end of the boat. The young man refused. M. de Belloc came back irritated and said to my father: "I should like to throw the unsociable little fellow into the sea. He has an unpleasant face. Will you grant me permission, colonel?"

"No," said my father, laughing, "and I am not of your opinion. His face shows character, and I am sure that he will be heard of some day."

The unsociable fellow was the future Emperor Napoleon.—From Memoirs of Comtesse de Boigne.

The Rosetta Stone.

The Rosetta stone was found in 1799 by a French engineer officer in an excavation made near Rosetta. It has an inscription in three different languages, the hieroglyphic, the demotic and the Greek. It was erected 195 B. C. in honor of Ptolemy Epiphanes because he remitted the dues of the priestly body. The great value of the Rosetta stone lies in the fact that it furnished the key whereby the Egyptian hieroglyphics were deciphered.

Woman's Wiles.

"What a hold Maud seems to have on all her rejected suitors."

"Why shouldn't she, the artful thing! She always tells a man when she refuses him that she is afraid to marry a handsome man because she would be so jealous."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Labor and Genius.

The common idea is the more labor the less genius—in other words, the greater the labor the worse the art. The truth is exactly the opposite.

LEONARD SEEKS TO BE RETURNED

Assemblyman Announces He Will Enter the Democratic Primaries Again.

POINTS TO HIS RECORD

Elizabethan Says He Wants to Finish Some Work In Legislature Before Retiring to Private Life—What He Has Done.

Assemblyman William A. Leonard, of Elizabeth, who was high man on the Democratic Assembly ticket last year, will again be a candidate. He declares he believes there is work for him to do in the State Legislature. He was not able, he says, to carry out all of his plans last year, and is desirous of going back to help along the progressive and constructive legislation which was started during the term of President Wilson as Governor.

Although last year was Mr. Leonard's first in the Assembly, he served on some of the most important committees, including the Committee on Railroads and Canals, of which he was chairman. He was largely instrumental in having the full-crew bill enacted into a law. It was Mr. Leonard's vote which resulted in the bill being reported out of committee and eventually passed by the House. The bill, which is now a law, was not the one originally favored by Governor Wilson when the Legislature first went into session last January. The Chief Executive following a personal interview with Mr. Leonard, however, agreed with the latter that the "No. 1" bill, the one now a law and the measure favored by the railroad men, was the better, and he gave the Union county Assemblyman his support in having it passed by the House and Senate.

Mr. Leonard declared that in the event of his election he will again work hard to have his railroad pay bill passed by the Legislature. The pay bill is a measure which would compel the railroads to pay their employes in cash every two weeks' instead of checks, as is now the custom. The bill had the endorsement of about 2,000 railroad men in Union county, including the Brotherhood of Locomotive Trainmen, and was passed with little or no opposition in the House, but defeated in the Senate.

Another measure in which Mr. Leonard declared he is interested and which he will endeavor to have enacted into a law in the event of his reelection is his "firearm bill." Under the provisions of this bill no person would be permitted to purchase a firearms without first having obtained a permit either from the chief of police or the executive head of a municipality. Mr Leonard introduced the bill at the last session of the Legislature, and it was passed by the House but defeated in the Senate. His aim in having the bill enacted into a law, he declared, is to prevent the promiscuous sale of firearms to irresponsible persons and to lessen the crime thereby resulting.

Mr. Leonard will also see that the bill calling for an appropriation of $50,000 for a monument to mark the settlement of Elizabethtown, is reintroduced, he declared. He introduced the bill at the last session. It was passed by the House, but because of the appropriations having been already fixed no action on it was taken by the Senate.

"I am anxious to be returned to the Assembly," Mr. Leonard declared, "because I want to finish work I started there. Besides the bills which I introduced and in which I am personally interested, especially in so far as Union county is concerned, there is much unfinished business of State-wide interest in the way of progressive legislation which I would like to help put upon the statute books. I will oppose any attempt to appeal any of the progressive measures already enacted as consistently as I supported the jury reform legislation.

"I am going before the voters on my record. On that, and that alone, I ask support."

TO REBUILD ICE HOUSE.

Plans are out for the new ice house which the Plainfield Ice and Supply Company contemplate erecting at Watchung to replace the one destroyed by fire about a month ago. The new plant will be a modern one in every respect, being somewhat larger than the old house. It will have ten compartments, all of which will be connected by an up-to-date ice elevator. The buildings will be erected as soon as the ice is removed from the ruins of the old plant.

NEW MARKET MAN'S JOB.

Trenton, July 30—Governor Fielder yesterday appointed Frank O. Nelson, Democrat, of New Market, to succeed Oliver J. Kelly on the Middlesex County Board of Elections. Mr. Kelly's place became vacant when he was appointed to the State Board of Health.

LINBARGER ISSUES HIS ANNOUNCEMENT

Formally Enters the Race For County Clerkship Nomination In Somerset.

As forecasted in this paper a fortnight ago, Walter L. Linbarger, of North Plainfield, announced today his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for county clerk in Somerset. His letter follows:

Walter L. Linbarger.

"As the office of county clerk of Somerset county is to be filled this fall, I have decided to become a candidate for the Democratic nomination. Under the direct primary principle the voters have the power to select, as well as elect, their candidates, and they are entitled to know on what grounds an aspirant for office asks for their support. I have been a citizen of Somerset county all my life, and firmly believing in the principles of the Democratic party, have devoted no small part of time to its active support.

"The office of county clerk is an important one, and, if it should be entrusted to me by my fellow citizens, I should give to the discharge of its duties my undivided attention and the best ability at my command.

"Should the voters whom I now address, regard my nomination with favor, I respectfully ask for their support at the coming primary election."

GERMAN REFORMED FLOCK HOLD ICE CREAM FESTIVAL

The committee of arrangements was composed of the officers of the society as follows: President, Mrs. Phillip Bach; vice-president, Mrs. Kleiner; secretary, Miss Menzenbach; treasurer, Miss Kuehlin. The committee were assisted by Edward Krausse, William Schuck, Phillip Giese, the Misses Elvera Hoerster, Anna Bach, Wally Guttenberger, Bella Sniper, Sophie Vogel, Mrs. K. During the month five men and three women have been discharged, and in this number were included two deaths, one man and one woman. The smallest number of patients present at any time during July was seventy-two and the largest number seventy-eight.

WILL ENTERTAIN CLUB.

Ten members of the Sigma Gamma Kappa Club of the local Y. W. C. A., are planning to spend the week-end at Manasquan Beach as guests of Miss Lucy Douglas, a member of the organization. The club is composed of North Plainfield High School girls and Miss Eva Terry, a teacher in the borough schools, will meet them at Manasquan, Friday.

PIERCE A CANVASSER.

Trenton, July 30—Acting Governor Fielder yesterday appointed Senators Ramsay, Barber, Pierce and White as a canvassing board to go over the election returns of the special election in the Sixth district last week. The Governor will preside. The canvassing board will meet here August 12.

Y. M. C. A. MEMBER IS OLYMPIC HERO

Hage Rasumssin, of Denmark, World's Champion Walker, Lives Here.

INTERNATIONAL WINNER

Attributes His Success As An Athlete to Vegetable Diet—Will Compete For Local Association This Fall—Has Won Several Events.

Hage Rasumssin, who gained international prominence during the last Olympic games held in Sweden, by winning the championship of the world in the 10 kilometer walk, over representatives from nearly every nation on the globe, has joined the local Y. M. C. A., having taken a position with a local photographer and is planning to enter any meets that may be held in this vicinity during his stay here. When the big Dane hung up a mark of forty-eight minutes for ten kilos his name was heralded about the world and when he stepped from the ship two months ago, representatives of the various New York athletic clubs met him at the wharf with numerous inducements to compete under the colors of their respective organizations.

When the New York A. C. offered to send him to the national games at Chicago he considered this the most tempting proposition and accepted their offer and his name was accordingly enrolled in the winged foot register. Until he joined the Metropolitan club he competed in the silks of the Copenhagen A. C. and took part in four Olympic championships, failing to win a place until last year, when he entered the foot race at Sweden. He held the championship of Denmark during the years 1909, 1910 and 1912, and did not compete for the title in 1912. His specialties lies in the seven and one-half kilos, ten kilos and fifteen kilos. He is the present holder of the Scandinavian record for the ten kilo walk, and recently established a mark of eight hours and twenty-four minutes for the seventy-five kilos and 320 meter walk, a distance that is equal to ten Danish miles.

The wonderful Danish athlete attributes his great enduring powers to his diet, which consists entirely of vegetables, and he claims that he has not tasted flesh meat in ten years. He is constantly in training and does a certain amount of practise walking every day. Rasumssin started his athletic career as an oarsman, rowing in the national regattas in Denmark and it was then that he first discovered his enduring qualities. Upon the advice of athletic coaches in Denmark he took up the walking game and has won nmerous medals and trophies competing against the greatest walking cracks of the age.

His first race in America was run at the Forty-seventh Regiment armory in New York city, which he won in five minutes and thirty-nine seconds.

ONE HUNDRED IN SHADE HERE THIS AFTERNOON

When the clock—the city's clock in the steeple of the First M. E. church—struck two this afternoon the thermometer at the State Trust Company registered 100 degrees in the shade. Yesterday, the humidity was intense and today the heat was stifling. The only plant forced to close down yesterday because of the weather conditions was the Spicer Universal Joint Company's shop at South Plainfield.

The thermometer at the State Trust Company today registered as follows: 9 a. m., 85 degrees; 11 a. m., 95 degrees; 1 p. m., 98 degrees; 2 p. m., 100 degrees.

LONG BRANCH HORSE SHOW.

Long Branch, July 30—The annual horse show of the Monmouth County Horse Show Association opened at Hollywood Park today and will continue until the end of the week. The event is one of the social attractions of the summer season, and has attracted a large number of well-known people. The saddle, harness, hunter and jumper and other classes are well filled, and in addition to the regular show there will be a series of running races, which have attracted an unusual amount of attention.

Mr. Stark has been in business for many years at the Somerset street stand, but want of room has forced him to re-establish in another building.

BUILDING SAVED BY EMPLOYES' ACTION

Fire In Central Publishing Co. Assumed Threatening Proportions.

An unprotected flame from a gas burner used in heating padding glue at the Central Publishing Company plant on Central avenue set fire to a quantity of stock in the front part of the place this morning and threatened to do considerable damage to the structure and its contents before it was put out with a chemical stream by the fire department which responded to a call from box No. 42. The blaze started in a pile of material that burned readily and had secured good headway when discovered by employes of the plant after the interior of the building had become filled with smoke.

Prompt action on the part of those nearby when the fire was discovered probably saved the building for the blazing stock was picked up in boxes and thrown out into the street where it was burning when the fire department arrived. In the corner of the structure where the fire started were two gallon cans of gasoline and these were thrown into the street before they had an opportunity to explode.

Aside from the damage to stock which is set at $300, the building was damaged by water and smoke to the extent of $150.

ONE GREAT EXCURSION TO SHORE TOMORROW

Those who accompany the Sunday-schools of the Trinity Reformed, Marconnier Chapel, Netherwood Reformed and Mt. Pleasant churches to Asbury Park tomorrow morning will find the New Jersey seaside resort in the midst of a season of gayety, and diversion of every kind will be found for young and old. Eleven long hours away from the grind and surroundings of every day life in Plainfield is offered and for those who will take advantage of it there is an unlimited amount of enjoyment [illegible] at the shore.

Surf bathing, always the most popular recreation for those who attend the weekly excursions, is at its best just at present and thousands flock to the sands of Asbury every day to dip in the waters of the ocean. Fishing from the piers of both Asbury Park and Ocean Grove is better this year than has been for the last decade and the piers have been so crowded during the past month that fishermen have been casting from the surf and a catch consisting of seven or eight moderate sized weak fish is nothing out of the ordinary.

Two sections will take the Trinity excursionists and their friends to the shore tomorrow morning, the first division leaving here at 8.15 o'clock and returning will leave Asbury at 7.10 o'clock. The train will leave Clinton avenue at 8.05 and Grant avenue at 8.10.

Weber, of West Front street, the ceremony taking place at St. John's Episcopal church at Avon-by-the-Sea last Friday night. The couple were attended by Miss Bertha Mae Moore, of Pittsburg, and John R. Walsh, of East Orange. Mr. and Mrs. Weber returned to this city this morning and will make their residence here.

Miss Ellinger was employed for several years at the Woodhull & Martin department store, while Mr. Weber is an employe at the stationery store of Edward A. Laing, of West Front street. Both the bride and groom have a wide circle of friends and acquaintances in this city.

HEALTH OFFICERS EXPRESSED VIEWS

REPLY SENT TO BOARD

Immediate Action Was Not Forthcoming—Officers Chandler and Oliff Express Views—Borough Authorities Will Pass It Up.

In response to an invitation issued to the Plainfield and North Plainfield Boards of Health to attend a meeting of the trustees of the Plainfield Board of Trade, held yesterday afternoon, following the agitation recently started by this organization for a "cleaning up" movement in the territory near Greenbrook, Health Officer Randolph Chandler, of this city, and George Oliff, who acts in the same capacity for the borough, appeared at the session and expressed their views on the subject. Both gave opinions along the same line and if their respective plans are awaited, it will probably be some time before the stagnant and filth breeding streams are made sanitary.

Randolph Chandler, speaking for the Plainfield board, said that Dr. Harold Corbusier, president of the Health Board, is now working on a plan of action but the officials were not at liberty at the present time to divulge the nature of the proposed elimination process. Chandler further stated that Dr. Corbusier was a Federal army veteran and that he considered him thoroughly competent to take charge of the campaign. President Jeffery, of the Board of Trade, responding to this statement, said that if these were army manouvres he considered them intolerably slow and advocated immediate action.

When seen this morning by a Daily Press reporter, for his opinion on the subject, George Oliff, health officer of North Plainfield, yawned and as might be expected of him, referred his questioner to the Board of Trade, refusing to talk on the subject. Oliff [illegible] not perturbed.

Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., of the borough, will place the matter before the Borough Council at its regular monthly meeting next Monday night, and it is expected that the street department will be given authority to take charge of the cleaning up process along the banks of Greenbrook and that portion of Tier's pond which lies in North Plainfield.

As yet no city department has taken a hand in the movement and what work has been done in response to the Board of Trade's open letter was supervised by the Union County Extermination Commission and its local inspectors.

Randolph Chandler submitted the following reply this morning to the open letter sent to the Health Board by the Plainfield Board of Trade through its president, William Jeffery.

"Replying to your communication of the 24th inst., in which the attention of the Board of Health was called to the condition of Tier's pond, Green brook and the mill race we will say that this matter had already been taken up by this department. But although steps have been taken to remedy the condition, we will be glad to accept your offer of co-operation. Our investigations have shown that the mill race and the Plainfield side of the brook are bordered by property which is occupied or owned to a large extent, by members of the Board of Trade. If you will kindly request all members who occupy such property to "clean up" and "keep clean" their portions of the brook, the matter will be a simple one to adjust.

"In a matter of this kind, however, where the brook forms a dividing line between two municipalities, it is necessary for both communities to work together in order to effect and real or permanent improvement. We are, therefore, addressing a letter to the North Plainfield Board of Health, asking their co-operation, although no doubt a similar request has been made by your organization.

"The Board of Health is pleased to note that the Board of Trade takes an interest in matters pertaining to health of the city and that you are are ready to co-operate with us in matters of this kind."

President Jeffery answered the communication as follows:

"Replying to your letter of the 29th in answer to mine of the 24th, you will observe that your letter is dated five days after mine, that my letter (this one) is dated one day after yours. This illustrates it seems to me, the rapidity with which the Board of Trade and the Board of Health attends to its business.

"I am attracted by that portion of your letter which states that you have already taken up the matter and have taken steps to remedy the condition, but will be glad to accept our co-operation; that the mill race and the

SUFFRAGISTS GIVEN OVATIONS EN ROUTE

Campaign and Pay Visits at Various Towns In Jersey Before Reaching Quaker City.

(By Mrs. E. F. Feickert, secretary New Jersey Equal Suffrage Association).

Philadelphia, July 30 (Special)—After leaving Trenton on Monday afternoon, the New Jersey delegation which is carrying suffrage petitions to Washington, took the River road through Bordentown to Burlington and then went off across country to Mount Holly, Mocrestown, Riverton and Camden, crossing the ferry at Camden and spending the night in Philadelphia.

On the way out of Trenton, the delegation stopped at the "anti" headquarters and two of its members went in and bought literature and discussed suffrage pro and con, frankly telling the pleasant young woman who was in charge that they were suffragists. The headquarters consists of two large pleasant rooms, gaily decorated with streamers of American Beauty red, white and black, the official colors. They are on the first floor of a large house which is loaned them by its owner pending its sale, and the visitors felt that it must be unpleasant to have a red and white "For Sale" sign at least six feet square placed prominently in the front yard.

An open air meeting was held in Burlington. A good sized crowd listened attentively and eagerly accepted literature and bought copies of the "Woman's Journal." In Mount Holly a call was made upon Mrs. A. L. S. Doughty who has organized a Suffrage committee which is working up a good membership for a league which is to be started in September. In Moorestown the suffragists stopped to see Miss Mary Lippincot, president of a local Suffrage League and in Riverton they called on Miss Helen Lippincott, an ex-vice-president of the State association. She is going to join the party in Philadelphia on Tuesday and go on with it to Washington.

Camden was reached so late in the evening that it was decided to postpone work there until Tuesday and go on to Philadelphia for the night. The travellers reached the Aldine at 15th and Chestnut streets tired and dusty—not to say hungry—but very well satisfied and happy over the cordial way their yellow flags and signs had been greeted all along the route. Everywhere hands, handkerchiefs or hats had been waved at them and there had not been a single evidence of disapproval or dislike.

COLORED BOY IS HELD FOR JUVENILE COURT

John Chapman, colored, thirteen years old, of East Fourth street, who has been arrested five times for petty thievery, was held for the Juvenile Court when arraigned this morning before City Judge DeMeza, charged with stealing a quantity of old iron and brass from the premises of Nathan Myers, at 121 Watchung avenue. This latest offense of the incorrigable youth, which was committed Monday night, so enraged his father that the latter requested the authorities to send him to an institution where confinement would impede his steady advance into the ways of a criminal. Chapman was arrested by Detective Sergeant John J. Flynn, who was also responsible for the colored boy's apprehention on previous occasions.

ROTH & CO. PLANS.

The market of Roth & Co., located at 128 East Front street, will be moved Monday to the building at 132 East Front street, until the new structure the firm is to erect on the present site and that formerly known as the Waldorf Annex, is completed. The new building will be started next week as soon as the store at No. 128 is torn down. It will be a modern two-story fireproof brick structure with stores on the first floor and offices on the second story.

HELD A RECEPTION.

A reception and dance was tendered to Miss Azala Dawkins, of the Bronx, last night, at the Nonpareil Club house, the affair being arranged by Mr. and Mrs. William Mayse, of East Third street, whom she has been visiting. Fifty guests were present from the Bronx, Philadelphia, Roselle, Westfield and this city. Music was furnished by Connet's orchestra and dancing held the attention of those present until midnight when a collation was served.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS OUTING.

The Kitchi Kimiwam Camp Fire Girls of the Y. W. C. A. were the guests of the Owisswa Camp at a supper held last night in the rear of the Hyde Lodge, on the Watchung Mountains. The affair was given in honor of Miss F. Parmelee, the guardian of the Owisswa Camp, who is going to spend her vacation at her home in Ohio.

DE MEZA IS OUT TO BE RE-ELECTED

IS FIRST IN THE FIELD

"I Ask the Voters to Judge Me By My Record," He States—Now Ending His First Term In That Office.

City Judge Wm. G. De Meza.

"I desire to announce that I will be a candidate for renomination on the Republican ticket for the office of city judge and in appealing for support at the primary election, I ask the voters to judge me by my record in that office."

Judge DeMeza entered the Republican primaries two years ago when Judge William N. Runyon retired to make the run for Congress. Against DeMeza were pitted five other young lawyers some of whom apparently had strong backing but DeMeza swept the city. His nomination was equivalent to election.

Efforts have been made by some to induce Harry C. Runyon, and W. N. Runyon to enter the contest, but as already told in this paper both declare they will not do so. An attempt has also been made to get former City Judge W. A. Coddington to announce himself as a Democratic candidate, but he has no intention of doing so.

V. W. Nash, Jr., announced this afternoon that together with other young lawyers, several of whom had been rival candidates at the Republican primaries two years ago when William G. DeMeza won out easily, he would join in a conference within the next few days. The idea, he explained, would be to centre upon one of their number to become a candidate at the Republican primaries against DeMeza. Among those he expects at the caucus are Martin Stutsman, J. H. Crane, R. N. Crane, F. J. Blatz and H. C. Runyon. Nash, it is said, would accept, and it is also reported that Stutsman would not be adverse to making the run.

SALVATION ARMY BAND IS TO GIVE CONCERT

A feature of the program arranged for today at the Salvation Army camp in Wayside Park, Dunellen, is a band concert, which will be given, starting at 8 o'clock, by the Songsters' Brigade and String Band. A program of recitations has also been arranged. The musical selections will be rendered under the direction of Captain James Allan. This afternoon at 2 o'clock a formal welcome will be extended to Major George Anderson, an eastern New York divisional officer.

Tomorrow's program: Captain and Mrs. William Cameron, of Bayonne; Captain and Mrs. John Price, of Dover, and Captain and Mrs. William Strain, of Passaic, will conduct services at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The speaker will be Captain Halsey Price who has selected as his subject, "The Doctor With Four Legs." In the evening at 8 o'clock Major Jesse McEwan, of New York, will deliver an address entitled, "The Excellent Spirit."

WORDS FROM HOME.

Statements That May Be Investigated. Testimony of Plainfield Citizens.

When a Plainfield citizen comes to the front, telling his friends and neighbors of his experience, you can rely on his sincerity. The statements of people residing in far away places do not command your confidence. Home endorsement is the kind that backs Doan's Kidney Pills. Such testimony is convincing. Investigation proves it true. Below is a statement of a Plainfield resident. No stronger proof of merit can be had.

Albert Naylor, musician, 256 East Second street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Several years ago I suffered from an ache in the small of my back and sharp pains when stooping or lifting. I took Doan's Kidney Pills, as I was told that they were good for such trouble and by the time I had finished two boxes, I was feeling better in every way. I have often recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to people I have heard complaining of kidney trouble."

Witch Burning.

There are countries in which the execution of women as witches is only a thing of yesterday. The last instance of witch burning occurred as recently as 1888 in Peru, and in other parts of South America cases continued to occur until well into the second half of the nineteenth century. England's own last conviction for witchcraft took place at Hertford in 1712, and Scotland condemned a witch ten years later, while Spain and Germany retained a judicial belief in witches and the justice of killing them until 1782 and 1796.

DINING ON SHIPBOARD.

Different Now From What It Was When Dickens Visited Us.

When Dickens came over to America some seventy odd years ago there was one large table in the dining room for the passengers. The first officer sat at the head, carving the turkey with all the grace he could command, between lurches of the good ship, trusting to Providence that the gravy would not slop over. The passengers sent their plates along the line and waited for their helpings.

Today the dining room of a large ship looks like the dining room of a fine hotel. It is just as exquisitely appointed and has every good thing to eat that can be found on land. In fact, one of the new ships has a restaurant named after a famous one in New York, and the two keep in touch by wireless so that the menus, day by day, are the same. Think of having your dinner arranged by wireless—your macaroni by Marconi!

The dining room is divided up into a number of small tables, so that you can have your own party, with only half a dozen of you, with your own waiter, instead of sitting at a long table and passing your plate, as Dickens did.

The development of the wonders of cold storage has done more than any other one thing to make life on the ocean wave one long round of joy. Cold storage gives you the best in the world to eat and every day of the year. A world traveler was telling me the other day that he had eaten grapefruit every morning all around the world. The ship on which he sailed put in a large amount of ice cream made in New York, and 110 days later when he arrived in San Francisco, he was still eating New York ice cream.—Harold Christie in Leslie's.

Antiquity of the Census.

The idea of the census is almost as old as history itself. King Amasis of Egypt took a census of his people 500 years before Christ. The Athenian solon established a census for the purpose of facilitating taxation. We learn that about 443 B. C. Servius Julius took a census of Rome. During the chaos of the dark ages the census dropped into oblivion, but was revived again about the beginning of the eighteenth century.

GIRL KILLED, 3 HURT, BY LIGHTNING BOLT

Victims In Contact With Charged Telephone Line.

Lodi, N. J., July 30.—During a storm lightning broke an overhead telephone wire at Arnot and Main streets here, throwing it over the trolley line wire.

With a shower of sparks the loose end of the telephone wire fell to the street, striking a seven-year-old girl, Ethel Fortunata, who was crossing the street with her mother, Mrs. Michael Carlucci of 351 Westminster place. The shock threw the girl over to the pavement, and the wire wound around her. Mrs. Carlucci ran to her and tried to drag her to her feet.

Several people had seen the girl struck down and were coming toward her when they saw the mother take hold of the wire and thrown to the street. One of these was Nicholas Tonasi, an immigrant, who had been in this country only two weeks. He knew nothing about the nature of electricity and boldly seized the wire as he tried to help the woman to her feet.

In his turn Tonasi was stunned and thrown to the street. Tonasi was hardly down when John Stye, an employee of the United States Tire works at Arnot and Main streets, knocked the wire out of his hand with a wooden club.

The current running through the club rendered Stye unconscious, but the wire fell clear and did no further damage. The four victims were carried to the sidewalk and later taken in an ambulance to the Passaic General hospital.

At the hospital it was found that the girl was already dead. The flesh was burned from the palm of her mother's right hand, and the arm was scorched to the shoulder. Her injuries were such that it was found necessary to amputate the arm, and she is in a critical condition.

The first two fingers were burned from Tonasi's right hand, and the entire arm was paralyzed. Stye was not seriously hurt and was permitted to leave the hospital after being treated by Dr. Brevoort.

BULGAR CAPITAL CUT OFF.

Famine Threatens City as Servians Hold All the Roads.

Berlin, July 30.—Sofia, the Bulgarian capital, is completely cut off, according to a dispatch received from Belgrade. The Servian troops invading the city have cut all railroad communications, thus threatening the Bulgarian troops as well as the inhabitants with famine.

Vienna, July 30.—Dispatches from Bucharest told of the arrival of all the peace delegates representing the Balkan states. Nothing definite has been agreed upon, though, and in the meantime fighting continues. Utilizing the recently captured Kresna pass, the Greeks occupied Semetli and thus placed the Bulgarians in a dangerous position.

The Turks continue to occupy the towns they took last week, but so far as reported have made no advances this week.

Taking All the Blame.

"I was a fool ever to marry you," sobbed Mrs. Winks.

"Now, my dear," said Winks nobly, "I cannot permit you to take the blame for that. It was I who was the fool for ever asking you. The mistake was not yours, but mine."—Harper's Weekly.

The Compliment.

"Oh, ma, I passed, and th' teacher spoke about me partic'larly. It made my face red to hear her."

"That was fine! What did she say about you, dear?"

"She said she never expected I'd pass at all."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

FATHER HELD FOR BEATING CHILDREN

Charge Parent With Cruelty to Two Imbeciles.

DAUGHTER ALSO ARRESTED

Wealthy Hoboken Fruit Dealer Kept Son and Daughter Confined in Room. Girl Bound by Ropes—Rushed to Hospital—Home Called "House of Mystery."

Hoboken, N. J., July 30.—With the arrest and arraignment of John Zumino, a wealthy fruit dealer, and his daughter Mary, twenty-seven years old, the secret of the "house of mystery" at 125 Madison street, this city, was revealed in all its details. Father and daughter were held by Recorder McGovern in $500 bail each for the grand jury on charges of atrocious cruelty, assault and battery upon Zumino's two imbecile children, Annie, twenty-five years old, and Frank, twenty-two years old.

Since October the Zumino residence has been an object of superstitious dread to the entire neighborhood. Terrible stories of ghosts were circulated about the dismal building, the window shades of which were drawn night and day and into which no one except Zumino and his elder daughter were permitted to enter.

For months Mrs. Susan Kelser, who lives next door, had heard the screams of a woman and the moans of a man through the partition between the buildings. Three weeks ago, as she was passing the house, a shade was lifted suddenly on the upper floor and a girl's face, with matted hair and haggard eyes, appeared. The apparition raised her hands, which were bound by ropes, and cried aloud for aid.

"Help me; I am being murdered—I can't get out!" the creature at the window shouted, according to Mrs. Kelser's testimony.

It was through Mrs. Kelser's report that the police became interested in the "house of mystery." Detectives Barrone, Cornelli and Brown waited in front of the house until Mary Zumino came home. She refused to let them in, but they raided the place and on the second floor found the causes of all the mystery.

MAYOR IN THIEF CHASE.

A. E. Kerwin of Fort Lee Captures Alleged Burglar—Two Escape.

Fort Lee, N. J., July 30.—Mayor Arthur E. Kerwin of this place, formerly chief of police, did not forget his training when he was awakened and saw three men removing two motorcycles from the garage of John Abbott, directly opposite the Kerwin home. He dressed and armed himself, but when he reached the street two of the men fled in an auto.

The man left behind fled toward Coytesville, with Mayor Kerwin in pursuit in his auto. Near Coytesville he captured the fugitive. The prisoner said he was Henry Silvey, thirty, of New York, but refused to give any street address.

RAISE H. G. MOORE'S BAIL.

Vice Chancellor Lewis Increases It From $30,000 to $50,000.

Hackensack, N. J., July 30.—Vice Chancellor Lewis increased the bail of Henry G. Moore from $30,000 to $50,000. This was the outcome of the contempt proceedings which followed Moore's action in leaving the state while under a bond.

Moore gets $3,000 a month from his father's estate. He is held under bail pending the appeal of a judgment against him for $33,000 back alimony. Since jailed here two weeks ago five civil suits have been started against him.

LAWYER PREFERS JAIL.

Attorney Refuses to Pay Fine and Spends Time In Jail.

Newark, N. J., July 30.—Adjudged in contempt of court, Selig J. Mindes, a lawyer, of 28 Stratford place, this city, was fined $50 by Judge Hahn in the Third precinct court and ordered committed until he paid the fine.

The lawyer, though he had $50 with him, refused to pay, ordered counsel to sue out a writ of habeas corpus and remained in a cell all day. At night he was released on a $1,000 bond. He will appeal to the supreme court.

FIELDER CALLS EXTRA SESSION

Trenton, N. J., July 30.—By a proclamation issued by Governor Fielder the legislature was summoned to reconvene in extraordinary session next Tuesday morning.

The sole purpose of the session is to pass corrective legislation validating any defect which may exist in the adoption of the commission form of government in Jersey City or other municipalities similarly situated.

Silence Preferred.

J. M. Barrie, the novelist, has said that one of the "most enjoyable social functions" he ever attended was a dinner at which he turned to his neighbor and asked, "Do you converse?" "No; I don't," replied his neighbor. "Nor do I," said Mr. Barrie, and they did not.—London Mail.

Furniture To Live With.

"What impressed you most in the Wanamaker furniture sale?" queried one man of another who had just spent a couple of hours looking through the stock. "Was it the large display, the quality, the prices—or what?" "All those, truly," was the reply, "but more than anything, the good taste of the pieces offered. I don't believe that there is an inartistic or an insincere piece—or an un-live-with-able piece—among them!"

And that's one of the things that is always emphasized in the Wanamaker furniture—it can always be depended upon to give lasting satisfaction in the home. Furniture is something that one must live with year in and year out,—perhaps for a lifetime. How often do men and women point with tenderness and pride to pieces in their homes that have come to them through the vicissitudes of the years from the old homestead where they first played their part in the miracle and ministry of homemaking. Associations cling to the furniture we live with and add to its value, and time enriches its charms. So it is well to choose our furniture as we would choose our friends.

A member of the New York Art Commission holds that ugly furniture is distinctly immoral. Consider this for a moment. Environment is stronger than heredity. A family cannot be held together in an uncongenial home. Furniture that is badly designed and worse constructed must fail to arouse a feeling of irritation and discontent. We are all of us innate lovers of the beautiful. We all feel the restful influence of harmony or the disturbing influence where inharmonious conditions prevail. The home that is founded upon the principles of harmony and simplicity is the home that stands all the assaults of time and change. Though leagues upon leagues divide memory will ever return to such a home with increasing tenderness and longing. It is such a home that leaves its indelible stamp upon the character of those nurtured beneath its roof.

The Wanamaker Store has always been a stand for correct furniture—well designed and honestly constructed. Years ago, soon after they began to sell furniture, they were disturbed at the character of the stock they were carrying. The buyer was out for "the only kind of furniture trade," he said. "Then we will sell the stock and go out of the furniture business," was the rejoinder. But by getting directly with the manufacturer he succeeded in getting furniture that was worth sending into appreciative people's homes, furniture well worthy of being set with John Wanamaker's name behind it.

The next step was to get a line of good well constructed furniture which he could place at such prices as to make it possible for men and women with only modest incomes to surround themselves with furniture which would not offend the canons of good taste. This was accomplished by going to the manufacturers with the proposition that instead of closing down through the dull months they keep their organizations complete and their shops running by making furniture for Wanamaker at prices slightly above cost. The manufacturers saw the advantage of this and the result was the original "August furniture sale" nearly a quarter of a century ago and the yearly sales since. It is really a form of co-operative merchandising, based upon economic principles.

In the present sale are offered new merchandise, regular stocks now in the showrooms and warerooms, and stock in the Philadelphia store, the whole representing a value of more than a million and a half dollars. The reductions range from ten to fifty per cent. Those who have purchased in other years need no assurance as to the economy this department offers. The happy result of this sale is better than any that has heretofore been offered.

There are things there are to avoid in making a selection of furniture,—sharp contrasts, over-ornamentation and useless pieces. Don't fill your rooms with miscellaneous pieces that are in continual revolt with each other. A house that looks like a museum can never create a home atmosphere. Some odd pieces are good, and, placed intelligently, add much to the beauty of a room. There are Colonial pieces, for instance, which adapt themselves most charmingly with other furniture, and odd pieces of the Sheraton, Chippendale and Hepplewaite designs are frequently introduced with excellent results. If an entire room can be furnished in one of these styles it will give undiminishing joy, and reproductions will be found at very moderate prices.

Over-ornamentation is something which we may pass here without comment since one will not find furniture of this character in the Wanamaker showrooms. Uselessness, too, might be left out of the discussion, since everything dislayed fulfills William Morris's requirements of use or beauty. Obviously the entire stock in this August sale has been selected by a sincere lover of fine furniture who has the love of truth in his heart. Every piece is sincere, honest and satisfying. The stock includes practically all the varieties of woods and finishes and also leather, upholstered and wicker furniture.

SHOULD BE RE-ELECTED.

In very few words, William G. DeMeza today announces his candidacy for renomination and re-election to the city judgeship. His appeal is direct and to the point. "I ask the voters to judge me by my record in that office," is what he says. Nothing need be added; he stands on his record and the record speaks for itself. Suffice it to say, De Meza has made a good reputation for himself and for the city in the conduct of his official duties. He has always been a man among men and has shown broadness of vision and soundness of judgment in passing judgment upon offenders arraigned in his court. He has neither been narrow nor too severe, nor on the other hand has he hesitated to mete out the maximum penalty when he considered that extenuating circumstances were absent. Now and then he has "laid down the law" to certain classes of offenders and in doing so he has brought good results.

Two years ago, DeMeza, without any organized support, was nominated in the Republican primaries in a free-for-all contest against five rival candidates. His election followed. He will re-enter the Republican primaries and therefore none but Republicans will have a say as to the nomination. He should, however, receive the Progressive endorsement and also the Democratic. He is entitled to both for he has made a faithful public servant and in municipal politics, the best man, irrespective of his beliefs on National policies and his identification with National parties, should be chosen as the people's servant. That is the view shared by most right-thinking citizens.

Therefore, we believe that DeMeza should and will be renominated and re-elected and simply because he has made a good city judge.

FREAK DRESSES

From the pulpit, the public platform and the woman's club as well as from the municipal authority comes denunciation of the present fashions in women's dress. The slashed, the transparent and the bloomer skirt are classed as ridiculous and immodest but those characterizations are mild to what some have given them. But notwithstanding that storm of protest throughout the land, there are some who look with favor upon these new-fangled and freakist costumes as the very ideal. Now, there is Kenyon Cox, the noted artist, for example. In a letter to the New York Evening Post, he says:

"The papers are full of attacks upon the present fashions of women's dress, and if I were not, though an artist, a respectable, elderly man and the father of a family, I should expect to be classed with cubists, anarchists, militant suffragists and other enemies of society for daring to say that the present dress of women is simply the prettiest, most graceful and most natural that has been worn in my life time. If I may believe my wife, it is also the most rational, comfortable and hygienic. Ever since I can remember and, judging from pictures, for hundreds of years before I was born, women have been either deforming themselves, or pretending to deform themselves, in deference to fashion. I can remember when women were pegtops above the belt and pen wipers below, without regard to the demands of anatomy. Then they built themselves out behind as, in the seventeenth century, they had built themselves out before, and with equal beauty as a result. A little later they had humps on each shoulder and then pointed abdominal humps like the front side of Polichinelle. I always wondered why they did not clap the other hump on the back to complete the resemblance.

"Today for the first time in centuries, the fashionable figure is that of a natural, healthy, well built woman. Of course, such a thing is not to be endured. Is not the American woman the equal of any Spanish Intana that ever wore ruff and hoop, and is it not equally impossible that she should have—perish the word!"

How many people will agree with Mr. Cox?

WHAT THE STORM DID AND WHAT IT DIDN'T

Played Havoc In Nearby Places, But Very Kind to the Immediate Vicinity.

A freak storm which visited the West End section of the city, last night between 6 and 7 o'clock, accompanied by a high wind and streaks of lightning, caused damage to considerable property between here and Bound Brook, but failed to make itself felt in the centre or Netherwood sections of the city. Although a relief from the intense heat was expected following the shower, this did not occur. In fact the thermometer climbed upward several degrees after the rain had fallen.

In Dunellen a house was struck; several trees toppled to the ground and one child was affected by the lightning. Bertha, the six-year-old daughter of J. A. Wilson, of New Market road, that borough, complained to her parent that following a lightning flash she was rendered semi-sightless and that she felt a slight electric shock pass through her body. A new house being erected in Washington avenue, Dunellen, by Samuel Titus, a contractor, was damaged when lightning struck the chimney and ripped a hole through the sheathing boards which enclosed the east side of the structure.

According to reports coming from Raritan, the home of William VanHise was struck by lightning, set on fire and burned to the ground despite efforts made by the fire department and neighbors, to extinguish the flames.

"Camp Ram's Horn," at Lake Hopatcong, conducted by Thomas M. Muir, of Grant avenue, was struck by lightning and several occupants escaped serious injury. One camper was rendered blind for several minutes following a loud clap of thunder and a flash of lightning.

THEY PRAY FOR GOV'T OF CHINA

American Missionary Tells Interesting Story On How Christians Complied.

TO SAVE THE REPUBLIC

Letter From Mrs. Carter, Who Is Stationed Near Where Dr. Samuel and Rev. J. B. Cochran Are Located In the Orient.

Plainfield people will be interested in a letter received from Mrs. Thomas N. Carter, who with her husband, are stationed at Nanhschow, China, since she tells of the request of the Chinese Republican to the Christians to pray for its success and how that petition was complied with and answered. Mr. and Mrs. Carter, sent out by the Madison Avenue Presbyterian church, of New York, have been in China over a year and have spent much of their time at Hwaiyuan, where Dr. Samuel Cochran and Rev. James B. Cochran, both of Plainfield, are stationed. They are sons of Mrs. I. W. Cochran, of Watchun avenue, and have been engaged in missionary work for the Central Presbyterian church, New York, since 1899. The Carters visit them to study the Chinese language. Here is Mrs. Carter's letter:

Hwaiyuan, May 16, 1913.

"We had been in Nanhschow a few days when the newspapers brought the startling news that Yuan Shi Kai through his officials had requested all Christians to pray for China on Sunday, April the twenty-seventh. Like many others we asked ourselves if this was a new trick to insure favor from Christian nations—but like most others, we also felt that China needed the prayers of the Christians, and we also knew that our God would listen to the sincere prayers of his children even if a wrong motive had prompted the request. But we were a little at a loss to know what kind of a service to have. As it was still early in the week, we decided to lie low and wait for an invitation from the official whose duty it was to inform us.

"Meanwhile Mr. Carter and I went on to the neighboring city of Hsuchowfu to visit a railroad engineer, a friend of ours, and also to see the splendid work done there by some missionaries of the Southern Presbyterian church. I wish I had time to tell you about that work—the spirit of self sacrifice which seemed to permeate it, also about the interesting geological conditions of that part of the country, how it is building itself up in the old bed of the Yellow river, which entirely changed its course some fifty or sixty years ago—but I must go on.

"We returned Saturday afternoon to Nanhsuchow and found that the city official had sent word twice to know when our service was to take place. Mr. Carter hurried over to call and when the official heard we had only planned a prayer service for our usual constituency he at once asked if we did not want him to send out invitations. That was exactly what we wanted, and he did not lose any time, for about ten minutes later, the official's servant came with an invitation to the principal of the government school on whom Mr. Carter happened to be calling. At the official's suggestion we used the temple of the god of war. He also provided the benches and sent soldiers to keep order. All we had to do was to prepare the service, and we did so in the evening at our regular weekly workers' meeting.

"Sunday afternoon the school boys were in their places and the temple was filled with all the city owned of representative men. Only invited guests were at first admitted and seated—afterwards, of the big crowd that had gathered on the street any one was admitted who promised to stay through the service and be quiet.

"How I wish I had written this letter when my soul was filled with the wonder of it, but I must pretend that I am sitting behind a bamboo screen on the woman's side in the back of the temple, the place that is supposed still to belong to the priests. I believe I almost played through Dr. Coffin's hymnbook, while waiting for the official to arrive, and every hymn seemed to bring a new message. Some of the hymns came to me with a new meaning.

" 'When wilt thou save the people? Oh God of mercy, when?'

"Lift up your heads, rejoice,
Redemption draweth nigh.
Now breathes a softer air,
Now shines a milder star.

"I do wish I could have written then, you might have had something worth reading. The old Buddhist priests were standing just in front of me. And under the ugly old gods peeking out of their holes were the bright, eager faces of our school boys—China to be—singing 'God Save Our Republic.' Such a sight many now in their graves would have given their lives to see. From where I was siting I could not see, but heard a stir, then everybody rose, and I concluded that it was the city official arriving. Afterwards I was told that he had ridden up to the temple entrance in full gallop, followed by about twenty soldiers on horseback. It seems hard to believe that this same official up to two years ago used to come once a month to this same temple, followed by his medieval escort, to offer up sacrifices to the god of war. It is customary even now for the official to have tea and hot towels brought every few minutes, but we broke the custom and had entire silence and dignity throughout the service.

"When Mr. Carter went on the platform, everybody rose to their feet as they had done for the official. How I do hope that all the western ideas pouring in shall not rob the Chinese of their courteous ways. They do have a lot to teach us as to manners.

"Our school boys made us proud. Their singing has improved remarkably since Mr. Hsu came. They opened with a national song, after which the principal of the government school read the President's proclamation and explained our worship, and the service was opened with the doxology and the reading of the thirty-fourth psalm, after which Mr. Carter explained in a few words and led in the Lord's prayer. In planning the service we had in mind that the audience would consist largely of thinking people who had never before been near a place of worship, and pains were taken that there should be no part of the service that was not completely understood. The hymns, the short explanations and the earnest prayers of our doctor and evangelist were so straight to the point that I don't see how they could but be understood. The service closed with silent prayer which ended in the reading by the audience of two sentences written on the screen in front of the old gods: 'May God's will be done in China. God protect the Chinese Republic ten thousand years.'

"In silence everyone arose and left the temple. If you have never been in China, it is hard to realize what that means. It takes a great deal to hush a Chinese.

"I may have written at too great length about this, but we must remember that more than three-fourths of the audience were people who had never been near a Christian place of worship. Here were the old gods, collapsed and done with before our eyes. Do you wonder our hearts trembled at the responsibility of bringing before these people the only message they will hear of an all loving Father. What the Chinese felt I don't know. But I know God was very near to our hearts.

"I am afraid this is very much like a regular missionary letter. Please forgive me this once and I will not do it again very soon. I know you, too, would have had a stirring somewhere if you could have seen those ugly old gods looking out upon the thoughtful faces of their former followers who probably in their own minds were weighing the advantages of the old adn the new. Our great hope is that it touched their hearts as well as their heads."

J. D. Loizeaux, of this city, is spending some time in Nova Scotia.

RAILROAD DETECTIVE HELD IN BAIL FOR GRAND JURY

Jacob Mattis, the railroad detective of the Lehigh Valley Railroad who yesterday narrowly escaped lynching at the hands of the natives of South Plainfield after he had shot 17 years old James Caslick, of West Orange, in the leg because he was trespassing on a freight "stealing" a ride, was arrested and held in $2,000 bail to await Grand Jury action, when arraigned before Judge Davis at the Middlesex county court in New Brunswick.

Middlesex County Prosecutor Geo. Silzer, came to Plainfield yesterday afternoon and visited the Caslick youth at Muhlenberg Hospital, where the victim is confined with a bullet wound in the calf of his left leg. Silzer took a detailed account of the shooting from the youth and expressed the opinion that railroad detectives use their guns when not necessary.

HEALTH OFFICERS VIEWS

Plainfield side of the brook are bordered by property, occupied or owned by members of the Board of Trade, and that if we will request our members who occupy such property, to 'clean up' and 'keep clean,' their portions of the brook, the matter will be a simple one to adjust.

"I take that you desire the Board of Trade to undertake the work which your department was instituted. If then, you mean this, will you kindly let me know and we will take the matter under advisement and perhaps arrange with the city authorities to have the funds of the health department diverge to the Board of Trade. I think my suggestion is about as wise as yours, both are equally foolish. However, this is no time to cavill. We have drawn the attention of your board to the conditions and we want them remedied. If what you say about members of the Board of Trade owning property abutting the mill race and the brook were true, it would not relieve your department from doing its duty, and the Board of Trade should be credited for having the nerve to tackle an undertaking which involves its own members. We are not so much concerned about what our members do, but in seeing that the various city departments do the work for which they are paid.

"We trust, therefore, that this letter will do much towards clearing up the smoky atmosphere, and what seems to me, to be unnecessary confusion, of who is responsible for affects when the cause remains to be cured.

"P. S.—The Board of Trade is very much gratified to realize that its activity in this matter resulted in the immediate cleaning of the mill race by those who own it."

Fruits of Mexico.

Mexico is the fruit paradise. Fruits never heard of by the hundreds of millions who live in the temperate zones grow there in profusion, and Acapulco, on the Pacific slope, is perhaps the garden spot of it all. It is noted for the great quantity of indigenous varieties which grow spontaneously. With the exception of some indifferent cultivation of cocoanuts and bananas everything else grows wild and in luxuriance.

Of the fruits known in the United States this district alone produces bananas, oranges, pineapples, mangoes, limes and lemons. And here are a few more of other varieties never seen above the border line: Toronjas, a species of grapefruit; the aguacate, papaya, guayabo, chico, zapote, mamey, llama, anone, granada, caimita, cartajena, meson, wamuche, jicaine, tamarindo, nanche, huicon, icacos, almendra (almond), ciruela (plum), and undoubtedly many others.

But so indifferent are the natives to their possibilities that nothing is exported except the lime and its products.—Exchange

SENATOR DU PONT IS SEVENTY-SIX TODAY

Men of His Age Are Becoming Scarce In Upper House—Noted As Soldier.

Washington, D. C., July 30—Senator Henry A. DuPont, of Delaware, received the congratulations of his colleagues in the Senate today on reaching his seventy-fifth birthday anniversary. So many men who are comparatively young are being sent to the Senate in these days of "election by the people" that senators of Col. DuPont's age are becoming scarce. The Delaware senator is a splendid type of the old regime that is fast disappearing. A multi-millionaire, an aristocrat of aristocrats and a trust magnate, so-called, Senator DuPont, naturally enough, finds himself out of sympathy with much of the sentiment that finds expression in the Senate nowadays. A majority of the old-time members who were leaders when he first came to the Senate have since dropped or been dropped out of public life. The Delaware senator is not what is called a good "mixer," but his attractive personal qualities, coupled with his ability and his conscientious performance of his public duties, have earned for him a high place in the esteem of members of Congress and others in official life in Washington.

No man in the United States Senate can boast of more distinguished lineage that Senator DuPont. Pierre Samuel DePont de Nemours, the founder of the American branch of the family, was one of the ablest political reformers of France during the period of the revolution. He was inspector general of commerce under Turgot when that eminent statesman was controller general of French finances. During the revolution he fled to the United States to escape the guillotine. In 1802 he returned to France and was instrumental in promoting the treaty by which Louisiana was sold to the United States.

It was Eleuthere Irenee DuPont, the son of Pierre Samuel, who began the manufacture of gunpowder in Delaware and thus founded the great industry controlled by the family today. He set up the first powder mill on the banks of the Brandywine in 1802. The models and machinery he had brought from France. The industry was a success from the start. The founder died in 1834 and was succeeded by his eldest son, Alfred, who built additional mills and enlarged the business greatly. Alfred died in 1850 and was succeeded by his brother Henry, who remained the head of the firm until 1889. At his death the business went into the hand of his nephew, Eugene DuPont, who died in 1901 and was succeeded by his son, T. Coleman DuPont, and his nephew, who is the present senator.

But Senator DuPont's claims to distinction do not rest upon his family tree alone. Among the things of which he might boast is his record of service in the Civil war. He was graduated from the United States Military Academy in the year that the war began and was appointed to the command of a light battery. His father, who was a veteran of 1812, was very proud of his handsome son and begged the privilege from Simon Cameron, then secretary of war, of supplying the troop with the best horses that money could buy. Thus mounted, the battery was the finest in the northern army. Captain DuPont served in the battles of Newmarket, W. Va., as chief of artillery, and in the battles of Piedmont, Lynchburg, Opequan, Fisher's Hill and Cedar Creek, in the latter three as commander of artillery of Gen. Crook's corps. He was breveted major and lieutenant-colonel and awarded a congressional medal of honor for distinguished gallantry.

Senator DuPont has carried his military bearing and manner down with him to the present. In private business and in the discharge of his public duties, his every movement savors of military precision. Thinking and planning succinctly, he devotes little time to trivialities. The trait has caused many to look upon him as an autocrat, when such an impression, his friends say, is farthest from what he would wish to convey. It has caused many to regard him as a high-headed aristocrat, who loftily gazed above the heads of the common people.

The senator has not mingled with the masses. In fact, his coterie of associate in private life has been limited, but their loyalty was attested by the way they stuck to him through the eleven sensational years when J. Edward Addicks sought to dominate Delaware politics and eventually elevated him to the Senate in the face of the Addicks' opposition.

Senotor DuPont lays no claim to being a speechmaker or a spellbinder. Throughout his career he has shunned rather than sought the limelight. His diffidence is appreciated by newspaper reporters, and the man who has obtained an interview on the political situation from the Delaware senator is yet to present himself.

Today and Tomorrow (Thursday)
are "Days of Courtesy" in the August Furniture Sale—selections may now be made from the fully assembled stocks, transactions to date as of August First.

The Low August Price on Furniture

Is Not Made by Taking It Out of the Quality

THERE is not one piece of furniture on our floors that was made to "sell in a sale." The special purchases for August—more than $300,000 worth—are of discontinued patterns and sample pieces—all of which, of course, are exact duplicates (in quality as well as in appearance) of furniture that heretofore sold at the regular prices marked on the tag.

Our regular stocks—more than $600,000 worth—of course, were assembled for our regular trade. They are offered now in the August Sale at the marked reductions only because present conditions of the industry make it impossible to secure enough good furniture at special prices to make an offering up to the Wanamaker standard of August Sales.

We have plainly said—and we repeat—that although the originator of the August Sale of Furniture, we reserve the right to withdraw it from the store calendar when we can no longer prepare it to the great advantage of our customers.

But we also plainly say that, adding our regular stocks to the Sale, as we have this year, we are able to present an August Sale superior to any of its many predecessors.

An hour in the Furniture Galleries (Fifth, Sixth and Seventh) and in the Auditorium with its additional assemblage of fine furniture, will prove this statement to your own satisfaction.

The Auditorium Exposition was described yesterday by a traveler as "the nearest thing he has seen in this country to the old world exhibits of furniture."

NEW JERSEY PLANS TO STOP SPEEDING

State Bureau Asks Local Officers to Aid In Punishing All Auto Offenders.

Trenton, July 30.—Motor Vehicles Commissioner Joseph Lippincott sent a circular appeal yesterday to the police of every municipality in the State inviting co-operation in measures to check reckless automobile driving, which has been responsible for more deaths and accidents this summer than in any other season in the highway records of New Jersey. He advises four specific courses of action:

That speed traps be established on all the roads.

That muffler cut-outs, swinging registration numbers and improper lighting of markers be reported.

That all serious violations of the law be penalized by instant arrest and reported to the Commissioner, who will promptly revoke licenses.

That the police call freely for assistance from the Motor Vehicle Department.

"If these suggestions are followed" the circular letter says, "speeding and other sources of danger to life and property ought to be quickly terminated in New Jersey."

FIND MISSING TOT PLAYING IN POLICE STATION DOORWAY

Roselle, July 30—After a long search, the Roselle police found little Bessie Duffy, of 500 Second avenue, who wandered away from her home early yesterday morning.

The child was reported lost to the police at 9 o'clock and at noon she was found by Patrolman Giesler playing in the doorway of police headquarters.

CONGRESSMAN FOWLER RENEWS CONTROVERSY

Former Congressman Charles N. Fowler, in a long statement, renews the controversy which has arisen from Mr. Fowler's attack on the meeting of the County Chairmen's Association held at Trenton some time ago. Mr. Fowler now states that he has a letter from W. K. Fenn, who acted as secretary, in which the latter says that Mr. Fowler was neither bound to silence in regard to his attack made at the meeting, nor that he apologized.

Mr. Fowler materially differs in this respect from Herbert W. Taylor, the chairman of the meeting. Mr. Fowler some time after the meeting published his remarks, which brought forth on the part of Mr. Taylor a statement to the effect that Mr. Fowler had promised not to publish the remarks made at the meeting, and also that Mr. Fowler had apologized.

In this statement Mr. Fowler stated further that of the twenty-one only twelve chairmen were present and that practically nothing was done.

PERSONAL.

Elmer Bohan, of West Fifth street, who has been spending the last nine months on the Pacific Coast, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Firstbrook, of East Front street, returned today after spending two weeks at Lake Hopatcong.

Mrs. E. D. Moffett, of Orchard place, returned home yesterday after visiting her daughter, Mrs. Thoms, of Trenton.

Mrs. W. J. Trembath and Miss Van Nostrand, of Plainfield, and the Misses Lang, of Rahway, will occupy their bungalow at Manasquan during the month of August.

Miss Marian Snyder, of Prospect avenue, is spending her vacation at Asbury Park.

Philip Swain and family, of Craig place, have returned from Asbury Park, where they spent their vacation.

George F. Hetfield, son of Assistant Corporation Counsel Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., who has been seriously ill at their summer home at Ocean Grove since last Saturday, is decidedly improved and is out of the danger zone. Mr. Hetfield, accompanied by Dr. Charles B. Lufburrow, went to the New Jersey resort last night where his family is spending the summer, prompted by the reports of the critical illness of his child. Dr. Lufburrow returned to Plainfield late last night saying the boy would be all right again in a few days.

James Blake and family, of Madison avenue, will leave this week for the Catskill Mountains for the balance of the summer.

AT PROCTOR'S

What would be the appearance of a court-room if women were given the ballot and prisoners were tried by juries composed of the fair sex, and before women judges? One version will be portrayed tomorrow, Friday and Saturday at the tri-daily performances at Proctor's theatre. "A Day in Court," as the farce is called, is a playlet in one scene with many intricate and laugh-producing features. The scenery is unusual, the music catchy and fourteen men and women, all clever player-folk, compose the cast. On the same bill are LaFrance and McNabb, two black-faced comedians who have many surprises to spring. Hoeman and Milloy, appear in a sketch entitled, "Hogan, the Mummer," which is an act sure to please. Wyer and Sheldon in a singing and talking stunt; Bollinger and Reynolds, sensational aerial wire-walkers and tumblers and a series of photo moving picture plays complete the excellent end-of-the-week program. "The Accusing Hand," a photo play by Selig, will be shown tomorrow.

A Money-Saving Boiler

Square Pot Boilers operate economically. Their fuel consumption is comparatively small, their heat-delivering power comparatively large. The reason of this superior economic efficiency lies in the firepot. This is square at bottom and round at top—a form that gives greatly increased radiating surface over the ordinary round pot. Here is a sectional view of the economical Square Pot Boilers.

Note the nearness of interior water-holding sections to fire—upward trend of surfaces and capacious feed door and square firepot.

FRANCES MARSHALL

The Popularity of Figured Crepe.

Early in the summer many young girls appeared in Dolly Varden frocks of the prtty-flowered figured crepes that were shown in the shops. The style of these frocks was becoming. So were the blouses of the same materials that soon abounded. But no one, probably, had any idea that the fad of wearing figured crepe and figured voile, as well, would remain a fad all summer.

The late summer styles show a greater use than ever of these charming materials. Fashion forbids any fabric which is stiff and starchy. Hot weather has made the eponge and other similar cloths which were popular in early summer, uncomfortably warm. For both these reasons the thin, soft fabrics are doubly popular.

The Frocks.

For afternoon frocks figured voile and crepe are both ideal. They need little trimming. Their surface, broken by delicate flowered designs, and interesting, too, because of its weave, is far from plain. Then, too, they lend themselves to all sorts of drapery. The pannier, which is still in force, in spite of many rumors and predictions that it was going the way of Balkan coloring and slashed skirts, is especially attractive when used on a voile or crepe frock. One with deep, full panniers, and a draped bodice could be made without any trimming save frills of net or lace at throat and arms.

Net, by the way, is the most harmonious sort of trimming to use with either of these materials. It may be put in the form of a folded vest, it may be used for undersleeves, it may be used for any sort of neck finish and sleeve ruffle, and it may also be used in the form of ruffles on the skirt.

One of the economical points about figured crepe or voile—and they are not expensive, to begin with—is that when they are past their usefulness in frock form, they still have the making in them of dainty negligees.

CHARMING NEW ART JEWELRY

Inexpensive Ornaments of Artistic Character Sold In the Shops to Supplement Prettily the Low Cut Summer Costume.

OWING to the popularity of the surplice neck bodices and the brevity of summer sleeves, necklaces and bracelets are popular. They give a finish to shapely neck and arms that is most attractive, and where the contour is not all it should be they serve the kindly office of hiding defects.

Much of the new art jewelry which is deservedly popular is inexpensive. Modern skill can achieve such excellent imitations of costly stones that often those who can afford the real ones do not choose to wear them.

Many of the novelties shown in the shops are likely to be as transient in style as the fashions they supplement, and to buy expensive specimens would be a needless extravagance.

Some of the daintiest imported necklaces are Bulgarian styles in handsome beads. Necklaces of beads are also made up in Indian and other barbaric designs. These imitate the ornaments worn by the peasants in the eastern countries. All of the necklaces have more or less elaborate pendants.

Neckbands are again worn, and handsome jeweled slides are made to ornament them. A white neck never looks so white as when in contrast with a band of black velvet.

Very attractive are the new jeweled bands with pendants which are worn as corsage ornaments. A handsome ornament of this kind consists of a band of plated gold with pear shaped pendants of green jade.

Bracelets of jade in green, red, blue or white may be obtained. Imitation jade of a composition that closely resembles it are also sold. Massive bracelets in gold or silver imitating old fashioned patterns are shown. Happy is the woman who has heirlooms of this sort.

Lorgnette chains and lavallieres are dainty and attractive. They also are

NEW ART ORNAMENTS.

Bulgarian in suggestion, some of them of metal with gay colored stones as ornaments.

Fancy buckles of all kinds, brooches, etc., are carried out in pretty new art designs. These buckles are for the decoration of shoes, belts, corsages, etc.

It is a promising sign of the improvement in public taste that these artistic creations are appreciated for themselves and not for the intrinsic value of the materials used. In the orient lapidaries combine the most ordinary metals and the most inexpensive stones in making their jewelry.

Big buckles are to the fore this season. They are worn upon all manner of hats save those intended for really ceremonious occasions, as a fastening for evening wraps and as clasps for girdles and collars. The smartest of the buckles are of square, oblong or oval shape in chased or jewel set silver or gold, in Russian enamel, in cloisonne on metal, in hand painted china and in jade. Some of the handsomest buckles are of a fabric like cloth of gold or silver heavily embroidered, of old French tapestry threaded with metallic strands and of hand embroidered velvet or satin.

If you cannot afford to buy a handsome big buckle and haven't the courage to try to fashion one of a fabric search among the trunks in the attic for an odd shoe buckle. One of these in metal may be polished and run through with a strip of black velvet ribbon, and there is always the chance that the search may be rewarded by the finding of a shoe buckle in English paste.

Amber is becoming more the mode each day. Bracelets may now be had of strong beads, which resemble the necklaces. They are of cut clear amber and are worn in pairs. Cut amber daisies are also used for brooches. In brooches garnets are also much shown. One may recognize a genuine garnet from the imitation by its luster, which should be metallic, and if of any size by its weight, for real garnets are heavier than glass.

Artistic in the extreme are the designs for jewelry illustrated here. They are imported novelties. The necklace is of gold plate adorned with artificial pearls. A belt buckle in a new art design with interlaced lines is fashioned of silver and set with a single topaz. A brooch Egyptian in its suggestion is of silver set with carnelian.

Some Cookery Suggestions

DELICIOUS PEACH DISHES.

DINNER MENU.
Green Pea Soup.
Broiled Steak. Mashed Potatoes.
Eggplant Fritters. Beans.
Cucumber and Onion Salad.
Baked Peaches.
Coffee.

WHEN peaches are to be sliced and served with cream they should not be peeled until shortly before serving on account of the fruit turning dark from exposure to the air.

Sugar should never be put on them in the dish, as standing in sugar takes away the delicate flavor of the fruit.

For a Hot Day.

A pretty way to serve this fruit is to peel large, ripe, rich peaches. Cut a small slice from one end of each peach so that it will stand, cut a section from the other end large enough to remove the pit with a small knife, then fill the cavity with whipped and sweetened cream, making a cone of the same on top of each peach. Serve ice cold.

Peach Fluff.—Break the whites of eight eggs in a large platter and beat until stiff. Add gradually eight tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, beating all the time. Last, fold in two heaping tablespoonfuls of peaches cut in tiny bits. Serve with whipped cream.

Cooked in the Oven.

Baked Peaches.—Peel by pouring hot water over the fruit, then rubbing off the skin. Do not take out the stones, but stick a couple of cloves in each peach. Put in a baking pan, sift sugar over them and dot with bits of butter. Bake in a moderate oven, putting a little water in the pan to prevent their sticking. Strew lightly with chopped nut meats, preferably blanched almonds or little green pistachio nuts.

Peach Pie.—Peel and cut into halves as many peaches as you wish for pie. Put on to cook with plenty of cold water in a deep granite or agate pan. Sweeten well with sugar. Cover the pan and place where it will boil. Have ready some good, light pastry dough. When the peaches commence boiling roll and cut the dough into small, thin strips and drop among the boiling peaches; then put the lid on again and let the peaches and dumplings boil ten minutes; then remove the lid and stir lightly. Put a crust over the top of the pie, place in the oven and brown nicely. When done and yet hot spread butter over the top of pie and sprinkle with sugar.

Dicky Likes His Bath.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—How the Little Birds Keep Clean.

SOMETIMES Jack thought his mother was too particular about the way he looked in vacation time. Once a day he said was often enough for a little boy to wash his face and hands. Mother did not agree with him.

"Nobody sees me," Jack grumbled one evening as he and Evelyn came in to where daddy was sitting.

"Sees you?" daddy inquired. When he heard Jack was grumbling because he had to wash before going to bed he said: "Why, mother sees you, Evelyn sees you and I see you. If you look in the glass you will yourself see how nice you look. Why, even the little birds clean up before they go to sleep.

"You've never seen them? Well, just watch the canary some day and see him combing his hair, washing his face and cleaning his feathers.

"First with his bill he will pick and shake at the feathers until he has got all the dirt out of them. Then he will gently pick and pat into place every little quill and feather.

"Yes, our little bird combs his hair. Of course he has no nice brush and comb as little boys and girls have, but the sharp claws on his little feet do just as well. With them he combs down every little feather in his crest and dresses his head as carefully as any hairdresser could do.

"If he thinks his face is not all it should be he rubs it against the wires of his cage or on his perch. If his feet are soiled he cleans them off with his bill.

"This is what I should call the little bird's dry bath. He takes a tubbing every morning when the little china bird bathtub is freshly filled with water and placed in his cage.

"You know how he loves to dip and splutter about in it. Sometimes he shakes the water out of his wings right in the face of whoever may be standing near him. Perhaps he does not wish any one to watch him when he makes his toilet. After he has washed and shaken out his feathers and has combed and picked them out till he is as yellow and fluffy as a sponge cake he will burst into song.

"We know from this that Dicky enjoys his bath. Wild birds are fond of bathing too. Out in the woods, where there are little brooks or quiet little pools, you will sometimes come upon a little flock of them chattering and splashing on the edge of the water. Some people who like the birds put out big dishes on their lawns and fill them with water. Then they have the amusement of watching the birds taking their baths on the lawns."

Models That Earn the Appellation of Summer, By Striking That Difficult Medium Between the Morning and Afternoon Gown.

The sense of right and wrong in dress is highly developed in the average woman of today. They are rarely indifferent to their appearances and it is this feminine instinct that creates an expression of attire that fascinates and holds your attention when seen. New modes are receiving the names of current events, until the wheel of fashion spins so rapidly that it is all one can do to keep pace with the dress of the season.

Fashion repeats itself in the history of the sash and we find the figure 7304 displaying the Tango sash in all its glory. This costume closes at the side-front and is a most appropriate model for afternoon garden wear. As white is the most favored summer attire, linen, crepe de chine or ratine would be most suitable to use for its construction. The Robespierre collar forms small revers which are charming. The Gibson plait over the shoulder, affords more breadth to the bodice. The full-length sleeves are very smart for a gown of this character. The chemisette is a removable one. The four-gored skirt has an inverted plait at the center-back. The sash shows the bow tied at the back, a style that is bewitching. This model is cut in six sizes, 34 to 44. Size 36 requires 5¾ yards 36-inch material and 3-4 yard 18-inch silk for the collar and revers. The sash is not included in the pattern, but three yards of ribbon would make a stunning one. 15 cents.

Simple in the extreme, the model 7800 suggests much novelty. This is a Peasant type of dress and would be very pretty made up of white linen or pique. It closes in the front as indicated. The sailor collar is attractive when made of contrasting fabric. The elbow sleeves have turn-back cuffs. The pockets at each side are smart. A belt of black velvet ribbon with a smart bow at the front sets off the little pointed tabs below the waistline. The three-piece skirt is scalloped on the bottom. This pattern is cut in five sizes, 34 to 42. Size 36 requires 4 3-4 yards material, 36 inches wide. 15 cents.

One can never have too many pretty little guest towels and they are such fun to embroider because they are dainty and simple and do not take so much time that one tires of them. Buy the finest of huckaback, in either the eighteen or fifteen-inch width, and cut it in twenty-four-inch lengths; if the towels are to be finished with scalloping or, in twenty-six inch lengths if they are to be finished with hems. The design may be embroidered in solid and eyelet work combined with punch work on one end of each towel and the other end may be finished with plain scalloping or a hemstitched hem. Pattern 14629 includes designs for stamping both ends of three towels and scalloping is included. One inch initial or monogram may be added if you like.

The price of this pattern is 10 cents.

No Red Haired Old Maids.

Sir Philip Burne-Jones wants to know if any one ever saw a red haired old maid, and his question is said to have plunged London society into a controversy as warm as the hair concerned. Sir William Ramsay says that the lack of red headed spinsters is due to the fact that they always get married. Men like them, he says, and so they marry quickly. Burne-Jones gives the same reason for the lack. No one seems to have any statistics in regard to the red haired woman in the divorce courts.

Motoring Outfit.

A delightful automobile and camping outfit looks like a suit case when it is closed—a black suit case of only medium size. The case when open reveals four hidden legs, which make an oblong table of it. Before it can be opened into a table, however, its contents must be removed. In the case there is a capacious metal box for sandwiches, strapped recesses for thermos bottles and plenty of room for other supplies of both food and china.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

WHY VOTES FOR WOMEN?

The following address was delivered one night last week at Manasquan by Mrs. Champlain L. Riley, president of the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield:

The question that is asked of me continually is this: "Why work for Woman Suffrage, when there are so many things more pressing?" When I come to find out what is more pressing, I discover that the very thing under discussion would be more readily accomplished if women had the vote.

Is it a question of the child? Owen Lovejoy, secretary of the National Child Labor committee, is a suffragist believing his work would be lightened by the votes of women; and the whole nation was delighted when a woman was placed at the head of the Federal Children's Bureau.

Is it a question of social purity? The chief of police in Los Angeles expressed his belief that the social evil could only be remedied by women, with the power of the vote back of them. He is reported by the New York Tribune as saying that conditions had already been helped in Los Angeles since women had the vote

Is it a question of pure food? Of course the vote of women would help; and I wish you could all hear what Alice Lakey has to say on the subject. So it goes through all questions, social and industrial; through all the questions, in short, which are occupying the thought of the age.

I have told you the query that is put to me most frequently. There is a statement that is apt to follow it. My friends say, "We are very busy women already and it is hard to think of taking up new responsibilities." To which I reply that they are the old responsibilities and that a conscientious woman canot shirk them. We have to take care of our homes and children in the way prescribed by the new conditions in which we live.

In old days a family was self-sufficient like that described in Dr. Elliot's story of the family that owned an island off Mt. Dessert and raised the sheep that gave them wool, the cows that gave them milk, the vegetables they ate, etc. The industrious house wife spun and churned, and to make a long story short, all the family needs were supplied by the family. In the year A. D. 1913 where is there a family that can live on what it produces? We go out of the family for food, drink, clothing; yes and for education which was largely home-given in more primitive days.

Formerly a family was responsible for its sanitary condition. We cannot say even that of the urban family of today. Take for instance the disposal of garbage. That is a city question, not a family question. To illustrate that point and to show as I wish to that the modern family must look to politics for its sanitation I would like to tell you about Miss Mary MacDowell. She visited the plant that takes care of Chicago's garbage. She and a friend went incognito and sat on a lumber pile adjacent to the garbage plant and watched the handling of the refuse. Then they investigated conditions within the plant. Here is what Miss MacDowell has to say about garbage and votes.

"The garbage question is a woman's question because municipal problems press in around the very walls of the home," said Miss MacDowell. "Before the next primary we are going to have every alderman go on record on this question and then when election time comes we can see what will happen. I will vote for the alderman who is willing to cut down the death rate of babies which is increased every year by bad garbage systems."

One word more about the family before we dismiss the subject. A hundred years ago a family, as has been shown, could live more by itself and stress was laid on private rather than public morals. Today, I maintain that our children touch the public at so many points that public morals are the concern of all practical mothers.

In short we are very dependent on world outside the family. To control that world at all, it is necessary to have direct influence over the men who make and administer our laws. I am no believer in indirect influence as compared with direct influence.

Mayor VanWyck laid bare the situation as few have dared to do when seeking some reform. "Why do you come to me? I cannot help you. I have to please my constituents. Why, ladies, you haven't a damned vote among you."

There is a third question that comes to my ear so often that I wish I could answer it to the satisfaction of every one. I can answer it to my own complete satisfaction and my answer embodies the chief reasons why I believe in Woman Suffrage. The question is as follows, "Do you really believe that it would take only five minutes once a year to cast the ballot? What about the time it takes to prepare for voting?"

My answer is this, "We should most certainly have to acquaint ourselves with the needs of our own time and place before we should feel justified in voting. But the interest and knowledge which such acquaintance would bring is what our country most needs at the present time. Although called a democracy, the United States allows only half the people to vote and of that half many a good man has said, 'I am too busy to attend to politics,' just as the good women are saying today. As a consequence this dear land of ours has fallen into disrepute. This half-democracy of ours has almost proved a failure."

But a new patriotism is being born that demands of us social service by the common-sense method of political power. We must see that social justice is written into law and that afterward the law is properly enforced. Our daughters must be patriots as well as our sons and give their best thought and devotion to the welfare of their country.

The motto of the new patriotism is ballots, not bullets, but let me frankly admit that as much love and sacrifice must be put into the ballots of the Future as was put into the bullets of the Past.

Is Christy Mathewson Losing His World Famous Cunning

Though the Giants are jogging along the road to Pennantville at a merry pace, a serious break threatens the pitching staff. It is feared that old Chris Mathewson is losing all control of himself. Monday he went wild and skidded to the extent of two whole bases on balls in one game. In his first twenty-two games the old master issued only eleven passes, and here he goes and gives two in one afternoon.

The next thing we know Matty will go and lose himself another ball game, and then what about the pennant? This alarming situation confronts the Giants on the eve of a "croocial" series in Chicago.

At the same time that he peddled these girls to the Cardinals, Matty showed a mean disposition in other ways. He permitted the hapless Cards to strike only one safe blow in the first six innings, but after the Giants got a two-run lead the old boy eased a bit and was hit hard. At least the Cards touched him for four hits in the last three rounds, which is considered hard hittings in St. Louis when Matty is pitching. The locals could not score, however, which same is a source of great mystery to St. Louis fans.

WITH THE BOXERS

Gus Platts, the English welterweight who has been boxing around New York for several months, has returned to England.

Al Palzer is after a match with the winner of the Jim Flynn-Gunboat Smith fight which is to take place in New York August 4.

Jerry McCarthy, the Butte miner who fought "Honey" Mellody and other star boxers several years ago, is now match-maker of the Cooper City A. C., at Butte.

Harry Gilmore, Jr., will flash his new "hope," John Bull Young, on the boxing fans at Taft, Cal., August 16. Jack Lester is booked to meet the newcomer.

BASEBALL NOTES

In Gertenrich, the Chicago Federals have one of the classiest outfielders in the so-called outlaw league.

Since his return to the game, Catcher Gossett has been delivering the real article for the New York Yankees.

High class pitching and a bunch of heavy sluggers is the Giants' recipe for manufacturing a National League pennant.

Davy Jones, the old Detroit outfielder who is now with Toledo, is hitting well over the .300 mark in the American Association.

First Baseman Jake Daubert, of Brooklyn, is the first player in the National League to make one hundred hits this season.

Tincup, of the Sherman team, leads the Texas-Oklahoma League in batting. What's in a name so long as you carry the wallop.

Jimmy Shekard is doing nice work in the Cincinnati outfield in place of Marsans, who is on the sick list.

The Athletics have shipped Dave Morey, the Dartmouth pitcher, to the Fredericton Club, of the New Brunswick-Maine League.

Joe Wood, the star flinger of the Boston Red Sox, will be out of the game for at least three weeks on account of a busted thumb.

With Wagner and Gibson in the game regularly the Pittsburgh Pirates should be able to start a winning streak that will place them away up yonder.

On July 22 the St. Louis Cardinals won their first game of the season from the Brooklyn Superbas. "Slim" Sallee proved to be the right guess.

It looks as though Jimmy Lavender is up against it this year. Jim apparently is pitching real ball, but the Cubs either fail to hit behind him or boot away the game.

After sizing up Schang and Schalk, the two sensational young catchers of the season, followers of the White Sox declare that Schalk has it on the Philadelphia youngsters.

If the White Sox can land an Indian and a Cuban they will have the real thing in the way of a line-up for their coming world's tour. They have an Italian and an abundance of French, Dutch and Irish, but are shy a redskin and a clear Havana.

Playing the Rovers yesterday afternoon in connection with the Parker Field Senior League race, the Parker A. C. combination relinquished another opportunity to win a game by letting the Rovers triumph, thereby boosting the latter team's second place percentage considerably.

The Athletics have not as yet been conquered but the Rovers are now traveling at a speedy clip and pushing the topnotchers for every inch of available ground. Neither the Ironsides or the Parker nine have won a contest to date.

MULLIN'S PLAYING WON FOR RED STARS

He Led With the Bat and Held Opponents to One Hit While On the Mound.

A team of junior ball artists terming themselves the Princeton A. C. was defeated yesterday afternoon by the Red Stars in an eight inning diamond battle, the final score being 19 to 2. Six counters in the second stanza and seven more in the eighth made playing in the ninth unnecessary, and the two captains agreed to curtail the farce at that point.

Mullin's hitting was a feature of the game, he getting two two-baggers and a triple, while Smith pounded out a pair of doubles. Besides doing some good hitting Mullin held the opposition to one hit.

ROVERS HIT BALL AND WIN EASILY

McDowell's Pitching Held the Parker A. C. Batters Safe At All Times.

McDowell's pitching was a strong asset to the Rovers yesterday afternoon on Parker Field when this aggregation defeated the Parker A. C. by a count of 9 to 5. He had one bad round, that being the first one, but after that he steadied down and the best the opposing batters could do was to dent his delivery for five bingles.

Denny, who twirled for the Parker A. C. combination, did some good work until the fifth stanza when the Rovers solved his offerings and lambasted the ball for fourteen hits for a total of twenty-two bases. Henderson lifted the first ball pitched over the left field fence in the seventh for a home run. Henderson also contributed a double and two singles during the afternoon. McDowell and Sachar each got a double and two singles, while Schmeyer got two doubles. The feature fielding stunt of the game was pulled off by Dave Blanchard in the second inning when he smothered Houston's scorching line drive, doubling Rosenthal up at second base.

LAUREL A. C. SWAMPED THE WEST ENDS IN SHORT GAME

Six innings was plenty to assert the supremacy of the Laurel A. C. over the West Ends yesterday afternoon and when the two captains had agreed to stop the contest after five innings the score stood 16 to 1.

The losers got but two hits against the victors eleven, every man on the Laurels but Simpson getting at least one hit.

RED TAPE AND A TUB.

A Bath In Senegal Was Something Like a Surgical Operation.

Some years ago, when the capital of the French colony of Senegal was a dull, unprogressive town where officialism and red tape prevailed, a French traveler, with a friend, had a most amusing experience when he wished to obtain a bath. There was no bathing establishment in the capital of Senegal at the time, but rumor had it that it was possible to purchase baths at the hospital.

Accordingly the travelers repaired to the hospital, where they stated the purpose of their visit.

"Certainly," said the official, "take seats. Your names, surnames and birthplace?"

"But we merely want a bath."

"Exactly. What is your name, and where and when were you born, and are you government servants, soldiers or officers? No? Well, the rules do not provide for this. Just a moment. I will read them again. Yes, here is your case. You must first make out on stamped paper an application to the governor of the colony. After favorable notice from the governor you send another application to the chief colonial doctor, who will send for you and examine you."

"But we are not ill."

"It is the rule. Having examined you, the doctor will give you two noncommissioned officers' bath tickets, to be delivered to the assistant doctor."

"Why the noncommissioned officers' bath?"

"For the reason that in our accounts we recognize only two categories of persons—officers and civil servants, the latter taking rank with officers or petty officers. You are not official at all. If officers were to find you in their baths they would probably make a row."

"What period of time will all these formalities consume?"

"Two or three days, provided your application is approved at the government house."—Chicago Record Herald.

ORIGIN OF QUARANTINE.

Dr. Richard Mead's Action During the Plague of 1721.

To Dr. Richard Mead, who was in consultation at the deathbed of Queen Anne and became physician to George I., was due the credit of having first established quarantine.

In 1721, when the plague ravaged Marseilles and its contagious origin was discredited, Dr. Mead declared the plague to be "a contagious distemper," and a quarantine was enjoined. He also proposed a system of medical police, which finds its counterpart in the health officers of today. It was he who declared, "As nastiness is a great source of infection, so cleanliness is the greatest preventative."

He it was who said nearly 200 years ago: "If there be any Contagious Distemper in the Ship the Sound men should leave their Cloaths, which should be burnt, the men washed and shaved and, having fresh Cloaths, should stay in Lazaretto—that is, quarantine—thirty to forty days. The reason for this is because Persons may be recovered from a Disease themselves and yet retain matter of Infection about them a considerable time."

In practice Mead was without a rival, his receipts averaging for several years between £6,000 and £7,000, an enormous sum in relation to the value of money at that period. He possessed a rare taste for collecting. But his books, his statues, his medals, were not to amuse only his own leisure. The humble student, the unrecommended foreigner, the poor inquirer, derived as much enjoyment from these treasures as their owner. At his table might be seen the most eminent men of the age. Pope was a ready guest, and the delicate poet was sure to be regaled with his favorite dish of sweetbreads.

Matthew Arnold and the Girls.

Of Matthew Arnold as a school examiner a tale is told by a fellow inspector of a class of girl pupil teachers that he asked Arnold to examine for him. Arnold gave them all the excellent mark.

"But," said the other inspector, "surely they are not all as good as they can be. Some must be better than others."

"Perhaps that is so," replied Arnold. "But then, you see, they are all such very nice girls."

Professionally Considered.

"The Declaration of Independence is a wonderful document," said the patriotic citizen.

"Yes," replied the legal expert. "It's one of the ablest documents I ever saw. And the most remarkable thing is that with all the ability it represents, nobody appears to have received a cent for drawing it up."—Washington Star.

Present Troubles.

"Ah, pretty lady," said the fortune teller, "you wish to be told about your future husband?"

"Not much," replied Mrs. Galley. "I've come to learn where my present husband is when he's absent."—Philadelphia Press.

Turning the Phrase.

"They used to call him a bonehead."

"That was before he succeeded."

"Yes. Now they express it differently. They call him a man of hard, solid sense."—Washington Star.

Distantly Related.

"Yes; he's a cousin—about $4,000,000 removed."—Chicago Tribune.

DETECTIVES SEEK HARRIMAN GEMS

Magnate's Daughter Robbed of $75,000 In Jewels.

WEDDING NECKLACE GONE.

Loot of Narragansett Home Not Discovered For Twenty-four Hours, and Thief Leaves No Clew—Servants All Old Trusted Employees.

New York, July 30.—All the energies of a score of Burns detectives today were bent on solving the theft of $75,000 worth of jewelry from Mrs. Charles Cary Rumsey, who was Miss Mary Harriman. The robbery became known in New York when representatives of the estate of the late E. H. Harriman made arrangements with the Burns Detective agency to seek the thieves who took the jewels from a bureau drawer in the boudoir of Mrs. Rumsey at her home, Gumming Rock, Narragansett, R. I., some time between last Saturday night and Sunday evening.

Practically all of Mrs. Rumsey's jewels, including a two strand pearl necklace valued at between $50,000 and $60,000, were taken from the drawer where they had been kept in four pasteboard boxes. When Mrs. Rumsey discovered the theft two of the boxes were missing and two were empty.

Besides the pearl necklace, a ruby and pearl pendant, a ruby pin, diamond brooch, heavy gold mesh bag and numerous smaller articles were stolen. Announcement of the theft and the estimate of the value of the articles taken were made by C. C. Tegethoff, manager of the Harriman estate, at 475 Fifth avenue.

Wore Jewels Saturday.

According to Mr. Tegethoff's statement, Mrs. Rumsey wore her pearl necklace and some of the other jewelry on Saturday evening, July 26. When she took them off she placed them, as usual, in the boxes in the upper drawer of a bureau in her boudoir. On Sunday evening, less than twenty-four hours after the jewels had been put away, Mrs. Rumsey went to the drawer to take some of them out. When she opened the drawer she found only two of the four boxes within. These boxes were found to be empty.

Detectives were at once notified and cautioned to secrecy, but a preliminary investigation failed to disclose any clew to the identity of the thieves or to the disposal of the jewels. It was then decided to call in the private detective agency. The New York police were also notified to be on the watch for the gems, as were the police of every large city in the country.

Asked if he had any theory as to the method of the robbery or the identity of the thieves, Mr. Tegethoff said that he had not. All the servants in the Rumsey household, he said, were old and trusted employees, having been in service for years either in the Rumsey or Harriman family. Absolutely no suspicion was attached to any one in the household, he said.

WEDS HER DYING FIANCE.

Bride of Fever Hospital Patient First Had to Be Vaccinated.

Lebanon, Pa., July 30.—The death of Wallace Van Sickle of Macon, Ga., in a hospital here revealed the devotion of a young woman member of a prominent Lebanon family, Miss Miriam Bowman, to whom Van Sickle became engaged. Shortly after the announcement was made he was stricken with typhoid fever.

The date of the wedding had been fixed, but it was postponed in the hope of Van Sickle's speedy recovery. There was no change in his condition, however, so it was decided that the marriage ceremony should be performed in the hospital. The hospital, owing to smallpox in the institution, was under quarantine, but the authorities permitted the young woman and a clergyman to enter the place after they had submitted to vaccination. The ceremony was performed and the bride remained at the bedside until he died.

MARVIN WEATHER CHIEF.

Professor, Expert In Service For Nineteen Years, Succeeds Moore.

Washington, July 30.—Professor Charles F. Marvin has been selected for chief of the weather bureau to succeed Willis L. Moore, recently removed. Professor Marvin is now chief of the instrument division, which position he has held since 1888. He was appointed to the old signal service in 1884 from Ohio. President Wilson will send his nomination to the senate probably this week.

Under the new chief more attention will be paid to weather reports and forecasts, as they affect or are likely to affect agriculture and general farming conditions throughout the country.

Professor Marvin was born at Columbus, O., and was educated in the public schools there and at the Ohio State university.

Shoots Sister For Burglar.

Elberton, Ga., July 30.—Believing he was firing upon a burglar, Mack Guest emptied a revolver at his seventeen-year-old sister here. Mortally wounded, the girl staggered toward him, exclaiming that a bolt of lightning had struck her. She died before medical aid could be summoned.

Attorney General Thomas Carmody and Miss Agnes E. Flinn of Albany were married in St. Joseph's church in Albany. After the ceremony they left for Mr. Carmody's Adirondack cottage at Fourth Lake. Mrs. Carmody has been a resident of Albany all her life and until last Saturday was finance clerk in the office of the attorney general. She met Mr. Carmody when she took that position a year ago.

SLAIN NEAR SUMMER HOME OF GOV. FIELDER

Robbery Motive For Murder of George K. Harris.

Sea Girt, N. J., July 30.—The body of George K. Harris of Danbury, Conn., fifty years old, was discovered by two workmen within a few hundred feet of "The Little White House," summer residence of Acting Governor Fielder, the house where President Wilson lived last summer. The man had been shot through the head, in his left hand and through the knee.

From the location of the bullet holes it is evident that the wounds in his knee and hand were inflicted at close range, probably while he was fighting for his life at close range. The bullet in his head penetrated the skull and brain and is thought to have killed him instantly.

When found he held a revolver, a 22 caliber weapon, in his hand, but it is the opinion of the authorities that the murderer or murderers placed it there to throw the officials off the track. The ruse would probably have worked had it not been for the finding of the man's rifled pocketbook about twenty feet from where he was found lying in the grass under a tree. Everything had been taken from it and the empty wallet thrown into the grass apparently by a person making his escape in the direction of the encampment reservation, but a short distance away.

Coroner Albert W. Bennett ordered the body removed to Purdy's undertaking establishment, where it has been viewed by several physicians. All agree that it would have been impossible for the man to inflict the injuries himself with suicidal intent.

The territory in the vicinity of the tree where the body was found is sparsely settled.

AN APPENDIXLESS TOWN.

Over 200 of Colebrook's Inhabitants Operated on For Appendicitis.

Mount Pleasant, Bretton Woods, N. H., July 30.—Over 200 of the 2,000 inhabitants of Colebrook have undergone operations for appendicitis, and the place has gained the name locally of "the appendixless town." No five towns combined in the White mountains can show such a record.

The operations continue at the rate of about two a week. Appendix dinners, dances and divorces are no novelty.

CONGRESS SEEKS LIGHT ON MEXICO

Representative Asks For Committee to Investigate.

FREE DOOMED AMERICANS

Stephens of Texas Favors Appointment of Five Senators and Five Representatives to Examine All Diplomatic Correspondence—Huerta May Resign.

Washington, July 30.—Representative Stephens of Texas offered a resolution providing for an investigation of Mexican conditions by a joint congressional committee. The resolution, which would start positive action on the part of the American government in regard to Mexico, taking the matter out of the hands of the state department, would authorize five senators and five representatives to examine all diplomatic correspondence and other documents relating to the situation.

Although it had been reported on good authority that Henry Lane Wilson would be supplanted as American ambassador to Mexico, he will, it was learned, appear before the senate foreign relations committee to give his views on conditions in Mexico. Mr. Bryan, secretary of state, was prevented from attending the committee's special meeting on account of conferences with Ambassador Wilson at the state department.

President Wilson has issued or authorized no statement regarding his attitude on retaining or dismissing Ambassador Wilson, but it was learned that the president will not direct any immediate steps regarding this country's relations with Mexico.

Representative Stephens said he had not consulted either President Wilson or Mr. Bryan regarding his resolution authorizing an investigation of affairs in Mexico.

Wording of Resolution.

"The committee will consider," said the resolution, "the qustion of our relations with Mexico growing out of the present disturbed conditions of that country. The committee shall report with as little delay as possible the true conditions in Mexico, the protection given Americans and American interests, the truth regarding the inhumanities and atrocities which come to the knowledge of this body through official sources and any other facts relating to this matter. The committee will, with as little delay as possible, recommend what action should be taken by congress."

Charles Bissel and Bernard McDonald, the two mine managers held by Mexican federals under sentence of death at Chihuahua, have been ordered released by the Huerta government. Charge d'Affaires Algara of the embassy here so informed Secretary Bryan. It was said Mr. Bryan expressed gratification at the prompt action the Huerta government had given to American representations in the cases, as well as that of Dixon, the immigration inspector, shot at Juarez.

McDonald is an Englishman. Bissel's chauffeur, an American, has also been ordered released. The three men were captured by General Orozco while attempting to take American refugees out of Parral.

The fact that the same mediators who persuaded Porfirio Diaz to abdicate are now trying to adjust the differences between the followers of Huerta and Caranza is encouraging officials in touch with Mexican affairs to believe that General Huerta will resign. No new developments are expected for a fortnight. Prominent Mexicans, working for peace, will represent to Huerta that there can be no recognition by the United States of his government, and hence no peace in that republic until a new president is elected there.

CLEVELAND HEAT KILLS 25.

Twenty-three Babies and Two Adults Succumb In the Lake City.

Cleveland, O., July 30.—Two adults and twenty-three babies are dead and a half dozen were prostrated as the result of the heat wave.

Michael Dubesky, thirty-four years old, was stricken while sitting in the kitchen of his home and died before a doctor could be summoned. Harry Beeks, a farmer of Warrensville, was overcome in the street. He was taken to Huron Road hospital. His condition is critical.

John Shannon, sixty, was found dead on Whisky island. Doctors ascribe his death to heart failure, superinduced by the heat.

The mercury reached 98 on the street level.

BABCOCK WOULD BE ASSEMBLYMAN

Popular Plainfielder Enters the Race For Nomination at G. O. P. Primary.

HAS HAD EXPERIENCE

President of Chamber of Commerce and Local Manufacturing Magnate Has Already Been In the Lower House.

George L. Babcock, president of the Plainfield Chamber of Commerce, head of the Spicer Universal Joint

Company and prominent otherwise in local affairs, today announced his candidacy for a nomination at the Republican primaries for the Assembly. He served one term and was defeated for re-election last fall, due to the Democratic landslide of the Presidential election.

A petition for Mr. Babcock is being circulated among his home town people today and there appears to be an eagerness to sign it as the candidate is held in high esteem. His record at Trenton was considered a good one [illegible] introduced and sponsored by him.

Mr. Babcock was born in Plainfield, N. J., January 7th, 1885, and is a manufacturer. He attended the public schools and was graduated from Plainfield High School in 1905, after which he spent three years at Alfred University, New York. He is president of the Plainfield Chamber of Commerce, treasurer of the Spicer Manufacturing Company, of Plainfield, president of Ashaway Clay Company, and a director of the State Trust Company. He is a member of the Plainfield Playground Commission and active in educational and charitable work. He was elected to the Assembly by a plurality of 1,243 over Connolly, the highest candidate on the Democratic ticket.

MUNICIPAL ORCHESTRA'S FIRST CONCERT SUNDAY

The program to be rendered at Parker Field on Sunday afternoon under the auspices of the Playground Commission promises to surpass any Sabbath-day entertainment yet given at the local recreation centre. The Municipal Orchestra, which has been practicing for several weeks, will render a sacred concert under the direction of Martin A. Korff, leader of the Y. M. C. A. orchestra. It is estimated that over thirty musical pieces will be found in the concert.

A prominent speaker will also appear and deliver an interesting discourse appropriate to the occasion. That the interest in these free Sunday afternoon affairs is steadily increasing, was shown last Sunday, when nearly one thousand Plainfielders enjoyed a lecture and a short program of vocal selections.

P. V. WEAVER BURIED.

The funeral of former Deputy Sheriff Peter V. Weaver was held yesterday afternoon from the home of his daughter, Mrs. V. L. Frazee, of Madison avenue, Rev. Charles M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church officiating. Many friends and relatives were in attendance to pay their last respects to one of the best known and respected men of the community. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. The interment was privately made at Hillside cemetery. The bearers were B. Frank Coriell, Cornelius Van Herwerden, Augustus V. Hetfield, Henry Liefke, J. Worth Coddington and John Y. Wilson.

SHOW SYMPATHY FOR A YOUTHFUL CULPRIT

Jail Officials Touched by Letters of Mother to Young Prisoner.

Elizabeth, July 31.—Letters from the heart broken mother and sister of Herbert Lang; of 123 Grand street, Jersey City, who has acknowledged stealing $50 from his friend, J. R. V. Boyer, of Cranford, have touched the feelings of the jail officials and aroused much sympathy for the 15-year-old lad who is awaiting arraignment before the Juvenile Court.

The letters are from Lunenberg, Germany, where the Lang family have lived for several years, although England is their home land. In the letters which were written in the German language and translated by young Lang, she pleads with him to return the money and says that "she is nearly gone mad with sorrow."

Boyer, from whom the money was taken, was a friend of the Lang family. He is employed by a local oil concern and had $50 given him for the purchase of supplies. This money was taken home by Boyer over Sunday and during a visit of the Lang boy the money disappeared. Lang was arrested and afterward confessed.

PRANK OF A YOUTH CAUSE OF SORROW

Circulation of False Reports of Companion's Death Stirred Neighborhood.

Elizabeth, July 31.—Howard and William Wilson, Leo Cooter and Charley Kelley, all boys, ranging from 10 to 14 years of age, did not know that they were supposed to be dead and walked in upon their parents and the weeping neighbors yesterday afternoon. With Edward Van Pelt, they went swimming yesterday morning at the Salem Dam. At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon young Van Pedt returned home alone and, going to the home of Mrs. Wilson, told her that both of her sons had been drowned and that he narrowly escaped the same fate. He then went to the Cooter home, 1022 Flora street, and told Mrs. Cooter that Leo had been struck by a Lehigh Valley express and instantly killed. Leaving the distracted mother, he flew to the Kelley residence, 1034 Flora street, and told Mrs. Kelley that Charley had also been killed by the train.

The boy seemed greatly excited and the parents of the "victims," who had aroused the neighborhood by their lamentations, could get no details of the "accidents." While summoning an undertaker to take care of the "dead boys," down the street they walked and could not understand why the entire neighborhood was out to give them such a reception.

They spent the rest of the afternoon searching for the Van Pelt boy, but h ecould not be found.

HIS FUNERAL HELD.

The funeral of Richard Edmundson, who died suddenly Tuesday morning, was held this morning at his home on West Third street. There were many floral tributes from friends and relatives, among which was a pillow from the Painters Union, No. 480, of which he was a member. The interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery, the bearers being Joseph Cottler, Charles Keintzfeldt, Morris FitzMaurice, James McKenna, Harry Wilson and C. Marsh.

AN APPEAL.

BATTLE DESCRIBED BY PLAINFIELDER

Dr. Charles P. Bull, Jr., Gives a Thrilling Narrative of Mexican Combat.

SERVED AS SURGEON

Three Days' Engagement Vividly Described By Our Correspondent Who Proved His Heroism In the Encounter.

(By our correspondent Dr. Bull)

An interesting letter telling of one of the battles incident to the Mexican trouble, has been received from Dr. Charles P. Bull, Jr., a field physician, who has seen valiant service and many bloody sights. Dr. Bull was formerly a resident of Plainfield, and his many friends here will undoubtedly be glad to read his personal account of a three days' struggle over the Mexican border, which follows:

Cananea is one of the largest copper mining camps in the west. It is situated in Mexico forty miles south of Taco City. The town lies chiefly on two nearly parallel flat topped ridges or misas, and in the intervening valley. On the eastern ridge is situated the Federal barracks (a one-story, hundred yards square brick structure) and five hundred yards south of it on a higher part of the same ridge a crude, breast high, partly excavated rectangular fortification, a hundred feet square—the second Federal position. Such, briefly is the staging of the battle of Cananea.

The Federal positions were held by approximately 350 soldiers of the Twenty-eighth Battalion. The Constitutionalists, 2,000 in number, composed of the State troops of Sonora (mostly Yaque Indians) and volunteers, laid siege.

At 7 o'clock on the morning of March 24, last, the firing commenced. The Constitutionalists occupied the eminences on three sides of the Federals and were strung out for about two miles. The desultory firing sounded not unlike an old time Fourth of July in Plainfield. The machine guns, however, timed off the shots too rythmetically for packs of firecrackers. Most of these guns on both sides were served by Americans and their fire was well directed and deliberate, seldom more than fifteen or twenty shots at a time.

The few American newspapers that reached us after the fight (for we were cut off from the States until after the fall of Waco) told of artillery firing and the shrinking shells, etc. In reality there were two ancient muzzle loading cannon which the volunteers had and these lent somewhat to the noise and hurled updust clouds now and then, seldom nearer than a hundred feet to the Federal position.

When the fight commenced I was in the Alexandria Hotel, which is situated on the ridge opposite the Federal barracks and about six hundred yards distant in an air line. In the rear of the hotel is a large half completed brick church. This was soon occupied by Yaque Indians. They were armed with Mausers and opened a destructive fire from the top of the church across the roof of the hotel and from the windows on the exposed side.

Some twenty yards from the opposite side of the hotel and directly between it and the Federal barracks several rebels were lying behind an embankment. They were smoking cigarettes and firing very deliberately. Several times I saw them splash dust within a hundred yards of where they lay, but they drew the Federal fire in our direction. There is a lot more danger to onlookers in this kind of fighting than to combatants. A bullet hit the casing of the window from which we were constantly peeping. The building was hit several hundred times but fortunately no one inside was hurt.

Outside the barracks directly opposite us about fifty Federals were out in a skirmish line. Their dark blue clothes made a striking color contrast with the yellow earth. The exposure was reckless and must have been because of contempt of regular soldiers for the motley State troops. Before 9 a. m. that line was down to stay, very few got back to the barracks. During the remaining three days of the fight the Federals fired very deliberately from cover and lost very few men.

Opposite the Alexandria Hotel is the Club Anallac, a one-story adude building. It had been hastily converted the afternoon previous into the White Cross hospital. The White Cross (LaCruz Blanca) is a volunteer organization that originated in Mexico during the Madero Revolution. I had volunteered to serve with them as surgeon during the fight. Soon after the fight commenced I was called by telephone. The building was diagonally across the street, but I had to pass directly between the Yaquis in the church windows and the barracks. Bullets were striking everywhere. The Mauser bullets when they hit the buildings made a

PENROSE STIRRED UP 'JIM' MARTINE

A TARIFF DISCUSSION

Jerseyman Points to Enormous Steel Profits to Show That Business Affairs Are in Good Shape at the Present Time.

Washington, D. C., July 31.—Interrupting a calamity howling speech by Senator Boise Penrose in the Senate yesterday afternoon, Senator James E. Martine, of New Jersey, read a newspaper report showing that the Steel Trust had just declared a quarterly dividend of 17.70 per cent., the largest in its history, representing earnings of more than $41,000,000.

"This enormous profit was earned by this giant corporation, located in Pennsylvania, in a period when the whole country was awaiting tariff revision," declared Martine. "And this dividend was paid upon stock of the company which represents little but water. Does this look as though the country was going to the dogs, as the Senator predicts?"

Penrose had read a long list of letters and newspaper paragraphs to show that mills and factories through Pennsylvania were being closed because of the hard times expected to follow the new tariff.

"And I have known mills and furnaces to be closed in Pennsylvania during Republican administration," asserted Martine, "while in that same time occurred in that State the most disastrous strikes and labor troubles in the history of the country."

"Name them," interrupted Senator Oliver, of Pennsylvania.

"The strikes at Homestead and Bethlehem," retorted Martine.

Penrose told of a cream separator plant that was being moved from Pennsylvania to Germany because of the tariff revision.

"We are not making this tariff for Pennsylvania or any other State or special interest, but for the nation," declared Martine. "And I want to say to the Senator that the cows will go right on giving milk under a Democratic tariff, and cream will rise on that milk, and farmers will buy separators to get the cream from the milk, and whether these separators are made by one man or another matters little."

The report that at a convention of woolen manufacturers within a few days past it had been decided to reduce the price of new spring fabrics for next year from 10 to 14 per cent. was quoted by Martine as one of the first proofs given that the price of commodities will be reduced by the new tariff.

MISS FRANCES WEIR IS NOW MRS. CUTHBERT

London, England, July 31—Mrs. Weir-Lewis, formerly of North Plainfield, N. J., announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Frances Underhill Weir, to Claude A. Cuthbert, of London. The ceremony took place at the Church of St. Mary Abbots, Kensington, on Thursday, July 17.

Several Plainfield and North Plainfield friends received announcement cards today.

SUIT OVER RIGHT TO THE USE OF A TITLE

In the chancery suit which has just been instituted by the New York Telephone and others against the Metropolitan Telephone & Telegraph Company and others to restrain the use of the name the Metropolitan uses, a similar suit to which is now pending in the New York courts, and which promises to be one of the biggest chancery suits in years, Counsellor George Ball, of this city, has been retained as the New Jersey lawyer to defend the action in this State. The subpoenas in the case were returnable on Wednesday and on the answers being filed next month the case will be referred for the taking of testimony before one of the vice-chancellors.

The amount of money which is indirectly involved in the litigation over the right to use the name of the Metropolitan Company is several millions of dollars, beside which is the attempt, so it is claimed, to put obstructions in the way of a rival company doing business. The New Jersey representatives of the New York Telephone Company in the litigation are the well-known Newark corporation lawyers, E. A. and W. T. Day.

Mr. and Mrs. David T. Kenney, of Rockview avenue, are staying at the New Monterey, Asbury Park.

Plainfielders Are Conspicuous In Host Gathering at the Federal Capitol.

PARADE A FEATURE

Mrs. E. F. Feickert, of This City, President of the New Jersey Association, As Daily Press Correspondent, Keeps Our Readers Informed

Washington, D. C., July 31 (Special).—The second big demonstration that the advocates of woman suffrage have held in the national capital this year took place today and was carried out far more successfully than the similar demonstration and parade held last March on the eve of the inauguration of President Wilson. The chief object of the demonstration today was to present petitions to the Senate asking that body to pass immediately a constitutional amendment enfranchising women all over the country.

The demonstration was participated in by delegations of suffragists from many States. The delegations rendezvoused during the forenoon at Hyattsville, Md., where they were officially greeted by the Washington suffragists and escorted into this city in automobiles. At Hyattsville there was a program of speechmaking in the public park and the raising of a suffrage flag.

Upon arrival in the capital the parade of automobiles proceeded south on 14th street to Pennsylvania avenue, and then on to the Capitol. The presentation of the petitions to the Senate was accompanied by brief addresses delivered by several of the national leaders of the equal suffrage movement.

Washington, D. C., July 30 (Special)—A delegation of New Jersey women headed by Mrs. E. F. Feickert, of Plainfield, were prominent in the suffrage hosts who paraded at the Capitol and presented the petitions today.

The suffragists asked the Senate to pass the resolution for a constitutional amendment giving women a vote for President.

One of the first automobiles in the number that have brought suffragists from several States to arrive in Washington was that of Champlain L. Riley, of Plainfield, which came in yesterday afternoon. Mr. Riley, who is president of the Men's Suffrage League, brought with him Mrs. Feickert, Miss Edith Abbott, Miss Helen Todd and Dr. Mary Cummins.

(By Mrs. E. F. Feickert)

Belair, Md., July 30—Starting out in Philadelphia at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, the New Jersey Suffragists went to call upon the Pennsylvania association at its headquarters in the Hale building. They were received with great enthusiasm by Miss Caroline Katzenstein, State secretary and her assistants. The Philadelphians are going to start for Washington by automobile on Wednesday. The New Jerseyites were urged to hold a noon street meeting in Philadelphia, but feeling that their duty was to New Jersey, they decided to go to Camden instead. A splendid noon meeting was held outside the factories of the Victor Talking Machine Company and the Estabrook Pen Company. Mrs. Colvin, Mr. Riley and Mrs. Feickert spoke to a most attentive audience and the girls from Estabrook's swarmed around in a crowd which blocked the street, asking for literature and showing the greatest interest. Hundreds of leaflets were given away and it was very satisfactory to notice after the crowd had gone back to factory work, that not one leaflet had been thrown aside.

After lunching in Camden, the party crossed the ferry to Pennsylvania again and went through to Chester, Wilmington, Elkton and Belair, Md., where it put up for the night. At Iron Hill, Md., a short stop was made at the home of Mr. Owen R. Washburn, editor of the Daily News of Franklin, Penn. Mr. Washburn is an enthusiastic suffragist and he told the delegation that it was an inspiration to him to realize how many other earnest people were in the work with him. Living in a neighborhood which is practically unorganized, he encounters more opposition and apathy than is found in enthusiastic New Jersey. Mrs. Colvin's husband has sent her the following verse, which fits the time:

"Onward Christian Soldiers"
Onward suffrage soldiers
Riding on so far
Just to show the Senate
How intent we are.
Just to show them clearly
'Tis their duty fair
To pass the amendment
While we're waiting there.

JERSEY CENTRAL NOW FIGHTS PENNSY

Besler Gives Objections to Plans of Rival Road to Elizabeth Official.

Elizabeth, July 31.—Notices have been posted by the Central Railroad that after September 1 the excursion and single-trip tickets issued by the Pennsylvania road between this city and Newark will not be accepted by them; neither will the Pennsylvania road accept those of the Central Railroad. Heretofore the excursion and single-trip tickets between here and Newark have been interchangeable between the two roads, but neither would accept the commutation tickets of the otherfl

The Jersey Central has shown its determination to fight the improvements planned by the Pennsy unless the projebtc which are under consideration by the Central road are provided for. In the letter from W. G. Besler, vice president of the Central road, to Dr. Wagner, chairman of the council committee upon railroads, the Central road states its objections to the Pennsylvania plans, and to some extent criticises the proposals made by the city. The letter also shows the plans of the Jersey Central road, which up to this time have not been given to the public.

PUBLIC PLAYGROUND VERY POPULAR HERE

Evidence of the growing popularity and appreciation, on the part of the children, of the school playgrounds isbeing shown by the great increases in attendance during the current season. A prominent citizen expressed his views of this great work to a member of the Playground Commission a few months ago and said that he thought that the playground movement was but the "artistic work of fancy." This view, however, is being discredited by the continued interests which the children show in what is being accomplished for them in this direction.

There are probably a great number who hold to the impression that nothing but play accupy the attention of the children while they are at these centers of recreation. Those of this impression would soon lose it were they to visit one of these centers and view the ather lines of endeavor being followed by a competent corp of instructors and leaders who are in charge of the various activities of the youngsters. Sewing, modeling, basket-making and other lines of industrial education. In fact more time is occupied by the educational features than is generally conceded.

Figures as given out this morning by Herbert E. Parker, Secretary of the Commission, cover the first three weeks and show that there is a great increase in attendance despite the fact that the novelty of work has worn out and proving that it can no longer be termed as experimental in nature. The following figures given to a Daily Press reporter cover the three weeks from July 7 to July 26 inclusive:

St. Mary's School grounds, attendance 2,475.

Franklin School grounds, attendance 4,047.

These figures show a total of 11,710 exclusive of Bryant School grounds, where the figures have not been turned in as yet. Against these figures, the attendance of the same period of last year should be given careful consideration. The attendance for last year at the three grounds mentioned for last year are as follows: St. Mary's School grounds, 1,927; Franklin School grounds, 3,005; Irving School grounds, 4,286; making a total for the period, 9,218.

In addition to these figures it should be considered that a vast number of children are attending the Bryant School grounds, as well as Parker Field. At the latter place, additional equipment is being installed, including a dressing room with shower baths, and two new tennis courts which will greatly relieve the conjestion at that ground. Two concrete stairs are also being erected joining the Parker Field with Parker Field Grove where the Sunday afternoon concerts are held.

NO BOROUGH COURT.

Several cases of minor importance scheduled for this morning's session of the borough court were laid over until tomorrow, owing to the fact that both Recorder Gano and Mayor Clark were out of town.

ENDORSEMENT OF PROMINENT ONES

Former Mayors Fisk and Moy Pay Tribute to William G. DeMeza As City Judge.

CLERIC'S GOOD WORD

Rev. Mr. C. H. Mallery Hopes He Will Be Returned—Former Assemblyman Samuel Swackhamer Also Has a Kind Word to Say.

Petitions placing William G. DeMeza in the field for the Republican nomination to succeed himself as city judge are being circulated by his friends and they will be filed in the course of a fortnight. Among the first to sign was former Mayor Charles J. Fisk. When seen by a representative of the Plainfield Daily Press, Mr. Fisk said:

"Some people have critized Judge DeMeza, but I consider that they will have to take their hats off to him. He has done what he has considered right and I do not know of a case where he has either shown fear or favor. He has always had in mind the interests of the city and at the same time has administered justice as it should be administered. I took great pleasure in signing his petition for I believe that when we have a good man in office we should keep him there."

When former Mayor G. W. V. Moy was asked for his opinion regarding the candidacy of DeMeza on the Republican ticket he said:

"I think that Judge DeMeza has filled his office very efficiently. I am happy to know that he is standing for re-election and there is not the slightest doubt in my mind but that he will be re-elected. While I cannot sign the petition, since I am a member of the Progressive party, yet I purpose to do all I can for him and will consider it my duty as a citizen to vote for him at the general election."

Former Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer, a prominent local lawyer who is a steadfast Democrat, said:

"I consider Judge DeMeza a most excellent citizen and judge. I have been frequently before him as a lawyer, in the city court, and have always found him absolutely impartial, always with the single purpose of administering equal justice and displaying a high degree of ability as a judge. Taking his record into consideration it would seem that his continuance in office would subserve the highest public interests and would be a just recognition of distinguished and disinterested public service. In local affairs, as the Daily Press has said, a man's political affiliations should not control the voters but his fitness for the position and the quality of the service he has rendered should be their guide."

From Rev. Cortlandt H. Mallery, rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, the Daily Press received this communication today:

MISS E. DE GROFF.

Panting, but painting—perspiring, but persevering—were the faithful few of the Staten Island suffragettes who donned old and few clothes yesterday afternoon, climbed to the roof of their bungalow in Tompkinsville square, Tompkinsville, and finished the job started earlier in the day by regular painters. "Woman's Suffrage Headquarters," in white letters, on a black background, now greets the eye. Miss Elizabeth De Groff is shown placing the finishing touches on the job.

TO APPEAL HYDE DECISION.

District Attorney Whitman Will Fight Reversal of Bribery Conviction.

New York, July 31.—District Attorney Whitman announced that he will appeal the reversal of the bribery conviction of Charles H. Hyde, former city chamberlain, and carry the case to the court of appeals as soon as possible.

Hyde was released from the Tombs when the appellate division of the supreme court reversed the finding of the lower court, basing its decision largely upon the point that it had not been clearly shown that Hyde would have benefited by the Robin transaction or that it would have resulted to his advantage.

MRS. JOHN ASTOR.

©1913, by American Press Association.

Mrs. John Astor and her daughter, Muriel, arrived in New York yesterday by the White Star liner Olympic. Mrs. Astor was gowned in dark blue satin and wore a blue straw hat with green plumes. When asked why she was coming here, Mrs. Astor laughingly replied that it was her purpose to divert Vincent Astor from his agricultural pursuits. Vincent Astor boarded the ship to greet her. He said that Mrs. Astor had no definite plans for the present. From another source it was learned that Mrs. Astor was going to Newport to visit Mrs. French Vanderbilt.

H. L. WILSON BEFORE SENATE COMMITTEE

Ambassador Urges Partial Recognition of Huerta.

Washington, July 31.—Henry Lane Wilson, ambassador to Mexico, advocated a restricted recognition of the Huerta government in Mexico at a secret conference with the senate foreign relations committee, but the senators took no action. The details of this scheme were not divulged, but some of the Republican senators said the ambassador had made a favorable impression, not necessarily as to his scheme, but as to his whole story of events in Mexico.

At the conclusion of a three hour examination members of the committee said the ambassador had been asked in detail as to his own connection with the downfall of Madero.

The ambassador expressed his own opinion in favor of recognition of the Huerta government, but the proposal did not meet approval from the majority of the committee. Before Mr. Wilson finished his story senators led him through a rigid cross examination.

The committee took no formal action upon any phases of the Mexican situation. No program of American action was outlined further than the suggestions of Mr. Wilson for a restricted recognition of the Huerta government.

Later, it is believed, the committee will take up letters containing charges against Mr. Wilson and will give him an opportunity to explain these charges.

SUSPECT WOMAN OF KILLING MAN

Victim's Body Found Near Governor's Home.

SLAIN ELSEWHERE, BELIEF

Police Think Murdered Man Was Carried to Sea Girt—Says Victim Displayed Considerable Amount of Money a Day Before He Was Killed.

Sea Girt, N. J., July 31.—With different investigations being conducted under the direction of Coroner Albert W. Bennett and Prosecutor John S. Applegate, Jr., and a dozen clews to follow, the mystery surrounding the murder of a man who was supposed to be George K. Harris of Danbury, Conn., seems to be no nearer a solution than when the body was found with three bullet holes in it by Chief of Police George Roberts and Harvey Blakely. The body was discovered near Governor Fielder's summer home.

Coroner Bennett is working on the theory that the man was killed some distance away from the spot where he was found and taken there. It is thought that his slayers intended placing the body in a vacant house that stands within thirty feet of the tree under which he was found. The keys in the doors of the house, with one exception, were found lying on the floor within, evidence that some one had forced them out in an endeavor to open the doors.

Insistent rumors to the effect that a woman figured in the slaying of the man are given considerable credence by the authorities. One of the important disclosures is the fact that the revolver was an especially short one and of such design as a woman would probably carry.

Coroner Bennett set next Tuesday as the date for the inquest. Roberts, who found the body; Mr. Blakey, who was with him; George Farr, a hackman, and another man by the name of Cottrell have been summoned to appear, and other witnesses will be called in the meantime. Cottrell states that the man was sitting on the veranda of the hotel on the afternoon preceding the night he met his death and displayed a considerable amount of money.

BOY HAS SAVING HABIT.

Rescue of Sister His Third Feat of Kind Within Year.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 31.—For the third time within a year William Kingston, Jr., fourteen years, qualified for a Carnegie medal. He heard his sister Stella, four years, scream as she tumbled down a well eighteen feet deep on his father's farm at Barkersville.

Fastening the bucket rope securely about the windlass, he slid down the line to the bottom of the well. There he pulled Stella from the water and fastened the rope about her. Climbing to the top, he hauled her out. His father arrived in time to revive Stella.

Last summer Billy rescued a girl who had fallen into Absecon inlet. In December he rescued John Reynolds, who had broken through the ice while skating.

DEADLOCK IN COURT.

Paterson Recorder Refuses to Sit Until a Prosecutor Is Appointed.

Paterson, N. J., July 31.—Seeing the possibility either of the city or the county authorities providing the police court with a prosecuting attorney to handle justice of the peace cases as required by the new law, Recorder James F. Carroll announced from the bench that all cases now awaiting trial in the court will be postponed indefinitely.

In the meantime, while the city and county officials are wrangling hundreds unable to furnish small bail lie in jail.

Sea Bright, N. J., July 31.—James H. Allgor of spite fence bungalow fame gained a move on his neighbors in Rumson road when Justice Voorhees restrained Sheriff Beecroft from making a deed of the property to Henry P. Sonller, who bought it at sheriff's sale July 21.

The neighbors have been rejoicing, thinking that the fence would be razed. Allgor says the property was undersold.

BABCOCK'S CANDIDACY.

It is with great pleasure that the Daily Press makes favorable comment on the candidacy of George L. Babcock for nomination on the Republican ticket at the forthcoming primaries for the Assembly. Mr. Babcock is no stranger in the Lower House. He served there faithfully for one term and by the fortunes of political warfare was defeated last fall when a candidate to be returned to Trenton. It was not his fault that he was not sent back for his defeat was solely caused by the Wilson landslide which swept Democrats into power in a Republican bailiwick. Consequently it is natural that he should appear again before the people as an aspirant for the office he ably filled and as there will be no Wilson in the November election contest his chances should be remarkably good.

Before the date set for the primaries, the Daily Press will review what Mr. Babcock did while a servant of the people in their lawmaking body. His record was a creditable one and upon it we presume he stands as a candidate for renomination and re-election. Young men of his type are needed at Trenton and we sincerely hope that the voters of Union county will have the wisdom to make him their delegate.

When William G. DeMeza observed the cordial welcome given his announcement that he would consent to be a candidate for renomination and re-election for the city judgeship he must have felt that the public is a grateful body. Irrespective of politics present and former municipal office-holders have something to say in his favor and among them are former Mayors Charles J. Fisk and G. W. V. Moy, whose expressions will be found in our news columns today. To sum it all up as briefly as possible, the people of Plainfield appreciate DeMeza as a city judge and will continue him in that office.

That poor little Boy Orator of the Platte confesses that though he has boarded up $170,000 of this world's riches in gold dollars, when not at sixteen to one, he cannot possibly live at the rate of $12,000 a year for he must have the best automobile and the best house and the best steaks and some other "necessities." Therefore, he is forced to exhibit himself on the public platform, marked "Secretary of State" and give a gabfest at $500 an hour. Trixie Friganza, the highest paid vaudeville artist, is paid at the same rate per week. Say, what is this Republic coming to?

We have faith in Plainfield and therefore in Plainfield's people. That is why we feel so sanguine that William G. DeMez will be renominated and re-elected as city judge. In these days it is the man who makes good. Such being the case DeMeza should have as easy running as he experienced in his first campaign.

Edmund B. Osborne, for fear you may not know to whom we refer let it be said he is a candidate for the Progressive nomination for Governor, has some questions to ask of Everett Colby. P. T. Barnum was a great self-advertiser but what's the matter with Eddie O.?

No, we cannot agree, possibly, with what our contributing editor for next Saturday's issue may have to say, but, then this is the very idea of a truly independent newspaper. We let the other fellow have his say.

ITALIAN HELD FOR BEING A 'BLACK HAND'

New Brunswick Italian Charged With Writing Letters Demanding Money.

New Brunswick, July 31—Frank Matony, an Italian, 24 years old, in jail here, was charged yesterday with writing Black Hand letters. Matony was arrested on June 21 last, accused of stealing from the Cliffwood Brick Company on May 24. The Black Hand charge was made by Gabriel Biondi, one of the officers of the brick company. He claims that he received a letter early in May demanding that he put $2,000 in an envelope and leave it near the railroad bridge at Matawan, where there is a pole with the initials "D. P. M.," cut in it.

After Biondi had put the letter and money where he was told the letter stated that he must put the initials "C. C. D." in the same pole. The letter stated that if Biondi failed to carry out the request his entire family, consisting of his wife, two daughters and one son, would be killed.

Two days later a second letter was received by Biondi in which the writer said he would kidnap his son and do like the Turks do if the money was not forthcoming. A third letter also made threats in about the same character as the first two. Biondi, however, paid no attention to the demands, and each letter he turned over to the authorities.

The authorities had reason to suspect Matony of writing the letters and secured specimens of his handwriting. Experts say it is similar to that on the Biondi letters. It is claimed that the police found in the bow of a hat he wore a piece of paper on which was written the name "Biondi."

When the prisoner was accused of the crime yesterday he denied knowing anything about the blackhand letters. He told the police if they could prove anything against him he would take his medicine.

The prosecutor yesterday cut down the pole and had the section where the initials were on it cut out to use as evidence when the case comes to trial. The penalty for the crime is fifteen years in State prison.

WOMAN MUCH SCARED BY BOLD INTRUDER

A man with a black moustache, almost six feet tall traveling in a red wagon pulled by a sorrel horse who was accompanied by a boy about eight years old dressed in Indan costume, called at the home of C. F. Nicholson, of Ritter's Crossing, shortly after 9 o'clock last night and applied for a night's lodging. His request was refused.

At 10 o'clock, when Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson were seated on the lawn of their home seeking relief from the intense heat, the latter heard footsteps and told her husband, who laughingly remarked that she was "dreaming." Becoming suspicious, Mrs. Nicholson ran to the second floor of her residence. In the dining-room she lighted a match. Before her stood a man, large in stature, with his feature hidden by a white handkerchief. As her trembling fingers released the match which fell to the floor, she screamed and called for help. The intruder, without uttering a word, ran down the back stairs and vanished in the darkness.

Whether the man who entered the Nicholson home is the same as the person who asked a night's lodging for himself and the boy in the Indian suit, is a mystery.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE WAS GIVEN ROSENTHAL

Abraham Rosenthal, represented by John P. Owens, was the defendant today in the city court on a charge of disorderly conduct preferred by Bert Rogers, a local dog-catcher, who claimed that Rosenthal interfered with him in the performance of his duties. Rosen thal received a suspended sentence of $10 fine or 40 days in the county jail, after Judge DeMeza had heard testimony.

Rogers swore that when he attempted to take Rosenthal's pet poodle, which he said was running the streets without a license number, that the defendant attacked him, assisted by his wife. Rosenthal, in part, dnied the charges.

—One of the next one hundred people who buy real estate in this city, would probably find that property of yours to be exactly what he wants. Give him, in a Press ad, sufficient facts to persuade him to investigate.

GIGANTIC WATER WHEELS.

Creaking, Groaning Monsters That Enliven a City In Syria.

Hama, in Syria, says a writer in the Wide World Magazine is famed for its huge water wheels, locally known as naura. There are four of them, and they are driven by the river Orontes, which flows through the town. Each of the wheels bears a distinguished name, and the visitor to the city is made aware of their presence long before he sees them by the creaking and groaning noise which greets his ear. At first it suggests a pipe organ and later a brass band practicing.

The wheels are built of a dark mahogany, which gives them at a distance the appearance of iron. The largest of them boasts of a diameter of seventy-five feet and is declared to be the biggest water wheel in existence. The naura are erected on what is known as the undershot principle—that is to say, they are driven by the water striking them at their base. They serve not only to supply the town with water, but also irrigate the adjacent gardens.

The wheels never stop, summer or winter, and day and night their creaking and groaning are heard. In the summer months small boys may always be seen bathing in the river in the neighborhood of the wheels, and for a small coin they will get in between the spokes of the wheels and allow themselves to be carried around many times or hang on the outside of the wheel and drop back into the water when halfway up.

BUILDING A RAILROAD.

What It Means When the Contractors Begin Operations.

With the right of way established, a great army of men enter into the field. The company does not build its own road. It is turned over to contractors and is usually let in sections of from 200 to 300 miles.

The contractor must live up to certain specifications, just as though he were building a house, and he furnishes everything—men, teams, machinery, food and material. Few people realize what this means. A contractor must be very near to a king.

For instance, there is the Hazelton section in the mountains. It is less than 200 miles in length. Before a single shovel or pick was engaged in the building of this section the contractors had to equip themselves with a fleet of steamboats at a cost of $200,000. They had to build scores of camps at from $2,000 to $4,000 a camp. Each of these centers had to be stocked with provisions, supplies and materials almost before a builder was brought in. Before these contractors moved a shovelful of earth or fired a single blast they had spent over $6,000,000.

The Russian Frontier.

One feature in which the Russian frontier differs from others is the complete ignorance of those living near the border of what lies beyond.

A correspondent of the Autocar says that he called at the Automobile club in Breslau, hoping to gain some information. "The members received me most kindly and did all they could to help, but explained that they never crossed the frontier and had no first hand knowledge. The German customs officer, living for ten years within yards of Russia, spoke no word of Russian, and the Russians beyond the chain spoke no German.

"There is a neutral strip some three or four yards wide between Russia and Germany, along which many Russian sentries are posted, and mounted Cossacks pass at short intervals, riding the boundary."—New York Sun.

The Word "Poultry."

Poultry, according to the definition given in one standard encyclopedia, includes "the whole of the domesticated birds reclaimed by man for the sake of their flesh and their eggs." The word comes from the Latin "pullus," which could mean a young horse or donkey as well as a chick (the English "foal" is akin to this), through the French "poule," a fowl. But it is curious that "poultry" has no French version, the nearest equivalent being "volaille," or "oiseaux de basse cour," birds of the low yard. German in its descriptive way knows poultry as "federvich," feather cattle.

A Vanished Shrine.

"My wife was deeply disappointed in one thing. She visited Shakespeare's home all right."

"Well?"

"But she also wanted to pay a visit to the tub of Diogenes."—Kansas City Journal.

Important.

"Dobbleday seems to think himself a very important person."

"Why, he can't even stand on a street corner and wait for a trolley car without putting on as many airs as if he were laying a cornerstone."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Hard to Beat.

"This," said the man of the house as he mournfully surveyed three carpets and ten rugs hanging on the clothesline, "this is a combination hard to beat."—Princeton Tiger.

LOCAL STOREKEEPERS GIVE HONEST MEASURES

Union County Supervisor of Weights and Measures Augustus W. Schwartz, who is visiting the local shops to inspect various devices and implements for measuring food stuffs sold to purchasers, says that Plainfield dealers have improved in strict adherence to the law, 100 per cent. Last year, Schwartz condemned 20 scales and measures collected from storekeepers in West Third street, between Liberty street and Plainfield avenues. This year he only found two violations of the law and these cases were due to lack of knowledge of the law. Violations in Plainfield, Mr. Schwartz says, are few, although he has inspected over 75 per cent of the measures and scales used by Plainfield dealers.

WORE BRASS KNUCKLES.

Erastus Putnam, a waiter, 22 years old, who says he lives in New York, is a dangerous "gent" to meet on a dark night. He was arrested early this morning by Patrolman Sweeney, who noticed the New Yorker at 2 o'clock walking past Belvidere avenue and East Seventh street, with his knuckles decorated with a pair of brass spikes, commonly known as brass knuckles. Arraigned this morning before City Judge DeMeza on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, he said he always carried a weapon of some kind when walking the streets late at night. He came to Plainfield last night to call on a friend, but would not divulge the girl's name.

A COLLISION.

A motorcycle driven by Franklin Newell, of West Seventh street, an employe in the Street Commissioner's office, collided with an automobile driven by an employe of the Public Service Electric Company this noon on East Second street, just after Newell had emerged from the alley leading from the rear of the city building. Both machines were slightly damaged, while Newell sustained one or two bruises about his feet as a result of being thrown from his machine.

BANISHED.

Miss Gussie Brown and Alexander Darby, of Filmore avenue, were arraigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning on charges of disorderly conduct. Darby received a suspended sentence and Miss Brown was ordered to leave town within a week.

THE FORUM.

NOT IN POLITICS.

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

I have been asked by friends to sign petitions to place certain names on the primary election ballot, and in each case I have refused because by serving as the presiding officer of the Board of Trade, I shall not take any part in politics. It is up to the people to elect representatives and the Board of Trade will endeavor to get along as well as possible with those whom the people may choose to elect.

To satisfy other of my friends, who have an idea that I am seeking some political office, I desire to say, so long as I am president of the Board of Trade, I shall not aspire to any political office, either appointive or elective.

Yours truly,
WILLIAM JEFFERY,
President Board of Trade, Plainfield, N. J.

Great Narragansett Robbery Baffles Skilled Sleuths.

PARIS "FENCE" SUSPECTED

Watch Hotels For Fashionably Dressed Criminals—Mrs. Rumsey's Loss Raised to $125,000—Daring Thieves May Have Posed as Servants.

Narragansett Pier, R. I., July 31.—With the best detectives of two agencies baffled after thirty-six hours' search latest investigations brought the total value of jewels stolen from Mrs. Charles Cary Rumsey, Mrs. John H. Hanan and other well known cottage residents of this resort up to more than $277,000.

The hotels all are being watched for fashionably dressed criminals who may be sauntering about, waiting for a lull in the hue and cry, when they will attempt to get away. All piers are being watched for these "Raffles" jewel thieves, if such were the ones who made the big haul within forty-eight hours.

Mrs. Rumsey's loss was raised to $125,000 by the discovery that a second string of pearls, valued at $40,000, and several other jewels are missing, increasing the total of loss. Mrs. Hanan admitted that the gems stolen from her were worth $150,000.

Theft Directed In Paris.

One theory, advanced by a shrewd detective in charge of some of the investigation, is that a "master fence" in Paris directed the raid on the jewelry of the fashionable colony. This "master fence" is believed to be a jeweler in Paris, who, while posing as a legitimate business man, instructed other criminals to pose as servants in order to gain entrance to the houses of the wealthy or to make the acquaintance of the servants in the houses selected for looting.

Other detectives on the case, although unwilling to talk for publication, thought that the "fence" might be found nearer the scene of the crime—in fact, that suspicion repeatedly led to Boston, although the detectives never had found the place.

In the summer of 1911 a band of criminals profited by many successful robberies in the summer colony, and at that time Boston was suspected as the base of operations. The crooks, if there is a hand, are not expected to attempt disposing of the booty immediately. They probably will cut up the jewels and dispose of them through stores along Broadway, the detectives said.

Taken In Twenty Minutes.

Mrs. Hanan's jewels were stolen Friday evening when a maid was absent from the Hanan home, Shore Acres, not more than twenty minutes. This and other circumstances indicate that the thieves were in a position to take immediate advantage of the shortest possible time for robbing the houses, in many cases almost taking the valuables from under the noses of the guardians. While the detectives are looking for both fashionably dressed thieves and for those posing as servants, it was admitted that not a tangible clew had been found.

Efforts were made to keep the Hanan robbery secret, as Mr. Hanan was seriously ill. The jewels had been brought here to be worn at a reception, which had to be cancelled because of Mr. Hanan's illness. The Hanan robbery occurred last Friday night. Mrs. Rumsey was robbed the following night or some time Sunday, and on Saturday night, it was learned, a pearl necklace valued at $2,000 disappeared from the boudoir of Mrs. Walter Ives of New York.

UNCLE JOE COOL IN DANGER.

Smokes Stogie as His Auto Plunges Down Bank Into Small Lake.

Danville, Ill., July 31.—Not for a second did former Speaker Joseph G. Cannon relinquish his grip on the big black stogie he was smoking when his automobile plunged down a steep bank and alighted right side up in a small lake in Spring Hill cemetery.

Uncle Joe was out riding with his daughter, Mrs. E. X. Leseur, when upon arriving at a sharp bend in the roadway along the lake bank his chauffeur missed the brake with his foot and the car leaped off the ten foot bank.

WOMEN CARRY ELECTIONS.

Cast Deciding Ballots at Two Contests In Illinois.

Chicago, July 31.—Women cast the deciding ballots in two elections in Illinois. At Champaign 120 women voted for the first time and carried a proposition to issue bonds for the purchase of motor fire apparatus.

At Dixon women cast one-fourth of the ballots, and most of them were in favor of extending the water works franchise twenty years. They are considered responsible for the adoption of that proposition by a small majority.

Weather Forecast.

GREAT MEETING OF GEOLOGICAL PEOPLE

International Congress to Be Held at Toronto to Be Big Event.

Toronto, Ont., July 31.—One week from today the twelfth International Geological Congress will begin its sessions in this city. The congress will be the largest and most important gathering of scientists ever held in Canada. The attendance will be made up of nearly one thousand delegates from about thirty countries. The largest contingents will come from the United States, Great Britain and Germany, in the order named. All the countries of Europe will be represented. In addition there will be delegates from Mexico and several South American countries and from Japan, China, India, Manchuria, South Africa, Australia, New Zealand and the Philippines.

The International Geological Congress is essentially a working body of scientists The members consist principally of professors and teachers from the leading colleges and universities of the world, officers of government geological surveys and geologists and mining engineers in private practice

The congress really took its rise from the Centennial Exhibition held in Philadelphia in 1876 when the numerous geological specimens and maps so struck the visiting geologists and mining engineers that they formed a committee to take into consideration the formation of an international society. The society was formed and its first meeting and exhibition was held in Paris in 1878. Since then, about every fourth year various capitals have been visited in turn. The last congress was held in Stockholm in 1910 and was attended by more than 600 delegates representing thirty-six different countries.

The congress about to assemble here will continue in session seven days. The chief topic of discussion will be the "Coal Resources of the World." The discussion will be based on a monograph which has been in preparation for nearly three years. Information has been supplied by Government officials, geological surveys, mining bureaus and geological and mining engineers throughout the world.

The Duke of Connaught, Governor General of Canada, is the honorary president of the congress, and the honorary vice presidents include the Right Hon. Robert L. Borden, premier of Canada; Louis Caderre, minister of mines; Frank Cochrane, minister of railways and canals; Charles Devlin, minister of colonization, mines and fisheries of Quebec; Richard McBride, prime minister of British Columbia, and E. H. Armstrong, commissioner of work and mines for Nova Scotia.

During the meeting short daily excursions will be taken by the delegates, and after the congress prolonged tours will be made reaching as far as the Pacific Coast, one party going as far north as Dawson City.

THOSE CIRCUS SMILE MAKERS WITH SAUTELLE'S CIRCUS

Even if our favorite Ella Wheeler Wilcox had not said, "Laugh, and the world laughs with you;" even then all would recommend merriment instead of tears. Tears are waste of emotion. Bemoaning one's lot, a trial on Time's patience.

"Let us be gay while we may," then; though the motto is as ancient as "The hen that crossed the road." The Sig. Sautelle Nine Big Shows, which appears in Plainfield August 4, has in its curriculum of smiles forty clowns. Forty—count 'em—genuine humorists, who themselves have "laughed and grown fat." The leader of this happy band of jesters, mockers and witt is a half brother of Slivers, himself a cousin of the original Dan Rice, whose pedigree runs back to Grimaldi.

These forty mirth artists will surprise, amuse and tickle the audience with funniest sketches apent the foibles and follies of the day. General and local features will be the inspiration of this merry band of Momus mummers. Trite incidents in politics will be burlesqued, a la Webber & Field. The wits will excel in laughable skits to set the listeners in a roar.

But this will only be the attic salt of the feast of good things presented. Wild and tame animals, expert trainers and performers of every degree of skill will contribute to the glory of this most incomparable show.

—Make a business task of your search for business employment. You can't do that, however, unless you advertise

The departure of the cook or maid does not prostrate the lady who knows the efficiency of Press want ads.

LATEST ARRIVALS FOR ASBURY PARK

The Lafayettes Registered at the Popular Resort On Jersey Coast.

Asbury Park, July 31.—Every boy in town who had a nickel to spare for bait was down to the fishing pier early this morning to get his share of Lafayettes, a small edible fish which has been swarming along the shore in great schools since Tuesday. At one time there were over two hundred hand lines dropped over the sides of the pier and nearly fifty enthusiasts were fishing with poles. Many women and not a few men were in the crowd and the average catch for each line in a half an hour was twenty fish. Some caught two at a time.

The growth of Asbury Park's popularity as an automobile centre is shown by the figures compiled by Founder Bradley from records taken at the Park avenue bridge on Sundays. The increase in the number of automobiles passing over Deal lake the four Sundays of the present month as compared with the four Sundays of July last year is 7,240. The record is taken from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. by a man stationed upon the bridge with a counting device. Last Sunday 5,081 cars were tallied. When one considers that many cars enter Asbury Park by the Interlaken and Wanamassa bridges and the many avenues running westward, as well as by the Ocean Boulevard from the south, of which no count is made, it shows what a factor the automobilists is to destroying the old time summer season when visitors came with a trunk and remained a week or more. The railroads, too, are beginning to feel the effect of the motor car and are making special observations at Asbury Park every Sunday.

Over six thousand excursionists spent today on the boardwalk and at the bathing beaches. The Caldwell Union Sunday-school excursion was not run. Saturday will be the largest excursion day of the summer. About 15,000 people are expected. Clark's O. N. T. specials will bring over 8,000. Many Plainfielders are here today on the excursion of Trinity Reformed church.

Among the novelties seen in the surf today were a pale pink silk bathing suit worn by a Cuban belle stopping at the Lafayette; a very, very fat lady taking swimming lessons with the aid of an inflated automobile inner tube; two bathers doing the turkey trot in shallow water at the Seventh avenue grounds and a one legged bather at the Ocean Grove grounds. The day is one of the best for bathing this summer and thousands cooled off in the breakers.

One of Asbury Park's most prominent hotel men is authority for the statement that the splendid success of the New Monterey and Metropolitan hotels has induced Philadelphia capitalists to seek an ocean front site for a modern fireproof all the year hotel. He says plans are well underway, that the actual work of construction will begin next spring and that the hotel will open for business in the fall of 1914. The location will be south of Fifth avenue and the new structure will replace several wooden boarding houses, probably occupying half a block.

Asbury Park has appropriated $325,245 for municipal expense this year, an increase of $68,000 over last year, due to street improvements, school expenses and street lighting.

Plainfield people registered at Asbury Park hotels yesterday were: Montauk—Mrs. M. McGuiness, Anna B. McGuiness; Colonial—Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Goodwin, R. H. Cook, C. S. Cook; Metropolitan—Mrs. W. C. O'Donnell, Jas. C. Field.

The temperature on the boardwalk at noon was 83; at a. m., 82.

ACCUSED BLAMES MURPHY

Campaign Contribution of Jacob H. Schiff For $2,500 and Abram I. Elkus For $500 Not In Sworn Statement of Executive's Expenses.

Albany, N. Y., July 31.—Two checks aggregating $3,000 contributed to the Sulzer campaign, for which the governor had made no return in his sworn statement filed with the secretary of state under the provisions of the corrupt practices act, were put on record in a turbulent session of the Frawley committee investigating the Sulzer administration and particularly the Sulzer campaign fund.

One check for $2,500 was issued by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. to the order of Louis A. Sarecky, confidential clerk to Governor Sulzer and administerer of his campaign fund. The check bore on its face a notation said to be in the handwriting of Jacob H. Schiff to the effect that it constituted Mr. Schiff's contribution to the Sulzer campaign fund. The check had been deposited by Mr. Sarecky to his personal account with the Mutual Alliance Trust company of New York. Before this testimony was brought out Eugene Richards, counsel for the committee, had shown that at least one of the listed contributions to the Sulzer fund had found its way into the personal account of the governor's confidential clerk.

Indorsed by Sulzer.

The second check was for $500, contributed by Abram I. Elkus, the New York lawyer, on Oct. 5, 1912. This check bore the indorsement "William Sulzer" and had been deposited to his account with the Farmers' Loan and Trust company. With this check was introduced a letter from Mr. Elkus sent with it and the reply from Governor Sulzer, in which no specific mention was made of the contribution.

Louis A. Sarecky, who was the principal witness before the committee, is under the shadow of arrest for contempt as a result of his conduct on the stand. With grim determination and no small adriotness Mr. Sarecky, though told that prison was staring him in the face, persisted in refusing to enlighten the committee regarding the Schiff and Elkus checks as well as all other questions pertaining to the Sulzer fund. He said he would not answer such questions unless permitted to be represented by counsel. Chairman Frawley directed that he be proceeded against for contempt.

Sarecky took the stand after a conference with Governor Sulzer and the latter's principal adviser, John A. Hennessy, but he declared his attitude on the stand due entirely to advice given him by his counsel, Louis Marshall, one of the most noted lawyers in New York city. A subpoena was issued for Mr. Marshall, and it is expected that he will be a witness before the week is over.

Senator Frawley and other members of the committee are jubilant. Notwithstanding their failure to elicit any information of value from the man supposed to know more about the Sulzer campaign fund than anybody else, with the possible exception of the governor himself, they point to section 776 of the penal code, which makes it a misdemeanor for any candidate for public office to fail to make full and detailed return of all campaign contributions received by him. They admit that in the matter of the Schiff check some one other than Governor Sulzer may be responsible for the omission, but they insist that no such condition exists in connection with the contribution from Mr. Elkus.

Sulzer Blames Murphy.

Governor Sulzer in a long statement denied any knowledge of the Schiff check prior to last May. He declared that he had been compelled to depend very largely upon others in the making up of the sworn statement which he filed with the secretary of state. He asserted that the investigation of his campaign fund was only part of Tammany Leader Murphy's fight to intimidate him.

Members of the Frawley committee and Mr. Richards, their counsel, are busy preparing papers designed to bring about the arrest of Sarecky for contempt. The order of a supreme court justice will be necessary. Attorney Richards said that in view of the vacation season he anticipated difficulty in locating a justice and that in any event the preparation of the necessary papers probably would not be completed until this afternoon.

2 DEAD, SCORE HURT IN WASHINGTON STORM

Small Tornado Forces Senate to Adjourn.

Washington, July 31.—A terrific electrical and wind storm with a deluge of rain and hail swept over Washington. Two persons were killed and eleven injured in the collapse of a building. Scores were hurt in various parts of the city. Business was paralyzed and the machinery of the government was suspended.

Incalculable damage was done. Many horses were killed in the streets, plate glass windows were shattered throughout the business section, houses were unroofed and in some instances demolished. Almost every one of the finely shaded streets of the capital is blocked with barriers of fallen trees, while the parks are filled with debris.

The highest velocity of the wind maintained for a minute was sixty-six miles an hour from the northeast, and the highest five minute velocity was fifty-four miles an hour. These recordings were made at the weather bureau, which was half a mile west of the center of the storm, where the wind blew more than seventy miles an hour. Weather bureau officials said that the wind readings and other recordings showed that the storm took the form of a small tornado. The wind shifted rapidly and treacherously and had all the whirling elements of a tornado. As evidence of this meterological officials pointed out that many of the giant trees around the city were snapped like matches, and the way in which the bark was twisted from the trees bore evidences of the whirling force of the wind.

The storm demoralized business in the capitol. When the hail began to crash upon the glass roof of the senate chamber the din was so great that the senate took a recess. Senator Kern arose to move a recess and could not lift his voice above the noise. Consequently he had to rush down the aisle toward the rostrum, both hands to his mouth like a megaphone, and yell at Vice President Marshall. The galleries under the glass roof were crowded with women, and many of them rushed into the halls in terror. The house was not in session.

103½ IN CLEVELAND.

Five Dead Babies and Six Prostrations the Toll of Heat.

Cleveland, O., July 31.—Six heat prostrations and the death of five babies was the hot weather toll registered yesterday.

There was intense suffering, particularly in the crowded sections of the city. People moved to the lawns or roofs in an effort to find relief during the night.

There was an enormous demand for ice, but officials of the City Ice Delivery company said they will be able to supply all customers promptly.

Beaches and street cars were crowded by those who tried to avoid the sweltering heat of the city. In some places in the city thermometers registered as high as 103½.

QUEEN BARS DECOLLETES.

Allows Princess Mary to Appear as Bridesmaid on Compliance.

London, July 31.—A disagreement has arisen between Queen Mary and the Duchess of Fife regarding the gowns to be worn at the latter's wedding festivities.

The queen insists that the gowns worn by the bridesmaids be cut not lower than one inch in the neck in front and makes the appearance of Princess Mary as a bridesmaid conditional upon the acceptance of this dictum. The Duchess of Fife appealed to her mother and to Dowager Queen Alexandra, but Queen Mary remains obdurate.

Tomorrow We Inaugurate Our Advance August

Fur Sale

A Superb $35,000 Stock of Fur Coats and Sets

At Amazingly Low Prices

Beginning tomorrow, August 1st, we reveal the advance styles of the coming season's Furs and give you an early opportunity to make selections—make you inducements to buy, in fact, that many will doubtless take advantage of.

Stores that smash the calendar and attempt to make you believe a July sale is an August sale, and try to get an advantage on the big store, fail utterly to divert the public mind from the one real, sure enough AUGUST FUR SALE—the one conducted by this establishment—the one that will eclipse the "hurry-ups" and "get-aheads" and make their sales look like minor details.

Ours is going to be a magnificent display of high class, trustworthy furs, and a sale worth your while tripping up from the shore or down from the mountains to attend.

THE STYLES shown will be fresh models from the foremost furriers of New York, with whom we are in most intimate touch.

THE QUALITIES will be the highest, most dependable and undoubtable.

THE AUGUST SELLING PRICES will be positively far below the prices that will prevail when the cold season sets in, and decidedly below the prices being asked for equal grade furs in any other Newark establishment.

A SMALL DEPOSIT will secure these furs to you for fall delivery—and let us tell you in confidence: we are not afraid that you will ask for your deposit back when fur time comes and you realize what a bargain you have secured.

In this magnificent presentation will be:

MOTORCYCLISTS ELECT.

Dr. B. J. Patterson, of Pratt, Kan., who was re-elected president of the Federation of American Motorcyclists at the Denver convention last week expects to continue in the same progressive policies which have marked his administration during the last year. He will name the chairman of committees within a short time, and the organization will continue its aggressive fight against motorcycle evils, as well as its efforts to build up the F. A. M. membership.

The total membership of the organization, as reported at the convention was 24,000, which meant a gain of about 8,000 during the last year.

Thousand Islands, N. Y., July 31—The annual Gold Challenge Cup races, the premier racing event of the season for speed boats, began on the Alexandria Bay course today under the auspices of the Thousand Island Yacht Club. The races will continue until the end of the week.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—What kind of canoe would you advise me to purchase for a pleasure craft? What kind for racing? A. M. L.

Answer—For pleasure it is advisable to secure a "boat" that will not tip easily, when guided by a canoeist of ordinary ability and skill. Such a craft is a flat bottom canoe, 17 or 18 feet in length having a beam measuring 32 to 38 inches. For racing in class B organizations canvas-covered canoes 17 feet in length; light in weight as possible and having a beam measuring 28 or 30 inches wide, are used extensively. Cedar canoes, which are mose expensive, are used by class A canoeists who race on the Hudson river. Consult a catalogue for the make of canoe you desire. Any sporting goods store will oblige you.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Although this is not a sporting question, I am writing to you for your advice. I was going with a young man three years and now he has left me and is keeping company with another girl. Could I sue him for breach of promise, as it was generally understood between us, that we were eventually going to be married. L. H. S.

Answer—True, I am not an expert in love affairs nor have I ever passed through such a sad experience as you cite. But I will nevertheless, endeavor to apply a little "salve" to your wounded heart. You would not be successful in a suit against your lover for breach of promise unless you could prove before a court, that he promised to make you his wife. Maybe the "general understanding" between you and the young man was "understood" by you only.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Who is the greatest pitcher of the age. J. K.

Answer—Christy Mathewson is one of the greatest, although several major league stars are now undoubtedly his equal.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What are the chances of an energetic young man in the business life of Florida? S. H. W.

Answer—Write to the Board of Trade of Jacksonville, Fla. Several Plainfielders have established in business in that State, among them being A. I. Smalley.

Sporting Editor:

Query—How long does it take the Main Line trolley car to travel from Plainfield to Newark. Jake.

Answer—The average time made by these cars from the station at Watchung avenue and East Fourth street, this city to Market and Broad streets, Newark, is one hour, forty-five minutes.

Sporting Editor:

Query—I understand that Edeson Woodhull is staying at Lake Hopatcong. How should I address a letter that will reach him there. H. G.

Answer—Mr. Edeson Woodhull, Nolan's Point, Lake Hopatcong, N. J.

FISHING NOTES

Try the fishing piers at Coney Island for a night while the weather is hot. Fluke are running over there, and some of the fishermen have things down so fine they can go to sleep and the minute a fish bites they wake up and pull him in.

The fishing at Lake Hopatcong is very poor for this season of the year, and when a person looks for a reason he can't but help go back a few years when fishing through the ice was permitted. Many warnings were sent out against that kind of fishing, but they were not heeded.

Many of our readers ask about where to go on Barnegat Bay for a day's fishing, and where to stop while on the trip, and for their information we might say that at Forked River there are several hotels and at Waretown there is one close to the water and there are two hotels at Barnegat. These places are all on the mainland and cater to fishermen and gunners. It doesn't make any difference where the fishing is done, as the weakfish are all over the bay.

HOPE CHAPEL PLAYERS WILL OPPOSE Y. M. A.

The Hope chapel baseball team, having no Sunday-school League game scheduled for Saturday, will journey to Bound Brook that day and endeavor to take the measure of the Y. M. A. aggregation of that place. The locals accompanied by a number of rooters, will leave this city at 2:15 o'clock in the afternoon, making the trip by trolley. Dick Schott and Ans Luthman, will form the battery for the Plainfielders.

SPORT NOTES.

The grandstand and bleachers for the new baseball field of the New York American League baseball club, will be constructed of brick and terra cotta and cost in the neighborhood of $25,000. These stands will be located in the field at 225th street, Broadway and Exterior street. This new home of the Yankees will represent the most advanced ideas in a "baseball battlefield."

Frank McGuiness, a fighter who paraded a record of nineteen knockouts, met his waterloo last night in Jack Keating, a fast coming "White Hope." The latter gave the knockout expert a dose of his own medicine by disposing of him in the fourth round of a scheduled ten-round affair, which was witnessed by a large crowd at the St. Nicholas Club, New York.

J. B. Joel, a South African millionaire sportsman paid $250,000 in London yesterday for the horse Prince Palatine, winner of the Ascot Gold Cup. T Pilkington, the former owner of the valuable racer, demanded as a provision of the sale, that the horse be entered only in races held in Great Britain. The price paid for Prince Palatine establishes a record as the previous high mark was $196,875, which was pand for Flying Fox.

PETS WILL PLAY IN N. Y. SUNDAY

Royal Giants, a Dusky Aggregation, to Be Opponents of Locals.

DUNELLEN SATURDAY

A Victory Over the Boroughites at Parker Field Will Place Plainfield at Top, Tied With the Somerville Nine.

The Plainfield Pets will show before a Metropolitan gathering Sunday afternoon, when they tackle the strong Royal Colored Giants, of New York, in an exhibition game of baseball, at Lincoln Field, Lennox avenue and 135th street. That the game will be a corker and bitterly contested is assured, as the dusky warriors from across the Hudson, have beaten some of the best semi-pro aggregations in New York State.

Manager Darflinger, of the locals, will bring to New York the same bunch of ball tossers that applied a coat of whitewash to the New Brunswick nine. Randolph will be on the firing line and Torpey will catch. Garretson, on first; Washburn, on second; Grimes, at short, and Conti, on third, will take care of the infield. Samuels, Dixon and Hickey will "grab them off the fence" in the garden regions. The line-up looks good, and Plainfield should bring home the bacon.

Thus far this season, the Dunellen baseball team of the Central New Jersey League, has defeated the Plainfield Pets twice in contests, and the locals have won over the boroughites a like number of times. The question of supremacy, for the time being, will be settled Saturday afternoon on the diamond at Parker Field. A victory for the Plainfield nine will bring them to the top of the ladder, tied with Somerville, providing the leaders are humbled by High Bridge. Dunellen, whether victorious or vanquished, will remain tightly glued to third position in the standing. It will be "some game—and the Pets need it. Dorflinger says they'll get it, too.

A. A. U. VETERANS ASKED TO COMPETE IN SWEDEN

The officials of the Amateur Athletic Union have received an invitation from the Stockholm Athletic Club of Sweden to enter an American team of athletes in the "Old Boys" games to be held at Stockholm early in September. A minimum age limit has been set on competitors of 35 years, with the exception of football players, who will be allowed to enter if they are 30 years or older.

The events on the program include sprints and distance runs weight competitions, Pentathlon, consisting of five events: 400 and 1,500 meter team races, twenty-one-mile cycle rate, 3,000-meter cross-country race, modern Pentathlon, consisting of shooting and swimming events, and association football.

The competition is open to all amateur athletes of the world who are eligible under the age regulations. According to the officials of the Amateur Athletic Union, there is little likelihood of America being represented by a team at this unique athletic carnival. A number of European entries are assured, according to a report from Stockholm.

BATTLE DESCRIBED BY DR. BULL

high pitched explosive sound that I frequently mistook for rifle shots.

A young Mexican serving with the White Cross had been struck in the foot while standing in the door of the hospital. I had about twenty of these young men under me, including two Americans. Many of them were constantly exposed during the following three days and our ambulance was struck three times. I would like to give every one of those brave boys a medal later. Drs. Leon and Buenrostra came in, the latter under fire, and rendered faithful and efficient service.

Soon a succession of wounded cases came in, most of them non-combatants. The nurses were the Mexican women of the town. I was afraid that some of them would get hit inside of the building and crowded every one into the rear rooms. There were two billiard tables and we used these to get some of the wounded out of the way. There were not many cheerful faces that morning, but the women were remarkably calm and kept their heads absolutely. None of them were accustomed to the sight of blood and a field hospital may reasonably be expected to jolt the nerves of the uninitiated. I have never been able to reason out why women will stampede for a mouse and yet under real stress will set an example to veterans.

That afternoon a bugle sounded and others in the distance answered; it meant cease firing. Some one climbed to the top of the church and told the Yaqui soldiers what it meant and soon the firing ceased. I think we will all remember that call. After moving the worst cases to the Four C Hospital we went to the American Club and talked over the fight for the rest of the evening. Several Americans had been hit, one had been shot through the head and killed. A young man from New Jersey had been shot through abdomen while serving a machine gun. He had pushed his gun to within four hundred yards of the Federals. Bushnell was strongly criticised by the Americans. Leaving out ethics the American "soldiers of fortune" have the reputation of fighters and they have won it. It's too bad they haven't been bunched at other times and places. The Mormons in Chihuahua fell down flat. I was on the first train that took them out eighteen hours after Salazar wantonly despoiled many of a lifetime work; it wasn't lack of courage; they just didn't seem to know how. Just today from down "where the mountains are nameless and the rivers all run, God knows where"—comes the story of five Americans besieged by 150 bandits. They are defending what they have worked a lifetime for and are too old to begin over, and besides the treatment one may get from bandits is very uncertain. These brave fellows, however, beat the bandits off, but there is many an unwritten story where the fight went the other way.

The next morning I got my men busy barricading the hospital. The front door had been hit three times and a dozen bullets had come in through doors and windows. We piled sacks filled with earth in front of the doors and windows and when the sacks ran short we used every pillow case. Subsequent examination showed that these crude barricades were hit twenty odd times, but only one bullet came through.

The second day the scene was reenacted except that everyone was more cautious about exposing himself. Several of the wounded died. Almost without exception the wounded made no complaint nor sound. I in no sense advocate intemperance, but whiskey and tobacco, in moderation, are a god-send in a field hospital and I doled out the scant supply freely. Three Americans were hit that afternoon. An old friend, an Irishman, was shot through the thigh and bled profusely. He remarked that the Irish didn't worry over trifles. His chief concern was over the loss of his pipe. The Mauser bullets usually drill clean little holes right through and it is often hard to tell the wound of exit from the wound of entrance.

We were called to attend a Mexican woman who was shot through the body while inside the adjacent building. The firing was too heavy to justify the risk of moving her, so after rendering first aid, we left her placidly gazing at a picture of Christ and a string of red peppers on the opposite wall. She made an uninterrupted recovery.

Over broken ground and when fighting occurs among the buildings of a city usually one cannot see much and rubbernecking is risky. The 'phones were in order and we frequently swapped observations with friends at other points. At 10 p. m. the firing on the further side of the barracks increased until it sounded for several minutes like the crackle of brush in a forest fire. The tap-tap-tap of the rapid fire guns sounded like woodpeckers. Soon the heavy firing died away as suddenly as it had commenced. I interpreted it was a charge which had been repulsed and so it proved. The charge was made by the Yaquis. They are hard workers and such men are often the best fighters and so it is with the Yaquis. They have been in almost constant warfare with the government for thirty years over lands which have been taken from them. When the revolution came it suited the Yaquis, because they could get from one to two pesos a day for shooting at Mexicans instead of doing it for nothing.

The night was cold for the altitude is five thousand feet and there was frost. All the cots were occupied and many of the wounded were on the floor. There was not an extra blanket. Toward morning from exhaustion I fell asleep shivering along side of a Yaqui with a broken thigh. I must have hurt him several times when I moved, but he told me to go to sleep and covered me with a corner of his blanket. Toward morning the Yaquis rushed the barracks again and tried to destroy the building with bombs made of tomato cans. The bombs were poorly made and very uncertain.

The next day the firing was seldom heavy but incessant. I was out in it once, chiefly to get away from the hospital for a brief space, but was glad to get under cover again. With two thousand State troops in town and no trains running food was scarce. We ate what we could get when we could get it. At sundown of the third day the positions were unchanged. The end appeared as far away as ever. Hell would have been a picnic in comparison if the fight had lasted much longer.

At sundown the firing died away. Stragglers came in and brought a rumor that the garrison was going to surrender. It appeared very improbable. Something unusual, however, was on foot. It was dark in the streets; the street light current was off, but out in the darkness I could hear the shuffling of a marching column and then the Vivas! Just then a band struck up a quick step; it wasn't Spanish music either. Many a time the Leal cadets have marched up Park avenue to that same quick step, admired by the school girls; making the dogs bark; frightening the horses and amusing their elders. Since those days those boys have represented Plainfield in Cuba; in the fight off ElCaney; in the Islands, and in fights seldom named except in army reports and in the camps, just as ready as those with the colors.

The Red Cross had just come in from Hermosillo. There were about twenty of them, mostly women. They wore big sombreros which were quite picturesque. During the following two weeks in the fighting around Waco the Red Cross rendered good service.

Mechanically we shuffled along in the darkness after the column. Near the barracks we were halted by Colonel Dieguez and staff. We learned from them that the garrison had surrendered and a few minutes later we were passed into the big hollow square inside the barracks.

The Federals were being disarmed and the volunteers were equipping themselves each according to his own ideas. I saw one wearing two swords and a boy of twelve wearing a uniform twice too large for him. The post surgeon told me that he had no chance to tally the dead; some had been buried hurriedly in a shallow trench and several hands and feet were protruding. The wounded checked up correctly and swelled the list of wounded to 93. Sherman was correct—"War is hell." Our privations had been as nothing. Many of the Federal wounded had not tasted either food or water for forty hours. They were all laying on a bare floor on their blankets. The Constitutionalists got five machine guns, over a thousand Mauser rifles and many thousands of cartridges. The prisoners were all well treated. The wounded were transferred to the White Cross and those who recovered were given their liberty. Perfect order was maintained. Guards were posted everywhere and there was no looting.

The Name Saratoga.

The original name of Saratoga was "Serachtague." About the middle of the eighteenth century it was "Saraghtoge." During the administration of Governor Leisler it was "Sarachtoge." Isn't this quaint—from 1689:

Upon ye news yt three People should be kild at Bartel Vromans at Sarachtoge by ye Indians,—

Resolved by ye Convention yt Lief Jochim Staets forwith goe with ten men to Sarachtoge to see how ye matter is, & bring us an accompt with ye first, & yt he Cito send a Post hither with ye tidings.

Spelling reformers would be delighted with "kild." And "ye" is shorter than "the," and "yt" is shorter than "that." "Goe" is expansive, but "forwith" for "forthwith" is a contraction. Schoolcraft thinks that Saratoga is derived from the Indian words "assarat," sparkling, and "oga," place.—New York Press.

A Riming Will.

Perhaps the most peculiar will ever written was probated in England at Doctors' Commons July 17, 1789. It ran as follows:

I give and bequeath,
When I am laid underneath,
To my two loving sisters, most dear,
The whole of my store,
Were it twice as much more,
Which God's goodness has granted me here.

And, that none may prevent
This my will and intent
Or occasion the least of law racket,
With a solemn appeal
I confirm, sign and seal
This the true act and deed of Will Jacket.

The Way It Felt.

Health Giving Macaroni.

Macaroni is manufactured in the United States to the extent of a hundred million pounds. As much more is imported. Yet, say those who know, America does not eat half enough macaroni. It is cheap, palatable and wholesome, and contains much nourishment. Some of the advocates of its use go so far as to suggest that it should be served at least once a day on every American table.

It is a kind of wheat called durum wheat from which macaroni is made, and now that we understand how to grow and use this wheat the grade of home-grown macaroni is good. But it is an odd fact that is pointed out by an authority on food in a new book that most of the American-made macaroni is used by our Italian residents; most of that eaten by Americans is imported from Italy.

Cooked palatably, with cheese, vegetables or meat and butter, macaroni is all-sufficient for nourishment. It contains a large amount of proteid in the gluten with which it abounds. Combined, therefore, with fat and vegetables it is complete.

How to Cook It.

Buy a good quality of macaroni, so that you will surely get that made from real durum flour. Have ready a kettle of slightly salted, boiling water, and break the macaroni into pieces of convenient length. Plunge them into the water and boil rapidly until they are tender, but not broken to pieces. Then drain them and throw them into cold water, to blanch them. Then reheat in any desired way.

One of the easiest ways is to mix the macaroni with grated cheese, in a warm, buttered dish, and then to put it in the oven just long enough to heat the cheese. Sprinkle it with melted butter, and a little salt and pepper.

Another easy way to prepare it is to make a savory, well-seasoned tomato sauce, and to reheat the macaroni in this.

Scalloped macaroni also, is delicious. Put alternate layers of cooked macaroni and cream sauce in a buttered baking dish, and top with dots of butter. Bake brown, and then sprinkle with grated cheese, which should be heated only long enough to melt before the dish is served.

Plain boiled macaroni served with a savory meat stew is even better than potatoes served in the same way.

Good Form

On the Steamer.

There is just as surely an etiquette for a steamship as for a drawing room, and for the benefit of readers who contemplate a trip on the water some of the formalities on board ship will be talked about.

After finding the location of your room and receiving the room key from the purser you should investigate your baggage, and if any be missing the cabin steward will direct you to the official to whom complaints can be made. It is wise to find out any little "landmarks" that will help you in locating your cabin, thus preventing mistakes and facilitating journeys to and from your room.

The next thing to do is to secure your seat at the dining table. You will be given a check, generally, which will place you in the dining room. This is given to the head steward on your first meal, and unless changed you should take the same seat at all subsequent meals.

Your deck chair is also important if you intend to profit by a rest each day. The deck steward for a stated fee will seat you and mark your chair by a card with your name written on it. It is unpardonable to use another person's chair regularly, for nothing is so embarrassing to the rightful occupant as to find a chair filled and to be compelled to evict the man or woman who should have one of his own.

At table it is quite correct to speak to the ones seated near you. A "good evening" or "good morning" serves to break the ice. It is also permissible to speak to one's fellow passengers after the first day. It is very convenient to have some one introduce other men and women, but there is an informality on shipboard that bridges many gaps. Above all, do not overstep the bounds of good breeding. Do not bring on yourself the censure and adverse criticism of others.

Do not indulge in gossip, unkind criticism of others and be a nuisance by complaining against the accommodations and service. This type of traveler is never a favorite, and the punishment falls on his own head by the flight of others at his approach.

On the majority of lines it is not yet the accepted thing for a woman to go to the smoking room with a man to enjoy her after dinner coffee. The German steamers have shown a departure from this rule if the woman be married, in a party or with an older chaperon.

It is not obligatory to subscribe to the sea concert, but nearly every one does. Indeed, it is counted in with your "extra expenses" these days. If talented you should be a gracious contributor when asked.

Avoid Being Conspicuous at All Times.

The woman who resents a slight impertinence offered likely by some partially intoxicated youth, thereby giving her escort a bad half hour in his endeavor to punish the guilty, is not doing exactly the proper thing unless indeed the impertinence has been too pronounced to be overlooked. Better try the method of neither seeing nor hearing. The boy or man is made to understand that the offense cannot be repeated, and very likely no one else has known anything about it.

As an almost infallible rule no woman gets herself insulted unless she gives cause either by dress, manner or carriage. Men are very careful in such matters. If women are careful not to talk or laugh too loud, never to drink liquors in public restaurants or cafes, never by any chance to give a side glance or in any way indicate that they wish to be noticed, they may go from one extremity of the earth to the other in perfect safety unless unfortunate enough to find themselves in the company of intoxicated and brutal men. Even then, should there be any present, properly reared, with good mothers, sisters, sweethearts, to remember, any lack of civility will surely be punished and short shrift given.

But if a girl or woman makes loud remarks, casts about her for looks of admiration, tells of experiences in crowds, and so on, she is to be blamed should she be insulted by the boldly expressed opinions of men watching her. This is indeed the truest test of high breeding and good training to be shown.

The Groom's Wedding Expenses.

The groom has a few expenses to meet. He should fee the clergyman for officiating. The best man usually attends to this, and the fee should not be less than $5. In fashionable society $25 is considered the minimum fee.

The groom should also fee the sexton of the church. He pays for the bride's bouquet, the bouquets of the bridesmaids and the boutonnieres of the ushers. He sends carriages for the ushers and provides a carriage for himself and the best man. He also pays for a carriage for himself and wife after the ceremony. If the best man and groom have come from another city the groom is entitled to play the host and to pay for the expenses of both. This is not obligatory and is generally not permitted by the best man.

Of course the little souvenirs given at the farewell dinners of both bride and groom are paid for by each respectively. These are sent the day before the wedding by messengers if no special entertainment is given.

Some Cookery Suggestions

SPINACH SUGGESTIONS.

IN most households spinach comes to the table in the simple boiled form garnished with eggs. There are, however, many other ways of serving it, suggestions for which may be appreciated by the housewife who likes to give variety to her bill of fare.

A Light Summer Soup.

Cream of Spinach Soup. — Take a quart of cooked spinach, one quart of boiling water, three tablespoonfuls of butter, two level tablespoonfuls of flour, two cupfuls each of hot milk and hot cream, one level teaspoonful pepper, dash of nutmeg, one-half cupful peas. Add the boiling water to the spinach and cook slowly for fifteen minutes. Strain, pressing all the water from the spinach. Melt the butter, stir in the flour and, when blended, add the milk gradually. Cook until thick and smooth, pour in the water from the spinach and the cream. Add salt, pepper and nutmeg and serve.

Spinach Balls.—Press liquid from a cupful of cooked and chopped spinach. Reheat it with two tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour and a tablespoonful of cream. Season with salt, pepper, sugar and mace. Take from the fire and add two well beaten eggs. Cool and form into balls. Let it simmer in boiling water five or six minutes, drain and add hot cream sauce in which are a few capers.

Use For Picnic Hams.

Baked Ham and Spinach.—Wash a picnic ham in warm water, put into a boiler, cover with cold water; place over the fire and bring to boiling point; boil slowly two hours. Set in cool place in the water in which it was boiled. Remove the ham from water and take off the rind; dust with a little pepper and cover with one-half cupful brown sugar and one tablespoonful flour; put in hot oven fifteen minutes, then pour cupful cold water over it and bake thirty minutes, basting three or four times. If you do not have enough water in pan add more to have one and a half cupfuls when finished. Then remove the ham and add one tablespoonful flour mixed with a little cold water to the gravy, which should be nice and brown. Serve with boiled spinach.

Anna Thompson.

The Hornet Became an Oriole.

"And now we are ready to go to bed," Jack and Evelyn suggested as the clock on the mantel chimed out the hour.

"I told you that the little nest we saw was the home of the oriole," daddy began.

"So he is," daddy agreed. "There are several kinds of orioles, all looking a little different, but all building those hammock-like swinging nests at the end of the branch of a tree.

"There is an old story about the oriole, but I think I shall have to ask you to take it with some grains of salt.

"This story says that once upon a time the oriole was a hornet. Though it was kind and gentle at heart, yet every one feared it on account of its sting. No one would let it make its home near their house.

"But war broke out between old King Boreas, who ruled the land of snow and ice, and Queen Flora, who ruled the land of sunshine and flowers. Flora's armies were one after another beaten. The good queen feared that she would be driven away and her subjects killed or become the slaves of cruel Boreas.

"One day there flew into the window of her palace a little brown insect. It was the hornet.

"'Let me go and fight this cruel enemy of yours, great queen,' the hornet begged. The queen said that he might go.

"He flew straight for King Boreas himself, and he stung him wherever he could. The king struck at him with his terrible warclub, but the hornet was so small and nimble that he could never hit him.

"You know how hornets can sting. Well, at last the king turned and fled.

"When the hornet went back to tell his queen that King Boreas and his army had gone, she was so grateful that she asked the tiny hero what she could do to reward him.

"'My queen,' replied the hornet, 'no one likes me. In all the world I have no friends, though I long for them.

"Instantly the hornet was changed into an oriole, and after singing a wonderful song of thanks to the queen flew out of the window to build his nest, a welcome guest wherever he chose to go.

"His nest still looks like the hornet's, though he now is a weaver instead of a mason. He stings no longer, and every one is his friend."

It doesn't seem possible that a woman will ever want to go back to the nerve-racking, arm-breaking back closing dresses, that were worn a season ago, especially after the fredom of the ones that fasten in front. It is perfectly fine when one is in a hurry, to be able to see just how it looks, too. No aiting for sister, a maid, or a reluctant husband, who inwardly "cussed" and outwardly perspired, and who furnished the inspiration of endless cartoons. Then there was the awful feeling of not knowing whether the fastening was straight or crooked, or bulky, with perhaps a few hooks left open at some crucial spot. Altogether these new frocks mean so much freedom and emancipation from outside help, that it only seems natural women should want to stick to them.

The closing of the little house dress, 6759 is at the side-front, and two collars are possible with the pattern, as there are perforations on the deep oval collar to enable the home dressmaker to cut it in sailor shaping if she so desires. Gray-blue linen crepe, with collar and cuffs of chintz-printed cotton, and girdle of black moire will make a frock that is distinctive, yet inexpensive. Cover button molds with the crepe, and fasten with hooks and eyes, or snap fasteners. Seven sizes are provided from 32 to 44, and for the 36-inch size, 5½ yards 36-inch material required. 15 cents.

To the success of the Russian dancers, we can ascribe the Renaissance of the Russian blouse, bringing in its train a host of poplin blouses, of all sorts and conditions. Most of them are made up in contrast to the skirt as in the one illustrated, 7337-7489 which makes use of flowered crepe de chine for the blouse with skirt of black satin. The collar of white tulle, is finished with one of those soft net frills that look so cool and dainty, and a deeper one edges to cuff, which is also chiffon. The girdle which is tied in a perky bow in front, may be of a satin or moire in a plain color, matching the flower in the blouse material. Six sizes, 32 to 42, and of material 36 inches wide, 2¾ yards will be needed. No girdle is allowed for in the pattern, but a yard of silk will make it. 15 cents.

The skirt is made with the slightly raised waistline that is so becoming, and is plaited at the back, with a lap at the side-front. Six sizes, 22 to 32, and for size 24, 3¾ yards material will be required. 15 cents.

A Pillow for the Veranda or Living Room.

Lazy-daisy and thousand flower embroidery are so easy to do that they just suit one's mood these hot afternoons. The cornflower pillow, shown in the illustration 14611 is very attractive developed in three shades of blue for the flowers and two shades of green for the leaves, on blue or natural color Russian crash. This would be charming in a cool, summer room decorated in blues and green, while in a room in browns it would be very good looking carried out in three shades of brown and yellow on crafts canvas, denim, brown linen or pongee. This wreath is 18 inches in diameter and it might be adapted to a table-cover for the living-room or veranda. The price of the transfer pattern is 15 cents.

Summer is a time for relaxation. Parents who cannot give their children long trips can, by a little planning, give them just as much pleasure. One day a week some special treat that will mean an outdoor day can be arranged. The child who does not know the trees and flowers loses much. Summer is the time to learn about these. There are books that make it easy for any one to learn of plant life. A day in the meadow or woods, finding how many varieties of trees and plants may be discovered, will prove interesting and awaken a love of nature that will always be a source of joy.

Vacation give a valuable opportunity for parents to be comrades with their children— for them to enter into their interests and by working and playing together come nearer to them. It is so important to know what the children are thinking. Encourage them to talk freely, make the living simple, that you may have time for them. Work and play together.

The parent is and always must be the chief educator of the children and lacking the influence of their fathers our boys and girls will grow up having missed that part of their education which is most lasting and most vital. It is one of the father's chief duties to supply his children with pleasure, not at all an easy duty, for he can only vaguely guess what entertainments will give real pleasure, satisfying and not vicious in themselves nor tending to drift into vice. The father who is really willing to render his children's lives as happy as possible will not be long before he forms a rough guess as to what kinds of amusement give the children real pleasure, and be those pleasures what they may a little patting here and pulling there will foster them and lead them in the right direction.

The schoolmaster is obliged to keep order else pandemonium would reign and his part of the education become impossible, but in the home there is neither the necessity nor excuse for keeping children tightly screwed down. The father especially is inclined to subdue his children, not for their benefit but for his own, and he will try to justify his actions saying it is good for the child's moral training. When the children want anything he asks himself, "Is it right?" before giving his consent. If he asked himself, "Is it wrong?" before withholding his consent, there would be fewer refusals and it would be better for both the father and the children.

Owing to the fact that the woman remains at home while the man meets and exchanges views with other men out in the world, it often happens that the two grow apart, and in mind and intellect, at least, are more widely separated in their later life than when they first met. To avoid such contingency, it is the absolute duty of every woman to arrange her household affairs that she may be able to devote some definite period, however small, each day to the broadening of her own mind. Let the unnecessary things go—live for comfort not for show and empty appearances but open mind and heart to the great things of life.

What of your daughters musical taste? She's in the parlor now, entertaining a caller, with the latest rag-time songs. There's a strange lilt to that rag-time stuff, but, forget the tune and catch the words: "Honeyman, I sigh for you, with my lips to yours, I could die for you. Wait 'till I get you all alone in the dark, in a nice little shady corner of the park." How much of the doggerel does she understand? Parents, you are responsible for what your daughter knows or does not know; it is time you woke up; if you don't believe this, fathers, stop reading your paper on your trolley trips and listen to what the young people are discussing. Linger in the back of moving picture houses, near soda fountains and postal card booths. Mothers, listen to the conversation of young girls from fifteen to eighteen with young men who cannot yet boast twenty years. What of your own daughter?

Many parents are careful about their children's companions and seek by carefully limiting their acquaintance to keep them safe. It is but for a brief time that this can be done, the child must meet children who come from homes with very different ideals of life. The only real safeguard to a child is to fix in his own heart an ideal which is so pure and true and high that the evil will repel him.

Every mother should know that in giving the children to her care, God is teaching her life lessons just as valuable to her as those which she tries to give the child. She can, from her wide view-point, mark the path for his journey. She can point out the goal and show the way to reach it.
